Exile in Egypt

Jesus Was Wanderer in Strange Land Without Any Comforting Landmarks

The angel of the Lord told them to take the child into Egypt and they remained there until Herod died. Essentially, that is all that is known of Jesus' exile in Egypt. What happened to Him there? AP religion George Cornell tells what may have happened to Him in this, the second in a series of five articles on the hidden years of Jesus.

THE HIDDEN YEARS—Part II

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer

For the wanderer, the formulture of existence becomes blurred. Nothing is fixed, nothing steady. There are no comforting landmarks, no regular reminders, no settled frame of reference. Without a familiar place, no step is sure.

As a refugee from mass slaughter, a displaced Jewish family of small children that very great route in Egypt. It was a foreshadowing lot for the couple, the child, and cousing greeting tions.

"Foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head."

This was the chancy, insecure environment in which Jesus entered, and experienced, the world — starting as a ragged toddler in the arms of a nomadic family in flight from despotism and savagery.

The months, probably more than a year, in Egypt make up a nebulous interlude, a veiled segment of His upbringing.

It was a restless, groping period, its uneasiness like those of all homeless people in search of sanctuary—the dim, alien landscape, always shifting, a sort of revolving haze, remote and monotonous, yet constantly in motion.

That is the kind of indistinct, unstable trail left by the fugitive family of Jesus in North Africa, continually moving from one uncertain spot to another, with strangeness all about, and no roof or ground to call their own.

PROVIDE DETAILS

Although scripture tells hardly anything about that episode, other accounts going far back into antiquity indicate some of its features.

Over the road they followed, it is about 250 miles from Bethlehem to the Nile Valley, going through Hebron and the pagan port of Gaza, teeming with sailors, scent-sellers and slave trade, and thence on across the desert of the Sinai Peninsula.

The had a donkey and took turns riding it, holding the infant. At one point, legend says, the girth broke, dropping riders from the saddle.

A broiling sun beat on them by day, a piercing chill at night. They nibbled from a sack of corn and dried bread, rationing the contents of their waterskin from oasis to oasis.

Tradition cites stops they made on the way, in a cave, beside a spring, beneath some palm trees which yielded dates for a meal. Wolves prowled their campsites.

Along one midnight stretch of road, they are said to have passed through a sleeping gang of bandits.

A lookout, named Titus, urged his partner: "Let those persons go quietly that our companions may not perceive anything of them." But the other. Dumachus, wanted to rob them. Titus, taking coins from his girdle, bribed him to let them go on.

SETTLED IN CITY

Hellenistic, center of pantheistic cults and the lavish temple of the sun-god, Re, apparently became the main locale for the fugitive family.

Situated just northeast of modern Cairo, it now is called Matarieh, and is dotted with shrines marking the passage of Joseph and his family—the sycamore tree where they rested, a spring where Mary bathed her child and washed their clothing.

As a woodworker, Joseph had trouble finding work, since in that almost treeless, rainless land, firm wood is scarce. Besides that particular handicap, there were everywhere more workers than work—the numberless Fellaheen.

But it is said he eventually got employment for a time building coffins for a burying ground at Deir el Mubarrak.

According to stories circulated in that ancient land for nearly 2,000 years, the family moved about a great deal, to various towns, living sometimes alone, sometimes with others, in hovels and mansions, once with a kindly widow, once with a wealthy benefactor named Elezaar.

The scene about them was the once powerful kingdom of the Pharaohs, which by then had become a vassal province of Rome, following Cleopatra's loss of her throne and suicide about 27 years earlier on Antony's defeat at Actium.

WORSHIPPED IDOLS

But the atmosphere remained Egyptian—the animal idols, the elaborate processions for "sacred bulls," the incantations, clattering chariots, magicians, oracles, the corps of perfumed temple women.

A man could buy a waxen image to protect himself from bites of snakes and scorpions, or to put a hex on an enemy.

But it also was a time of intellectual ferment at Alexandria, the Roman - built coastal city, where the great Jewish philosopher Philo, was developing his teachings about the "logos"—the divine intermediary among men, revealing God. That concept ultimately would be applied to the then ignored unknown child - in - exile, Jesus. Writes St. John: "And the word (logos) became flesh and dwelt among us."

In these environs, Jesus grew active, His wobbly legs gaining strength and balance. An ancient Coptic tale offers this description of him and his mother:

"She used to take hold of his hand and lead Him along the roads, saying, 'My sweet son, walk a little way.' . . . She stopped from time to time, hanging on the skirts of Mary, His mother . . . She would lift up His eyes to her face, and she would catch Him up to herself and lift Him up in her arms, and walk along with Him."

The traditions give basically plausible background. Some of them suggest that Joseph, a widower with four sons and two daughters before he wed Mary, had a younger son and daughter with him, whom Mary cared for along with Jesus.

Accounts vary on how long the family stayed there, a year, three years, five years, but there are scenes of summer and winter, of tranquility and darkening dust storms. Some stories say Jesus was seven before leaving Egypt; the prevailing evidence is that He was past three.

In any case, Joseph learned that Herod the Great, the tyrant who sought to kill the boy, was dead. Joseph took his family and started back toward Israel, again crossing that wilderness where Moses, leading the exodus from Egyptian bondage, had passed through darkness, cloud and fog to meet God and His commandments.

Through similar obscurities came his further revelation, as foretold in prophecy: "Out of Egypt have I called my son."

Tomorrow: Home life.

UN Delegates

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg that a dangerous precedent would be set, the assembly decided that a resolution before it calling for elimination of colonialism required only a simple majority for approval.

Western diplomats were plainly disturbed at the move. They predicted it might be applied successfully to such questions as the seating of China and even disarmament.

The Afro-Asian group, which now numbers 61 nations, can push or brake any question before the assembly under the simple majority rule if it doesn't break ranks.

Angered over Britain's failure to smash the Rhodesian rebellion by military force, African nations boycotted a reception for Britain's Princess Margaret and walked out on Prime Minister Wilson as he addressed the assembly.

In one of the last orders of business, a Canadian proposal to pay for the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East was virtually assured of approval by the assembly today.

The Soviet Union and a number of other countries have refused to pay their share of the cost of the Middle East Emergency Force, set up to patrol the Gaza Strip after the Suez crisis in 1956, because it was authorized by the assembly rather than by the 11-nation Security Council.

The peacekeeping operation has been paid for in the past by regular assessments against UN members. A debt resulted from Soviet bloc refusal to accept this assessment.

Under the Canadian proposal, the developed nations would be assessed a total of $14,200,000 for the force in 1965.

Family of 12 Homeless After House Fire

NAPANEE — A family of 12 was burned out yesterday in a fire that destroyed their frame house 14 miles south of Napanee on the Highway Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blower and their ten children, ranging in age from four to 16 years, lost everything except the clothes on their backs and a few household furnishings when the fire, of undetermined origin, destroyed their house before firemen could be summoned.

Mr. Blower, unemployed laborer, had secured a part-time job in Kingston and was at work when the fire broke out at 2.00 Monday afternoon. Mrs. Blower was in bed, suffering from flu, when she noticed smoke and rushed downstairs to remove her two daughters from the house. Mrs. Blower, a four-year-old daughter, borne from school to keep house during the mother's illness, were the only members of the family at home at the time.

Mrs. Blower ran for help to the nearby home of Evans Brooks, but the latter were unable to reach the fire department in Bath, 12 miles away, before flames destroyed the house. Neighbors who gathered at the scene managed to remove a few of the contents of the downstairs rooms.

PIONEER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Blower rented the house, a pioneer home of historic interest. It was purchased three miles west of Sillsville, and formerly belonged to Albert Fralick, who occupied it until a year ago.

At present, members of the family are staying with friends in the Sillsville area. The parents and three youngest children are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison, four children are with Mr. and Mrs. Evan Brooks and two are with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brooks. The oldest son, David, a high school student in Kingston, is living temporarily with an aunt in that city.

An appeal for help for the family has been organized by Harold Garrison and donations of clothing and household goods have already been received.

200 Flat Cars To Be Built In Napanee

MONTREAL — Canadian National Railways has ordered 400, 70-ton capacity steel flat cars at a cost of $5 million.

Marine Industries Ltd., Sorel, Que. will build two hundred of the cars, equipped with wrapper-end bulkheads to make them particularly suitable for lumber traffic.

The International Equipment Company Ltd., Montreal, has been awarded an order for 200 flat cars for general service with delivery slated for March, 1966. The cars will be built at the company's Napanee, Ont. plant.

The completed orders will increase CN's bulkhead equipped flat car fleet to 723 and the general service flat car fleet to 3,753.

Queen of Sheba Rebekahs Hold Party

NAPANEE — The Christmas meeting of Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge, No. 254, in Napanee, was held in the lodge room December 13 under the direction of the Noble Grand, Gladys Husband. After formal business, the evening was given over to entertainment.

The program was divided into two parts, the first part hilarious, and the second more serious. A potluck lunch in the banquet hall and an exchange of gifts brought the evening to a close. A lighted tree and appropriate decorations created a festive atmosphere.

Miss Anne Turner, a teacher in real life, was the teacher and master of ceremonies for the old fashioned school concert which began the entertainment. Her humorous comments added to the success of the concert, which had been arranged by Mrs. Mabel Clark and her committee.

The program was opened by the oldest member, Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, 80, who, with a big bow in her hair, was the tiny tot who lisped and stuttered over the four lines of her "piece." There were other childish recitations and childish songs, and even a rhythm band, the instruments, the pots and pans the musicians had brought from their kitchens. Arnold and Claire Rogers, Gertrude Ahrams, Wilfred Smith, Joyce Fish and Vera Cuthill presented the inevitable dialogue, and Laura Wannamaker a humorous monologue.

A play entitled "The First Christmas" was portrayed in which Valerie Follis and Escott Rose had the leading roles, with Edith Butt and Marion Parks as the angels. George MacGregor, Wilfred Smith and Hilliard Santer were the shepherds, and Lorne Clark, Arnold Rogers and Gordon Burley played the wise men.

Christmas Toy Project For Needy Children Best in Many Years

The Belleville Fire Department and the Belleville Kiwanis Club were the chief agents in this city's massive toy project, but many others contributed.

Well over 4,000 toys were gathered by Firemen, Kiwanis and Shell service stations and taken to Fire Hall Number 1 on West Moira Street Monday.

Off-duty firemen have volunteered their services for the week to sort, box and distribute the gifts to the city's needy.

The Kiwanis Club began working on the Christmas Toy Project three months ago, collecting old toys and fixing them up, buying new toys and even making some themselves.

The combined Kiwanis-Fireman's Dance at the armouries last week, with toys required for admission, upped the toy total considerably.

The Belleville Firefighters' Association aided in with candies and apples, which will be included in all the boxes along with the toys. The Fire fighters also purchased hockey sticks and gloves.

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary cleaned and dressed over 100 dolls and also purchased $75 worth of toys.

But there are many more people involved in the project. MANY ASSIST

City Cleaners and Majestic Cleaners cleaned the stuffed toys at their own expense.

The Progressive Conservative Ladies' Association cleaned, dressed and donated nearly 300 dolls.

Shell service stations provided boxes for people to bring their gifts and collected hundreds of the toys this way from the general public.

Most of the toys needed painting. Many paint companies donated paint, and the paint shop crews at Campbell's Body Shop, Elliott Motors, Kennedy Motors and Bob's Body Shop gave many hours of their time washing, repairing and painting toys.

Thanks to the community efforts of the many people involved, the toy project is also bigger than ever before.

That children will not go without gifts at Christmas is a credit to the community and a blessing to the needy fam.

Mr. Cooper said the "output of butter in 1965, estimated at 366,000,000 pounds, would be 15,000,000 pounds below last year, the same time, butter consumption will reach 358,000,000 pounds, 22,000,000 pounds greater than production."

"Policy decisions by the government are urgently required to assure orderly marketing and to maintain domestic consumption. Increases in prices to dairy farmers should be brought about by way of antideficiency payments," he said.

More Butter Production Is Needed

OTTAWA (CP)—Unless butter production shows an abrupt and unexpected increase next year, the federal government may have to import supplies or reduce domestic consumption for increasing consumer prices, This was announce• Monday by T. B. Cooper, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, in a year-end review.

Close to Solving Problem Of Making Test-tube Babies

CAMBRIDGE, England (Reuters) — British and American scientists are close to solving the problem of creating test-tube babies, as predicted in Aldous Huxley's Brave New World.

Already the egg-cells from women's ovaries have been brought to maturity outside the body, ready for fertilization.

Dr. Robert Edwards, a psychologist working at the university here, who with his associates has carried out these experiments, has said: "We never know when the new breakthrough on fertilization may take place. It could come quite suddenly, like the discovery about maturation of (cells) last summer.

"The fact is it could come tomorrow—or not for five years."

Production of a human embryo in the laboratory would mean that women could have babies by proxy. The egg-cell from a woman whose womb has been removed could be fertilized in a test-tube by sperm from her husband and then returned in the body of another woman until birth.

Control of the sex of the child also is brought nearer by these experiments.

Steps might also be possible to prevent such disorders as mongolism and to ensure that women predisposed to producing sons with haemophilia (persistent bleeding), an incurable hereditary disease exclusive to males, should have only girl-children.

From them he extracted the mature egg - cells and placed them in a tissue culture medium, where he studied them by under the microscope.

He saw 80 per cent of them become fully-mature ova, ripe for fertilization.

The journal World Medicine says in its current issue that the work Dr. Edwards and his colleagues are doing "may make many feel that the science-fiction fantasy of bottled babies is disturbingly close to reality."

Atlantic Fleet Adorned With Yuletide Decorations

By DON McLEOD

Wreaths, garlands and multi-colored lights are strung from the yardarms each year. This Christmas the two-week show runs from Dec. 20 to Jan. 3 and there is a plaque for the best decorated ship.

Decorating ships is a tradition that has been traced back to the Vikings, but the difference here is that it has been turned into a competition.

For years the Junior Chamber of Commerce here has sponsored a lighting contest to determine the best-decorated private property. Sailors aboard the destroyer escort Nootka asked in 1958 if they could take part. They were turned down.

But two years later the chamber established a separate prize for naval ships and the destroyer-escort Restigouche has won the honor four times.

Some 25 ships are expected to be in port over Christmas, including the aircraft carrier Bonaventure and the Royal Navy submarines Alcide and Acheron, but it's up to the individual ships to decide whether to enter.

COLOR IS KEY

About the only restriction on decorations is that ships must use only "their own existing material, facilities and labor." The navy has told ships to reduce spot and floodlights to an absolute minimum this year, concentrating on use of colored lights.

Ships that have joined the Atlantic fleet only recently may find themselves at a disadvantage. Veterans of the competition have in many cases built up a large store of decorations from year to year.

While the tradition of decorating ships has its roots in antiquity, the Canadian navy allows a considerably longer period of time for such celebration. The Royal Navy's Mediterranean fleet is permitted to show greenery aloft and between decks only from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Christmas Day.

In the navy of Elizabeth I, garlands were hoisted when marriages were performed aboard. Wreaths of greenery were garnished on the mast-head and yardarms during the dark hours of Christmas Eve but had to be removed by sunset Christmas Day. Such practices were not allowed on other anniversaries because it was felt the decorations "scandalized" the yards.

Only Slave State in History Where Slaves Fight to Get In

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

These are linked with the country's importance as a defence bastion of the West—whose spokesmen so often deplore the actions of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist government.

"Without us you will have nothing between Europe and the South Pole when the fight against communism begins," is one defence argument.

"This is the only slave state in history where the slaves are fighting to get in, not out," says banker Jan Marais, in discussing the politico-economic situation. "We have 15,000 illegal black immigrants who won't leave."

As for the purely economic side, a college professor enumerated the ways South Africa has boomed despite world criticism and quoted the words of the late prime minister, Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts:

"Whenever I despair of South Africa, something always crawls out of the rocks"—like moods, gold, coal, many other minerals.

The Dutch-descended Afrikaners are considered the most hard-shelled opponents of black nationalism. But in recent years immigrants have been arriving at the rate of 30,000 annually.

AFRICANS 'COWED'

Some from Kenya and Rhodesia can be expected to be anti-black but others from British and various European countries soon latch on to the advantages of apartheid, or separate racial development.

"I have no reason to think that English, American or Canadians would act differently than the Afrikaners if they were here," said an official of the South African Institute of Race Relations.

Economic prosperity and comparative tranquility have convinced many that in the face of turbulence in other parts of Africa, a profound solution is being reached in this climate-blessed stronghold of the white man.

But the race-relations official recalling the 1960 Sharpeville massacre and harsh treason-trial verdicts—commented "it's simply that the Africans have been cowed." She added that resistance and repression follow a pattern and this happened to be a quiet period.

An English-speaking editor, asked whether any new uprisings by Africans were likely, lifted his hands in the manner of a gangster movie. "Bat-bat-tat," he said, with the well-know expressive gesture.

"If enough people wanted to die . . ." he began cryptically.

"But there's no need to think about that," he added. "The Transkei and the other Bantustans are being prepared so that the natives will be equal with the white man in their separate places."

BASE AVAILABLE

In global defence strategy, the Simonstown naval base 30 miles from here had an important role in the Second World War and now by treaty is available for use by Britain and her allies in the event of another conflict, even if South Africa is not involved.

Admiral H. H. Biermann, naval chief of staff at Simonstown, scoffed at speculation that South Africa's big defence buildup is aimed at retaining its own populace rather than facing a possible outside foe. The 30-ship navy was designed primarily for anti-submarine warfare.

The buildup in recent years has been making a determined attempt to counteract bad publicity and an important step in this effort has been privately-sponsored South African Foundation, whose head is Dr. Francis de Gutngaud, wartime chief of staff to Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery, another fan of South Africa.

Sir Francis recently wrote that although South Africa occupies only six per cent of the land area of the African continent and has only seven per cent of its population, it accounts for 40 per cent of Africa's gross industrial products.

BACKS UP SUEZ

He added: "Should the use of the Suez canal be denied to the West, if, when all is lost, an if Communist-controlled or unaligned African states were to deny fly-over rights to Western aircraft . . . South Africa's harbors and airfields would be vital to the anti-Communist alliance."

In a passage not designed to win friends with Africa-ruled states Sir Francis explained that South Africa's resources are protected by white-supremacist Rhodesia and Portuguese-ruled Mozambique and Angola.

The philosophic basis of separate development was outlined by a reporter by a prominent Afrikaner editor who stressed the South African situation cannot be compared with the United States, where only 10 per cent of the population is Negro.

The editor rejected vehemently against a frequently-heard thesis that economic integration — meaning that millions of blacks are prepping the South African economy with their labor — will eventually break down apartheid.

"Sometimes I wish the word apartheid had never been invented because it obscures the issue," he said.

"The heart of the Nationalist party, and in a sense it goes farther than that, is not a certain system or certain laws but the absolute determination of white people to remain masters of their own fate."

"That urge only becomes more desperate and strong the more it is threatened," added the editor, comparing the position of white South Africans with Britons during the threat by Hitler.

The editor opened up a whole nest of paradox. South Africa, not Ghana or Kenya, was the first in the African anti-colonial field, against Britain at the turn of the century.

Yet South Africa now was unique as a country nursing within her own bosom a colony and a colonial people, Britain, in contrast, had been able to grant independence to India and other populous nations without having millions of people on her doorstep.

Afrikaans-speaking and English-speaking whites, opposed in the past, have had come to realize they constituted a South African nation.

NOWHERE TO GO

"The Afrikaner idea of having European roots but not political links is catching on with all of the white population. That's what I mean by the idea of a white South African nation in its own right, one that cannot abdicate.

"If you are a colonialist minority you can abdicate and go back to the land you came from. But once you get that feeling of nationhood you are just here. That was the basis on which the whole apartheid philosophy —as built.

"On the one hand there is this tremendous determination to stay. On the other hand, being anti-colonialists, you can't say you're going to dominate other nations or people forever.

"Being committed to the principle of freedom yourself, you must say other nations deserve freedom. That is the positive side of the Transkei policy—that is what it's about.

"The argument against it is that it is impossible. But in South Africa you simply have to make the impossible possible.

"Because any other policy, any one-nation policy, is only conceivable when you work with small minorities. I believe that very firmly. You see the difficulties the Americans have with the Negroes who are only one-tenth of the nation, to give them a freedom of acceptance.

"I distinguish between freedom of acceptance and freedom of separation. The Americans have these difficulties with a fairly small minority. We can't possibly give the blacks who outnumber us so much freedom of acceptance because they are different.

"They are seen to be different, which makes it very difficult. If they were white Germans or white Poles, it would be difficult but the color makes it obvious. It pinpoints the difference and it accentuates every existing difference.

"We think in terms of the integral powers. They gave all their colonial peoples the freedom of separation—they had their freedom in a different nation, with their own institutions.

"You don't, for instance, give freedom to the Indians by making Britain and India one nation, whereas if you come to a small immigrant minority like the West Indians, it is conceivable. . . ."

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

There's a piece on Toronto Maple Leafs' Eddie Shack in the current issue of Sports Illustrated written by an American writer who ends his effort with something that sounds like a segment from an Ed Sullivan show.

The writer quotes the incident when Shack set up Brit Selby for a goal, raced across the ice to salute him, crashed into him and gave him a bum ankle good for three games' rest.

"All coach Imlach could say," says the story, "was 'Eddie, Eddie, Eddie', It did not add "kiss me goodnight."

There's a few snickers and grins in the yarn for Canadians in general and hockey fans in particular. Like this excerpt, "Toronto's conservative air makes a London tea-room appear like a Ringling Brothers production, but the fans love Eddie."

"I spell my beer every time he comes on the ice," the writer quotes a "regular customer dressed in spats and bowler and carrying an umbrella," as saying.

It's a far cry from Fleet Street, the Mall and Savile Row of London-in-the-smoke to the palais-de-glace of the Smythian regime, but I imagine the usher squadron would call for boys in the white coats if they discovered a bewhiskered, spatted, umbrella'd character quaffing a pint of art-and-art in the blues, greys or reds.

The writer claims that Shack's team-mates felt the same way as the sudo-sipping bloke and "when the Leafs blow the first round in the playoffs last year Coach Punch Imlach claiming "we can't afford a clown anymore," shipped him to Rochester."

"Eddie was so unhappy," the story goes, "that he decided to quit hockey and concentrate on building his portfolio of stocks (he has been shrewdly advised by a Toronto mining magnate.)

"Besides," Shack is reported as saying, "I have these hands, meaning that he had learned the butchering trade and could live by it."

"But the Rochester manager convinced Shack to stick around for a couple of weeks when the new season began on the chance he might get traded to another big league team. Eddie agreed to stay two weeks. Two weeks later to the day Imlach gave Eddie the call, but 'dammit it all, Eddie," he pleaded, no more clowning. You play it my way or out you go. Understand?"

"Welcome Home, Eddie Shack," roared the Toronto fans. He returned with a hot stick and a bang as the populace screamed with joy and the Leafs were back on the road to respectability."

The American writer admits he does not know what advantages are proffered to little boys growing up in a small backwoods Canadian town, but Shack, he says, missed most of them. At 18 he had one of the largest noses in Sudbury, Ontario (small backwoods town?) which was a target irresistable to most of his playmates."

"Shack spent most of his waking hours fighting off tormentors. In that part of Canada teachers used to put the good athletes in the corner and then ignore them. Because of this Eddie managed to get by six grades of grammar school without learning to read or write."

The story says: "Shack did eventually learn to write which comes in handy for signing autographs, but he left school at 14 to become a butcher's apprentice. But he was a skating fiend and soon drew the attention of Guelph, Ont., scouts."

The story takes the reader to the New York Rangers where it seems the then general manager Muzz Patrick as saying, "I never take my eyes off Shack. I never know what he's going to do next—and I don't think he does either."

But the American writer did hit one good note. He wrote that Imlach knows hockey talent and that Shack was no superstar. But if he knew what Shack could not do he also knew what this "curious clown could do."

"Sometimes we can get pretty lifeless out there," he quotes Imlach as saying. "Eddie may just be the guy to stir things up."

And to the moment that is just what Mr. Shack has been doing. He is scoring goals and firing the Leafian boilers to the best head of steam they have shown all season.

'Had Bad Night' ★★★★★

Nationals Hand Russians 6-1 Jolt

★★★★★ Goalies Star

By LESLIE MILLIN

Soviet sources, however, said the touring world champions consider they simply had a bad night. The Russians have beaten the Nationals 4-0, 8-4 and 6-2 during their current tour of Canada.

The Russians meet Regina Caps of the Western Canada Senior League in Regina tonight and clash with the Canadian national team again in Winnipeg Thursday to wind up their eight-game tour.

McLeod said his team was short-handed Monday and still beat Russia.

"Get the team together, and let us play together a while, and we'll be as good as any body," he said after the game.

For the first period, both teams followed the pattern that has led the Canadians to three previous defeats.

SCORE FOR CANADA

But the second period, traditionally the time for the Soviets to come on strong, broke the pattern as Bill MacMillan, McLeod and Al McLean drilled in unanswered goals.

McLean's goal came when Russian goalie Victor Konovalenko moved to feet level at his crease after a loose puck, and then passed it directly on to the Canadian's stick.

Canada had run the score to 5-0 on goals by McLean and Fran Huck before Victor Yakushev broke through and fired one past Ken Broderick. Another goal by McLeod rounded out the scoring.

Huck's goal topped off a smooth stickhandling dash dash through Soviet defenders and a hard, neat shot on goal that caught the flamboyant Konovalenko without a chance.

Many of Konovalenko's saves brought gasps from the crowd of 5,200 as the masked Muscovite was amazing in the crease.

But his two long forays out of the net led to one goal and a shaking up from Paul Conlin dumped him hard on his second trip.

PLAY WAS FAST

Third period play was fast, as the Russians tore in desperately to prevent a shutout and the Canadians tried to stretch it out. Broderick made several fine saves, was beaten on one difficult shot and robbed Alexander Sidyakov on another.

The Soviets had only penalties to Canada's four, and showed they were prepared to use body checks when necessary.

They displayed fine passing in spots and excellent rink ice skate blades by dent good control, but had several interludes of weak, indecisive play in their own end.

Russian drawing room comment after the game was difficult to obtain. The losers barred their door to outsiders. Reporters were told it was not the Soviet custom to make comments after games.

Victor Kuznetsov, spokesman for the Russian team, described Monday night's contest as "just a usual game." Asked if his team usually loses by such a margin, he replied: "It is a game. One day you win, one day we win."

He would add comment on roughness in the game or on the number of penalties. Only was junior star, said the Canadian national team is doing well "if everybody will leave us alone. We're aiming for the 1968 Olympics, and when we get there we're going to beat them."

FRAN HUCK

Coach McLeod said three of the team's best players, Roger Bourbonnais, Maurice Mott and Gary Begg, were not on hand for the game.

Records Marked '65 World Sport

Europe Soccer-Wild

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — European sport in 1965 was highlighted by spectacular races on foot, in cars, on horses and bicycles. But the year was dominated for the great mass of fans by a scramble for places in the 1966 World Cup soccer tournament.

Summer track and field meetings from London to Kiev, Turku to Vienna, produced a dozen world records. The season featured round-robin rivalry among distance runners Michel Jazy of France, Kipchonge Keino of Kenya and Australia's sensational Ron Clarke, who breached time barriers almost every time he ran in Europe.

Scotland's Peerless Jim Clark, winner of the Indianapolis 500 last May, entered five of Europe's seven Grand Prix motor races, won all five, captured the world driving championship and stretched his record to an unprecedented 19 Grand Prix victories in five years.

A French colt named Sea Bird II dominated the turf of France and England, winning all five races entered, including the Epsom Derby and the Arc de Triomphe at Longchamps. Enthusiasm rated Ireland's eight-year-old Arkle the greatest steeplechaser of all time as the big horse beat everything in sight over England's hedges and water jumps.

CYCLIST TRIUMPHS

Cyclist Jacques Anquetil of France, jaded by four successive victories in the Tour de France, passed up the big grind in 1965 but won a string at other top-rated events to remain the world's best. In Anquetil's absence, individual Tour laurels went to young Felice Gimondi of Italy in his first full year as a professional cyclist.

Away from the racing circuits, soccer - minded Europe sweated out year-long elimination rounds for the eighth quadrennial World Cup tournament in England next July. Soccer were cut to 16 national squads, including the host country and Brazil, a defending champion, from the original 52.

In the annual tournaments that reflect European soccer's growing emphasis on international competition, powerful Inter-Milan won the 1965 European Cup for the second year running. West Ham United of London won the contest among national cup winners and Feyenoord of Hungary took the Inter-Cities Fairs Cup.

Europe's track and field fans probably got the most for their money in spectacular sports achievements. Clarke, 28, of Australia set world records for over three miles, six miles and 10,000 metres in Europe after tracking the eight - year - old standard for 5,000 metres in 13:23.8 June 4 at Compton, Calif., and beating American gold medallists Billy Mills and Bob Schul at three miles in Toronto a week later.

BROKE MILES RECORD

The rangy Australian broke the 13-minute barrier for three miles in 12:52.4 at London's White City Stadium July 10. Four days later in Oslo, Clarke shattered his own world records for six miles and 10,000 metres with 26:47 for six miles and 27:39.4 for the metric distance.

While Clarke defeated the stop-watch times and again, he had his troubles with two middle - distance men, Jazy of France and Keino of Kenya.

Jazy, who lowered the world mile record to 3:53.6 at home in Rennes June 16, met Clarke in a world-record two-mile run of 8:22.6 June 23 at Melun, France. In a 5,000-metre race at Helsinki a week later, Jazy won, Keino was second and Clarke third.

Keino, hailed in Europe as a forerunner of coming African athletic power, beat Clarke again over 5,000 metres July 9 in Turku, Finland, but they reversed positions at the same distance July 6 in Stockholm. Keino later improved Jazy's world record for 3,000 metres by almost 10 seconds to 7:39.3 at Helsingborg, Sweden, and ironicled a classy field of mil ers in London in a near-record 3:54.2 at the end of August.

The Kenyan later journeyed down under and took Clarke's 5,000-metre record with a time of 13:24.2 in a race Nov. 30 at Auckland, N.Z.

SISTERS TOP MARKS

Elsewhere, Hungary's Gyula Zsivtzky became the first man to hurl the hammer over 240 feet, Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia threw the discus a world - record 213 feet 11½ inches and Russia's perennial Press sisters improved on their own world marks—Irina Press ering the 80-metre hurdles in 10.3 seconds and Tamara putting the shot 61 feet and tossing the discus 195 feet 10½ inches.

Australian tennis stars and a gold - dusted compatriot Clarke in carrying off European tro phies in 1965. Roy Emerson and Margaret Smith took individual honors at Wimbledon and Peter Thomson was the British open golf title from defender Tony Lema.

Lema, paired with Jack Nicklaus in the United States team, also lost out in Canada Cup competition at Madrid, finishing third behind South Africa —Gary Player and Harold Henning—and Spain.

Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., won the 800-metre race at the World University Games in Budapest last August and Sgt. Joe Daigle of the Royal 22nd Regiment, Valcartier, Que., swept the top prizes for military marksmen in the Bisley rifle shoot in Britain.

Packers Sign Grabowski

'They Put In Their Thumb--'

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay Packers' signing of full-back Jim Grabowski of Illinois to a three-year contract for a reported $250,000 Monday gave the National Football League a 13-1 edge over the American Football League in landing the NFL's first-round draft picks. The two remaining NFL first-round selections are to play in post-season bowl games and can not be signed until they are over.

The AFL has 8 3-5 record for its 10 first-round draftees, having lost halfback Mike Dennis of Mississippi to the NFL's new Atlanta club during the week-end after the Liberty Bowl game.

They are tackle George Rice of Louisiana State, picked No. 3 by Chicago Bears and No. 2 by Houston Oilers in the AFL, and Francis Peay, Missouri tackle, chosen No. 1 by New York Giants and No. 2 by Kansas City Chiefs.

Grabowski was a graduate of great prestige for the Packers and the NFL from the rival American League, whose heavy-spending Sonny Werblin failed in a last-minute bid in land Grabowski for his New York Jets.

Grabowski, 21, who broke just about every Big Ten rushing record and even surpassed immortal Red Grange as an Illinois ground-gainer, was the No. 1 draft pick of the Packers and Miami Dolphins of the AFL.

It was guessed Grabowski received a $100,000 bonus and a $50,000 annual salary in his three-year contract.

Jack Adams 1st Winner

NEA YORK (AP) — Jack Adams, long-time general manager and coach of Detroit Red Wings and currently president of the Central Hockey League, was named Monday as the first winner of the Lester Patrick Memorial Trophy.

The annual award, for long and meritorious service to hockey in the United States, was voted to Adams by a six-man committee headed by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, and Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers.

Adams joined the Detroit organization in 1927, one year after the club entered the NHL. In the 35 years he was with the club, the Red Wings won seven Stanley Cup championships and 12 regular season titles.

Patrick, a coach and general manager of the Rangers for many years, is a member of hockey's Hall of Fame.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and eliminates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Calls Brawl Nonsense

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday he considers the battle between Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers is New York Sunday night "a lot of nonsense." He doesn't expect to take any action other than to collect the automatic fines against some of the players.

"I have received a telephone report of the affair," Campbell said. "Other than the official identification of the players involved, I gather that no further action is warranted."

Campbell referred to the automatic fines to be levied against players who left the benches to join in the melee and to those who received misconduct penalties.

The fight started early in the second period when Montreal defenceman Ted Harris and New York's Earl Ingarfield collided in front of the Rangers' bench.

Montreal carried the odds as a half - dozen players skated across the ice to join in. Harris, Henri Richard, Hadfield and Ingarfield drew misconduct penalties.

Brown Figures Packers

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Brown prefers Baltimore's weather and scoring capacity to Green Bay's but insists that Cleveland Browns don't care whether they play the Colts or the Packers in the Jan. 2 NFL title game.

"But we'll probably be up there in Green Bay," said the Cleveland fullback, who was here this week to accept an award. A frozen ground takes away individual skills, he said.

"If we play Baltimore without Johnny Unitas the Colts will have nothing to lose. If we win, people will say: 'You wouldn't have beaten them with Unitas.' If we lose, they'll say a crippled team beat us.

"After all, we beat them last year with Unitas and everybody. We can do it again if we play our game."

Junior "B" Hockey Standings

Kingston Frontenacs finally caught up to the Oshawa Crusaders in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" league standing last night by blanking the tail-end Cobourg Cougars 6-0.

Each team has 22 points. The Frontenacs have been the hottest clock in the six-team circuit during the past month, climbing from fifth place to catch the leaders.

Following is the current league standings:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Oshawa	10	4	2	22
Kingston	10	4	2	22
*Peterboro	5	7	1	17
*Belleville	6	7	0	16
Trenton	2	6	5	13
*Cobourg	2	10	2	8

*Peterboro has won 3 4-4 point games; Belleville 2 and Cobourg one.

Next game — Wednesday, Belleville at Peterboro (at Hastings.)

NHL Scoring

Hat Trick Now Common Target

MONTREAL (CP) — National Hockey League players are coming' up with three - goal games as if they were going out of style.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show that five players had three - goal games last week, boosting the total this season to 13, one more than the entire 1964-65 schedule and the same number as in 1963-64.

Three players—Bob Pulford and Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs and Orest Ingarfield of New York Rangers—scored three goals each Saturday night in Toronto's 8-4 win over New York.

It was the first time three players had scored three goals in one game since Feb. 26, 1947, when Chicago Black Hawks' Doug Bentley had four goals, his brother Max had three and Grant Warwick of New York three during a 9-7 Chicago win at New York.

Charlie Rayner was the New York netminder in the 8-4 Francis, currently coach and general manager of the Rangers, was the goal for Chicago.

Rookie Ed Giacomin was the New York goalie and John Bower was in nets for the Maple Leafs at Toronto last Saturday.

SCORES FOUR GOALS

Left winger Bobby Hull of the Black Hawks scored four goals in one game last week and Bruce MacGregor of Detroit Red Wings was the other three-goal performer.

Hull regained the scoring lead with a total of nine points last week. He now has 38 points, including a league - leading 23 goals.

Teammate Stan Mikita and Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens are tied for second spot with 35 points each, followed by Norm Ullman of Detroit with 34.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal is next with 31 points. He and Rousseau share the lead in assists with 10 each.

HOWE IN SIXTH SPOT

In sixth place is Gordie Howe of Detroit with 30 points, three more than teammates Alex Delvecchio and Andy Bathgate who picked up 10 points last week.

Pulford also collected 10 points last week and jumped into ninth place with 26 points, two more than Doug Mohns of Chicago.

Defenceman Jacques Laperriere of Montreal leads league point-getter among rearguards with 20, including 17 assists.

SETS THREE RECORDS

CALGARY (CP) — Paul Enock of Edmonton set three Canadian speed-skating records during the Alberta speed-skating championships. Enock covered 1,500 metres in 2:17.3, breaking the record of 2:17.4, raced 3,000 metres in 4:56.5, improving on the time of 5:00 and covered 5,000 metres in 8:07.9, surpassing the previous time of 8:26.

Benefit Game For Muscular Dystrophy

Arena hockey fans, and others as well, will have the opportunity to enjoy an evening of fun and to help muscular dystrophy sufferers here Wednesday night, all at the same time.

A team of Belleville educators will tangle with the Kingston CKWS "No-Stars" in a benefit game at Memorial Arena.

Proceeds will go for muscular dystrophy. A number of patient will also be special guests at the game.

The fun gets under way at 8.30.

The price of a ticket is small but serves as an excellent Christmas gift for a worthy cause.

Steerage Not For Cookie

DENVER, Colo. (AP)— Fullback Rookie Gilchrist of Denver Broncos said flied $100 Sunday for missing a workout Saturday prior to the Broncos' 45-35 loss to Kansas City Chiefs in an American Football League game at Kansas City.

Jim Burris, vice - president of the Broncos, said: "I wanted to fine him $200, but the coaches prevailed in his behalf."

Shortly before the Broncos' plane left for Kansas City, Mo., Saturday morning, Gilchrist got up from his seat and left the aircraft. He made it clear he didn't like the fact the players were assigned to the economy class section.

Burris said Gilchrist told him: "You want a first-class performance out of me, and I want first-class accommodation when I travel."

Stratton Tops Central

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Art Stratton, Winnipeg-born minor league star with St. Louis Braves, has climbed into the Central Hockey League scoring leadership.

Last season with Buffalo of the American League, Stratton won the scoring title and is bidding for a repeat performance with the Chicago Black Hawks' St. Louis farm club.

The 30-year-old player, who had brief National League trials with New York and Detroit, has scored seven times and picked up 23 assists for his 30-point total.

Deal With Jets

Patriots Get Huarte

BOSTON (AP)—John Huarte, highest - priced non - playing quarterback in the American Football League, joined Boston Patriots Monday still hoping to get his first taste of regular season play.

Huarte, the Notre Dame all-American in 1964 who received $200,000 in salary and bonus to sign with New York Jets, was traded to the Patriots for veteran end Jim Colclough and a high draft choice. Colclough played for Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League in 1959.

If Huarte makes the Patriots' team, it is expected Boston also will give the Jets $50,000.

Huarte was relegated to the Jets taxi squad last season when the Jets decided to go with an even higher priced rookie, Joe Namath, who went on to become AFL Rookie of the Year. Colclough, 26, led Boston this year with 60 pass receptions for 677 yards and three touchdowns.

Also as part of the deal, the Patriots gave the Jets their fourth - round pick in last month's player draft. The Jets chose Wichita linebacker Jim Waskiewicz.

Wings Lose Godfrey 2 Months

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League were dealt another blow from injury Monday, losing defenceman Warren Godfrey for possibly two months.

Godfrey, long troubled with a bad left knee, was found to have a torn cartilage and is to be operated on today.

The loss of Godfrey threw a new obstacle into the path of the Red Wings in their battle to climb the NHL standings.

With his team four points out of second place after Sunday night's 4-4 defeat by Chicago Black Hawks and with only three healthy defencemen on hand, manager-coach Sid Abel is thinking of making a scouting trip for more help.

"I might have to go take a look at what I have at Memphis and Pittsburgh," Abel said.

The Wings do not return to action until a game here against New York Rangers.

O'Flaherty To Coach Junior Hawks

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty, coach of Dixie Beehives in the Toronto Metro Junior A League for the last two seasons, has been named coach of St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

He replaces Chirp Brenchley, who was fired two weeks ago. Brenchley now is coaching Toledo Blades of the International Hockey League.

Eldard (Odie) O'Brien, St. Catharines Junior B coach, and Ken Campbell, general manager, acted as interim coaches until the appointment of O'Flaherty.

O'Flaherty, 46, played two seasons with New York Americans of the National Hockey League, then spent nine years with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

"Lone Ranger"

OMHA Bantams Blank Picton, Midgets Lose

Belleville Kinsmen whitewashed Picton 9-0 in an OMHA bantam division game played last night.

The Kinsmen scored two in the first, made it 6-0 after two frames and finished with another five to win going away.

Jim Potts triggered three consecutive goals to spearhead the attack. Bill Buchanan was a two - goal man and singletons went to Dennis MacCormack, Allan Genereaux, Mario Venutti and Mike Allore.

The scoresheet was clean of penalties.

In an exhibition midget game, Trenton whipped Belleville Western Tire to the tune of 6-1, scoring three times in each of the first and third periods.

P. Hamel starred for Trenton by firing four goals. J. Steenburg and J. Bailey added the others. N. Wannamaker got two assists, R. Reid and Casselman one each.

NAME ROOKIES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Halfback Gale Sayers, Chicago Bears' sensational runner, and two other rookies were named Monday to the West team which will meet the eastern all - stars in the annual Pro Bowl game staged by the National Football League here Jan. 16. Fullback Ken Willard of San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Dick Butkus of the Bears were the other rookies selected.

"Peep-Sheet" Matte To Quarter Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tom Matte, carrying a list of plays on a wristband for easy reference, will quarterback Baltimore Colts in their decisive game against Green Bay Packers Sunday.

The plastic - covered "peep sheet," suggested by Baltimore coach Don Sula, was used by Matte last season when he started his first National Football League game at quarterback and helped direct a 20-17 upset victory over Los Angeles Rams.

Matte, a converted halfback, will replace the injured Unitas in Sunday's playoff for the Western Conference title when NFL owners declined Monday to make quarterback Ed Brown and George Haffner eligible for the Green Bay contest. The winner will play Eastern Conference champion Cleveland for the NFL title Jan. 2.

Sula also reluctantly declined an offer by Joe Kapp of British Columbia Lions to help Matte out because Kapp was under contract to the Western Football Conference club.

"At least I know where I stand now . . . all alone," Matte said. "But I can't have any more pressure on me than I had last week, so what difference does it make?"

PRESSURES ON BOYD

"I guess the pressure will be on Bobby Boyd," Matte said. "He'll have to learn what to do in case I get hurt."

Boyd, like Matte, was a quarterback in college. A defensive halfback, he has never played the position in the NFL and Matte didn't until Dec. 12 when substitute Gary Cuozzo followed No. 1 quarterback John Unitas to the sidelines with an injury which required surgery.

Matte, an NFL halfback for five seasons, used his running ability to advantage against the Rams and was the game's leading ground gainer with 99 yard rushing.

His father, Roland (Joe Matte of Rockland, Ont., plays hockey for Detroit Red Wings of the National League and Cleveland Barons of the American League after performing as a junior with Ottawa Shamrocks.

Junior "Amateurs" On Strike

SASKATOON (CP)—Settlement of a 15 - player strike against Saskatoon Blades of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League is expected soon, league commissioner Frank Boucher said Monday night.

Boucher came here from Regina to mediate the dispute, sparked by a walkout of 16 players four days ago. The players said they left after manager - coach George Agar introduced a pay-reduction scheme that would take effect if Blades continued to lose.

The club currently is buried in the cellar of the eight-team league and has played only one game in 15 starts.

A spokesman for the dissatisfied players said the individual discussions with Agar would begin today.

FIND BIG CRATER

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A huge meteoric crater, the third largest so far discovered, has been found in northern Chile by a Columbia University-Chilean expedition, the university announced Monday. It said the crater, in the western foothills of the Andes Mountains, has a diameter of 1,476 feet and an average depth of 390 feet.

Aces' Star Tops AHL Score Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces' Gordon Labossiere has swept to the front in the American Hockey League's individual scoring race with an 11-point binge in his last four starts.

Labossiere fired five goals and assisted on five others in three games as Aces' Providence Reds last week and added an assist against Hershey Bears during the season total to 17-22-39, a four-point margin over four runners-up.

Official AHL statistics, released today, showed Don Blackburn and Ed Hoekstra of Quebec, Murray Hall of Pittsburgh Hornets and Dick Gamble of Rochester Americans tied for second place with 35 points apiece.

Defencemen Dick Mattiussi of Cleveland and Larry Johnston of Springfield Indians share the league penalty leadership with 58 minutes apiece.

AT THE PARK — Handsome Warren Berlinger is Patty Duke's boy friend in the latter's starring film, Christine's "Billie," Technicolor United Artists release opening Monday, Dec. 27th. Boxing Day at the Park Theatre. On the same program in color by deluxe, "The Glory Guys", starring Tom Tryon, Harve Presnell and Senta Berger. Both features are first Belleville showings. Matinees daily throughout the week of Dec. 27th.

Shows Seemed Shoddy Way to Fill Half Hour

Lacroix Leads Juniors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andre Lacroix of Peterborough Peter scored three goals and eight assists last week to take an eight-point lead in the scoring race in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Lacroix now has 18 goals and 45 assists for 64 points and leads linemate Jim Gary. Gary Grant scored seven goals for a league-leading 27, and added four assists for 42 points.

Defenceman Bobby Orr of Oshawa Generals picked up a goal and three assists for a total of 55 points and third place, four points ahead of team-mate Danny O'Shea who was held pointless.

Mickey Redmond, the third man on Peterborough's top line with Lacroix and Grant, also picked up 11 points during the week and moved into fifth place with 19 goals and 27 assists for 46 points.

Flyers Edge Y Hoopsters

Trenton RCAF Flyers found the going a little tougher in a return basketball game against the Belleville YMCA here last night but still managed a win, this one 67-61.

The Flyers got off to a fast start with ten quick points and the "Y" despite a 10-8 man power advantage, never did quite catch up, cutting the lead to three points at one time in the second half. It was 35-20 at half time.

Theriault sparked the winners by hooping 32 points. Murray Swan bit for 13, followed by Parks with nine, Callaghan five, Smith and Johnson with four apiece.

Leahy paced the "Y" squad with a 19-point performance. Other scorers were: Anderson six, Donovan eight, Green nine, Guthrie 4, McKibbon six, Dunmore nine, Fowler four and Gelfant four.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co.'s Yule gift to housewives seems to be two new daytime audience participation games shown on television Monday.

First, there was Supermarket Sweepstakes, in which husband, housewife — he and other sneaker-clad representatives of lucky housewives raced through a supermarket loading their shopping carts as much merchandise as they could within an allotted time.

One person grabbed almost $200 worth. The smart cons concentrated on the expensive hams, turkeys, steak and rock lobsters.

The show seems to be aimed for the same old area once occupied by the big money quiz shows. But it seemed a shoddy way to fill a half hour.

The next ABC show seemed, perhaps by coincidence, a better sense. This, Dating Game, had three "eligible bachelors" concealed from a young woman who, by questioning, had to decide which one she wanted to date.

One spinster had her choice of three fairly well-known performers who, judging from herself - conscious manner, appeared reluctantly and only for the publicity value.

Sandra Dee Last Big Star Under Contract to Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Something of a milestone in Hollywood passed recently when Sandra Dee ended her exclusive contract with Universal.

She was the last big-name movie star to remain under contract to a major studio.

Twenty years ago, all but a handful of the major film stars were pound exclusively to studios. Today, not one is.

Sandra seems more concerned now with preparing for Christmas and her young son's birthday, as well as her departure this week for England where she will film her first movie as an independent, Kaleidoscope.

"I thought they were my friends," she remarked, speaking of her Universal bosses. "But I found out on the last picture (A Man Could Get Killed) that I was simply a piece of property to them. Hedged them not to make me do the picture. But they insisted.

"So I spent a miserable four months in Mexico, little fishing villages and in Rome, making a picture that should have taken eight weeks. We had two changes of directors, and I ended up playing Come September with Rock Hudson instead of Cary Grant.

Come September was the film on which she met her husband, singer Bobby Darin. She played a wide - eyed and vulnerable teen-ager, and that's just what she is trying to get away from now.

"I could never do it at Universal," she commented. "They'd put me in a bathing suit and have me grown-up. After all, I started there when I was 16.

"But I'm not 16 any more. I'm 24, and I can't go on playing 'that filly feeling' any longer. I've got to play my age. After all, there is a new generation of young movie-goers.

"There's a bubble my way through lightweight scripts any more. I've got to go on and grow up, or stop. I don't want to wake up at 30 and find I have no security."

Flying Shrimps For Ali

Shindig With Shidis!

KARACHI (Reuters)—World heavyweight champion Mohammad Ali is in for a rare culinary treat if and when he pays his promised visit to Pakistan.

The "treat" Locust Pie.

Mohammad Ali, better known in the West as Cassius Clay, has become the most popular sports personality in Pakistan since he embraced the Moslem religion. The most vociferous of his supporters are the local-eating Shidis.

The Shidis are convinced locusts—"shrimps of the air," they call them—are rich in vitamins and nutritious element that ensure robust health.

They are not happy over the fact that the World Health Organization and the Food and Agriculture Organization are waging on locusts.

Indeed, they believe white Americans and Europeans dominate these United Nations agencies and, through them, syphon off surplus and inferior food such as whale.

To the Shidis, Clay is not an ordinary mortal. They, and most other Pakistanis, see him as a crusader for Islam. The Moslems, they say, have gained international prestige as a result of his victories in the ring.

There are pictures of Clay everywhere in the Shidi shacks and there will be great disappointment if the champion's visit—as he promised—have a shindig with them in Karachi.

THERE'S A GOOD YEAR IN THE CARDS — There's a merry Christmas in store for greeting card manufacturers. Sales of Christmas cards are expected to run from 10 to 25 per cent higher than last year. Traditional cards are still far ahead in popularity but photographs of scenes are selling better than painted settings.

It's a Happy Christmas For Greeting Card Makers

By DAN BJARNASON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Few people in Canada will be cards, and it has been easy have a merrier Christmas than to sell a box of 25 cards for the greeting card manufacturers.

They report that not only are Canadians purchasing more cards than ever before but also that customers are willing to increasing numbers to pay a higher price for better quality.

With the selling season drawing to a close, they figure sales are from 10 to 25 per cent higher than in 1964, a reflection of the general economic prosperity in the country.

Not so long ago shoppers would pay an average of 10 cents a card, said a spokesman for one big firm. Now there's no difficulty selling 35-centers,

UNICEF, which for the first time is being allowed to sell its cards in the Soviet Union, was hoping to sell 4,500,000 cards in Canada, a figure representing about one per cent of the total Canadian card market.

A survey of card companies showed that traditional scenes—winter settings, holly, mistletoe —remain far ahead in popularity. Santa Claus and snowmen also rate high in every province but Quebec.

A spokesman for a Montreal firm said religious themes were most popular and a large Montreal department store reported increased demand for winter scenes by Quebec artists.

A national firm based in Toronto said demand for nativity scenes, on the rise in recent years, had levelled off this year. Several others noted an increased demand for whimsical cards, especially those dealing specifically with Santa.

The consensus appeared to be that Canadians are becoming more sophisticated.

Photographs of scenes were selling better than painted settings, and there seemed to be growing interest in a technique in which painted scenes are reproduced on a lined-type finish giving the impression of an artist's brushing on canvas.

More and more customers are inclined to purchase either personalized cards or cards of the same design rather than an assortment.

Manufacturers had their busiest time during the first half of November and the stores were busiest in the first week of December. But with some 272,000,000 cards to be mailed, most office employees figured to be busy right up to Christmas Eve.

Mother, Three Children Die In Apt. Fire

LOWELL, Mass. (AP) — A mother and her three sons trapped in a fire that raged through two tenement houses Monday night.

Firemen said 50 to 60 others fled the blaze safely into 15-degree temperature. About six persons were rescued from ladders and others led from the buildings by firemen.

Police identified the dead as Augusta Douglas, 23, and her sons, Quentin, 2, Derek, 4, and Andre, 6.

Napanee News

Salvation Army Is Active During the Christmas Season

NAPANEE — The Salvation Army in Napanee has become increasingly active since June, when Brigade Frank Phelps and Mrs. Envoy Phelps were posted here. The outpost in Deseronto shares in many of the activities.

The Good Cheer bubbles have been out for two weekends and will be out every day until Christmas Eve. Envoy Phelps reports an excellent response. The funds are being used for needs for the unfortunates for Christmas. Hampers of food, will be given to families which would otherwise have a lean Christmas, the amount varying to suit the size of the family. Nobody need be hungry in Napanee over Christmas. Vouchers will be given to the needy who appear at the last minute.

Last Tuesday evening saw the members of the Home League having their Christmas party in the Citadel. There was a potluck supper, with an abundance of good things, and afterwards games, contests, and an exchange of gifts. Nine members attended from Deseronto.

HOLDS CONCERT

Friday evening the place was packed for the Sunday school concert, with its program of recitations, songs and exercises, all the customary things associated with Christmas appearing. Santa Claus came at the appointed time, with a gift of an orange and a bag of candy for every child who was there, and a special gift for every member. Saturday evening the members and members of the Home League went caroling, singing the wonderful Christmas songs to all the folk in both nursing homes, and to shut-ins in several homes. Then they went to the sick or aged who were visited. Sunday evening saw a basket-candlelight service, with special music by a quartet made up of the three Phelps children and Envoy Phelps. It was well attended.

Christmas Day a short service will be held beginning at 10:30, and a Watch Night service on New Year's Eve. Everybody is invited to come to this and bring a guest. From nine o'clock there will be open house with films and games and then a cup of tea and some cookies before the watchers itself begins to watch the old year out and the New Year in.

Tyendinaga Reserve

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Brant of R.R. 1, Deseronto, were host and hostess last Saturday evening for the Christmas party of the Tyendinaga Bowling League, with 25 members and their guests having a pleasant social evening. The host, who is president of T.O.L., 90, took the opportunity to have the names drawn for the Christmas draw. Holders of the lucky tickets were: Lyle Loveen of Tonawanda, N.Y., Keith Lancaster of R.R. 1, Deseronto, and Linda Brooks, of Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Green of the Reserve expect to have all the members of their family with them for Christmas: their daughter, Mrs. William Brant, who lives next door, together with her husband and boys, Harry and Curtis; their son Alpine Pouring Technician, and their daughter Mrs. Edith, studying for her degree as a Bachelor of Nursing Science at the University of Toronto, and George Brant, Mrs. Green's father, who has made his home with her and her family for a year.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Maracle of the Reserve left Tuesday for Detroit to visit their sons Vernon and Everett and families until after the New Year.

The W.A. of Christ Church had a Christmas get-together last Wednesday evening, with 25 sitting down to a turkey dinner. Guests were the Rev. Canon J. V. Temple and Mrs. Temple, and members of the Christ Church choir. Additional guests came later, and the evening was spent playing euchre. Prize winners were: Mrs. Percy Green, Mrs. Robert Bell, Robert Bell, Tom Tinney and Mrs. Percy Green. There was an exchange of gifts among the members. The home was beautifully decorated for the Yuletide and everyone had a good time.

REDNERSVILLE — Mrs. Lena Dawson has returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Hugh Weese is now home from Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Carol Morton and Master Freddie Morton have returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weese spent a few days in Georgetown, U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Post and Kenny spent Thursday in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foster spent a few days recently in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Peck and family of Fort Erie are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peck who celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

The Albury Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Allan Weese with a good turnout. Mrs. Asbury read the devotional and with the help of a few of the others put on a short skit. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilborne and Leslie are spending the holidays in Montreal.

H-C GROUP

Corporal Gordon Oliver of the O.P.P. showed a film on safety to Rednersville Church recently. Corporal Oliver has been 12 years with the Ontario Provincial Police and is the court traffic safety officer for Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox-Addington and Frontenac counties. On Sunday evening the H-C. held a meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Asbury.

FRUIT TAKES A TRIP

Nurses' Choir To Appear On Television

DESERONTO — The nurses' choir of Kingston General Hospital will appear on television on CKWS TV, channel 11 at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, December 22. The choir, directed and accompanist of the choir is Miss Margaret Rendell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rendell of the Deseronto Road. Miss Rendell was organist and choir director of the United Church in Deseronto until she began her course in nursing which took her to Queen's University, Kingston, three years ago.

RELATIVELY CHEAPER

The time it takes the average Canadian worker to earn the price of a loaf of bread has fallen from 12 minutes to six since 1939.

British Tories Split By Rhodesian Problem, Some Backing Wilson

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson triumphed early today when his Rhodesian policies won support in the House of Commons and split the Conservative opposition.

Winding up a hectic two-day foreign affairs debate, the Commons approved the Labor government's oil embargo against Rhodesia and gave Wilson a vote of confidence for his handling of the crisis that started with Rhodesia's unilateral proclamation of Independence Nov. 11.

But Conservative Leader Edward Heath faced a personal crisis when at least 80 Tories — more than 25 per cent of the party's parliamentary membership — defied his instructions in the two major votes on Wilson's Rhodesia policies.

The government won both of them, 290 to 272 and 276 to 50.

First, seven Conservatives abstained rather than support Heath in a motion of no confidence in the government.

Then, and more seriously, the party split at the edges in a vote on oil sanctions.

Heath had ruled that party members should not bring Wilson's oil embargo to a vote. But a right wing rebel group of 50 forced the issue and opposed the embargo. At least 26 and by some accounts nearly 40 voted with the Labor government.

The votes brought into the open the recent backstage murmurings against Heath. Tories have complained that both in Commons and on party platforms he has appeared less effective than Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the leader he supplanted last autumn.

Wilson's announcement that he plans to meet Soviet leaders in Moscow in February silenced critics of his own party who accuse him of too much support for the U.S. stand in Viet Nam.

In the vote of 299 to 272, the House defeated the Conservative motion to restrict economic sanctions against Rhodesia. In addition to the seven Conservatives who abstained, the nine Liberals voted with the government, increasing its majority to 27. Normally, it is only two.

Then when the 50 Tory members defied Heath and forced a vote on oil sanctions, the majority of the Tories abstained and the motion was crushed 276 to 50.

The votes followed a bitter and often noisy debate that brought an end to the Labor sun unity which the Commons had so far maintained on the Rhodesia problem.

Heath and Douglas-Home accused Wilson of seeking a blank cheque that would permit the use of force against the white minority regime of Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Wilson denied this and hinted that he was ready to lay down terms for negotiations with Smith, who declared independence from Britain Nov. 11. Without elaborating, he said there were signs that Smith's position was less than solid and that it may lose control when the breakaway colony begins to feel the full impact of economic sanctions.

Wilson also said that Britain would not promote a blockade of the African coast to enforce its oil embargo. But he made clear that if the United Nations called for such a blockade, Britain would not oppose it.

Because of the British oil em-

Zambians Seek U.S., Russian Aid in UN Against Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters) — Top-level Zambian missions due in Washington and Moscow today will seek support for United Nations action to topple the breakaway Rhodesian regime.

The missions were due to arrive from London where they had talks with the British government.

Foreign Minister Simon Kapwepwe, leading the mission to the United States, said he would confer with United Nations secretary — General U Thant and President Johnson.

"Zambia will call on the UN for mandatory sanctions and the use of UN forces to deal with the situation," he said here Tuesday night.

In Moscow, Finance Minister Arthur Wina and Agriculture Minister Elijah Mudena were to confer with Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on all aspects of Rhodesia.

British Prime Minister Wilson met Tuesday with four Zambian cabinet ministers, who urged him to use force to bring down the Rhodesian regime.

"Economic sanctions against Rhodesia are showing signs of bringing the illegal regime down," the declaration said in a statement.

Britain has so far declined to go beyond clamping an embargo on oil and other supplies to Rhodesia.

PC Chief Criticizes Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was not around last week to comment on Prime Minister Pearson's cabinet shuffle but he made up for it with two press conferences.

The Conservative leader held his first conference at Montreal during a stopover on his return from a Caribbean holiday and called for a further resignation from the cabinet.

When he arrived in Ottawa he again met the press and continued his attack on the government.

Party Council President Favreau should resign, he told both gatherings.

Mr. Favreau made a statement in Parliament that was not true during the Rivard affair, Mr. Diefenbaker continued, and was not following parliamentary tradition by remaining in office.

While he did not demand the resignation of Forestry Minister Sauve, Mr. Diefenbaker said the prime minister should appoint a commission to investigate allegations of election irregularities in Mr. Sauve's lieu-de-la-Madeleine riding.

RAISES QUESTIONS

Mr. Sauve's reply to the allegations last week was "unnaive, so nebulous" that it raised more questions than it answers.

The cabinet shuffle itself, he added, "does not indicate any changes in the attitude of the present government."

But, "having regard to the Hundred Arrests Expected

MONTREAL (CP)—Now that they have smashed what is believed to be the main Canadian distribution centre for Irish sweepstakes tickets, police say they will close in on individual distributors and vendors.

At least 100 arrests are expected shortly in the province of Quebec alone, a senior Quebec morality squad officer said Tuesday night.

Inspector William Pilkington, head of the Metropolitan Toronto police morality squad, said police departments across Canada have been supplied with lengthy lists of names and addresses of persons known to have distributed or sold Irish sweepstakes tickets in the past.

The official report on two police raids in Montreal area Monday night says that a total of

Erhard Says He Is Pleased With Washington Conference

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard arrived back in Bonn today following two days of talks with President Johnson in Washington, during which he failed to get any firm U.S. commitment on a nuclear role for West Germany in NATO.

Erhard said at the airport he was impressed and pleased with the results of the Washington talks.

"I can say I was very much impressed and I am very much satisfied by the result. This is more than diplomatic form."

The chancellor, accompanied by Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Defence Minister Kai - Uwe von Hassel, will still have planned to report to the cabinet later today.

In Washington, Erhard accepted President Johnson's proposal that a greater say for Germany in nuclear defence should be postponed for discussion by a special NATO committee.

The committee was formed at last month's NATO ministerial conference.

In a communique issued at the end of the talks, the two leaders agreed West Germany and other NATO countries should have an appropriate part in nuclear defence.

German sources in Washington said the U.S.-proposed multilateral force of surface ships appeared dead, and no new concrete proposal was in sight.

Erhard said at a National Press Club luncheon Tuesday he is not tied to any specific project and wants to work toward a common solution that will satisfy Germany's desire for a role in nuclear defence.

German sources in Washington were unwilling to say whether their government, as generally believed, wants an actual physical share in a nuclear weapons system.

UN Assembly Concludes Long Session

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly concluded its 20th session early today after a U.S.-Soviet clash on Viet Nam marred its closing hours.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko accused the United States of escalating the Viet Nam war, using toxic substances and stepping up "savage bombings."

The clash followed approval of a resolution calling on all countries to refrain from intervening in the internal affairs of other nations, either directly or by subversion and terrorism. The vote was 109 to 0. Britain abstained.

This proposal, originally advanced by the Soviet Union, was aimed at U.S. policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. The references to subversion were written in by Western supporters, and Goldberg said the proposal had backfired on the Russians.

RECOMMEND LAW

TORONTO (CP) — A bylaw that would prohibit pedestrians crossing Metropolitan Toronto streets at other than approved crosswalks was recommended by a coroner's jury Tuesday. The suggestion was made after an inquest into the death of Rabbi Louis Gould, 70,

Texaco and BP Refineries Facing Strikes Thursday

TORONTO (CP)—Texaco and British Petroleum Oil Co. plants in Ontario and Quebec are faced with strike action Thursday if talks today between the companies and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC) fail to break a deadlock in contract negotiations.

James R. Duncan, Canadian director of the union, said Tuesday night oil workers will walk off the job at 4 p.m. Thursday unless favorable settlements with companies are reached by then.

Mr. Duncan said meetings between management and union representatives at Texaco's Port Credit, refinery and BP's refinery in Montreal were to be held today..

He said that so far as the other plants and marketing outlets go—the union is obliged by law to bargain on a plant-by-plant basis—"we have notified the companies we wish to have meetings and it only remains for times to be set up."

The strike would affect about 430 workers in Ontario at Texaco's Port Credit refinery, the BP refinery at Bronte and all marketing outlets at Hamilton, Bronte, Fort Credit and Toronto.

About 300 workers at the Texaco and BP refineries in Montreal and a Montreal marketing outlet also would be affected.

Mr. Duncan said more marketing outlets—truck terminals and bulk storage units—in Toronto possibly will be struck "but not all on the same deadline."

The oil workers' union has been on strike against the British-American Oil Co. refinery at Clarkson, Ont., since Sept. 15. This plant has continued to operate with supervisory personnel and both Texaco and BP are planning the same action if the strike takes place.

Direction of Economic Policy Pure Speculation

OTTAWA (CP)—While Mitchell Sharp is holidaying in Mexico and his office staff is sorting out new duties with two important departments, speculation is growing here as to the direction of economic policy under the new finance minister.

Mr. Sharp plans to return Dec. 31, just a few days before he is to relinquish his earlier portfolio as trade minister to Robert Winters.

Economic policy under Mr. Sharp is expected to be influenced greatly by the views of Mr. Winters. Both have had long previous experience in government. Mr. Sharp as deputy trade minister and Mr. Winters as resources minister and public works minister in the cabinet of Louis St. Laurent.

The big decisions to be made soon, after Mr. Sharp's return and Mr. Winters' installation involve banking legislation, trade promotion,"and the treatment of foreign capital coming into Canada.

Some modifications of recent policy are fully expected, but

CLC Reaction to Cabinet Changes Cool, Reserved

OTTAWA (CP) — Organized labor's initial reaction to Prime Minister Pearson's cabinet changes has been cool but reserved.

A spokesman for the 1,300,000-member Canadian Labor Congress said Tuesday the CLC executive will not issue a formal comment on the massive labor department shakeup.

Mr. Pearson switched Allan MacEachen from labor to health minister and replaced him with John R. Nicholson, the former immigration minister. He also announced a plan to remove all manpower programs from the labor department and put them in a new manpower department to be headed by Jean Marchand, a cabinet newcomer.

Several months ago the CLC issued a sharp criticism of Mr. Nicholson's call for increased immigration to meet the short-age of skilled labor in Canada. The CLC said more effort should be made to train unskilled Canadian workers who now face unemployment unless they improve their abilities.

The CLC also had a long feud with Mr. Marchand when he headed the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions. The CNTU has campaigned against CLC-affiliated unions in Quebec and at one point initiated a pamphlet linking CLC President Claude Jodoin with such labor figures as Hal Banks and James Hoffa.

Blaring Bands And Clattering Hoofs Will Usher In Christmas At Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP)— In this little hilltop town where Christianity began, Christmas comes with the brassy blare of military bands, the clattering hoofs of prancing Arab stallions and the solemn music of hymns and chants.

Beneath the stone floor of the oldest church in the world, an olive wood doll of the infant Jesus lies in the manger where Christ was born.

The cave which tradition says was the stable of Mary and Joseph still exists—under the massive Church of the Nativity—but Christmas Eve in Bethlehem now bears little resemblance to the quiet night when wondering shepherds heard "glad tidings of great joy."

The caves at first stable is sheathed with marble and hung with rich brocades, a policeman stands guard inside, the thousands of tourists and pilgrims crowd the town.

This year no tourists will be told, like Joseph and Mary, that "there is no room at the inn." for Jordan has added 15 new hotels to handle the crush. The tourist trade is Jordan's main industry, and 29,153 visitors converged on the Holy Land last December.

The day starts with the joyous pealing of bells and the call of prayers from a mosque on Manger Square, for almost half of Bethlehem's 20,000 townspeople are Moslems.

Led by five lancers mounted on horseback, the patriarch of Jerusalem steps at mid - day from his car beneath Bethlehem's Christmas tree, a live, tilting umbrella pine decorated with Japanese lanterns, an electric star and a portrait of King Hussein of Jordan. From its lower branches a loudspeaker wails carols over the heads of the police and desert troops who hold back the crowds in the big square.

Donning an ermine cloak and crimson hat, the patriarch follows singing priests into the Basilica of the Nativity.

A carnival atmosphere reigns in the square, with the popping of firecrackers, the cries of a Jordanian Army and bagpipes band, and brisk business in the souvenir shops, while solemn rites take place in the incense-laden twilight of the 1,600-year-old church.

In nearby Shepherds Field, where the angel announced the birth of Christ, worshippers gather in the chilly late afternoon to sing carols. The field, owned by the YMCA, is fenced now and sheep are allowed, but the simplicity of the pastoral scenes is a reminder of the first Christmas.

While crowds shiver in the square, the patriarch returns for midnight mass in the 84-year-old Church of St. Catherine, part of the Nativity basilica. As choirboys sing In Excelsis Deo, the words light up in neon above the altar, and the bells of Bethlehem are broadcast around the world from a radio transmitter in a monk's cell.

In the back alleys of the town, uncrowded and barely changed since the days of the Bible, the citizens of Bethlehem quietly hold their own Christmas rites. monies — some even have a Santa Claus—or attend services in smaller, neighborhood churches.

In the past, the three tribes that share the nativity church—Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Armenian—have chosen Christmas Eve to vent their jealousies, with priests brawling in the crypts of Christ's birth or throwing bottles at each other on the roof.

That is why, for decades, Moslem policeman has been posted inside the stable, where a 14-pointed silver star marks the site of the manger. The visit of Pope Paul two years ago, however, did much to heal the ill-will among the sects, and the vestigence of the policeman has become more symbolic than functional.

When the ceremonies in the grotto end and the crowds have left, Bethlehem prepares to start the festivities all over again. For Christmas comes three times a year in the holy town, and the Orthodox and Armenian sects celebrate the birthday of Jesus in January.

Woman Treated For Injuries, Two Men Die

KINGSTON (CP) — Provincial police from Napanee and Belleville are investigating beating and shooting incidents in which two men have died and another is being treated for head injuries.

Dead are her husband, Otto Teepell, 37, who suffered fatal head injuries, and Raymond Tinkler, 30, of Sandhurst, about 20 miles west of here, who died of a gunshot wound.

Teepell died in Kingston General Hospital. Tinkler's body and a .22-calibre rifle were found in his car, parked on Highway 23 near Bath.

Police said only that Teepell died "of head injuries consistent with a beating."

Exports Higher In October

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian commodity exports in October were valued at $790,700,000, an increase of 14.8 per cent over October exports last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

This brought the value of exports for the first 10 months of 1965 to $7,027,700,000, an increase of 2.6 per cent over the same period of 1964.

DBS said exports were higher in dollar value in October to the United States and, to the United Kingdom.

Exports to the United States in October were valued at $427,200,000 bringing the 10-month total to $4,077,800,000 compared with $3,943,200,000 in 10 months last year.

Shipments to the United Kingdom in October amounted to $109,000,000, bringing the cumulative total for this year to $977,700,000 compared with $1,000,000,000 in 10 months last year.

A 70 - year - old Belleville restaurant chef and native of Yugoslavia will see his wife and daughter for the first time in 36 years today when they arrive at Toronto International Airport from overseas.

Mr. Ilia Christou, chef at Pete's Lunch on Dundas Street East in the hospital area, left his native land back in 1929 and has not seen his wife since.

On Flight 607 when it arrives in Toronto this afternoon will be Mrs. Christou, his daughter and her husband and five children. Mr. Christou's daughter was a baby of six months when he last saw her.

Santa Claus Visits Kiwanis Club Luncheon

The location was the same, but many of the faces were different — and much prettier.

It was the Father and Daughter Day at Kiwanis yesterday at the club's annual Christmas meeting.

Brig. Bernie Bersat of the Salvation Army conducted the program, accompanied by the Salvation Army Band.

Brig. Bernat said, "We will all receive gifts in this holiday season, but I trust we can impart gifts . . . gifts of love and understanding.

"Some homes will be happy and others will be sad, nevertheless, we must all think of the homes that are sad and do our best to help make them happy homes, too."

After a turkey dinner, complete with all the trimmings, everyone sang Christmas carols, accompanied by the Salvation Army Band.

Besides the Kiwanians and their daughters, the Salvation Army Band and Brig. W. Hawkett, members of the Kiwanis Workshop also attended the meeting.

Drunk Driving In Britain To Be Curbed

BY PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP)—Just in time to take a bit of the edge from the pre-Christmas cheer at the corner pub, the British government announced Tuesday it is planning to begin random roadside checks to cut down on drunken driving.

Transport Minister Tom Fraser tabled a white paper in the Commons that proposes legislation to be introduced early next year.

It provides for:

—Spot checks by mobile police patrols, using simple equipment to check whether drivers have been drinking.

—Legal means of compelling drivers to be brought to a police station for further, more orthodox, sobriety tests if the preliminary test raises doubts.

—A standard measurement for impairment, based on a blood-alcohol level recommended by the British Medical Association.

There were immediate objections to the proposals from three groups whose members would be most affected.

POLICE QUESTION MOVE

The Police Federation, whose 80,000 members would have to enforce the new measures, passed a statement questioning the effectiveness of the proposed legislation "at a time when the home office admits that the shortage of policemen in Britain is serious."

The British Automobile Association approved of the idea of curbing drunken driving, but objected to the "crude methods" to be used in random checks. And the Royal Automobile Club denounced the random checks as unjustifiable interference with the rights of nondrinking drivers.

The level of impairment to be established is 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 milliliters of blood, which was translated as usually meaning about 2½ pints of beer or five of the small English tots of whisky. Although conditions varied with the individual.

Anyone found to have more than that amount, after compulsory blood or urine tests at a police station, would probably be considered to be impaired.

Drivers could not refuse to take the test during the random check without "reasonable grounds," Fraser said, such as if the instance of a doctor hurrying to an urgent case.

TOWER CANCELLED

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, said Tuesday that the City of Montreal has decided to cancel plans for a 1,066-foot tower on St. Helen's Island, site of Expo 67. Saulnier announced the plan with the tower Nov. 18 and said its estimated cost as $11,670,000.

Obituaries

WILLIAM STEWART CLEUGH

After a lengthy illness, William Stewart Cleugh of 156 Herchimer Avenue, died yesterday in the Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 73rd year.

Born in Seymour township, near Campbellford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Cleugh, J. Cleugh, he resided in Camp Belford until moving to the Quinte district. Mr. Cleugh was an auto mechanic and had farmed for some years in the Canadiana district. He attended Burnbrae Presbyterian Church and was a member of Quinte Lodge No. 44, A.M., No. 233, and Ramses Shrine in Toronto.

He is survived by mobile portraits, using simple equipment to check whether drivers have been drinking.

Victoria and Grey reported assets under administration at Sept. 30 of $84,000,000 and at Oct. 31 with $104,000,000 a year earlier.

Net profit for the amalgamated company was $1,183,908. In 1964, Victoria and Grey had a profit of $1,002,272 and British Mortgage a profit of $444,786.

Russia Urges Canada Not To Aid Germany

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has urged Canada not to support the revival of German militarism, Tass news agency reported today.

The agency said the hope, expressed Tuesday in Canadian Ambassador Robert Ford at the foreign ministry here, referred to an agreement between Canada and Germany on mutual letter weapons tests and the training of German units in the use of uniform and military equipment in Manitoba.

The statement, Tass said, cited a Russian-Canadian agreement, also referred to other increased military co - operation which is said helped West Germany to set up its militarization contrary to Canadian international commitments.

Board Members Against Oral French Being Included In the School Curriculum

Members of the Belleville Public School Board still do not feel that oral French should be included in the local school curriculum.

At the last meeting of the year held this week at the Quinte Bridge Street administration offices, members turned down a motion calling for oral French to be taught by the Department of Education for inclusion of an oral French program in their public school timetable staff.

At the same time, however, the board did not rule the idea out completely but agreed that further study on the subject should be made.

About two years ago board members turned down teaching of oral French in local public schools and since that time the subject was offered on a voluntary "after four" basis, under sponsorship of the Home and School clubs.

ENROLMENT UP

Current enrolment in city's public schools is given as 5,128, which is 78 more than the latest last year with attendance efficiency for the month of November being 94.6 per cent.

Estimated enrolment for September 1966 is given as 5,310, which by 1970 is expected to be increased to 5,875. An outline of probable school building requirements for the five-year period, 1966 to 1970, was given to the board.

Again at the school board meeting there was comment on the falling hairdress for the Belleville districts and its possible effect on future classroom requirements.

Schools Administrator L. A. Kells told the meeting that an analysis of the hair cuts in Belleville was not available to separate rural from urban and public school children from the parochial system.

SOME RESIGNATIONS

Current forecasts of school requirements are based on present enrolments and also municipal council asks for annual statistics in the number of building permits issued and population changes and movement.

Previous forecasts for accommodation and requirements have been based on an average enrolment of 22 pupils per classroom, but this year it is expected to be aimed at 30 pupils per classroom; 50 pupils for kindergarten room and 25 pupils for laboratories of 16 to 20 pupils as required by Department of Education regulations.

MOVING FROM CITY

Staff resignations were received from Mrs. Catherine Skinner and Mr. Frank Hall, who are moving to other locations in the province, and placement on temporary staff was approved for Mrs. Esther Kovac Mrs. Verna Howard, Mrs. Jean Hall, Mrs. Sharon Mohr and Mrs. B. Forbes.

The Board heard a brief report on the official opening of the Park Dale School. Commendation was expressed for excellent work of the contracting and teaching staff in preparation of the building, and a letter was directed to be sent to the home and School Association for hospitality provided.

A revision of working conditions was approved for the caretaking and custodial staff, providing minimum rate of $250 per month and maximum rate of $375 to be reached in six years, with the provision that credit could be given for previous related work, and for more rapid advancement on outstanding quality of work.

Overtime rate was set at 1.25 per hour and at the same time the Board approved service charge of $2.75 to organizations using buildings to provide for early opening and late closing. Some improvement in the work week were provided for summer vacation and the Board agreed to pay 30 per cent of cost of uniform and safety boots.

Requests for payment of hospital and medical plans, changes in vacation plans, allterative in the work week, more rapid advancement in the wage scale, and a maximum rate of $400 per month, were denied.

The Board will purchase a cheque writing machine from a local supplier at a basic price of $485.20 and will alter its provisions for signing authority to make use of this machine.

Some questions arose over the amount of gross legislative grant received for the year: $616,426.00, but as the calculations from the provincial computer were not available, the questions were not answered.

PLANS APPROVED

Tentative approvals for sketch plans for the proposed addition to the Hillcrest school were received from the Department of Education and the Ontario Fire Marshal.

Acting chairman for the final board meeting of the year was William A. VanTassel filling in for former board chairman, Dr. J. Russell Scott who retired to contest a seat on city council. Trustee Mrs. J. O. Dobson also resigned from the board, to accept appointment on the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Eight other members of this year's public School Board will not be back next year, this due briefly to revision of practices for election of trustees and reduction of the board to eight members.

Absent next year in addition to Dr. Scott, will be present members Mrs. Hazel Pugh, James Ritchie, George Eldridge, Gordon Trill, Gordon Hutchinson, Frank Clarke, J. N Hutchison and Harvey Brennan.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

Trustee-elect Mac Smith expressed board appreciation to the members who will not be back next year stating they had made an impressive contribution to the board and the number of years served on the board.

The board will hold its caucus meeting for 1966 on Wednesday, January 5th with next year's inaugural meeting scheduled for the following Wednesday, January 12th.

Jail Inmates To Be Served Special Dinner

The inmates of the Hastings county jail will not be left out of Christmas dinings, according to Warden Wallace Herriott and Salvation Army Envoy Bram Humphreys.

The annual Christmas dinner at 11.30 a.m. will consist of Christmas ham, dressing, mashed potatoes, carrots, peas, pickles, bread and butter, tea or coffee, mince meat and apple pie, topped off with fruit.

After dinner a special film "Merry on Cruising," courtesy of Trentieth Century-Fox will be shown along with a number of films donated by the Co-op Public Library. The Library projector will be operated by the jail staff.

The Salvation Army will supply the familiar Silly Ann Sunday dinner of fruit and candy for every prisoner.

Envoy Bram Humphreys will conduct the Christmas church service featured by special Christmas music and carol singing.

RAMS TRUCK

GUELPH (CP)—Harold Stewart Speers, 28, of London, was killed on Highway 401 near here Tuesday night when his car rammed the rear of a truck loaded with steel. Provincial police said steel bars protruding from the rear feet from the rear of the truck smashed through Speers' windshield. Truck driver Harry Weltmer of Strathford was not injured.

Long Haired Fur in High Demand at Sale

Fur will fly in the province if the Ontario Trappers' Association January Sale is anything like December's. The 28 buyers who attended found some of the highest quality fur ever offered at the sales - the price of fox reached an all time high of $53. All long haired fur was in very high demand with one silver fox fur going for $53 and $50.75 was top for colored fox.

Even bear brought a high of $27; wolves never were better with a top price of $15. Highest paid for beaver was $21, fisher - $30, marten - $18, mink - $24.50, muskrats - $2.45, and racoons - $7.50.

The next sale is January 4 in North Bay where all furs must be received by December 27. Eight days are required to sort and grade the fur for the critical eyes of fur buyers who are expected from all over the country and both sides of the Atlantic. The Ontario Trappers' Report looks forward to another good sale in view of the high demand shown at the last one.

Pupils Guests Of Teachers at Skating Party

All hands were on the skaters of the more than 240 pupils turned out for the party conducted under perfect supervision. Ice time for the party was paid for by the teachers.

Ten Million Benefits Paid

OTTAWA (CP) — Benefit payments under the Unemployment Insurance Act amounted to $10,000,000 in October compared with $11,500,000 in September and $12,000,000 in October, 1964, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

The bureau said there were 20 per cent fewer claimants at October than at the end of September, and 90 per cent of the drop was among men claiming benefits.

Police Are Renewing Drive To Reduce Traffic Deaths During Christmas Holiday

By BILL COULTHARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Police across Canada are renewing their annual drive to reduce traffic deaths that each year mar Christmas festivities.

Most forces plan extra patrols in an attempt to reduce the toll of 60 dead and 1,200 injured predicted for the Christmas weekend this year by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

Some forces already are carrying out a program of Christmas "spot checks" to nab drinking drivers and take defective vehicles off the road.

Other departments plan to help drivers who find they have had too much to drink by offering such drivers a ride home on request; others will help them find a taxi or other public transportation.

Among forces with a program of spot checks of drivers and their vehicles are Vancouver, Regina, Metropolitan Toronto, Sudbury, Ont., and Waterloo County surrounding Kitchener and Waterloo, Ont.

USE MOBILE PLAN

Vancouver police, who are battling a high accident and injury rate—one injury in every three accidents—started their spot checks in early December. They have organized on a mobile plan using crews that can set up and dismantle a check point quickly so the checks can pop up unexpectedly in various parts of the city.

Metropolitan Toronto police have augmented their spot-check system this year with a "blitz patrol system." Two patrol cars drive up and down a selected artery on a constant pattern throughout a 24-hour period, watching for traffic violations and impaired drivers.

Toronto police also are using volunteers from the Emergency Measures Organization to augment traffic patrols.

Police forces, through drivers, will get a lift from police include Charlottetown, Simcoe, Ont., and Barrie.

A Charlottetown police spokesman said: "We've been doing this for years and we're only too glad to give anybody a lift who needs it."

The Regina program is being carried out by four police volunteers. Two will answer each call, one to drive the police car and the other to drive the drunk motorist's car.

AGAINST AID PLAN

But Winnipeg Police Chief George Blow said he does not favor driving partygoers home because "it takes the responsibility away from the motorist."

Saskatchewan's holiday hazard campaign, in which both municipal police and the RCMP participate, started Dec. 7 and will run until the new year.

The Saskatchewan Safety Council, with 206 deaths this year, said it is "confident our toll will remain less than last year" when 229 died.

The Manitoba traffic death count also is slightly less than last year—at the end of October it stood at 150 compared with 167 to the end of October, 1964.

In Alberta however, traffic fatalities had risen to 306 at the end of October this year from 291 at the same time last year.

British Columbia, with 402 traffic deaths at the end of November compared with 413 for all of 1964, expects an increase from the 1964 total by the end of this year.

Bomb Railway Near Haiphong

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy jets smashed a key railway bridge 18 miles west of Haiphong today in another heavy bombardment of North Viet Nam's heartland, U.S. spokesmen reported, while air force planes carried the air war in the south within 800 yards of Cambodia.

Ready to Call Tenders for New Bridge

TRENTON — The general contract for construction of Trenton's new bridge will be called on Thursday, Dec. 23, and tenders will be opened on Wednesday, Feb. 9 at 2 p.m.

On Thursday too, tenders for supply of structural steel for the new bridge will be called and these will be opened on Wednesday, Jan. 26. The general contractors will be supplied with the steel bids and they may include these in their own bids for the job. Unofficial estimates place the overall cost at close to a million dollars.

Departmental Heads Prepare For Next Year

TRENTON — Departmental heads at the municipal office are busy clearing away 1965 work and planning ahead for 1966.

Assessment commissioner J. Allan Sills says his department is in the process of checking on supplementary assessments and is mopping up operations from the recent sittings of the Court of Revision. Two cases remain to be completed and one case is to be heard before the county judge.

Tax collector Alan Weaver will submit a report to council through town treasurer Peter DeGroot. Mr. Weaver says unpaid sewer service charges will be added to unpaid tax bills this year. Owners whose tenants have not paid the sewer charge will be faced with paying the shot.

Building Inspector Wm. Anderson expects to have his year end report ready by shortly after the first of the year. It won't be Trenton's record year in building but totals will go over $1,300,000.

Group Captain Sends Greetings To District

TRENTON — Christmas message from Group Captain C. R. Thompson, Commanding officer at No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF Station Trenton.

"At this happy time of Christmas and New Year's greetings it gives me great pleasure on behalf of all the staff at 6 Repair Depot to extend to all of our friends and neighbors in the Trenton, Belleville and Bay of Quinte area a most sincere wish for a Merry Christmas and health, wealth and happiness in the New Year. The hospitality, co-operation and support given 6 Repair Depot during the past year has been most appreciated.

"May the area continue to grow in fact and in spirit and may we all hope and work for continued peace."

HELPS PAY BILLS

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada Tuesday turned over to the United Nations a cheque for $3,642,943 to help the world organization meet its peacekeeping deficit. The cheque was for the major portion of $4,000,000 in voluntary contributions pledged by Canada June 21 to help solve the UN financial difficulties.

W/C G. W. Webb in Charge Of Canadian Planes in Africa

TRENTON — Wing Commander G. W. Webb of Hamilton, Ontario, will leave Trenton Thursday morning aboard an RCAF Yukon, bound for Africa.

Wing Commander Webb is heading up a seven man RCAF team which will make final arrangements for Canadian support of the United Kingdom's airlift of oil products to Zambia.

Wing Commander Webb's party will travel to Leopoldville and Elizabethville in the Congo, then to Lusaka in Zambia, where they will establish liaison with Air Commodore Mc. Dougall, Royal Air Force commander in Lusaka.

The present plan is to introduce an RCAF air transport shuttle service to airlift oil between Leopoldville and Elizabethville.

Inventor Gets Proof Device Saves Lives

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Harry Stevinson has received one of the nicest Christmas presents a person could get—proof, after 10 years, that his invention really does save lives.

The 30-year-old scientist at the National Research Council began working on a device, now known as the crash position indicator in August, 1955.

It is 20 inches square, four inches deep and weighs six pounds. It ejects automatically from the fuselage of crashed airplanes and sends out a distress signal as far as 80 miles or more to indicate its position. Since some government departments and commercial air carriers began installing the device there have been seven crashes by planes carrying the indicator. But all the accidents were near airports or populated areas and no searches for them were required.

But early on Nov. 21 a single-engine Beaver plane with two men aboard crash-landed in a blizzard in a desolate stretch of country near Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories. The crash position indicator ejected properly and began sending its signal.

HEARS SIGNAL

On Nov. 24, flying above cloud at 8,000 feet, an RCAF Albatross search and rescue plane picked up the signal and homed on it to the crash scene. The two survivors were found unhurt.

"This was the first time in the first place—to save lives," Mr. Stevinson said in an interview.

"This has been the circle of us trying to get proof and the operators wanting proof before they install it," he added.

However, the RCAF and U.S. Air Force had long been convinced. They are installing the indicator on their subsonic planes and Mr. Stevinson now is working on adaptation of the device to supersonic aircraft.

Moreover, the transport department says it will in all probability be made mandatory for some planes and will install it on many of its own aircraft.

ORDERS DEVICE

The mines and northern affairs department previously had ordered installation of the device on some planes which they charter.

The sole manufacturer is Leigh Industry Ltd. of Carleton Place, Ont.

Air Canada has not adopted the device, which has been successfully tested floating on the North Atlantic in 30-foot waves.

Mr. Stevinson said his invention—the original patent is in his name in both Canada and the U.S.—should also result in faster finding and recovery of accident data recorders from crashed planes which contain them. Data contained in these recorders might prevent other crashes for the same causes.

The RCAF now is equipping its fleet of 12 Yukon transports with the same package containing both a crash position indicator and crash data recorder.

New Book on 'Copter Warfare Being Written In Viet Nam Jungles

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

LAI KHE, South Viet Nam (AP)—"The book on helicopter warfare is being written over here," said the ace at the controls of a tiny bubbletop chopper. "We get a new chapter almost every day."

Maj. Bobby Davis spoke from above a bright checkerboard of jade-colored jungles and emerald green rubber trees. Only the trails of artillery smoke and the brown craters left by U.S. B-52 bombers strikes betray the existence of a war down there.

The 3rd Brigade of the U.S. 1st infantry Division was sweeping toward the huge Michelin rubber plantation, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, the scene of two bloody battles with North Vietnamese regulars.

As brigade aviation officer, a new job in a new kind of war, Davis had gone aloft to see how he might best employ the various "hogs," "slicks" and "guns" put at his disposal from the 1st Division's private air force of 100 helicopters.

BEAUTIFUL LANDING

At 10:10 that morning, one battalion of the 3rd brigade had been committed to action. It took 75 "slicks," choppers capable of lifting seven fully-equipped infantrymen, five trips each to move the battalion in to its landing zone, a jungle clearing the size of a football field at the northwest edge of the plantation. The "eagle lift," as such airborne troop deployments are known, had been a thing of beauty and precision.

First, navy bombers from the carrier Kitty Hawk had scorched the landing zone with a 15-minute air strike. Then the "hogs"—jet - like helicopters—"hosed down" the area for 10 minutes, each delivering 48 rockets.

Next came the "guns" — armed helicopters carrying 14 rockets, four 52-60 araching guns controlled by the co-pilot and machine - guns at each side manned by the door gunners. The "guns" came in, rockets and automatic weapons blazing and circled over the jungle clearing, where a puff of purple smoke from a signal flare, marked the landing zone for the first flight of "slicks." Down the long, green valley they came, fluttering like dragonflies in the thin tropical air, each alighting for less than six seconds its disembarkation time, to hit the ground on the run and disappeared among the trees.

At 10:30 all the entire battalion of 2,500 men was on the ground, its less than 40 minutes it had come 60 miles, a day's march for the old infantry. And these troops arrived fresh, ready for battle.

"They think it's a fine way to go to war," said Davis. To get food, water and ammunition to the rifle companies deep in the jungle, where there are no roads or trails, each rifle company carried a gasoline-powered saw, axes and demolition charges to back out its own landing zone for supply helicopters.

On the one day, these 100 busy birds of the 1st Division performed an amazing variety of missions. They flew in the troops, supplied them with food, ammunition and water, carried out the wounded, hauled heavy weapons, brought in urgently needed parts and medical supplies, provided lethal firepower, served as radio relay and observation posts and enable the commander to rescramble his battlefield to best tactical advantage in a matter of minutes, rather than days or even weeks.

Equipped with nearly five times as many helicopters as an ordinary division and only half as many land vehicles (1,400 as compared with 3,200 for the 1st Infantry Division), the 1st Cavalry is geared to chase the enemy, hit him on the run and keep him from settling down long enough to reorganize and resupply. Each of its huge Chinook helicopters can lift 47 men in full field gear and move them into battlery. Even larger crane helicopters can bring in heavy engineering equipment to carve out an airstrip, rescue a Chinook that has been shot down and move mountains of supplies, ammunition and parts.

The 1st Cavalry's ability to plant its artillery in the middle of the densest jungle has given the government side of the war an immense advantage.

Wage Spiral

The Brockville public school board's brief on spiralling teacher salaries has an air of desperation about it. This is understandable, as the brief makes only too clear.

The brief, presented by school trustee Ian Clark to the committee on aims and objectives of education in the schools of Ontario, which met in Ottawa last week, said salary negotiations by each local school board with the Ontario Teachers' Federation were a waste of time.

They were a waste of time; the brief said, because "no small board can do much to check the powerful teachers' federation which continues to ask for more."

To combat this inflationary spiral, the Brockville board suggested that one provincial body should negotiate the salaries of all teachers with the teachers' federation.

Boards in Brockville and other small centres, the brief said, "shrug their shoulders and tag along behind, trying desperately to hold the line and always ending up with a salary schedule lower than the metropolitan area boards."

From an economic viewpoint, this is a serious enough situation. Inflation has always been a bogey. Yet we seldom hear any warning cries on the subject these days.

It was former Bank of Canada governor James Coyne, who came up with a classic summation of the free-spending ways of this country.. Canadians, he said, "are living grandly beyond their means." And this is as true today as it was a few years ago.

Mr. Coyne resigned from his position because his economic views and those of the Conservative government of the time were irreconcilable. He faded quietly into obscurity, but his words remain to haunt us.

The teachers and others who seek increases of already considerable salaries might remember the former bank governor's warning.

Early Marriage

Controversial writer Betty Friedan had some wise counsel when she spoke to a recent gathering at the University of Western Ontario.

Author of The Feminine Mystique, Mrs. Friedan criticized early marriages, girls scarcely more than children having children, and wives giving up their educations to put their husbands through university.

Mrs. Friedan's most telling point had to do with the curve which early marriage and the raising of children place upon a girl's personal intellectual development and the discovery of herself.

The girl who has no expectation of herself as an individual and who has little sense of her own identity, said Mrs. Friedan, "is desperate to get her man."

Mrs. Friedan referred to women's search for self-expression and identity as the unfinished revolution which would not be finished as long as women are bemused by "the feminine mystique." She said the revolution can only be finished when women begin to take themselves seriously as human beings and to choose their own identities.

The author's comments are so full of wisdom that they require little comment. Mrs. Friedan is not suggesting that girls should abandon the idea of marriage (heaven forbid) and become career girls instead. All she is asking is that the young people should spend a little longer in school, go to university if they can, and see a bit of the world. In this way they will come to discover themselves as human beings, and enrich their personalities in a way that would not be possible otherwise.

Splitting Hairs

"Why can't Canadians use the term 'supervise,' rather than 'invigilate' with reference to examinations?"

This lament comes from a lecturer from overseas who is on the staff of a university out west.

The answer, we thought at first, might be "for the same reasons that professional people today never use a familiar and recognizable word when another, more pretentious one, is available." There is even a tendency to confuse the long-suffering public (as was the case at the recent conference on poverty in Ottawa) with lengthy descriptive passages that overwhelm rather than enlighten the reader.

Such passages may be punctuated with freshly-coined words like "scatteration." This word was used at the Ottawa parley in connection with Canada's swiftly-growing suburban areas and their inhabitants.

However, to return to the term "invigilate," Webster's dictionary turns the tables somewhat by noting that the word (meaning "to keep watch over students during a written examination") is used chiefly in Britain.

"Supervise," on the other hand, is defined as follows: "to oversee or direct (work, workers, a project, etc.); superintend." So that on balance the word "invigilate," through a pompous one, fills the bill very well in connection with examinations.

Male View of Fashion Scene

Christian Science Monitor

However heavy his usual gait, when it comes to women's fashions a mere man must tread lightly. It's no mean feat—as these columns have learned. Who, after viewing the latest creations we venture to risk a few comments.

"The total look," with its bold stripe (or other eye-catching design) running from head to toe and from garment to garment we accept as an artistic innovation not unlike the borrowings from Mondrian and other painters. Shockingly revolutionary to some, "the total look" appeals to our spirit of vibrant liberalism.

"The grandiose look," we are told, is all the rage among smart young moderns. We're prepared to go along. Little girls have always enjoyed dressing up in the down-to-the-ankle fashions which, piled in old chests, now graced their grandmothers. That the enchantment should carry over into the teens is hardly understandable. Hopelessly reactionary to some, "the granny look" appeals to our sense of the slightly outré, the charming.

Certain other innovations in the world of teen-age fads and fashions somehow fail to appeal to anything with which our experience has thus far equipped us. Despite its long and colorful history of painting the body with the thought of beautifying it, and despite the many designs to encourage widespread participation in the fine arts, both bewilder us. Among our conservatism balk at butterflies (or hyacinths) on the knees, (But "look" appeals to our sense of favor painted-on necklaces, bracelets, and rings, however far-fetched Parisian ladies may find them.)

With all our masculine resolve we try our best to keep a truly open mind toward feminine fashions. But we can't help wondering if there aren't times when "the very latest" gives us the feeling we're at least a momentary start.

Psst... Want A Picket?

Brantford Expositor

Shrewdly assessing the business potential in the mushrooming protest movement, a New York man has established a "rent-a-picket" service. For $3 an hour ($1.50 extra for bearded demonstrators) he and his colleagues will parade with placards to publicize personal gripes against mothers-in-law, bosses, former boy friends and the like. You name it; they'll shame it.

The use of mercenaries will certainly give the agitator the vicarious pleasure of ventilating his cause in public without having to endure the discomfort of the picket line. Professional picketers should be able to offer a better quality brand of protest than that of enthusiastic amateur dissenters. The service also opens up another job opportunity for students to earn money to pay their way through college.

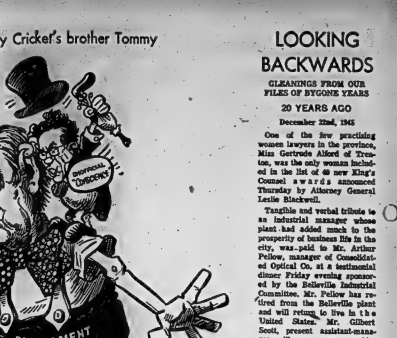
A further advantage in a professional agitation would be that it may introduce some organization into the protest movement which has already reached the stage where there are demonstrations against demonstrations, with no sign of people marching in placard parades, the public cannot distinguish the participants with any program. A corps of hard-core complainers would eliminate crowd confusion, unless of course protest platoon decided to muscle in to picket the picket and so on ad infinitum.

Rail Links With Ottawa

Ottawa Journal

Christmas without an overnight train trip between Ottawa and Toronto will seem as unnatural as Christmas without snow to hundreds of persons this year.

It is no comfort for Christmas travellers that the CPR and CNR have been told to get together in the interests of storing adequate service between the two largest cities of the province. It is too late to help this year. Holiday visits will be made considerably shorter because travellers will be forced to use waking hours to make the trip. In many cases the new schedule means that the journey will not be made.



The proposals and counter-proposals for improving the service which the railways have made are proceeding with all the speed of a diamond-drill conference — or the old day-train to Toronto.

The Board of Transport Commissioners has at last recognized it should be doing something. The Board has now allowed that it might be necessary to call a public hearing. Better than any hearing would be to collect the reactions of the travellers who are coming to realize bi Christmas season that things have changed in the railway business; schedules are now arranged for the convenience of the railways, not people.

The Real Meaning Of Christmas Time

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

There has been much discussion recently on a local radio program about Santa Claus, to be or not to be, and what to tell the children about the real meaning of Christmas. I say, let our children know the truth about Christmas spiritually, but also let them enjoy the tradition of Santa. Here is a little story you might like to publish.

When I was a little girl, my father used to gather us children around him on Christmas Eve and read from the big family Bible about the birth of Jesus whose birthday we were to celebrate the following day. He would glance over his glasses and say, "Now children, we will read from the second chapter of Luke".

I remember how excited we were, thinking about Santa who would leave our presents under the Christmas tree and about the very special presents we had bought for Mom and help with our very own money that we had earned by shovelling snow. One Christmas morning my brother started singing, "Happy Birthday, Dear Jesus, Happy Birthday to You", and we all joined in. Maybe you think this peculiar. Well, many years later, after doing those happy days we spent together. Many years have passed since our father was gone but the memorial about that holiday and its real meaning, but no amount of time can remove from our minds the memory of the warmth and love in a family who never forgot why we were celebrating Christmas.

Salad Days In Viet Nam

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

We take a strictly objective view of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam, but we are forced to admire his culinary discrimination.

The other day Premier Ky visited a United States aircraft carrier and remained for luncheon. On the menu was fillet mignon and lettuce salad with French dressing." The dressing was that concocted by the chef to many American restaurants. The premier stared at the dressing and unceremoniously let it by think, that it was not French dressing, that French dressing is made of oil and vinegar.

Was the premier being boorish, discourteous? Perhaps, but consider the provocation. Any one who relishes a fillet mignon cent salad dressing is entitled to break a few rules of etiquette.

Deprivation

Toronto Star

Youngsters from economically depressed and culturally barren homes and districts who never make the grade in life usually don't fail because of lack of intelligence. It's their deprivation that leaves them unable to acquire middle-class learning, unable to train for a skill as adults, and robbed of incentive to go ahead and stand on their own feet.

To Your Good Health

Many Common Fears Can Be Conquered

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Yesterday we discussed a man who for 10 years has been afraid of dying because of palpitation of the heart — periods of rapid beating which, he has been told, do not indicate anything wrong with the organ.

Heart flutters, or heart ailments whether .ni or imaginary, seem to have a special tendency to incite fear of death, although many people acquire the same fear from other sources: They fear cancer, or lung disease, or strokes, or some people torture themselves with fear of death without any particular cause in mind.

Other common fears are of height, of confinement, of being robbed, of being lost, of being sick, and a host of others.

* * *

Fear is natural enough emotion, but it can be conquered, either by becoming more familiar with unknown elements of it, or becoming more confident of being able to meet the situation.

A structural steel worker, sure of step and balance, overcomes fear of height. A person afraid of hospitals (common enough) loses that fear after being in a hospital, discovering that after all it is a place where people are cared for.

Although it isn't natural to want to die, critically ill patients do not necessarily fear death, I recall, also, a fellow physician who had a serious heart attack. He knew what had happened. He was thoroughly aware of his peril. Yet fear of death did not occur to him. Afterward (he recovered and is back in active practice) he confided, "I just got mad at having it happen to me!"

Young people quite often have (and try to conceal) fear of death, but usually the fear is abstract; that is, they have no immediate knowledge. (Even youngsters, confronted with the nearness and inevitability of death, become reconciled, and die bravely and easily when the time comes.) It is personal, doubt and fear of a kind unknown, rather than fear of death itself which disturbs us. This self is that it is natural to die as to be born. So why fear it? Men, women and children, in the moment of death, rarely are afraid. The fear of death, rather, is something a bit different from confronting the fact itself.

I know one man who, as a teen-ager, harbored a morbid fear of dying, and the simplest symptoms of ordinary ailments could put him in a cold sweat. He finally stumbled onto a formula which worked. It did for him, anyway. He told himself: "If I can just live until I am 40, I'll have had a good deal of life. Anything after that will be so much velvet."

He is now long past 40, and it has been many decades since he last feared death.

At a medical meeting, dealing with this very problem, one striking story was about an elderly woman, dying of cancer and very apprehensive and nervous despite all efforts to soothe her and keep the truth from her.

One day she fixed a young house doctor with a demanding glance and asked flatly, "Young man, am I dying?"

"Yes," he said. "Thank you," she said. "It's time somebody told me the truth." Her nerves calmed down. She became, for her remaining time, a happier, relaxed patient.

It wasn't death she feared. It was not knowing.

Dec. 22, 1965 . . .

Francois de la Verendrye, the last of the family of great French explorers, was born 250 years ago today—in 1715—the third son of the Sieur de la Verendrye. He discovered the Saskatchewan River in 1728 and spent more than 10 years on the prairies. He and his brother Joseph may have been the first white men to see the Rocky Mountains. After the British conquest of Quebec he inherited a seigniory and lived in Montreal. With his death in 1794, still unmarried, the family died out.

1761—Marquis de la Fayette sailed for France after the success of the American war of independence.

1825 — Anthony Eden became Britain's foreign secretary.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — the Germans reoccupied trenches lost in the Hartmannsweilerkopf the day before; Lt.-Gen. Sir William Robertson was appointed chief of the British imperial staff.

A Little Lesson in Logic

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Do you know the difference between a "convertible proposition" and a "non-convertible proposition"? If you don't, the chances are high that you can't reason accurately or realistically about many issues and conflicts in the modern world.

Suppose I suggest the proposition (which is true) "Neurotic people are usually unorthodox." Do you then turn illogically around into the proposition (which is false) "Unorthodox people are usually neurotic"? If so, you are committing a fallacy in logic, and a sin against truth.

Yet, we do this all the time, in dozens of obvious and subtler ways. One of the most obvious ways today is our estimation of events like student demonstrations on campuses.

We take the true proposition "Most kooks and beatniks will participate in these demonstrations," and we convert it into the false proposition "Most students participating in these demonstrations are kooks and beatniks." If we believe this second statement, then we become totally incapable of understanding the meaning and the thrust of student action.

Another common (and false) conversion is from "Communists support this position" to "Those who support this position are Communists." However, this second statement does not at all necessarily follow from the first. It may, or it may not.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 22nd, 1945

One of the few practising women lawyers in the province, Miss Gertrude Allcod of Trenton, was the only woman included in the list of 69 new King's Counsel awards announced Thursday by Attorney General Leslie Blackwell.

Tangible and verbal tribute to an industrial manager whose plant had added much to the prosperity of business life in the city, was paid to Mr. Arthur Pellow, manager of Consolidated Optical Co. at a testimonial dinner Friday evening sponsored by the Belleville Industrial Committee. Mr. Pellow has retired from the Belleville plant and will return to live in the United States. Mr. Gilbert Scott, present assistant-manager, will assume managership, the first of the year.

30 YEARS AGO

December 22nd, 1935

Mrs. Ella Ryan is entertaining the children living at the shelter at a movie this afternoon and afterwards the same children will be guests for dinner at the New Queen's hotel.

Mr. G. A. C. Weir, who has been manager of the bank of Montreal here for the past ten years is retiring. He and Mrs. Weir were entertained at the Belleville Club by the members of the staff on Friday evening. During the evening, Mr. D. J. D. Jones, the chief accountant of the local office of the Bank of Montreal, presented a beautiful Sheffield tray to Mr. Weir and Mr. W. Tern, the assistant accountant presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Weir. Much regret will be felt by the entire staff at the retirement of Mr. Weir.

Mr. Fred Wiggins is home from Kingston to spend Christmas.

Mr. Harry B. Stock will spend Christmas with relatives in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fairfield will spend Christmas in Toronto.

Road Safety At Christmas

Oshawa Times

Roads in Canada, during the Christmas season, pose a need for additional alertness and consideration, both characteristics which are slowed preceptibly by alcohol ingestion, in many instances not noticeable in the drinker.

Dominion Automobile Association in a timely message urges driving Canadians to adopt a rational, common-sense attitude to holiday-season driving (and more important, drinking.)

Medical authorities say that even a single bottle of beer can bring the reflexes of the user to the point which makes for the difference between having an accident and avoiding one.

An automobile driver is in complete charge of a lethal contraption which can inflict sudden death on his fellow-man (and himself) in an instant. Any agent which, in any way retards that potential's reaction to split-second driving decisions should be avoided or treated with the caution it merits.

Geo. R. Pawson Dies at 77

TORONTO (CP) — George Raymond Pawson, 77, a major figure in railway labor negotiations for 35 years and chairman of the international executive board of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, died here Monday after an illness of several months.

Mr. Pawson, as secretary of the general conference committee of the non-operating railway unions, was chief aide to Frank Hall in railway wage talks since 1943. He had been a prominent member of negotiating groups since 1920.

He started his career as a morse telegrapher at Stratford, Ont., for the Grand Trunk Railway in the late 1800s and transferred to the Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraphs in 1911.

He was secretary of the CPR general chairman's association, co-chairman of the administrative committee of the railway employees benefit plan and a member of the executive of the recently-formed Canadian Railway Labor Executives' Association.

Federal Govt. Waiting To Hear From Provinces About Medicare Insurance

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government still is waiting to hear officially whether the provinces will go ahead with medical care insurance programs which qualify for the federal offer to pay half the costs, officials said Tuesday.

The provinces had originally said they would tell Ottawa by the end of the year.

The possibility of issuing a reminder to them about this commitment is expected to be one of the first matters to come before Health Minister MacEachen as he moves this week into his new portfolio from the labor department.

Federal planners want to know as early as possible how many provinces will be involved so they can make financial and legislative plans for the parliamentary session opening Jan. 18.

If medical care insurance is to be available on a national basis by July 1, 1967, as proposed by Ottawa, a good deal of legislative and administrative work must be done by federal and provincial governments.

Federal authorities say they are confident the provinces' favorable reaction last July to the federal proposals will be translated into legislative action.

EXPECT CONFERENCE

Commitments from the provinces to do so probably will mean a full-scale federal-provincial conference early in the new year, possibly between Prime Minister Pearson and provincial premiers.

The federal offer to pay half the cost was based on provincial government programs meeting four principles.

Provincial plans would have to meet costs of all physicians services, except such items as cosmetic surgery. They would have to be available virtually every resident. They would have to be administered by the province or by a provincial agency designated by the province. Benefits would have to be portable from one province to another.

"One uncertainty is the final cost to the federal treasury. The total cost of medical care insurance was estimated in July at about $600,000,000 a year of which Ottawa would pay half. Thus roughly $14 per capita would come from the federal treasury.

However, this now is regarded as a low estimate. One reason is that nobody seems able to calculate what schedules of fees will be adopted by provincial colleges of physicians and surgeons or the prospects of these fees provincial programs will cover.

Wishart Will Increase OSC To 5 Members

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says a strengthening of the Ontario Securities Commission will be announced today by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart.

The newspaper says the commission likely will be increased to five members from three.

The commission now has only two members, James F. McFarland and Chairman J. R. Kimber. The third member, G. E. Lennox, died two years ago.

Mr. Wishart reminded Tuesday that enabling legislation was passed at the last session of the legislature to permit the increase.

The paper says there is a strong possibility the commission's enlargement will be a prelude to making it an independent body. It now is under jurisdiction of the attorney-general's department.

A "dollar-a-year" man may be appointed to the commission from the mining industry, the paper says and also quotes informed sources that Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court is also a possible choice.

Mr. Justice Kelly was chairman of the royal commission that investigated the spectacular rise and fall of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd. shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange during the summer of 1964.

The paper says the sources claim prominent persons would be unlikely to accept appointments to the commission unless it was strengthened.

Behind the "Glass"

Shortly after the New Year, the members of the Quinte Curling Club will be engaged in stiff competition in a number of events including the Tankard, Governor - General, Rose D, The Colts, the Seniors and British Consols playdowns. The first playoffs to get under way are the Consols and these will start on December 27th, and continue through a double knockout draw with eight rinks competing. Rings skipped by Murray Johnson, Mac White, Jack Robson, Charlie Cox, Lloyd Sheppard, Ernie Wilkinson, "Skit" Shaws and Bill Riley will take part and the first draw will pit Johnson and Sheppard, Robson and White, Shaws and Riley and Wilkinson and Cox.

As the men's draws have been completed the members are getting in a lot of practice and some excellent pick-up games are being staged. One of these was last night when skips Gordon Pinder and Mac White had a real battle, with White edging the Ottawa skip 5-3 in ten ends. The night before Pinder had the honor of winning. The Pinder rink was composed of Doyle Livingston, Larry Lovett, Neville Burroughs and Gordon Pinder, while White had his regular rink of Carl Charleston, Al McCallum and Ron Benn. Some excellent curling was witnessed. On an adjoining sheet Ernie Wilkinson and Murray Johnson had a go and this game was just as interesting.

The ice committee is to be congratulated for their work on the ice surface during the past week. The ice has been scraped, cleaned and flooded and many of the runs have been taken out. The ice is almost spotless at the present time and it is hoped that the curlers will try to keep it that way by being sure their footwear is clean before proceeding onto the ice.

Ann Landers

Unemployed Genius Repulses Husband

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My dearest friend (I'll call her Lottie) married an oddball who thinks he is a creative genius. The slob won't take a steady job because he needs to be free in case a brilliant thought hits him. It's not my business that he doesn't take a job, but he doesn't take a bath either and this I find repulsive.

ANN LANDERS

I love Lottie's company. She is a dear person and we grew up together, but Heathcliff is too much. I've decided to put up with him, but my husband froths at the mouth when I tell him Lottie and Heathcliff are coming over.

Tonight when I told him they were dropping by after dinner he said, "I hope you enjoy that squirrel's company because I am leaving." He got on his coat and left. I spent two hours with them, myself.

I felt like crying, Ann. In my book my husband let me down. I do many things for him that I don't want to do, but I believe it's a wife's duty to please her husband. Am I wrong when I say he failed me? How should this problem be handled in the future? — TEARS IN THE PILLOW.

DEAR PILLOW: From your description of Heathcliff, I think maybe I would have left with your husband.

If you enjoy Lottie, see her in the afternoon. But don't inflict the squirrel on your husband when you know he cannot stand him.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I are in our 60's. Last week we decided to re write our wills. Since both my wife and I have been helped greatly by medical science we decided to leave our remains to a medical school.

A few weeks ago we were having dinner with our children and we mentioned this. Well, we never saw so much commotion. It created a storm that both my wife and I are unstrung. Our children described it as gruesome, creepy and macabre to list a few collectives.

We explained nothing in the Bible says this practice is sinful. We further explained that it was not a spur of the moment decision — that we had thought about it for a long time and we want to do it.

Our children are putting so much pressure on us to change our minds that we are really upset. Please give us your views. Are we "way out" as they say? — L.G.C.

DEAR L.G.C.: Your children have no right to deprive you of the privilege of making this kind of contribution if you want to do it.

Since you have made it clear that this is your wish, consider it settled.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with a very nice gentleman for six years. We cannot get married for a while but I won't go into the reasons here. (They are all good ones.)

We are both over 30 and have a mutual agreement to ignore birthdays. We never spend gifts. We do make a big thing out of Christmas, however, and this is what I am writing about.

For the last four years I've asked him what he would like for a Christmas gift and he has said, "Just give me the money and I'll buy what I want." Each year I have given him $40 and he seemed pleased.

So far as I know he has never bought anything. I think he just saves the money. This makes me unhappy because I want the pleasure of seeing him enjoy something I bought for him. Would it be rude of me to tell him how I feel or should I just continue to give him the annual cheque. — THE G.F.

DEAR G.F.: If you have been going with this man for six years you should have a fairly good idea of his tastes and needs. Go out and buy him a gift this year and I'll bet he registers more enthusiasm than he did over the cheques.

This broad-breasted beauty of a bird is roasted to golden perfection and garnished with "stars" of cranberry jelly. Mary Moore gives you turkey stuffing, roasting and gravy directions along with her suggested Christmas dinner menu today.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Pork Chop Casserole with Celery Soup Sauce; Fluffy Rice; Green Beans; Shredded Lettuce and Carrot and Cucumber Salad with Home-made Boiled Dressing; Canned Green Gage Plums; Hungarian Pecan Bars (see Tues.); Tea.

One of the extra dividends of this delicious menu is its beauty. The cranberry jelly may be cut out and used as a garnish on the turkey platter.

For novices and experts alike I will give the method of making the stuffing and roasting the turkey and making the gravy. I do not need to repeat the routine for mashing potatoes. You know they should be smooth and rich to be a lovely base for turkey gravy. My nephew Paul says the best part of Christmas Dinner is the gravy on the mashed potatoes.

Obviously Consomme Madrilene was selected because of its lovely color. Buy it. Do not try to make it unless you have lots of time and talent. You do not have to buy a lot of smoked salmon for the canapes. One-half pound will go a long way when sliced wafer thin.

Your main concern is stuffing and roasting the bird.

ROAST STUFFED TURKEY
(oven-ready 12 to 15-lb. bird)

Stuffing: (To be made and stuffed into bird on the day it is to be roasted.) One standard loaf bread pulled into crumbs; 1 cup sliced mushrooms; 1 cup sliced celery; ½ cup chopped apple; ¼ cup chopped onion; ¼ cup chopped parsley; ½ cup butter; 1 to 1½ teaspoons salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; ½ teaspoon sage or thyme or rosemary. In large frying pan melt butter and saute all vegetables and apple until wilted, not brown. Add to breadcrumbs in large bowl along with seasonings and mix. Stuff prepared bird and truss snugly.

Roasting: Dry outside of stuffed bird, spread all over with soft butter, roast at 325 deg. Fahr. for 4½ to 5 hours, no water, no cover, basting occasionally when drippings collect in pan. Note: If desired, cover bird with tent of foil for first 4 hours, then remove to allow skin to brown and crispen. A 25-lb. bird requires 9 hours at 325 deg. F.

NOTE: Please see Christmas Eve column on Friday for my method of making Turkey Gravy and the honey-glazed yams with pecans.

Volunteers Visit Mentally Ill At Kingston

Twenty - eight volunteer workers from the Ontario Mental Health Association, Belleville Chapter travelled by bus to Kingston last Tuesday afternoon to entertain patients of the Ontario Hospital.

Under the direction of Mrs. W. D. Newell, chairman of hospital visiting, a sing-song of carols was enjoyed. Mrs. Margaret Atkinson dressed as Santa Claus passed out gifts to 110 patients assisted by a number of helpers. A tasty lunch was served by the members of the hospital staff.

The Belleville branch is in charge of entertainment and welfare of the Mowat Division of the hospital where there is a total number of 75 men and women patients who look forward to the third Thursday of each month when entertainment is provided by the volunteers. The game of bingo seems to provide the most enjoyment.

Starting in January the Belleville Mental Health Association hopes to have a bus run on the third Thursday of the month. A small fee for bus fare would enable friends and relatives to visit the patients and provide much happiness for them.

Women's Institutes

QUEENSBORO W.I.

QUEENSBORO — The Queensboro branch of the Women's Institutes met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Sager on Tuesday evening. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Arthur Holmes, past president, took charge of the meeting.

The secretary, Mrs. Ed Holmes, read the minutes of the last meeting. The roll call showed nine members and two visitors present. It was decided to start the millinery course on Wednesday evening, January 5th at the home of Mrs. William Cassidy with Mrs. Harry Declair and Mrs. Ed Holmes as leaders.

Christmas carols were sung and a paper was read by Mrs. Arthur Holmes on Cree Indians. Mrs. Holmes also sang a song she had composed.

There was a Christmas gift exchange and also a sale of articles that could be used for gifts.

It was decided to give gifts to the patients at the Rawes nursing home and also to the senior citizens at the Alexander home.

WEDDING

VAN RAALTE—ANDERSON

Judith Ruth Anderson, daughter of Dr. Reginald Moore Anderson of 192 Eighth Line, Oakville, and Dirk Van Raalte, son of Dr. H. G. S. Van Raalte of The Hague, Holland, were united in marriage in Deer Park United Church, Toronto, by Dr. John Wilkie, on December 18th, 1965, at 7.00 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white crepe princess style gown with appliqued Alencon lace on the bodice and a band of the same lace at the hemline. A matching open crown caught her full length veil of white tulle illusion.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Pugh (formerly Diane Slade) and the bridesmaids were Miss Denise Anderson, Miss Ginny Anderson and Miss Sonja Van Raalte, sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned alike in red brocade full length dresses with back panels lined with pink corded silk. Miss Elizabeth Anderson, flower girl, wore a full length pink corded silk dress.

Mr. Jack Soutar was groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. William Logie, Mr. Peter Pidgeon, Mr. Ronald Van Raalte and Mr. John Van Raalte.

The reception was held at Carnegie House, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Raalte will live at 535 Arlington Avenue, Toronto.

HAVE THEORY

HAMILTON (CP) — A coroner's jury was told Tuesday that Kenneth Holland, 23, may have fallen five storeys to his death Oct. 24 while testing his physical fitness. Thomas Drysdale, provincial safety construction inspector, told the jury there was no other reason why Holland tried to swing from hand to hand clinging to the narrow lip of a girder 58 feet above ground.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

NAPANEE — The true spirit of Christmas must have entered the hearts of over 600 people who crowded Trinity United Church for the annual carol and candlelight service which began at five o'clock Sunday afternoon. As far as possible, the church had been transformed to create the setting of that first Christmas, with a life sized rustic stable at the heart of the church, taking the place usually occupied by the communion table, and the doors above becoming the blue sky by means of clever flood lighting.

After the opening music, the Christmas story was told with a cantata interspersed by readings by the minister, the Rev. E. Irvine Johnston, the living figures in the pageant giving visual form to the words and music.

At the appropriate moment the huge curtain was raised and in the Sunday school auditorium was a hillside built up against a lighted background, where sheep grazed on the distant hills. A star moved to centre above the stable and the occupants to show the Magi that they had reached their destination.

Carols projected on the screen and sung by the congregation accompanied by a four-piece brass band and the organ opened the service. The junior choir sang and took their places among the congregation, to be replaced by the members of the senior choir who sang the cantata.

Mr. William Aylsworth was organist and the director of the senior choir. Her husband directs the junior choir and the band. Lighting was in charge of Lewis Wagar, and Lloyd Aylsworth operated the projector.

Mr. and Mrs. David Copeland portrayed Mary and Joseph, and Mrs. Gordon Stephens was the angel. Four wee cherubs in front of the stable stole the hearts of all. They were three-and-four-year-old children, Robert Howse, Robert Hawley, Susan VanLaren, and Elaine Johnston. Bill Woolsey, Bill Robertson and Laurie Clark were adult shepherds, and Carl Johnston a shepherd boy. Jim Plumley, Richard Plumley and Gail Delfne were the three kings of the Orient.

The service closed on a modern note. As the choir sang "Once Again the Bells Ring Out", children dressed to represent various occupations knelt reverently one by one before the communion rail. The spirit of that first Christmas lives today in the hearts of the men of all races and all occupations.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Recruiting Thousands Of Women in Services Now Being Considered

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department is considering recruiting thousands of women to redress the growing manpower shortage in the armed forces.

The matter has been discussed by the defence staff and in the defence council and papers on costs and the like have been prepared for Defence Minister Hellyer, informants said Tuesday.

Until recently, there was no strong move toward a big increase in the number of women in the armed forces, which now stands at 1,216.

But the services now are experiencing a manpower pinch, mostly because of the boom in the economy.

The ability of women to do many jobs in the armed forces has never been in doubt. But authorities say there are several reasons against recruiting large numbers.

The main drawback is that in many instances a woman is no sooner trained in her service job than she gets married and leaves the armed forces.

From time to time—it would be ungallant to name dates—it has been deliberate defence policy to sign on the boneliest applicants with the expectation of keeping them in the armed forces longer.

CREATES PROBLEMS

Rotation of men in various jobs also becomes much more difficult with women occupying many service posts.

For example, if most administrative positions are filled by women, it becomes difficult to find service jobs at home for men in the administrative field who have served their terms of duty abroad.

The navy, long ago discovered this problem when it hired civilians for many shore jobs. As a consequence, sailors have had to remain at sea for long periods away from their families because there were few shore jobs open to them. Many sailors have left the service as a result, making the shortage of skilled technicians even worse.

The navy has had to tie up several ships because it hasn't enough skilled manpower to keep them at sea.

If the defence department does decide to recruit more women, officials said, there will be a common policy for their employment by the services.

There isn't such a common policy now. The RCAF has 657 women in its ranks, the navy 365 and the army only 194. They perform a great variety of jobs from nursing and pharmacy to meteorology and data processing.

During the Second World War a total of 45,657 women served in the Canadian armed forces—21,624 in the army, 16,000 in the RCAF and 7,043 in the navy.

U.C.W. Meetings

MOIRA U.C.W.

MOIRA — Mrs. Gordon Foster was hostess for the Christmas meeting of Moira United Church Women. The president, Mrs. Don McIlravy, opened the meeting with a Christmas poem while Mrs. Clayton Vanderwater read the Scripture and Mrs. Wesley Farrell had the devotionary. Christmas hymns were sung with Mrs. James Vanderwater at the piano.

Mrs. Wesley Farrell presided over the program when several Christmas readings were given. Mrs. Angus Mumby and Mrs. Gordon Foster sang solos. Mrs. James Vanderwater played a piano solo. Mrs. Ross Ketchenson gave a very interesting topic on "Love."

The exchange of Christmas gifts took place and lunch was served by the hostess. The members packed Christmas parcels for shut-ins in the community.

MEET TO MAKE SWEET

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The women's club of St. Eugene's parish revived Le Jour de la Tire or "taffy-pulling day" on St. Catherine's day, Nov. 25. The women dressed in costumes of the 1890s to make home candies together.

Susanna's Family Fare

FLOWER HOLDER

Dear Susanna: How often have you received a perfectly beautiful bouquet of flowers only to be disappointed in your attempt to arrange them because of their great long heavy stems?

Chicken wire to the rescue. Purchase a small quantity at your local hardware store, snipped to the size you wish. You might even take your favorite large vase along and have the hardware man help you crush the wire and fit it into the bottom of your container.

By poking the strong stems of large unwieldy flowers such as gladioli, down through the ball of crumpled wire, there is no chance for the flowers to flop about or slump over to one side as they are so inclined to do. Instead, they stand like sentinels. — B. M. D.

OPEN SESAME!

Dear Susanna: Is this column reserved for women or can a mere male have his say? Here goes nothing!

When I open a new tin of shoe polish I insert a small tab of tape between the lid and the tin. This means I won't encounter any future difficulty removing the top.

A pull on the tab does the trick every time . . . useful idea for tin syrup lids, too. — "Sea Vesuto"

TOUCH OF GLAMOR

Dear Susanna: Add a touch of glamor to last year's plain Christmas tree balls by pasting on simulated snow flakes.

Will Spend $175,000 on Cancer Research

Group Captain (Retired) W. H. Schroeder, recently appointed to the executive staff of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society, addressed 35 executive members of the Quinte-Thousand Islands District.

He stressed the importance of the work of the Cancer Society and congratulated the district on reaching 103 per cent of their quota during the recent campaign.

The meeting was held at Ellis Hall, Queen's University and chaired by the district president, the former mayor of Belleville, A. M. Hall.

During the meeting, W. H. Caverly, District Campaign Chairman, stated that $175,000 would be spent in the Kingston area in research grants from the Canadian Cancer Society.

Seminars were held on the following topics:

Education, maintenance and nominating, campaign and women's service.

Dr. R. C. Burr, medical advisor, stressed the importance of monthly breast self-examination and yearly check-ups and films were shown by L. E. Babcock on this topic.

Local members of the District Council present were:

District president, A. M. Hall; Vice-president, D. A. Caldwell; and members of the Belleville unit, Mr. W. B. Vandervoort, Mrs. B. Marsh, Miss Shirley Woodcox and Mrs. M. Scott.

Mrs. W. D. McArthur represented Prince Edward County, and from Trenton were: Mr. Jim Tovey, Mr. Jim Campbell, Mrs. W. A. L. MacDonald, Mrs. G. McLay and Mrs. G. Greer.

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL. — The Christmas meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Don Irish with 18 members present.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, president, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Harold Detlor was convener of the Christmas program and the members enjoyed singing Christmas carols.

Miss Maureen Irish played two piano selections.

Mrs. Detlor presented a few thoughts on Christmas.

Mrs. Harry Coulter gave a full report of the area convention.

Mrs. Lindenfield closed the meeting with a Christmas prayer. The members enjoyed a penny sale, after which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bert Scazies, served refreshments.

Driver Dies In Wreckage Of His Car

BRANTFORD (CP) — A routine police chase that started in Paris, Ont., about 3 a.m Tuesday ended in the death of a Woodstock man a few minutes later.

The chase started when Constable Dave Porter of the provincial police at Brantford saw Clarke's car pass the intersection of Highways 2 and 5 at high speed.

The officer gave chase and said he reached a speed of 80 mile an hour. He was able to keep pace with the fleeing car but was unable to stop it.

Clarke was pinned in his car until Hydro crews arrived to turn off the power from high-tension wires which fell around the vehicle.

An autopsy has been ordered.

Department To Be Split Says Paper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Ontario attorney-general's department will be split into two separate departments.

The newspaper says the new section will be a solicitor-general's department, responsible mainly for the Ontario Securities Commission, registry of commercial enterprises and supervision of insurance, loan and trust companies.

These now are under the attorney-general's department.

It says the solicitor-general, probably of cabinet rank, also would take over from the attorney-general the supervision of credit unions.

The story says this division would free Attorney-General Arthur Wishart from a heavy routine work-load and allow him more time to concentrate on administration of justice, police matters and public safety.

The newspaper says that proposals to split the department have been advanced for years.

Mr. Wishart is quoted by the paper as having said in a Nov. 18 speech that careful consideration was being given a proposal that a solicitor-general be appointed.

Santo Domingo Snipers Active

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Sporadic shooting broke out in Santo Domingo Tuesday night and at least one person was killed in what appeared to be clashes between police patrols and armed snipers.

Gen. Herman Despradel Brache, chief of the national police, said that snipers, some armed with automatic rifles, were firing on army and police patrols. He denied reports of reports of a clash between the army and police in Santiago, where violence erupted Sunday.

Earlier Tuesday, a police lieutenant was shot and killed by a civilian. Monday, a mob of youths disarmed a policeman and shot and killed him. A Civilian also was reported killed Monday.

Revision of the Bank Act, normally undertaken every 10 years but twice postponed from 1956 because of a clogged parliamentary agenda and then the election, is expected to be started early in the new parliamentary session opening Jan. 18. But it may be mid-summer before it is completed.

A draft revision was introduced last year by former finance minister Gordon, retaining the present ceiling of six per cent on interest rates the chartered banks may charge and setting up strong deterrents against foreign take-over of Canadian banking concerns.

But the Gordon draft incorporated few of the important recommendations made earlier by a royal commission on banking and finance headed by Dana Porter, chief justice of Ontario.

Now there are reports here that the Bank Act revision may return the interest ceiling to seven per cent, where it was from 1871 to 1944. Because of high interest rates generally prevailing now, actual rates charged by the banks are pressing against the six-per-cent ceiling.

Most of the chartered banks advocate a higher ceiling. They say existing loans would not be affected, but a higher rate would enable them to pay higher interest to depositors and thus strengthen their competitive position with trust and loan companies.

PLUGS EXPORTS

Mr. Sharp has been regarded in the trade department as a minister who continued and extended the aggressive export program undertaken by his predecessor, Conservative George Nowlan.

In his earlier cabinet period, Mr. Winters demonstrated bold initiative in the works and resources department and his recent business experience would seem to indicate eagerness to carry on in the same vein in government.

If their treatment of foreign capital coming into Canada the past few years is the key economic roles are likely to shift away somewhat from the policies of Mr. Gordon, which were regarded as nationalistic and were not popular in Washington or American business circles.

Mr. Sharp sees danger in Canadian dependence on foreign capital. He said in his yearend economic review as trade minister just before being sworn in formally as finance minister:

"Increasingly, Canadians should aim to finance their development from their own savings, and bring their spending more closely into line with Canada's own productive capabilities. To this way, Canada's reliance on foreign borrowings can be kept within reasonable proportions."

IT'S NECESSARY

This was much like Mr. Gordon's views, but in the same statement Mr. Sharp noted that in this country's rapidly expanding economy "reliance on foreign resources is still necessary to take advantage of sound opportunities for expansion and development."

In recent speeches before the announcement of his appointment to the cabinet, Mr. Winters declared himself on the side of a higher ceiling on bank interest charges and in favor of a friendlier attitude towards American financial interests.

hargo Rhodesia cut off oil supplies to landlocked Zambia, its Negro-ruled northern neighbor. Britain has started an airlift and overland supply of oil to Zambia, and the United States has announced it will soon help in the airlift.

Late in the Commons session, government supporters cheered when Lyndon Hughes, minister of state for Commonwealth relations, said the U.S. government had instructed an American oil company to divert a tanker due to arrive in Beira, Mozambique, today with a cargo of crude oil for Rhodesia.

One of the British government's first moves after the petroleum embargo was announced Friday was to divert a Rhodesian-bound oil cargo from the same port.

RESPONSE GOOD

Hughes told the Commons the response of other governments is encouraging.

The Wilson-Heath clash led to stormy scenes in the packed chamber when the prime minister said he shared Heath's "utter repugnance" at any show of force against the Rhodesian rebellion.

Later Wilson did flatly say government has ruled out the use of military force to end Rhodesian's rebellion and he added:

"Military force against Rhodesia would not just be police action arresting a subversive individual.

"It would mean a bloody war and probably a bloody war extended into a bloody civil war." R. Grey, past president.

PC Women's Association Donates Dolls to Needy

Belleville Progressive Conservative Women's Association combined community and party business with pleasure last night.

Earlier, the association had raised funds to provide new dolls as Christmas presents, while each member donated an additional gift as entrance fee to the banquet.

The total gift package was later turned over to Fire Chief Ted Poste whose men will distribute the toys, along with similar donations, throughout the city.

Among head table guests were Clarke Rollins, M.L.A, East Hastings; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. West Hastings, and Mrs. Sandercock, and Lee Grills, Mp. South Hastings and Mrs. Grills.

Dorothy Howell was elected to a third term as association president. Other executive officers are: Mrs. James Fox, Mrs. Hugh McKay and Mrs. Cliff Rendell, vice-presidents; Mrs. N. M. Haggarty, secretary; Mrs. P. McWilliams, assistant secretary; Mrs. N. McBurney, treasurer; Mrs. L. Hyde, card secretary; Mrs. Jack Ireland, membership chairman and Mrs. R. Grey, past president.

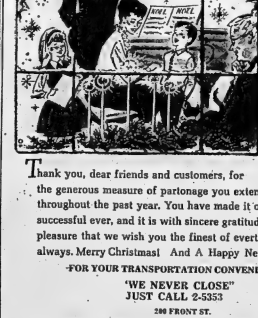
5,000,000 sweepstakes tickets with a face value of $17,462,000 were confiscated.

Also seized were the distribution lists and $100,000 in cash and cheques.

SUPPLY INFORMATION



The raiding officers were acting on information received some time earlier from Metropolitan Toronto police.

Insp. Pilking said the raids in Montreal and Western Canada were the result of an investigation which lasted almost four months.

Monday's raids at Montreal resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Frances Kelly and her son-in-law, Jeremiah Anthony Sullivan. Both were charged under the lotteries section of the Criminal "ode and were ordered to appear for trial Dec. 28. Bail was fixed at $10,000 each.

The first raids were carried out in Western Canada several weeks ago after the Toronto detectives raided a home and seized a master list of 15 major sweepstakes salesmen across Canada.

The sale of lottery tickets in all Canadian provinces is illegal and punishable by a maximum penalty of two years.

material available, he did the best he could."

"This retirement business is something that comes up repeatedly whenever there is a lack of matters to be discussed."

Mr. Diefenbaker had several matters on his mind.

He had "grave doubts" that Quebec was fully represented in the new cabinet. He was "amazed" at the resignations of Maurice Lamontagne and Rene Tremblay from the cabinet after the government had installed there had been the efmost propriety in the so-downpayment furniture transactions for which they were criticized.

WILL DISAPPEAR

The proposed Canada Development Corp.—a holding company in which Canadians could invest—would likely disappear with the resignation of Walter Gordon as finance minister, he said. The corporation had been "lying around for 2½ years."

Robert Winters, designated to take over the trade portfolio, was "the new power in the Liberal party," and his "influence is proportionate to his prestige." His support for elimination of sales tax on building materials and machinery would lead the government to abolish the tax.

He supported the government's decision to send four RCAF planes to assist in the oil airlift to Zambia and repeated his' call for a conference of Commonwealth prime ministers to discuss the Rhodesian situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker liked old age pension increases, amendment of the Bank Act and education among "priorities of the first order" when Parliament meets Jan. 18.

"We want the government to bring in certain matters of national importance. There is no other way an Opposition can press need of action like through amendments."

These amendments would constitute votes of confidence, he said, but such steps would depend on the speech from the throne.

If the government took steps considered necessary by the Opposition, "naturally that is a thing we will take into consideration."

PLAN CONFERENCE

OTTAWA (CP)—A three-day conference of approximately 100 foreign and Canadian farm, industry, labor and university leaders will open Jan. 10 in Banff, Alta., to study international trade and its implications for Canadian agriculture.

Unwed Mother Cannot Handle Problem Alone

DEAR DORIS: Three months ago I gave in to my feelings, one of the things I thought I would never do until I married. Later I found I was pregnant. I love my boy friend and we talked it over, but decided that marriage now would be strained, what with him having seven years of college ahead of him.

DORIS CLARK

I have not told Mom or Dad and this is what makes it even harder. Mom would never understand. She and I are always arguing. So I must depart for elsewhere.

I thought you might have some ideas for a girl in a place where I could work. Also about adoption of the baby. — DEPENDING ON YOU.

DEAR DEPENDING: I admire your independence, but you do need help. You cannot swing this alone.

A kindly worker who has helped other girls can help you. She will discuss all aspects: your need for practical help with medical care, a place to stay, the future of your baby and yourself.

It would be far, far better for you to take your mother with you to see her than to go alone. Sooner or later Mom will find out what has happened; and it will soften the blow if you tell her yourself. She cares about you, in spite of the arguments; and will come through in this serious emergency.

The child care agency where you are is: The Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings County, 63 Moira Street.

DEAR DORIS: Where can I get some information on a nourishing diet so I can round out a little? I'm 12 years old, and I'm so skinny that my legs look just pitiful. Everybody makes fun of them. — S.D.

DEAR S.D.: Look, luv, when the ugly duckling turned into a beautiful swan, all those high-hat ducks had to eat their words of scorn.

You'll round out when your body stops using everything you eat to put on height. Tell the fun-makers: "Just you wait, Duckie!"

Halt in Sale Of Coolers Recommended

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. M. B. Dymond, Ontario health minister, Tuesday recommended an immediate halt in the sale of Hong Kong-made novelties for cooling drinks.

Medical health officers in the province, who have the power to halt such sales, are expected to act on the recommendation.

The novelties are plastic cubes—sold also in the shape of cute elephants, golf balls, and other forms—containing water.

Frozen, the cubes are used for cooling drinks.

The coolers are a definite health hazard, Dr. Dymond said in a statement.

TEND TO LEAK

The coolers tend to leak with repeated use, he said.

"Persons now using these products should examine them carefully. If originating in Hong Kong or showing signs of leakage, discard them," he minister advised.

In Peterborough, the medical health officer, Dr. James Anderson, said federal legislation is needed to control the importation of items such as the contaminated plastic coolers getting into the country.

"I feel the regulations of the Food and Drug Act will have to be altered to include such items as the plastic balls," Dr. Anderson said. Now, the act only covers tests on food and drugs arriving in Canada.

Dr. Anderson said 139 plastic coolers were seized in Peterborough, inspected, and found to be contaminated.

Ho Chi Minh Asks: Why Would Anybody Want Hideous War to Continue?

Recently two British correspondents obtained visas to North Viet Nam and one of them, Felix Greene, interviewed Ho Chi Minh. Here is Greene's story of the interview which took place Nov. 24. It was Greene's first visit to North Viet Nam although he has been in China four times and has written two books favorable to that country. He is one of the few Western journalists allowed into China. Greene describes himself as an independent liberal not associated with any political movement. A cousin of novelist Graham Greene, he is 52 and works as a lecturer and writer. He was born in Britain but has spent much of the last 25 years in the United States.

By FELIX GREENE

Distributed by The AP

LONDON (AP) — "They say that we want this war to go on," said Ho Chi Minh. "How can they say that?

"You have been to the countryside. You have seen the defoliated land. The bombing is causing our people. Why would anyone want this hideous war to continue?"

"They give us no alternative but to go on . . . We will never give up our independence."

AND LONG TALK

Ho Chi Minh told me this and much else during a 2½-hour interview in Hanoi, the first interview he has given and he has given to a Western correspondent for a long time.

It was shortly before 8 a.m. when my wife and I arrived at the presidential palace, built many years ago by the French as a governor-general's residence.

Part of my interview was to be filmed, so I spent a few minutes arranging cameras and microphones in the large, palatial—ornate in the French 19th century style, with marble pillars and plush sofas.

I looked up to see Ho Chi Minh come in rather casually, as if he were merely wandering in to see what was going on. Dressed in a tan, button - up jacket and trousers — a little rumpled—and wearing sandals, he seemed altogether out of place in this glittering salon.

Sitting on a settee sipping coffee, I could study him closely. He is 75 and his form is slight. His thinning hair and his wispy white beard give him the look of a Chinese ivory carving.

He said:

"In essence, President Johnson's so-called offer of unconditional discussions means that the Vietnamese people must accept U.S. conditions. These are: U.S. imperialists will cling to South Viet Nam, carry on the policy of aggression and refuse to recognize the NFLSV (National Front for Liberation of South Viet Nam, the Viet Cong guerrillas' political arm) as the sole genuine representative of the people of South Viet Nam.

OUTLINES IDEAS

"The Vietnamese people expect that peace be built up their country, but genuine independence must be achieved if there is to be real peace. The question is very clear: U.S. imperialism . . . must stop its air attacks on North, put an end to its aggression in the South, withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam and let the Vietnamese people settle their own affairs.

"The truth is that President Johnson wants neither peace nor peace negotiations. As a matter of fact, at every moment when he talks a lot about peace discussions, the U.S. imperialists are expanding further the war of aggression in South Viet Nam."

He said the American president's offer of discussions was intended to make it appear that the Vietnamese—and not the United States—want a continuation of the war. But Ho Chi Minh said he did not think the people of the world believed this.

"Viet Nam is one," he repeated with emphasis. "The Vietnamese people are one, children of the same fatherland. To contend that the southern part was a "neighbor country" was absurd as to say that America's southern states constitute a country separate from the northern states, he said.

"The present struggle in South Viet Nam," Ho said, "is being waged by the people and liberation forces of South Viet Nam under the leadership of the National Front of Liberation.

"Our people in the North are bound to extend wholehearted support of the patriotic struggle waged by the people of the south against U.S. aggression, just as the South would help the North."

DISPELS RUMORS

In recent months there have been many rumors in the Western press about Ho Chi Minh—that he was ill or senile. I could detect no sign of senility. It is possible that he is delegating an increasing amount of work to younger prime ministers, Pham Van Dong, and others. But talking with Ho I gained the impression that he is still the unquestioned leader of his country.

In discussing his relations with China, Ho repeated U.S. statements that South Viet Nam would "fall under the influence of China." And that if the United States withdraws Viet Nam would lose independence of action.

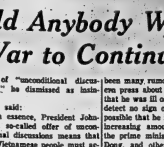
He also denied that North Viet Nam would be ready to come to the conference table if it were not for "pressure from China."

He said:

"The Vietnamese people sett the Chinese people . . . have fraternal relations as close as the relations between lips and teeth. China's sympathy, support and assistance to Viet Nam are most valuable and effective. China, like the Soviet Union and other socialist countries, fully agrees with the line of struggle of the DRV (North Viet Nam) government and of the NFLSV. . . . All U.S. attempts to divide Viet Nam and China and to divide the socialist countries are doomed to failure."

HAS FIRM VIEWS

I questioned him about various efforts by neutral, or so-called neutral, countries to find a way to end the war. On this Ho was precise and clear.



He said:

"We cannot consider any intervention by anyone unless they accept as absolute clear distinction between the aggressor—the United States—and the victim of aggression, ourselves. How could we do otherwise?

"Would the United States ever agree to hold 'discussions' with a country that was bombing its cities?"

INDICT FOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted four men on charges of wilfully destroying military draft cards Nov. 6 in a Union Square demonstration in protest against U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

Klansman Given Year in Jail

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A federal Judge Mooday sentenced Ku Klux Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins — one of three men accused last March in the slaying of civil rights volunteer Mrs. Viola Liuzzo—to one year in prison on charges of violating probation.

U.S. District Judge Clarence W. Allgood cited four counts of violation.

Monday's court action results from a firearms charge for which Wilkins was indicted by a federal grand jury in Birmingham Aug. 28, 1964. The indictment charged him with possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

We'd like you to see the new Barnes bottle. It's taller, more elegant. We've moulded an attractive grape design on the glass. We think you'll like it. You could even peel off the label and use it as a decanter.

But we retain the right to remain a little old-fashioned. We insist that all our wines be aged the traditional way—in tall oak casks. Thus you'll find that Barnes Wines, as always, are especially smooth and mellow. Look for these Barnes Wines in the elegant new bottle:

Canada's Arctic Airmen on Goodwill Mission

With the Christmas Stars to Guide Them

When the last full moon before Christmas throws its gentle white glow across the desolate expanse of Canada's arctic vistas, the few remote Canadians scattered thinly over the secret wastes turn their eyes south, huddle against the bitter chill as they eagerly listen for a visitor they know will surely come. For, with snow and ice eerily aglow in moon-reflected light from a sun not to be seen again for another three long, dark months, the scene is set once more for the Santa Claus air drop by the R.C.A.F. In what has become an arctic tradition over the years, members of 435 Squadron, Edmonton fly a 6,000-mile mission to carry Yuletide cheer and messages to isolated outposts of the high arctic. Guide by experienced arctic airmen skilled in the precise art of aero-navigation, the big, four-engined turbo-prop Hercules seeks out a score of tiny settlements hidden in the immense void of the arctic's winter darkness, circles down low, then climbs up and away leaving a string of large wicker baskets floating earthwards by parachute to the waiting hands below. Toys for the children, special foods for the holiday, a Christmas tree to brighten a small warm spot in a bleak landscape, presents and messages of good cheer from friends far away—all these go softly drifting down, little guide lights winking each basket's whereabouts to the running forms below. With the moon full and bright, Canada's airborne courier of gifts and goodwill, has again carried out its cheerful task through the long, never-ending darkness of the arctic night.

Boyhood of Jesus Is Reconstructed From Primitive Christian Writings

What was Jesus like as a boy? Did He play with toys, did He make practical jokes? Was He ever scolded by His elders? The Scriptures don't say. AP Religion Writer George Cornell reconstructs the boyhood of Jesus from non-canonical accounts in this, the third in a series of five articles on the hidden years of Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

A warm hearth . . . a big outdoors . . . the scampering . . . the tumbles . . . the duties to do . . . a school, the budding questions . . . a dependable father and a tender mother. These are the bulwarks of a boy, as they were to Jesus.

He always cherished the per- childhood. ". . . To such belongs the kingdom of . . . an ster described it.

His family, after being harried hither and yon for at least the first three years of His ", finally gravitated back to tribal territory, the rustic village of Nazareth in the northern uplands of Galilee.

This wasn't what Joseph had intended, considering the past tension he had faced there over his marriage.

On returning from exile in Egypt, he had planned to take his family back to Bethlehem, but when he learned that Archelaus, a rapacious son of Herod, was Rome's new ruler in southern Israel, "he was afraid to go there," as Scripture notes.

Turmoil raged in that region, with heathen occupation legions executing rebellious Jewish throngs en masse, including 3,000 at a riot in the Jerusalem temple. Resistance also smouldered in Galilee, but it was more remote from reprisals.

SMALL TOWN

This was particularly so of Nazareth, a bucolic little town of plowmen, shopkeepers, field hirelings and sheep raisers, situated on a curving mountainside overlooking the Plain of Esdraelon to the south.

There, as He related in primitive Christian writings not accepted in the church's later compilation of the Gospels, the boy Jesus roamed the hills and wooded draws, gathered firewood, drew water, squatted by a brook and moulded toys of wet clay, romped in the pastures.

"Come, my playfellows," He is quoted as He skipped among a herd of goats. "Let us play together."

He took falls, once from a thatched roof; He helped a man who sliced his foot with an axe, prankishly mixed colors in a dyer's vats, scuffled with other children and got hit in the stone buried by one of them. As accounts say; he knew the whirling precision of a slingshot himself.

Joseph at times reprimanded Him, once for talking back to a cranky woman who objected to His wading on the Sabbath.

"For thy sake," Jesus assertedly responded to Joseph, "it will hold my peace." The boy had spunk, but as Scripture observed, He remained obedient to his elders.

SPOKE ARAMAIC

His native tongue was Aramaic, a common Hebrew dialect, and as He grew older, He may have acquired some Greek and Latin from the foreign influx. Whenever orange - caped soldiers of "Edom" rode by, his schoolmates spat on the ground.

He was part of a big clan of relatives there in Nazareth. Scripture mentions sisters and four brothers, terms often meaning cousins. Non-canonical literature also lists four brothers as older children of Joseph by a previous marriage, most of them grown up.

It is said that the youngest of them, James, was brought up by Mary, along with Jesus, and the two boys worked together with Joseph, their muscles toughening as they wielded the axe, adze and chisel.

Other kinspeople also lived nearby, including the more prosperous Zebedees, who had a fishing fleet on the Lake of Galilee 15 miles away. Their two highstrung sons, James and John, eventually became apostles of their cousin, Jesus.

The house in Nazareth was lean in possessions, but abundant in devotion.

It was dug into the limestone mountainside, with niches in the walls for oil lamps and utensils, chests for clothing, a grilled fire pit, and floor mattresses of rushes.

SIGNAL REMINDER

Fixed to the doorpost was a mezuzah, symbol of divine guardianship over all Jewish homes. It contained a folded parchment bearing the great schema:

They ate kosher foods—mostly barley bread, cheese, spiced vegetables, fruit, fish and poultry, and on festival days, mutton. Like most women, Mary usually did the grain grinding and cooking in an outdoor courtyard.

In devout Jewish households, every meal and every action, no matter how ordinary, evoked praise to God and thanksgiving, beginning in the morning.

"Praised be thou, O Lord our God, ruler of the universe, who hast given the cock intelligence to distinguish night and day."

Faith permeated living. The rabbinical sages set about 100 benedictions to accompany every sort of pleasure, work and activity, as commonplace as tying on a belt. The earth and all its functions were considered sacred, natural and supernatural combined.

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof."

RECALLED BOYHOOD

Not a single sparrow falls, nor hair grows, without God's active concern, Jesus would later emphasize. And He gleaned His parables — teaching lessons — from His boyhood surroundings, sowers, sprouting seeds, shepherds and workmen.

His exemplar as a "father," the sturdy old Joseph, of calloused hands and dauntless heart, gave the boy a new, vivid term for expressing the intimacy of the divine relationship, "Our Father . . ."

As a woodworker and joiner, Joseph would have earned about a drachma (20 cents) or two a day. Jesus must have gone with him regularly to fell timber and drag it back to the shop to be shaped into yokes and plowshares.

"If Is just as necessary," the rabbis taught, "to teach one's son a manual trade as to feed him."

But the chief parental responsibility was to impart God's truths:

"You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise."

There also was the more formal study, and Jesus' probing questions. "And the child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom and the favor of God was upon Him," Scripture says. It also notes that there was a common saying about His scraggy hometown:

"Can anything good come out of Nazareth?" Not normally, evidently.

Tomorrow: The battling adolescent.)

TRIAL PERIOD — Young men of the Xhosa tribe spend most of their time hunting as they undergo a six-month initiation ceremony. The Transkei, where these Xhosa live, is the first of eight planned Bantustans, part of the separate development policies of the South African government. Critics say the native homelands will comprise less than 14 per cent of the country while eventually supposed to contain the bulk of the population. (CP Photo)

Transkei Is First Bantustan Of Eight Planned by Verwoerd

One aspect of South Africa's apartheid policy is the establishment of regions reserved for the Bantu. Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween reports on a visit to the Transkei, first such Bantustan.

- By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UMTATA, The Transkei (CP) — "Don't bring your native driver in here," said the man at the Grosvenor Hotel. "Send him over to the Savoy—they might have a place for him."

It seemed a staggering command in this capital of the Transkei, where in theory the black man comes into his own under the South African Nationalist government's scheme for separate "homelands."

Yet it wasn't really inconsistent. Apartheid prevails here as elsewhere in South Africa. Umtata, a town of 12,500, is still "white" although the time may come when Driver Sam will be welcome at the Grosvenor and his white passengers won't be.

Critics describe the Transkei experiment as a sham concocted by racist rulers, a blind to African nationalism and a sop to liberal-minded or idealistic whites.

Others see it as the first real effort being made in the world today to solve the problem of races of different color living side by side. Still others envisage that one day the Transkei might be used as a lever to overthrow South Africa's whole racial policy. No one—as far as could be learned in a South African visit — regarded the Transkei as anybody bad thing.

CURBS NATIONALISM

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's republic government has protected itself well against any runaway African nationalist trends in the Transkei. But opponents here and elsewhere made the point that when political ambitions are given scope, the final result is hard to predict.

About half the size of Scotland, which it resembles, the Transkei is the first of eight planned Bantustand and comprises a fertile if comparatively small slice of South Africa, which is five times the size of the United Kingdom.

The republic government was pushed by external pressures to launch the Transkei scheme but has reservations as to whether it will ever develop into an independent state." said Knowledge Guzana, 48-year-old lawyer and chairman of the Democratic party opposition in the Transkei legislative assembly.

"The Transkei constitutes a political platform for Africans, legalized and authorized by the republic government. Even those who are opposed to the government can use this platform to express the political views of the African."

This is significant in a country where black-political parties have been banned and their leaders muted by law.

Guzana, whose party advocates multiracialism, sees the chance that the Transkei, whose population is 1,700,000, by repudiating separate develop ment policies could set the pattern for change throughout South Africa, much to the discomfiture of Verwoerd.

Most South Africans regard this as an idle dream because the Transkei's present chief minister, Kaiser Matanzima, came to power on the votes of tribal chiefs, some of whom have judicial power in their lands. Such government - supported chiefs outnumber elected members in the assembly where he was voted into office.

Yet any political observer would speculate on whether Matanzima is a completely predictable person in South African politics. The Pretoria, Verwoerd's home ground, a political scientist remarked: "Matanzima is, after all, a politician. He will appeal for votes on the same basis as Verwoerd or any other politician appeals for votes. And many of his voters are in Johannesburg, not the Transkei."

This was a reference to the curious circumstance whereby Xhosa tribal members living by the thousands in the Johannesburg area have votes not in Johannesburg but in the Transkei, which many of them have never seen.

DEMAND RIGHTS

Matanzima, campaigning in Johannesburg, urged the Africans on one locally - explosive occasion to seek more rights in their living areas. The situation was sufficiently equivocal to cause one Johannesburg newspaper to write:

"Tall and slim, impeccably dressed" and mannered, the Transkei chief minister is a ruthless politician, a charming host—and the one man South African Nationalists depend on more than anybody else to prove the success of the Bantustan policy.

"Above all else though, he is an enigma. Nobody . . . can say exactly what Chief Kaiser Matanzima's motives are, what his ambitions are and whether or not he is taking the South African Nationalists for a glorious ride."

The Transkei, reached from East London across the Great Kei River which divides the Indian Ocean, is the homeland of the Xhosa-speaking people, who huddle in their blankets watching their cattle on a rainy afternoon. It is the biggest of the proposed Bantu homelands.

Critics say the amount of money being spent on these homelands belies the sincerity of the South African government's pledge to develop them into viable territories. A report in 1954 recommended expenditure of £104,000,000 in 10 years. Less than £3,500,000 was spent in nine years.

The constitution leaves within the power of the Pretoria government such items as defence, foreign affairs, customs, currency, broadcasting and telephones.

Some important territorial parts of the Transkei are retained by Pretoria. Guzana said the whole concept reflects the Pretoria government's plan to put the "natives" back under the sway of traditional chiefs, a concept that had been dying.

But the chiefs themselves are "restive," said Guzana. Some of them had asked for a mandate from his people to sit in the assembly. Others were under police protection from their own people.

"A change of government in the Transkei could be a start," said Guzana.

Perhaps the most damaging claim against Verwoerd's sincerity regarding the Bantustans is that they would at best comprise less than 14 per cent of South Africa's territory while eventually supposed to contain the great bulk of the population. There are nearly 12,000,000 Africans out of a total population of 17,500,000.

Government sources suggest there may be more in Verwoerd's mind than is politically expedient for him to divulge now. The share-out might eventually be 50-50—still cramping the blacks although the whole subject is complicated by factors of climate ranging from semi-desert to lush fertility. The Bantu areas, for instance, would be greatly enlarged by including British protectorates —Basutoland, Swaziland and Bechuanaland — now marching toward independence.

BUYS LAND

Some English - speaking sources, wary of Afrikaner nationalist tendencies, felt Verwoerd would be willing to give the blacks better territorial rights in their areas. The government was reported laying up "white" land as it became available in the area of East London, a city of 110,000.

East London, which has 50,000 white residents, "could become black or a white enclave in black territory," said one newspaper source.

The whole Bantustan policy abounds with questions. Verwoerd insists on keeping white capital out of the reserves, stating it should establish instead "border industries" so that the Africans cross the border to work each day. Even some of Verwoerd's supporters are chary of this one and his opponents see it as sheer fantasy.

The Transkei's Matanzima occasionally faces questions in speech-making forays and can be fairly blunt. Quizzed by students at the University of Rhodes, named after Africa's most famed white supremacist, the chief shot back some questions of his own.

"Are you satisfied that five-sixths of the people own one-sixth of the land?" he demanded. "Do you accept that? How do you think the problem must be solved?"

Wilson Hopes to Shift War to Conference Table In His Visit to Russia

- By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

British Prime Minister Wilson's announced visit to Moscow next February to discuss "vitally urgent" questions is likely to revive Western hopes that the co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference finally will devise some way of shifting the Viet Nam war from battlefield to conference table.

These hopes may be dampened if not dispelled during the two months before this "vitally urgent" business is discussed, a time lag which would indicate that at least one party — undoubtedly Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin—disputes the urgency.

Nevertheless, the fact that these two leaders will meet gives some hope for Kosygin previously had stated he would see no basis for the summit meeting while Britain continues to support United States policy in South Viet Nam.

SAYS WILL EXPAND

There is a hint of disquiet on the Communist side over the war's escalation. China has suggested the massive build-up of American troops and planes may be used to penetrate all of Indochina and even the Chinese mainland.

All Communist elements vigorously maintain they will not be deterred in their support of the "war of liberation" in South Viet Nam. The Soviet Union, constantly criticized by China as not doing enough, has signed an agreement to provide more assistance to North Viet Nam in 1966. The reports suggest that this time the Russians may provide new jet fighters to be flown by North Vietnamese pilots.

But there is no indication that the Soviet Union plans any direct intervention of its own; nor is there any such suggestion from China, although Peking keeps threatening to intervene. The voice of Peking seems mainly aimed at encouraging and even ordering Hanoi to keep on fighting.

CHINA'S AGING

China's dictatorial voice may, indeed, be a vital factor in the puzzling and conflicting reports about peace feelers from Hanoi. Ho Chi Minh, the father image Hanoi regime has remained, on both sides of the 17th parallel, has reached an age when time begins to run out.

HO IS AGING

Now 73, the frail, wispy leader has directed for two decades a struggle that seems to go on without end. He sees himself as leader not only of the North but of the South. Each day scores of his people die and the enemy still does not go away.

In public he echoes the views of Peking that American peace proposals were a hoax. But in private he may have his doubts. He has disavowed the report by two Italian professors who quoted him as saying he would go anywhere to achieve peace and that such talks could be held without the Americans complying with his oft - stated demand that they must first get out of South Viet Nam.

For a leader whose life begins to ebb, the thought of a happy peace cannot be suffocated forever. Unless, of course, he is a prisoner of a stronger force and fear for a power he cannot ignore.

Peking Convinced U.S. Attack On China Is Highly Probable

Felix Greene is a Briton who has made four trips to China, made films and written two books on the country. In the following story he presents the situation in China as he observed it on his latest trip.

By FELIX GREENE

LONDON (AP)—The government in Peking is convinced that a U.S. attack on China has become highly probable.

There is evidence the people are being prepared for a major confrontation.

"It is up to the United States' president and the Pentagon to decide whether the United States wants a big war with China."

If the United States is determined to launch a war, he said, "they are welcome to come sooner—to come as early as tomorrow."

Empty bombast?

I don't think so.

Behind this challenge is the belief that the United States—if it faces an impasse in Viet Nam and is unready to concede defeat—may attempt to find a solution by widening the area of conflict.

Wherever I went in China I saw young people drilling and taking target practice. The civilian militia has been extended so that almost everyone of 18 to 40, women as well as men, is in training.

MOUNT HUGE DEFENCE

As a result, China today can mount the greatest defence-in-depth the world has ever seen.

She could mobilize, I was told (and after what I saw I could believe it), a civilian defence army of 100,000,000 in a matter of hours.

Britain's Field Marshal Lord Montgomery was in China in 1960. After seeing the country's civilian militia he laid down a cardinal rule of war—never commit an army to fight on the mainland of China.

The civilian militia has been greatly extended since that time.

Yet with all this drilling the Chinese are not in what would be called a "militaristic" mood.

Part of the reason is that after years of difficulties, things are improving greatly in China.

There are no signs of food shortages. Rice and wheat still are rationed, but the rations are generous and not normally fully used.

While the general well-being of the Chinese people undoubtedly is advancing, no one in China is allowed to forget the "struggle against U.S. imperialism."

In the village communes, in the factory discussion groups, in school rooms, it is the major topic.

They applaud the Viet Cong stand in Viet Nam. As each U.S. plane is shot down in North Viet Nam, in thousands of schools throughout China signs are changed to show the latest total.

One evening I had dinner in Peking with an old Chinese friend—a distinguished historian educated at Cambridge university. He said, reflectively:

"It's a little ironic, isn't it, that it is the United States, of all countries, that is saying we are aggressive and expansive. China doesn't have a single soldier outside of China—not one. And how many does America have—a million and a half?"

Yule Decorations, Toys Can Poison Careless

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—'Tis the season to be jolly, but it's also the season to be wary of toxic holiday plants, decorations and toys, a Philadelphia physician said today.

Dr. Frederic Rieders, chief of the city toxicological and head of the Philadelphia poison information centre, said in an interview one of the most common offenders is the fluid in bubble Christmas tree lights. He said the fluid, a methyl chloride, "can cause unconsciousness and organ damage. Every year we get calls about children who have managed to open one of these lights and drink the fluid inside."

The berries and leaves of mistletoe and holly are toxic, Rieders said. "One hazard that is not often suspected is the poinsettia plant. There's at least one recorded case of a child dying after eating a poinsettia leaf."

"The smoke cartridge, or pellet, in some electric trains can be dangerous, too," said Rieders. "Most of them contain some kerosene and if a child gets some in his lung he can get pneumonia."

He also said that liquor can be a hazard to children. "Not only from the effects of intoxication, but if a child regurgitates it and then inhales some he can get pneumonia."

The best way to deal with these hazards, he said, is don't let the child get them in the first place. Should a child eat anything harmful, "call a physician at once."

One pound of chocolates consumed by a 25-pound child could be a toxic dose, Dr. E. M. Boyd, head of the pharmacology department of Queen's university says here.

Dr. Boyd, a recognized authority on toxic (poisonous) doses, said it is possible a small child would vomit before eating one pound of candies but nevertheless the danger exists.

Research into the toxic properties of sugar has been conducted for several years at Queen's, Dr. Boyd said during an interview. The toxicologist said anything that man consumes can be poisonous.

Rector Refuses To Swear on Bible in Court

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England declined Tuesday to back a minister who refused to swear on the Bible in court.

"Where the oath is accepted as the legal practice of the land, we accept it too," said a church spokesman.

"Some other Christian bodies have interpreted a passage in the New Testament to mean that swearing is forbidden. But the Church of England interprets the passage as meaning that promiscuous and unnecessary swearing will not be tolerated."

At Leamington Moodsy, Rev. Patrick Ashe, 30, vicar of St. Mary's Church, refused in court to take an oath on a Bible.

He was a prosecution witness in a case in which a man was found not guilty of a charge of fraudulently converting money belonging to his landlady.

CAN'T DO IT

When the Church of England minister was asked to take the oath he said "I can't do it."

Asked why, he said:

"My refusal is based on Jesus' words in Matthew V."

The passage in the New English Bible reads: "You are not to swear at all—not by heaven for it is God's throne, nor by earth, for it is His footstool."

The passage reads: "Plain 'yes' or 'no' is all you need to say. Anything beyond that comes from the devil."

After some discussion and references to the Bible and law books, the clerk allowed the vicar to "affirm."

SEARCH PAYS OFF

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Railroad trackman Ted McMahon, 58, found his first gold nugget of a lifetime of searching, during a lunch break at Nannine, Western Australia. The 30-ounce nugget, exposed by recent rains, is worth about $900.

Pearson Plans To Retire Says Hamilton

OTTAWA (CP)—Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, said Tuesday the appointment of Tom Kent to a deputy-ministership may be a tip-off that Prime Minister Pearson plans to retire.

Mr. Hamilton said many people are wondering why Mr. Pearson moved his policy adviser to a position where he is under the protection of the Civil Service Act.

In the government reorganization announced last week, Mr. Kent, 43, was named deputy to Jean Marchand, who will head up the new department of manpower.

Mr. Hamilton said another reason — and one he expects the government is give—might be that Mr. Kent is to help direct the war on poverty from within the manpower department.

He said there is no doubt Mr. Pearson dislikes the "in-fighting," going on within the Liberal party.

"These are all reasons for a man who doesn't like elections or politics to want to get out."

Slander Case Is Adjourned Until January

VANCOUVER (CP)—An eight man jury was excused Tuesday until Jan. 10 in the slander case against British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes called the adjournment in Supreme Court to hear arguments on a point of law and because of personal commitments later in the week.

The jury had heard 11½ days of evidence in the slander suit launched by George E. P. Jones former chairman of the B.C. purchasing commission.

Mr. Jones was forced last March by government legislation to retire from the job. He claims he was slandered by the premier on March 3, 1965, and has since been unable to obtain another job.

During Tuesday's hearing, lawyer Tom Berger, representing Mr. Jones, read portions of evidence he had taken from Mr. Bennett at a pre-trial examination.

In the examination, he asked:

"Do you read the papers, Mr. Bennett?"

"Not very often because I'm too busy," the premier replied. "I make the news, I don't read the news."

Firemen Oppose Robarts' Stand On Pensions

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Local opposition to Premier Robarts's plan to integrate municipal pension plans with the Canada Pension Plan became apparent here Tuesday.

Gordon Ball, President of Local 498, International Association of Firefighters (CLC), said there is "much concern" among local firemen about the government's "dictatorial" attitude.

"We want to negotiate our pension plan under our own agreement with the fire department," he said. He did not indicate whether firemen here were in favor of "stacking" one plan on top of the other or integrating.

Will Not Keep Yuletide Truce

SAIGON (Reuters) — The United States will not observe a Christmas truce in South Viet Nam as suggested by the Viet Cong, an American military spokesman indicated here today.

Operations will go on during Christmas Day as on any other day, he said in reply to questions at the daily military briefing.

"We get paid 365 days a year and it's our job to fight."

Caddie Ends on Junk Heap -- Slips Off Car Carrier, Collides With Tanker

A spanking new Cadillac had its last accident on its first trip on the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway east of Belleville early today.

The four - wheel status symbol, with one factory mile clocked on its speedometer, not only ended on the junk heap — but took a tank truck along with it.

The automobile was aboard a car - carrier heading east on the Freeway when it broke its moorings and slid in the road about five miles east of Belleville.

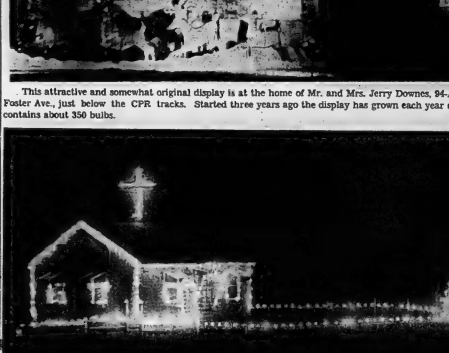
Police said the driver of the car carrier was unaware of the mishap. He was still intently ferrying the rest of his cargo along the Freeway when provincial police stopped him at Kingston.

Today the wrecked tanker was still in the ditch while company officials from Cookstville were pondering pumping its load to another truck.



FREAK ACCIDENT on Macdonald-Cartier Freeway sent this truck into ditch after automobile dropped off car carrier into its path east of Belleville.

Many Fine Christmas Lighting Displays Here

This attractive and somewhat original display is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Downes, 94-A South Foster Ave., just below the CPR tracks. Started three years ago the display has grown each year and now contains about 350 bulbs.

One of the more elaborate Christmas lighting displays in the city has to be this one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Foster, 80 Emily Street. Each year the Foster display has something added.

* * *

Flashing examples of outdoor advertising lighting are with us the year round, but this time of year sees an added touch as home owners across the nation go all out for decorative Christmas displays.

Belleville is no exception and the colorful displays of outdoor Christmas lighting are being encouraged by the local Public Utilities Commission which again this year is staging a contest for the best displays in East and West Belleville.

The outdoor Christmas lighting displays are everywhere, although possibly just a bit more numerous and colorful in the newer sections of the city.

But there are some really fine examples of originality in the older parts of the city as well and for the past week "doing the town," to view the lights has been a popular evening pastime.

Judges for the public utilities contest will have their work cut out in naming the best displays. There are over 70 miles of city streets with the number of displays possibly running into the thousands.

Two days' work by a man and helper went into decorating this 30-foot high evergreen on the G. A. Freeman lawn at at 230 Bridge Street East. Tree has more than 750 bulbs, topped by illuminated star.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

As the man said "there's nothing new under the sun" despite the claim of our man Mushmouth that a lot of old stuff is being pulled off under the moon on his Zwick's Island domain.

Many hockey moons ago when the McFarland Wolfpups were battling the Kingston Frontenis in a series "A" hockey league with Jack Lamontagne, his wickings, Michael J. Redden, one of the nation's greatest hockey men, told me he knew of one or more hockey players who could "screw" the puck something like a baseball pitcher puts a twist on the ball.

El Mignot said that the players by some deft manipulation of wrist and stick could put enough "English" on the rubber heel to cause it to curve on its way to the glove, pad or net.

Now the question comes up again—and it seems there was something in what my old fondlin' buddy said.

Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette reveals he once asked Jolly Jack Adams, then general manager of the Detroit Red Wings if he knew of any hockey players who could curve.

"There used to be a guy named Crutchy Merrison who could shoot a puck that curved down and out," Adams said. "He twisted the blade of his stick so he could make the puck curve. I think it was the way he bent his stick blade that they called him 'Crutchy'."

Then there was Babe Dye. Sometimes when he shot the puck it would sail, but I don't think his stick blade had anything to do with it. He had abnormally strong wrists and he shot bullets. I think that is why sometimes the puck took off."

Tommy Gorman when he was managing the Canadiens told Carroll he agreed with Adams. "Sure, I've known guys who could shoot curves. Cy Denneny of the Ottawa Senators was one of them. He used to put a pronounced crook in the blade of his stick. He used to fire the puck from left wing and it would curve down and out and catch the net low in the corner."

Apparently this curve business has been a topic of NHL dressing rooms for some time. Boston Bruins' Don Stewart told a newsman the other day that he thought Andy Bathgate started all that stuff when he was with the Rangers. Now a lot of guys are doing it—Hull, Mikita, Wharram and Gilbert—and a lot of others.

"They use very light thin sticks and put a crook on the blade by stepping on it or bending it under a door. I don't use one myself but I know they can make the puck sink because I've seen them do it," said Stewart.

Asked if they "shoot any differently to get the stuff on the puck," Stewart said he thought it was the blade of the stick that does everything. "I think they're able to put under the puck more and it causes up kind of flat and the air resistance makes it drop."

Back in the days when I was an undergraduate at a "little Spanish" red schoolhouse, plugging away for an entrance diploma and trying to make the varsity hockey team, we had an aged Indian friend who used to make sticks for us out of the wood of the stout hickory tree.

Those ancient knobkerries would make the famed Irish shillalagh look like a string of spaghetti. One love-tap on the skull from one of these lethal weapons and you missed a year at school.

I don't know whether "Chief" Zacharias, our official stick whittler, made those sticks to curve pucks on purpose or not, but the first time I used one I could detect a rewarding curve that would make a pro baseball pitcher. It must have been the curve. Each time I aimed for the space between two cider jugs that served as goal-posts, I missed it by ten feet either way.

Once, though, I did hit a post—and was promptly demoted to the freshman squad. How was I to know the dam thing were "loaded!"

However if modern hockey players improve their "curve" ability to any great extent, the day may not be far distant when a team will have spotters behind the opposing net to study the goalie's weaknesses, if any.

So when they spot a Hull, Mikita, Howe or any speedster on their house team rushing goalward they could signal for a curve, a drop, high-outside or low and close.

All right, gentlemen, I'll go quietly.

Blues Bank On Simmons In Chicago

★★★★★ Spark Still Alive?

By GARRY McCARTHY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Don Simmons' nocturnizing job with New York Rangers is secure as long as he continues to play as well as he did against Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

Emile Francis, coach and general manager of the fifth-place Rangers, is banking a lot on Simmons.

"We've got a win and a tie with him in our last three games. When I used Don in Chicago last time, he stopped breakaways by (Bobby) Hull, (Stan) Mikita and (Phil) Esposito and enabled us to come out with a tie," Francis said.

He was referring to New York's 3-3 tie with the Black Hawks Dec. 5.

"He was great against the Canadiens and as long as he keeps playing that way, I'm not going to pull him out," Francis said.

HE'S SPECTACULAR

Simmons took over for rookie Ed Giacomin Sunday night and made several spectacular saves against Montreal as the Rangers edged the Canadiens 3-2, ending an 11-game winless streak. Giacomin was bombed 8-4 by Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday.

Simmons, 34, a native of Port Colborne, Ont., gets another chance to stop Hull, Mikita, Esposito and the rest of the Black Hawks tonight when the Rangers and the Black Hawks clash in Chicago in the only scheduled National Hockey League game.

The five-foot-10-inch, 190-pound goaltender has played in 225 NHL games with Boston, Berdas and Toronto prior to this season.

Simmons has also played in 15 playoff games. He has been second upon 64 times, registered two shutouts and has a 2.67 goals-against average.

Francis is hoping the Rangers will accumulate at least five points in the next three games.

"I don't think that's too much to expect of this team," he said Tuesday night.

"I'm hoping that Bracas they had with the Canadiens Sunday night has put some fight in them, and that the spark will be there tomorrow night," Francis added.

The "Bracas" started early in the second period of the New York - Montreal game when Montreal defenceman Ted Harris and New York's Earl Ingarfield collided in front of the New York net.

Several Ranger players on the bench helped Ingarfield by leaning over to reach Harris. About six Montreal players skated across the ice to join in.

The scrabble interrupted the game for more than 10 minutes

Hornets Sting Oaks

Athletics Nip Regals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Regals failed to increase their first-place margin in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Tuesday night, but the tailenders, Woodstock Athletics and Galt Hornets, gained ground.

Woodstock used a pair of first-period goals for a 2-1 victory over the Regals, while the Hornets rapped in four goals in the second and third periods for a 7-4 win over Oakville Oaks.

Guelph retained its one-point lead over second-place Kingston Aces, who were idle, while the victories boosted Galt and Woodstock within a point of third-place Oakville. Only four points separate the first and last-place clubs in the five-team series.

Playing - coach Ted Power, back from a four-game suspension for a stick-swinging incident in Galt, scored the first Woodstock goal and Dino Legio added another in the first period. Pat Bester made it 3-0 before Walt Bradley scored Guelph's lone goal.

There wasn't a penalty in the game as Galt broke a 3-3 tie Joe Hogan scored twice for the Hornets while Lloyd McKay, Bert Brown, John Rendall, Gary Collins and Fern Belanger added the others. Jack Price, Bob Bishop, Doug Hillman and Bill Ford replied.

Biggest Christmas Card!

TORONTO (CP) — It's Toronto's biggest Christmas card, it costs $150 and it lasts for a month.

Sayers Voted Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Gale Sayers, Chicago Bears' exciting halfback, has been voted Rookie of the Year in a season that has been called the best of the rookie in the National Football League.

Sayers won by a landslide in the voting of a panel of 42 sports writers and sportscasters, three from each of the 14 league cities, in an Associated Press poll.

Sayers' six touchdowns against San Francisco, tying the mark set by Ernie Nevers in 1929, and his record-breaking total of 22 touchdowns in his first season made him a standout in a year of good rookies.

In addition to setting the touchdown record, Sayers led the league in scoring with 132 points and finished second to Jim Brown of Cleveland Browns in rushing with 867 yards and a 5.3-yard average.

CAHA Faces Legal Action Threat

Bans Hockey Tour

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Legal action against the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was threatened Tuesday night after the result of a vote of the executive was announced, barring an all-star team from Toronto's Canadian Italian Hockey League from making an exhibition tour of Italy.

Ald. Joseph Piccinnal of Toronto offered Prime Minister Pearson seeking his intervention in the squabble and said, "I am seriously considering taking legal steps for an injunction against the CAHA. I'm wondering if this is not an infringement of civil rights."

The team was scheduled to leave Monday for a five-game exhibition series to start Jan. 4 in Milan.

But Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., secretary-manager of the CAHA, announced Tuesday that the association executive and officials moved 13 to nine in a telegraph poll against sanctioning the tour. That means that even should the all-stars make the tour as scheduled, any team playing there would be liable to suspension by the International Ice Hockey Federation with whom the CAHA is affiliated.

RECEIVES OKAY

Two weeks ago the league asked sanction of the Ontario Hockey Association for the tour and received it. Last week they were told by the CAHA that to get approval of this national body, they must forward a written invitation from the Italian federation.

The invitation, backed by the approval of the Ontario department of economics and development and the Ontario trade commissioner in Milan, was received and forwarded to the CAHA, necessitating the telegraph poll.

Juckes explained that the decision of the CAHA was based on a rule of long standing that all international tour invitations must be approved at the association's annual meeting and that once received are filed on a first-come basis with all teams from all branches allowed to apply for the tour.

The telegram to the prime minister, signed by Piccinnal and league president Louis Janiszewski, urged his support because "we feel this refusal can be construed not only as a personal affront to the inviting nation but to the Italo-Canadian community of sportsmen in Canada."

HAVE SELLOUT

It was understood that a sellout had been guaranteed for the opener in Milan with television coverage set up and 164 sets of press credentials issued for the second game, scheduled for Cortina.

The games were to be used by the Ontario government as part of a bey Ontario week campaign in Milan.

"This is a terrible Christmas present for our players, its for the people in Italy. They had completed arrangements for the tour.

"If they are willing to play us we are still willing to go."

Played Like Robots

Soviets Blast Regina Caps 11-2

REGINA (CP) — Add the name of Bill Folk to the growing list of observers who think the touring Russian national team would be a success in the National Hockey League.

Folk, coach of Regina Caps of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, made his statement in the dressing room after his club took an 11-2 whipping from the Russians Tuesday night.

"I'm convinced the Russians would be a good fourth-place club in the NHL. They could beat New York Rangers and Boston Bruins. I'd bet money they could win as many as three games out of 10 against the other NHL clubs."

The robot-like performance of the tourists might have been inspired by the fact they took a 6-1 defeat in Victoria Monday in an exhibition game with the Canadian national team.

"Last night we only sniffed at the Canadians," Russian coach Anatoly Tarasov said in disgust.

The Russians opened a 5-0 his first-period lead Tuesday before 1,866 fans and padded the margin to 9-3 after 40 minutes. The tourists now have won six games in eight starts in Canada this year.

TOOK LOSS

Victor Polupanov paced Russ- six with three goals. Veterans Alexander Almetov, Anatoly Firsov and Veniamin Alexandrov notched two each. Single goals were recorded by Boris Mayorov and Anatoly Ionov.

Finns Win 7-5 Over Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — Forward Jorma Peltonen dumped a shot into an open net with a minute remaining Tuesday night as the Finnish national team preserved a 7-5 victory over Edmonton Nuggets of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

It was the second victory in three exhibition starts for Finland on its current tour of Canada. The Finns defeated an intermediate club in Quesnel, B.C., then took a 10-4 whipping from the Canadian national team before meeting Edmonton.

Peltonen and Lasse Oksanen each scored two goals for Finland. Jorma Vehmeren, Matti Reunamaki and Erkki Monanen shared the others.

Old Track Sells For $7 Million

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The New Jersey Racing Commission approved the sale of Freehold Raceway, oldest harness track in the United States, to the owners of Bowie Racetrack in Maryland for more than $7,000,000 Tuesday.

The track is to be sold to Fra Inc., a New Jersey firm which is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association of Prince Georges County, Md.

OWENS FOUND GUILTY

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse Owens, former U.S. Olympic track star, Tuesday was found guilty on a charge of failing to file income tax returns amounting to $20,134.

Junior Puck Strike Over

SASKATOON (CP)—A four-day strike by 16 members of Saskatoon Blades ended Tuesday and George Agar, manager-coach of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League club, placed four players on waivers.

The strike started after the Blades objected to what they termed a pay-reduction scheme that would cut wages in half if the club continued to lose.

Napanee Bows To Seaboards

PICTON — A third period rally fail two goals, short as Napanee bowed to the Picton Seaboards 9-7 in OHA Lakeshore Hockey League play here last night.

Picton jumped ahead 3-0 in the first frame and led 5-1 after two heats before the visitors held a 6-4 margin in the wide open third period.

James scored two goals and assisted on two others while Barry had two goals and one assist for the Seaboards. Jim Goernsey topped the point-getters with one goal and three helpers.

Leo St. Denis, Shrader and Reg. Weese each had a goal and assist with Sam Mulholland potting the other goal and Beatty assisting on a pair.

Brady was the big gun for Napanee, firing four goals including the final three, and setting up his mates for two others. Meers netted two goals, McNevin had a goal and two assists and Willy Menard helped out on a pair.

Picton collected seven penalties and Napanee had four.

The Rocket Speaks

"Hockey Better Than Ever"

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, former star with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, doesn't think the calibre of play in the NHL has diminished.

"I think they're playing as well as they did 10 years ago, maybe even better," Richard said Tuesday. "Boston has come back but that's nothing new. Hockey is better now than it ever was."

Richard retired after the 1959-60 season. In 978 scheduled games he scored 544 goals and 421 assists for 965 points. He added 82 goals and 44 assists for 126 points in 133 playoff games.

Richard felt that Jacques Plante, former goaltender with the Canadiens and New York Rangers, should not have refired at the end of last season. Plante was in goal last Wednesday night to help Montreal Junior Canadiens defeat the touring Russian national team 2-1.

"I think Plante could help at least a couple of teams in the NHL," Richard said. "From what I've seen, he's just as fast as he ever was."

Richard also had a word of praise for winger Eddie Shack, 13-goal scorer of Toronto Maple Leafs.

"Many people ask me about Shack," Richard said. "He's a good hockey player when he's not trying to be a clown. This year I think he's trying to improve himself. He's not going crazy on the ice and he's scoring goals."

WATERLOO (CP) — Sir George Williams University Georgians defeated McMaster University Marlins 8-3 to win an intercollegiate hockey tournament Tuesday night.

In a consolation final played earlier in the evening, University of Waterloo Warriors and Waterloo Lutheran Golden Hawks played to a 3-3 tie.

The Georgians, leaders of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Association and undefeated in eight games, outskated the lured Marlins in the third period, scoring four goals.

DETROIT (AP) — University of Toronto scored twice late in the second period Tuesday night and went on to win 6-2 over Colorado College in the first round of the Great Lakes invitational hockey tournament.

Favored Michigan Tech scored a 4-2 victory over Boston University in the other tournament game.

NFL Top Scorer; Set TD Record

Bears' Sayers Made Starry Pro Debut

SLOWING DOWN? — Donald Campbell, former British holder of the world land and water speed records, takes a leisurely spin on a modern bicycle at a recent meeting of the Pedal Club of London. His companion, ex-world middleweight boxing champion Terry Downes, seems to find the speed is still a little too fast. (CP Photo from British Information Services)

NEW YORK (AP) — Gale Sayers, Chicago Bears' rookie, set a record with 22 touchdowns and led the National Football League in scoring with 132 points in final statistics released Tuesday.

Jim Brown again won the rushing crown—his eighth in nine years—but the Cleveland Browns fullback rolled up 1,544 yards on 289 carries. It was his second rest year, ahead of his record 1,863 yards in 1963. Brown also was second in scoring with 21 touchdowns. Both he and Sayers surpassed Lenny Moore's old mark of 20 set during the 1964 season.

Sayers finished second to Brown in the rushing race, but was only six yards ahead of the veteran Timmy Brown of Philadelphia Eagles. The top 10 rushers included two other rookies, Ken Willard of San Francisco 49ers who was fourth, and Tucker Frederickson of New York Giants, who was eighth.

PARKS BEST RECEIVER

Dave Parks of San Francisco grabbed the pass-catching honors with 80 receptions for 1,344 yards and 12 touchdowns. Tommy McDonald of Los Angeles Rams edged Pete Retzlaff of Philadelphia for second place with 67 to 66 for Retzlaff.

Rudy Bukich, an unsung understudy to Bill Wade when Chicago Bears opened their season, wound up the top passer on the basis of completion percentage, touchdowns, average gain and percentage of interceptions. Bukich completed 176 of 312 for 2,641 yards and 20 TDs.

Sayers was second in both punt returns and kickoff returns. Larry Kelly of Cleveland led the punt returners with a 15.6-yard average to Sayers' 14.8. Tom Watkins of Detroit had the best kickoff return average, 34.4 yards, but Sayers was close with 31.4.

Colts, Packers Place Four

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay Packers and Baltimore Colts each placed four men on the all-National Football League team selected for The Associated Press by a 42-man committee of sports writers and sportscasters, three from each of the 14 league cities.

Dave Parks of San Francisco 49ers, league - leading pass catcher, was named split end. In addition to Unitas and Orr, Baltimore also placed Jim Parker at guard on the offensive team and cornerback Bob Boyd on defence.

The Packers had only Forrest Gregg at guard on offense, but landed Willie Davis at end, Herb Adderley at cornerback and Willie Wood at safety on the defensive unit.

Pete Retzlaff, Philadelphia Eagles' veteran, won the tight end job. Cleveland had Dick Schafrath at offensive tackle in addition to Brown, and the Bears placed corner linebacker Joe Fortunato on the first team along with Sayers and Butkus.

Hawks Whip Nationals

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — St. Catharines Black Hawks built up a four-point margin in the first half of the game and coasted to a 6-4 victory over London Nationals in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Hawks seven points ahead of London, cellar dwellers of the league.

Doug Sheldon scored twice for the Hawks. Other Hawks' scorers were Steve Latinovich, Stu Roberts, Richie Bayes and Jim Stanfield.

Stan Allan scored twice for London while Claude Goulet and Walt McKechnie added the others. Three of London's four goals came with the Hawks shorthanded in the second period.

London outshot the winners 34-26.

Minor Hockey

Following are the results of the B.M.H.A.'s novice and midget games played last night.

NOVICE

Rangers and Wings played a 2-2 stalemate. Brad Clairmont and Rick Culkin potted the Wing goals and Bruce MacDonald got one assist. Thomas Bateman and Larry Steely netted the Ranger goals with Greg Scott helping on one.

Hawks tripped the Generals 3-1 with single goals by Terry Ray, Ian Hayman and Steven Tracy. Terry Scanlon got the losers' goal, assisted by Kevin Robinson.

Mike Watt sparked the Teepees to a 5-2 triumph over the Bruins. Watt scored his club's first four goals and Steve Murdock added the fifth. Tim Manley was the Bruins' marksman.

MIDGET

Leafs won a 5-3 decision over the Wings. Bill Janitsch led the winners with one goal and a pair of assists. Stephen Lee, Bill Salter, Tom Boulter and John Scott added the other goals and Rick Hunter got an assist. Ted Waite scored twice and Bill Roya once for the Wings. Ralph Skanuik, Brian James and Alan Jones got helpers.

Canadiens defeated Elk's Black Hawks 6-3 in a penalty-riddled bout. The Hawks received eight penalties, including misconducts to Wayne Muir and Lorne Blatchford. Muir was also given a major sentence for intent to injure. Canadiens drew six minor sentences.

D. MacCormack paced the Habs with two goals and an assist while L. Dempsey had one of each. Allan Ray, Ken Manek and Grant Hopkins also scored while G. Wager helped on one. Jim Wood, Richard Farrell and Mike Rivers scored for the Hawks. Wood, Dominic, Lentini and Kevin Allen, with two, had assists.

DAMAGE SCHOOL

GUELPH (CP) — About 300 students arriving at St. Bernadette's separate school Tuesday were seat home to enable officials to clean up classrooms in which vandals had thrown 20-pound books and dashed ink on floors and walls.

Many Alberta Mink Ranchers Fail But Survivors Grow $4 Million 'Crop'

EDMONTON (CP) — Failure rate among mink breeders in Alberta has been high, but the survivors' produce about 94,000-000 worth of pelts a year in a booming business where fashion and demand control prices.

Some 50,000 pelts worth close to $1,500,000 were auctioned here Dec. 11 in one of the largest recent sales which drew buyers from England, West Germany, Italy, Canada and the United States.

"The industry is providing us with new furs", says William Levine, manager of Edmonton Fur Auction Sales Ltd. "In former years we depended on wild furs, but trapping is gradually diminishing".

Breeding ranch mink "really didn't come into its own until the early 1950's" says Mr. Levine, a fur broker for more than 30 years.

"We had as many as 1,000 or 1,200 breeders in Alberta at the start of the business . . . Now, Alberta probably has about 200 breeders or slightly more".

They produce about 200,000 pelts a year, worth an average $18 to $20 each, with prime specimens bringing the breeder up to $50.

DEMAND CHANGES

Prices and production vary as fashions demands change for each of the 40-odd color varieties, Mr. Levine says. This year the call was for blue, pearl, beige and light-colored furs.

The professional buyers form a close, publicity-shy fraternity, Mr. Levine says. Their "circuit" includes two auction houses at Montreal, two at Winnipeg, one each at Edmonton and Vancouver.

West German and Italian agents set the pace at the auction here bid, Mr. Levine says. It's an international business.

"Our largest delegation was from New York; we had 15 or 20 here".

Six or seven sales are held here each year. "Usually at the first two ranch mink is predominant. At the others there is more wild fur, from the Canada-U.S. border to the Arctic".

Mr. Levine estimates the turnover in Alberta and Saskatchewan alone at "millions of dollars . . . some years we'll handle 500,000 squirrel pelts, in others 250,000 muskrat".

PRODUCTION HIGH

Canadian mink production is about 1,500,000 pelts a year and world production about 20,000,000 with Scandinavian and United States producers leading the field.

It takes 40 to 70 mink pelts to make a three-quarter-length coat but "processing is a costly business. It's an additional $11, or $12 for each pelt . . . for dressing and shaping."

"Actually, the trade as a whole doesn't use as many pelts in coats as you think. A lot is used for smaller pieces. . . . Capes and hats and for trimming on coats and sweaters".

ALS STILL LOOKING

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Workman, president and co-owner of Montreal Alouettes, said Tuesday three persons are still in the running to coach the Eastern Football Conference club. The coaching position has been vacant since the firing of veteran coach Jim Trimble.

TOURNAMENTS SET

QUEBEC (CP) — Seventy-eight hockey teams, including one from Mexico and another from the Northwest Territories, will participate in the annual international peewee hockey tournament here Feb. 11-18.

VIENNA BOWS OUT

VIENNA (AP) — Vienna's hopes of staging the 1972 Summer Olympic Games were shattered Tuesday when the Austrian government failed to agree on whether to give the city financial support. Montreal intends to apply for the 1972 Summer Games.

CAHA Officials Plan National Clinic

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will stage a national hockey clinic Aug. 12-21 in Montreal under a newly-devised format for training amateur coaches and minor league officials.

The clinic will be under the direction of Jack Kennedy of Manitoba University, Hamilton, former hockey coach at Montreal's Loyola College and the University of Toronto.

Also part of the new setup, outlined at a two-day CAHA meeting here, is the creation of a travelling hockey instruction clinic to visit main centres throughout Canada. It will begin its work in the 1966-67 hockey season.

Invitations to attend the Montreal clinic will be limited to 100 persons. Each of five regions in Canada will be given a quota on the number of candidates they can send to the national clinic. Ontario will have 20 candidates.

The new setup replaces the Hockey Institute plan, inaugurated three years ago. The institute provided instruction at eight-day summer clinics in five regional centres across Canada.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Miss Linda Lott who is attending Queen's University, Kingston, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mayor Gerald Lott and Mrs. Lott of First Street.

Dr. D. C. McVicker, with Mrs. McVicker and daughters, Miss Dawn at home, and Mrs. Brookville and her husband of Toronto, will leave Thursday for Nassau on holiday until early in the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burley of Green Street are planning to spend Christmas with their son Ernest, and his family, in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Estey, with Marilyn, Brian and Barbara of Oakville will arrive Thursday to spend Christmas and the weekend with Mrs. Estey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Aylsworth, and her brother Ralph and Mrs. Aylsworth of the Deseronto Road.

Miss Margaret Kendell, who is taking a course in nursing science at Queen's University, will be able to leave her duties in time to have an evening dinner on Christmas Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kendell of the Deseronto Road.

Automatic Dog-feeder Parisian Gift Suggestion

PARIS (Reuters) — Christmas gift suggestions in Paris this year feature every imaginable gadget, ranging from a "hairbrush" for bald - headed men to an automatic dog-feeder.

One leading Paris department store has put on a special Christmas display that includes 300 different gadgets, useful, useless, humorous and decorative. These are gadgets for men, women, children, dogs, the whole household, in fact.

Gifts for men tend to be whimsical and generally impractical. There are numerous "alcoholic" themes, such as a real-looking fountain pen that contains one shot of whisky, whisky-scented tooth picks, and bath salts packed in copies of champagne or liqueur bottles.

Money is another prevalent theme for men. An inexpensive joke for the "man who has everything" is the roll of bathroom paper printed with dollar bills.

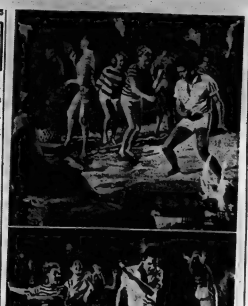
POLISHES THE HEAD

A bald - headed man's hair brush, costing seven francs, is made of soft wool cashmere fabric, which replaces the conventional bristles and is guaranteed to polish the bald pate to an impeccable lustre.

If a man "smokes like a chimney," another practical gift suggested is an ash tray 32 inches high and shaped like a chimney pot. A special mechanism inside the "chimney" absorbs all the odor of the tobacco.

New items for women are pastel velvet slip covers for the steering wheel of the car, fur-filled bores containing a miniature toothbrush and tube of paste, and perfumed shelf paper for the wardrobe.

French manufacturers have come up with several new ideas about the telephone. A pale blue velvet telephone, modelled on one of the earliest turn-of-the century instruments, reflects the current vogue for authentic, old - fashioned telephones.



An extremely utilitarian pencil is shaped like an antique telephone. A small music box, when attached to a telephone, plays a medley of popular tunes to entertain the listener when one party is forced to put down the receiver for a few minutes.

Even the family pet comes in for its share. An automatic dog feeder works like an alarm clock, and can be set to spring open at the desired hour. If the buyer needs a dog to match the gadget, one department store is willing to supply one free of charge from its pound for home-less animals.

Suzanne Pleshette Social Director of New Club

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Who wouldn't want to join a club that had Suzanne Pleshette as social director?

A couple hundred Hollywood types are plunking down $150 to become charter members of The Other Place, the latest landmark on the film colony's shifting social scene. It is a private discotheque in Beverly Hills, where the younger crowd can Frug and Watusi among friends.

—Miss Pleshette, a vivacious brunette, was among the first enrollees in The Other Place. She told one of the proprietors, Chuck Livingston:

"You know, as soon as you get The Other Place organized, you ought to appoint a committee to round out the members' wishes and plan special events. For instance, they might want to hire a boy to go do the 'bad' ball games, or have a costume party at Halloween, or dress up in oriental costumes for Chinese new year's."

The owner replied: "That's a splendid idea; you're elected!"

DREAMS UP IDEAS

Serving without pay, Suzanne has scouted a number of social schemes: Political meetings during election periods; fashion shows for women; fashion shows for men.

"Men are so vain, but they won't admit it," she said. "I think they'd love fashion shows for themselves. Or maybe on a Sunday we could get Jay Sebring to come in and style hair for 10 of the male members. The wives would enjoy that. They'd rather have their husbands get attractive hair styles than to have them grow grey and bald, grumbling about it all the while."

Suzanne exemplifies the new generation of Hollywood society. It's a swinging new group that enjoys living as frantically as the tribal dances they perform nightly.

In this entirely new on the Hollywood scene? Of course not. A short generation ago, Lana Turner, Rita Hayworth and their playmates were jitterbugging at Ciro's and Mocambo and doing the spotlight turn for insaturing figures of the movie milieu.

Beer Parlor Collects Food For Poor

PHELPSTON, Ont. (CP) — More than 50 families of Elos Township will benefit Christmas Day from the Beer Parlor's novel way of collecting food.

Mr. Rutledge, operator of the beverage room in the only hotel in this community, is repeating a project started two years ago when he tacked a sign on the wall reading: "If you don't put here—you get no beer."

Before ordering a brew they often slip across the road to the country store and buy cans of beans, jars of pickles and that sort of thing to add to the pile. Firms in Barrie, 17 miles south, also send food.

More than a ton of food was collected last year and Don McDonald, township welfare counsellor, supervised distribution. The Catholic Women's League of St. Patrick's Parish assembled the 52 food boxes.

Mr. Rutledge said he got the idea when he realized a hungry person would "rather have a can of beans than a 15-cent Christmas card."

Nutcracker Provides Bright Spot in Christmas Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The classic Nutcracker, with Tchaikovsky's music and fine fancing by the stars of the New York City Ballet, provided the brightest spot in Tuesday night's television.

Eddie Albert presided over the CBS hour program, spinning the fairy tale upon which the ballet is based. It was a scene of pure magic as the wooden Nutcracker, a prince under a wicked spell, and Clara, the child heroine, left to visit the Sugar Plum Fairy who could set the prince free.

Their journey took them into enchanted areas where toy soldiers marched and flowers and birds danced. The climax came with fine solos and a pas de deux by Melissa Hayden, a lovely fairy, and Edward Villella, a handsome prince.

CBS' Town Meeting of the World—via Early Bird satellite —was a rather bitter exchange between teams of two Harvard students and Prof. Henry Kissinger in New York and two Oxford students and Labor MP Michael Foot in London. The subject was the U.S. position in Viet Nam and spokesmen for both sides—in New York was pro and London was con — often spoke with considerable fire.

Recommended tonight: Miss Goodall and the Wild Chimpanzees, 7.30 - 8.30 p.m. EST, CBS. Orson Welles narrates this film of the great apes in Tanzania, subject of a five-year study by Jane Goodall, a British scientist.

Michelangelo, the Last Giant, 9 p.m. NBC, the first of a two-part study by Leo Hazam. Hazam became interested in the 15th-century painter, sculptor, architect and poet when he found 500 of his letters in England and had them translated. The documentary was shot in Italy.

Versatile, veteran actor Jeff York adds many touches as a punchy ne'er-do-well farmer with a reluctance to work, but never a child around to do it for him.

"Old Yeller" is prime heartwarming family film entertainment. It has a warmth and human quality embodied in the theme of the whole frontier family of the 1860's and the constant danger by a loyal dog.

"Old Yeller" is color by Technicolor, is showing Today thru Saturday, matinee daily at 2.00 p.m. Evening showing at 7.00 and 9.10. Co-star with McGuire and Parker, with Tommy Kirk, Chuck Connors and Beverly Washburn.

On the same program is Walt Disney's "Pluah, the teenage Otter," a companion film to Nemetas Featurette in Technicolor.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stiles and Marian of Kingston spent a few days recently with Mr. Harold Stiles.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt underwent surgery at Belleville General Hospital last Thursday.

Mr. Bob Doodoe of Stirling and Miss Sharon Burkitt, were among those who attended the Lombank office banquet on Saturday evening at the Sky View hotel in Hershey.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heath recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner at Minto.

St. Mark's Anglican Sunday School held its annual Christmas tree concert on Saturday evening when the hall was well filled. Following the concert, a social time was spent. The ladies served cookies, doughnuts and coffee.

Several attended the Firemen's social evening at the fire hall on Monday evening. Each fireman brought an extra couple.

NAPANEE — Mrs. Ila McGuire, who has been the volunteer manager of the White Elephant Store since early spring, reported to the Rotary Club at their Tuesday luncheon that the proceeds of the store for the year would be the club over $6,100 for their hospital fund. The store closed last Thursday, to be reopened in April. All the material left over had been sent to the crews of various township for distribution to the needy, Mrs. Mcguire said.

Mrs. McGuire stated that the summer had brought a great deal of happiness to a great many people, and that she herself had probably gained most. She was always happy when she opened the store each morning, and was happier yet when she closed it at night. During the day she had been able to give happiness to all the people who had been able to purchase useful things which they could not have afforded to buy from the stores. People with small incomes had found the White Elephant Store a blessing, she said.

The many people who had donated the goods were pleased, not only because they had found a way of disposing of things for which they no longer had any use, but also because of the knowledge that their donations were being of use to the community and that the hospital would benefit, she added.

The speaker praised the Rotary Club members for their assistance and for their appreciation, singling out Harry Fowler, Harry Vine, Dr. Brant Bergeron, Chief of Police Harry Benn, and Wilfred Stalker as special mention.

Mrs. McGuire herself deserves most of the credit for the success of the venture, Na-panee officials agree. She has a pleasing personality and great talent as a saleswoman. "I can sell anything," she says. And she has proved her ability by selling everything from a marine engine to an almost-new evening dress.

Firemen Extinguish Two Blazes

NAPANEE — After a long period of inactivity, Napanee Volunteer Firemen were called out twice within a matter of hours on Tuesday.

The first call came at 8.48 a.m. when firemen used chemicals to extinguish a fire in a school bus owned by the Wagar Coach Line. Fire in the motor was due to a short circuit in the wiring. There were no injuries, and the pupils were transferred to another bus. There is no estimate of the damage as yet, Fire Chief Clifton reports. Firemen had returned to the hall by 9.10 a.m.

A second call at 12.18 p.m., was more serious, when fire started where the stovepipe went through the kitchen ceiling in the home of Alonzo Harris at 333 Camden Road. Fire spread to the two upper rooms and the outside walls, but the occupants, Mr. Thompson and his son Vernon, plan to remain in two rooms downstairs where the fire caused little damage. The hydro inspector ordered the hydro disconnected until the wiring had been repaired and rewired. Fire Chief Patton estimates the damage at $1,500. Firemen returned to the hall at 1.00 p.m.

Napanee Personals

NAPANEE — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perry of Moreva are in Edmonton visiting their daughter, Mrs. Knud Jensen and her husband and family until late in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Woolsey, with Brian, Kathy and Janet Jane will be members of a gathering of the Woolsey family in London on Christmas Day, to be held at the home of Mr. Woolsey's brother Douglas and Mrs. Woolsey. There will be at least 17 family members sitting down to Christmas dinner.

Mrs. J. R. Sheppard of Water Street has been under observation in the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston since last Friday.

Little Business Conducted at Council Meet

DESERONTO — The final meeting of the Deseronto council for 1965 held Monday evening ended with a feeling of accomplishment for the year's work, handshakes all around, and all the members wishing each other the compliments of the season. Mayor Lott expressed his gratitude to all the councillors for doing their best and his regrets that Councillors Cain and Howard would not be sitting on the council next year, and his hope that they would be members at some future time.

All the members were present except Councillor Wellder, who was working.

Little business was transacted. Only one item of correspondence was read. The township of Kingston asked for concurrence in its approaching with minister of Municipal Affairs to hold a meeting in this area to discuss the matter of regional government. Council did give its concurrence. All general accounts were passed. Council voted $35 to the Firemen's Association towards prizes to be awarded home owners for Christmas decorations.

NAMED BY GOVERNMENT

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald R. Yeomans, 40, of Toronto, an engineer and accountant, has been appointed an assistant secretary to the treasury board with special duties to introduce more modern management techniques in the civil service.

Demorestville

Hartley and Donald Longwell were overnight guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington.

Mrs. Glendon Walker and Brent of Milford, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gorsline recently.

The "Triad," held a Christmas party when firemen used chemicals to extinguish a fire in a school bus owned by the Wagar Coach Line. Fire in the motor was due to a short circuit in the wiring. There were no injuries, and the pupils were transferred to another bus. There is no estimate of the damage as yet, Fire Chief Patton reports. Firemen had returned to the hall by 9.10 a.m.

A second call at 12.18 p.m., was more serious, when fire started where the stovepipe went through the kitchen ceiling in the home of Alonzo Harris at 333 Camden Road. The hydro inspector ordered the hydro disconnected until the wiring had been repaired and rewired. Fire Chief Patton estimates the damage at $1,500. Firemen returned to the hall at 1.00 p.m.

PC Member Not Invited To Meet Chief

MONTREAL (CP)—Georges Valade, the only Progressive Conservative candidate to win a Montreal seat at the last general election, Tuesday night criticized Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker in the wake of Mr. Diefenbaker's stopover here.

"Mr. Diefenbaker should listen a little less to some of his friends who have never been elected and never will be elected," said Mr. Valade, who has not sought a group of Conservatives at the airport to meet the party leader on his return Tuesday from a Caribbean vacation.

Mr. Valade said Mr. Diefenbaker should listen more to the eight Conservatives actu a l ly elected from Quebec.

Himself elected as member for Montreal Ste. Marie Nov. 8, Mr. Valade said there are "serious flaws" in the party structure in Quebec.

He and the other Conservative MPs from Quebec want a structure "more democratically and systematically organized," he added.

He said he was not invited to meet Mr. Diefenbaker, who passed through here en route to Ottawa.

The Montreal member — the only Conservative out of 21 MPs from Montreal Island—said the party needs an invitation in an example of the flaws in the Quebec Conservative organization.

CN Union Heads Reverse Stand On Pension Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—The general chairmen of CNR unions have reversed an earlier decision and are asking the railway to integrate its present pension plan with the Canada Pension Plan, it was learned today.

Several months ago the union group withdrew and, got, CNR agreement to stack the government pension plan on top of the railway's own plan.

At a meeting in Montreal Wednesday the union chairmen voted 26 to 19 against the stacking principle. Fifteen unions were represented at the meeting, each with three votes on the question.

The CNR originally suggested that all employees accept an integrated pension under which their contributions would remain the same but benefits would increase. When the unions asked for stacking, the CNR said the integrated plan would be adopted for all nonunion staff.

The integrated formula in effect would provide for each year of service and will benefit long-service employees nearing retirement. Unions are sure to accept the integrated formula and reject a stacked plan came mainly from non-operating unions.

The unions now are awaiting a reply from the railway to their new decision.

Senate Fever Is High

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—With the new Parliament opening in less than a month, Senate fever is running high in political circles.

Vacant seats in the red chamber are comparatively numerous—12—and most of them have been gathering dust for months. All but two provinces have openings.

Twice in the last week, Prime Minister Pearson told reporters casually that he is "looking into" Senate appointments.

Several factors point toward early appointments:

—A tradition has grown up whereby the prime minister of the day distributes Senate appointments soon after an election to prominent party workers and fund-raisers, defeated stalwarts and retiring cabinet colleagues.

P.M. UNDER PRESSURE

—With the Senate and Commons convening Jan. 18, Mr. Pearson likely is under pressure to bring the upper chamber closer to full strength.

—British Columbia and Alberta are gravely under represented in the Senate. With six seats apiece, Alberta has three vacancies and B.C. two. Quebec has two vacancies out of 24 seats. Ontario, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island each has one vacant seat. Nova Scotia and Manitoba delegations are at full strength, 10 and six seats, respectively.

There has been speculation the two cabinet ministers who were unseated Nov. 8, former agriculture minister Harry Hays, 56, and former mines minister J. Watson MacNaught, 61, might be named to the Senate. Mr. Hays is from Alberta and Mr. MacNaught P.E.I.

However, Mr. Pearson said Monday Mr. Hays would like to seek a Commons seat in a by-election if a vacancy should develop in the next few months. Such a vacancy could be

Today's Chuckle

The great trouble is that the way to success doesn't always fit your ignition.

BEAMING Jim Christos (centre) is surrounded by family this morning in home he has provided for them on Belleville's John Street.

Illness Dampens Reunion

For a fretful interlude it looked as if fate had defused the brightest Christmas ever for Jim Christos.

Yesterday was the big day and the reunion at Toronto International Airport was to make up for 36 years' separation.

Jim arrived early to greet them — then spent nearly two hours around the big air terminal worrying over their non-appearance.

Unknown to him they also were in the same frame of mind.

WHAT IS ILL

Mrs. Christos did not arrive as planned with the family. Apparently blood pressure conditions had ruled out air flight for her.

A report from Toronto said Mrs. Christos was not allowed to leave Yugoslavia because her passport was not in order.

Today, at the home he has made for them on John Street in Belleville, Jim recalled the long wait — and the irony of a long separation that ensued it.

"When I last saw my daughter she was just a six-month baby in my arms. I went up and

American Payroll Taxes Get $5 Billion Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $5,100,000,000 boost in payroll taxes Jan. 1 to pay for medicare and increased social security benefits will make it a not-so-happy new year for millions of Americans.

But Johnson administration officials indicated today that this big bite out of consumer incomes — which only a few weeks ago was feared as a potential drag on the United States economy — now is welcomed as a damper on inflationary pressures.

Its anti-inflationary effect will be diminished, however, by a new batch of excise tax reductions on the same day.

In the second stage of last June's excise tax repeal law, industry and consumers will be relieved of $1,700,000,000 worth of levies on autos, auto parts, admissions, night club and other excise levies.

The net result of the two major tax changes is that the public's payment to the U.S. government will rise by $3,400,000,000 a year. That would be anti-inflationary — except that government spending and federal deficits are rising even higher.

The White House has disclosed that federal spending this fiscal year will be $105,000,000,000 instead of the $99,700,000,000 originally planned. The fiscal 1967 budget for the year starting next July 1 may go even higher.

Stepped-up spending suggests more jobs, better wages and higher profits — if the boom doesn't careen right off the rails into a recession.

But those first paycheques after New Year's Day are going to make many wage and salary earners unhappy.

For those earning $6,600 a year, the social security deduction will be about 60 per cent greater than in 1965. The tax will jump from a maximum of $174 a year to $277.20.

Most of the increase results from the decision of Congress to increase the earnings base on which the tax is figured to $6,600 from $4,800. The rate also goes up, from 3.625 per cent each on employee and employer to 4.2 per cent each.

Further rate increases are scheduled every year or so until 1987. Then the top rate will be $372.90 for an employee and $374.80 for self-employed man or woman. The steep-ups will cancel out much of the income tax savings of 1964 and 1965.

Gross National Product Up 9.3 PC Over Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's booming economy showed an-other spurt in the third quarter of 1965, boosting the gross national product to an annual rate of $52,056,000,000 the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Continued expansion in every sector of the economy contributed to the advance.

The gross-national product—the total dollar value of all end-product goods and services produced in the nation—was 9.2 per cent higher in the July-August-September period than in the preceding quarter.

It was up a striking 9.3 per cent for the first nine months of this year compared to the same period of 1964.

DBS said most of the advance between the second and third quarter was a gain in real terms. Only one-half of one per cent was due to price rises, leaving a 1.8-per-cent boost.

Non - residential construction jumped 4.7 per cent between the two quarters to lead the advance in the economy. It was 27.3 per cent higher for the first three quarters.

Purchases of machinery and equipment showed a gain of 3.5 per cent over the second-quarter figure. For the nine months, this item was up 13.4 per cent.

Exports rose by 3.2 per cent last quarter. For the nine months, imports grew by 10.7 per cent and exports by 4.5.

The GNP now has increased by 44 per cent from the low point of 1961. After taking price increases into account, the rise in real terms has been almost 32 per cent.

Another large increase in labor income was noted during the third quarter. The addition to personal spending was at a rate of $776,000,000, second only to the second-quarter figure as the largest single-quarter gain of the current expansion.

Business firms amply expanded their productive capacity with the third-quarter outlay reaching $334,000,000 for plant and equipment.

Looking ahead to the final production figure for the year, DBS said it will be a hefty nine per cent if the economy shows no change in the fourth quarter.

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—United States and South Vietnamese military commanders today ordered a 30-hour ceasefire by their forces during Christmas unless attacked by the Viet Cong.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, said his order to 170,000 American servicemen in Viet Nam was issued "in keeping with the spirit of Christmas."

A few hours before the announcement, U.S. Navy planes "practically destroyed" the Uong Bi power plant 13 miles northeast of Haiphong when they bombed the power project for the third time.

A U.S spokesman said three of the planes were shot down.

Parachutes of two of the four flyers were sighted, but the spokesman said no rescue operation was attempted because of the location in which they went down.

The steam power plant supplied an important part of the power for the Haiphong-Hanoi area. The two earlier attacks knocked out the plant's main generators.

Gen. Westmoreland's ceasefire announcement followed one by Lt.-Gen. Cao Van Vien, chairman of the South Vietnamese joint general staff, who ordered "all offensive operations between 6 p.m. Christmas Eve to midnight Christmas Day followed Pope Paul's appeal for peace at least during the Christmas period.

There was no immediate response from the Viet Cong to the U.S. extension of the truce, but to the Viet Cong offer, the U.S.-South Vietnamese directive to troops in the field did not ask for a Viet Cong response. The allied commanders said their soldiers would not fire except in self-defence and implied that there will be no air raids on North Viet Nam during the 30 hours.

Today's announcements came in the face of a U.S. military spokesman's statement Wednesday that hostilities would go on Christmas Day as any other day of the year.

Brig. O. D. Sackson, commander of the 1,700-strong Australian contingent in South Viet Nam, said later his force will follow the ceasefire order as to-day's and Saturday's Vietnamese military command.

The other allied combat forces in South Vietnam, about 20,000 South Koreans and 2,000 New Zealanders—operate in practice under the over-all direction of Gen. Westmoreland and were expected to follow the truce order.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary - General U Thant called Wednesday for an immediate truce in Viet Nam and declared: "This war must be stopped."

He said the will for peace "must be more positively reflected in the actions of all the parties involved in the fighting."

In his annual New Year's message, Thant proposed:

"Let there be in the words of the recent appeal by Pope Paul an immediate truce, to be followed by reflection, negotiation and finally peace."

The Viet Nam conflict he added, had reached a stage "more violent, more cruel . . . more harmful to relations among the great powers and more perilous to the whole world than at any other time during the generation of conflict which that country was known."

Thant said it was true that the world "does not seem ready to live over a new leaf."

An atmosphere of disappointment and pessimism has persisted for many months, he said, despite efforts of the United Nations to achieve a basis for peace throughout the world.

"The earlier promise of genuine relaxation of tensions among nations seemed to have faded away," he said.

Woman In U.K. Cabinet

LONDON (CP) — A brassy-bright redhead named Barbara Castle was given the tough job of transport minister Wednesday in Prime Minister Wilson's first cabinet shuffle since the Labor party took office 14 months ago.

Mrs. Castle, 54, a long-time and influential associate of Wilson, became Britain's first woman transport minister, although she admitted to reporters that she hasn't driven for years and doesn't have a driver's license.

Wilson announced the changes in ministries a few hours after Parliament adjourned for a month-long Christmas recess.

They involved a small shuffle mainly in the cabinet, an inner circle of 23 ministers, but also among the non-cabinet government ministries, of which there are 27.

Chief among them was the upgrading of Roy Jenkins, 45, the tough and energetic aviation minister outside the cabinet, to the key cabinet post of the home secretary.

The former transport minister, Tom Fraser, was dropped to the back benches as an ordinary member. He was reported to have turned down a minor ministerial post after the president Labor criticism from both Conservatives and Labor members of Parliament for his handling of Britain's deteriorating traffic and road situation.

GREENWOOD TAKES OVER

Mrs. Castle's former job as minister of overseas development was given to Anthony Greenwood, 54, former colonial secretary. The colonial secretaryship was taken on as an additional post by Lord Longford, government leader in the House of Lords.

Frederick Mulley, previously minister of defence for the navy, becomes aviation minister.

Conservative leader Edward Heath commented that the changes were "quite inadequate for dealing with the problems facing Britain today," and wondered aloud why Technology Minister Frank Cousins and Labor Minister Fed Lee were not replaced.

B-B Commission Is Heading For Hibernation to Give Report

OTTAWA (CP) — After 2½ years in the limelight, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism appears headed for a long hibernation to prepare its report.

Only 20 commissioners begin a series of private meetings next month to digest 410 briefs received at public hearings as well as 40 individual research reports running to thousands of pages.

No decision has been made whether to prepare a series of specialized reports to the government or compile it all in a single massive document. Either way, the commission likely won't be heard from again for a year or more, informants say.

When the last of 13 sets of public hearings ended here last week, Co-chairman Davidson Dunton said he had no idea when the commission would report, but it would be as soon as possible.

The commissioners must still sift through an array of complex and often conflicting proposals dealing with everything from the constitution to methods of teaching French in grade schools.

The research staff of 100 has investigated many aspects of Canadian government and education never previously studied by social scientists.

Another difficult task facing the commission is the measurement of public opinion on various bicultural issues that were dormant or non-existent less than five years ago.

The preliminary report issued last February said in effect that the "quiet revolution" in Quebec and lack of understanding of the revolution elsewhere in Canada had contributed to a crisis in English-French relations. The report said racial and individuals appearing before the commission had plenty of ideas.

It said that came up often was for the creation of supernatent agency similar to the royal commission, which would protect minority rights, hold public hearings, continue research into biculturalism and support cultural activities.

With variations of detail, this idea was endorsed by the universities of Montreal and Me-

Cross-Canada Survey
Canadians Besiege Travel Companies in Record Numbers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The greatest Christmas buying splurge in history is nearing an end as Canadians, many still with cash to spare, besiege transportation companies in record numbers.

Many will holiday in Mexico, Florida, or parts of the Caribbean, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows.

Others, during what is expected to be mainly a white Christmas across the country, will quietly celebrate the birth of Jesus in churches and in helping others in home surrounding.

While the annual holiday travel rush gained momentum, motorists heard the prediction that 60 will die on the roads during Christmas. The Canadian Highway Safety Council, said another 1,200 will be injured in auto accidents.

Other long-range predictions came from weather bureaus. They added up to a green Christmas in southern B.C. and southern Ontario and mostly white elsewhere.

Arctic air bundling up over Alaska and the Yukon posed frigid possibilities for the Prairies. Temperatures melted snow in southern Ontario and Quebec. Clearing skies cheered the generally - snow covered Maritimes. But Newfoundland, already bit heavily, braced itself for further heavy snowfalls.

Canadians took to the air as never before. An Air Canada spokesman said the airline expects enough holiday traffic to fill 30,000 extra seats, about two thirds of them for use in Canada.

Travel agents, bus lines and railways also reported record business.

A winter wonderland sprang up in Montreal's Lafontaine Park where a nativity scene was complete with live lambs and a donkey. An ice palace was built and 13,000 colored lights strung about the branches of trees. The city executive committee approved an expenditure of $22,000.

Importers Say Inflation Will Be Problem During '66

Mrs. L. Shiels Said Improved

The condition of Mrs. J. Lester Shiels, 370 Ann Street, severely injured in a car accident at Newburgh, last Saturday, is somewhat improved. Mrs. Shiels suffered a fractured skull and a punctured lung in an accident which claimed the lives of her husband and of her sister, Mrs. Jane Conway of Berkeley Hills, Cal. Mrs. Shiels is still in hospital at California, but it is hoped her improved condition will soon permit her to be moved to a hospital at Los Angeles, nearer to the home of her son, Patrick Shiels, of West Novina, Cal.

TORONTO (CP) — Inflation will be one of the major problems that Canada will have to tackle in 1966, the Canadian Importers Association said in its year-end statement.

The association says there are strong indications that it will be difficult to keep costs from rising significantly.

"There have been many substantial wage increases gained in the past few months by various labor groups which cannot fail but be converted into higher costs.

"Failure to deal with this problem will result in our inability to compete pricewise in the markets of the world and also result in a serious weakening in the strength of the Canadian dollar."

However, the association also calls for the stimulation of sufficient economic growth to provide 1,300,000 new jobs in Canada by 1970 as set out by the Economic Council of Canada.

The association says the Canadian import trade and Canadian consumers in general can look forward to a difficult but still a good year.

WILL GET AWARD

OTTAWA (CP)—W. Earl Godfrey, curator of ornithology for the National Museum, is to get a $1,000 award for writing the manuscript of Birds of Canada, a book soon to be published by the Queen's Printer. The award is one of the first to be given under the incentive award plan of the public service.

Fun on Skis Now Enjoyed as Family Sport

Families who enjoy doing things together are discovering the fun of family skiing as the winter past time. On Sunday afternoon, dad and the kids load into the car and head for their favorite snow-covered slope to enjoy this healthful outdoor sport together.

The popularity of skiing in this area has been steadily growing and specialists such as the Mountain View, Oak Lake, Wallbridge, Napanee, Batawa and Cobourg all offer excellent facilities within easy driving distance of Belleville. For a weekend jaunt, families are heading farther afield to such places as Ottawa, Huntsville, Lake Placid and the Blue Mountains.

Modern ski equipment has made skiing safer and easier than ever, which accounts for its "family" appeal . . . from the youngest members up.

One of Belleville's most complete selection of ski equipment for all ages is available at Boyd Radio and Television Limited. Skis, ski boots, poles, ski clothing — everything for the skier from the beginning to the seasoned pro.

Get the family started now in this popular sport. You can outfit every member for no money down and as little as $1. a week at Boyd Radio and Television Limited, 179 Front St., (Opp. City Hall. Dial 968-3785.

Never Leave Children Alone

While Christmas is a time for celebration, it also a time of increased fire hazards, says Fire Chief Poste in a seasonal message of warning to citizens.

"More than ever, at Christmas, parents may be faced with the temptation to leave young children unattended for short periods, while they complete a last-minute shopping, or drop in to visit with neighbors", he says.

"At the same time, decorations and crowded rooms may bring an increased threat of fire danger, unless constant care is exercised. Don't leave children alone in the home even for a minute. The Criminal Code of Canada forbids such action which endangers the life or health of any child under the age of 14 years. The possibility of a happy season turning in a few seconds to a time of family tragedy should cause every sensible citizen to obey this law".

Chief Poste reminds parents that under certain conditions a Christmas tree can burn violently in charred wood in 18 seconds. Particular care should be taken to keep butts of trees immersed in water and to ensure that the tree itself does not obstruct access to a door or window in the event of an emergency.

Dynamite Caps Are Stolen

Provincial police have issued an alert to parents in the Belleville area following theft of lethal dynamite caps from a truck in Thurlow township.

The caps, which can be detonated by the warmth of a hand or a sudden movement, were stolen between Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday evening.

They were taken from a truck parked on an oil storage farm on the township's third concession near Canifton.

Police say they believe the truck was broken into by juveniles.

Civil Servants Reach Accord On Pension Plan

TORONTO (CP) —The government and the Civil Service Association of Ontario have reached agreement on a formula for integrating the Public Service Superannuation Act with the Canada Pension Plan.

Civil servants' contributions towards eventual retirement benefits will remain unchanged at six per cent of salary under amendments being made to their superannuation plan.

Of this increase, 1.8 per cent of earnings up to $5,000, except for the first $600, will be contributed towards the Canada Pension Plan.

The agreement provides that no government employee will retire on any less pension because of the integration of the two plans. There will be no change in the provision for early retirement with full benefits for persons aged 60 with 20 years' service.

The earliest age at which a reduced pension may be obtained will be raised to 25 from 50, however.

Pensions will be calculated on a basis of the best five years of earnings, rather than the best three.

Benefits will be reduced to 1.3 per cent of average earnings instead of two per cent, but this will be more than offset by the Canada Pension Plan benefit, which will be a maximum of $1,250 a year.

China Showing Transit of Soviet Arms

LONDON (AP)—East European diplomats claimed today that China is seriously slowing the transit of Soviet Arms and supplies to North Viet Nam.

"In normal circumstances it should take no more than 10 days for these goods to reach North Viet Nam from Soviet territory using railroad routes through China," said one diplomat. "The average time these consignments are taking now is about two months."

The diplomat declined to be identified. Similar reports came independently from representatives of two other East European countries. They said Peking's obstruction is part of its struggle with Moscow for predominant influence in Hanoi.

There is no way of checking the claim of the European Communist diplomats, whose governments side with Moscow in the Soviet-Chinese power struggle.

Nov. 11, the official Peking People's Daily accused the Russians of "spreading the lie that China obstructed the transit of Soviet military equipment for Viet Nam." Peking also said at the time that Soviet "aid to Viet Nam is far from commensurate with the strength of the Soviet Union."

China today said that a great part of the Soviet weapons sent to North Viet Nam were obsolete or damaged and repeated its charge that the Soviet Union's aim was to get a commanding voice in Viet Nam "so as to strike a political deal with the United States."

The Globe and Mail, which traces its origin to 1844, last changed hands in 1955 when it was purchased by R. Howard Webster from the estate of George McCullagh for a reported $10,000,000.

The FP newspaper group includes the Winnipeg Free Press, the Ottawa Journal, the Vancouver Sun, the Calgary Albertan, the Victoria Times and Victoria Colonist, the Lethbridge Herald and the Free Press Weekly Farmers Advocate.

NO CHANGES

The merger statement said: "Officers of the various newspapers in the new group will remain unchanged and each paper will retain its present editorial policies.

"The six members of the board of the Globe and Mail will be joined by G. Max Bell of Calgary, John W. Sifton of Winnipeg, and R. S. Malone, general manager of FP Publications.

"Mr. Webster continues as chairman, I remain as publisher, and Earle B. Richards as general manager. No change is being made in the management, character and tradition of the newspaper."

The Globe and Mail started with The Globe, founded in 1844 by George Brown, a Scottish immigrant. It reached its present form in 1936 when Mr. McCullagh merged The Globe and The Mail and Empire, and now has a circulation of more than 225,000.

MRS. JOHN HENRY BRINKERT

Ill only for five days, Mrs. Norien Elizabeth Sadie Brinkert, 96 McFarland Ave., died Wednesday in Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 88th year.

Born in Stratford, Ont., she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kinberger, and had lived in Belleville for the past 17 years.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church in Belleville and had been active in the work of the church and in the Woman's Association.

Predeceased by her husband, John Henry Brinkert she is survived by two sons, Lorne and Earl and one daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Joyce) Woods, all of Belleville; a brother, Earl Kinberger, Windsor; three sisters, Mrs. Alfred (Alma) Holmes of Stratford, Mrs. Johnston (May) McCormick, both of Stratford, and Mrs. John (Vera) Waters of Toronto and ten grandchildren.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home to Trinity Church for service conducted by Rev. Don Himmelman with interment in Belleville cemetery.

MRS. REGINALD FRASER

Mrs. Reginald Ethel Fraser of 16 Marconi Court, Willowdale, died yesterday in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto. She had been in failing health for the past year.

Born in Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Lee, she lived in Toronto for two years after moving there from Saskatoon, when her husband retired from the RCAF.

Educated in Belleville at St. Michael's School and at the B.C.I., she was employed for many years at the Stephens-Anderson Company. She was active in the Ladies' Auxiliary of the RCAF.

She is survived by her husband, Reginald Fraser, and by a son, Brian, and two daughters, Maureen and Barbara, all at home.

Also surviving are a brother, Joseph Lee of Belleville, and three sisters, Mrs. Carl (Mary) Carey, Belleville; Mrs. Fergus (Margaret) Cousineau, Toronto, and Mrs. Fred (Claire) Daubenbach, Fresno, California.

Mrs. Fraser is resting at the O'Brien - Rutledge Funeral Residence for services tomorrow at 9.00 a.m. to St. Michael's Church. Interment will be in St. James' cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE HEASMAN

R.R. 4, Stirling

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. Georgina Heasman, former Elva Louise McIntosh, was held in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Saturday, December 18th, with her pastor Rev. J. Bruce Small, officiating.

The bearers were: Messrs Glen Brooks, Harold Delior, Glen Bush, Harold Chambers, John Sheridan and Harold Bush.

Entombment was made in Stirling Cemetery Mausoleum. The funeral was under the direction of the Duffin - Hogle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Heasman was a valued member of River Valley Women's Institute and served as the assistant Tweedsmuir History curator, preparing the second fifty years of that organization in the 1960 book.

MRS. MARY LONG (Shannonville)

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Long of Shannonville was held on Wednesday from the Thompson Funeral Chapel where service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Alfred Poulter. Interment was in Riverview Cemetery at Shannonville.

The bearers were Harold Long, Grant Campbell, Gary Phillips and James Watson.

Mrs. Long died Monday in Belleville General Hospital. She was 62.

Born in Greenock, Scotland, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. McShane and was married twice.

Pre - deceased by her husband she is survived by two sons, William Spencer, Toronto, and Harold Long, Shannonville, two daughters Mrs. Ralph (Doryss) Blanchard of Brockville and Mrs. Grant (Eileen) Campbell of Brockville, and seven grandchildren.

J. LESTER SHIELS

Funeral services were held today for Joseph Lester Shiels who died Monday in Belleville General Residence to St. Michael's Church for Requiem Mass. Mr. Shiels, predeceased by his wife was allied in a car accident at Needles, Cal. Saturday.

Interment was in St. James' Cemetery.

Rev. J.P. Sullivan celebrated mass and read the prayers at graveside. Rev. J. A. Kelly was present in the sanctuary. There was a large turnout of mourners in the church.

Will Curtail Bus Service Over Holiday

At a recent meeting of the Belleville Transit Commission it was decided to curtail almost all bus service on December 25th, at 2.45 p.m. to allow drivers to spend Christmas Eve with their families. Due to Boxing Day being proclaimed a holiday by the city, there will be no service on that day. Nor will there be any service on Christmas. Regular service will commence on Tuesday December 28th, 1965.

Bechuanaland Radio Station Being Guarded

FRANCISTOWN, Bechuanaland (Reuter)—Two dozen African guards armed with heavy truncheons and alert for saboteurs are keeping a round-the-clock watch here on Britain's new radio relay station, which will beam BBC programs to Rhodesia.

Talk of sabotage is rife in the multi-racial bars of this small, oppressively hot town as the transmitters are being made ready for service early in the new year to combat Rhodesian censorship. Successful test transmissions have begun.

(The South African Press Association reported that the Francistown station relayed the BBC news to Rhodesia Wednesday. SAPA said the 7 a.m. BBC world news was heard in Salisbury and the announcer identified the station as "Francistown relay station.")

WANT MORE EXCHANGES

The recommendations showing widest support in the 410 briefs dealt with exchange programs to better promote French- and English-speaking Canadians with each other. The briefs urged exchanges of teachers, students, artists, performing groups, journalists, newspapers, periodicals, books, films and so on.

A vast expansion of the Canada Council's budget would be was suggested to finance the programs, but some Quebec groups opposed any federal intervention in cultural affairs.

Constitution: Nearly all French Canadian submissions from Quebec protested constitutional amendments that would give the province wider jurisdiction and enlarged tax powers. Some English - speaking groups favored "opting out" arrangements to give Quebec a greater autonomy, but most called for a strong central government. There was general agreement that the British North America Act should be amended in Canada rather than Britain, but there were few specific proposals about the amending formula, dealt by federal-provincial conferences going back to 1927.

Education: Such bodies as the United Church, the Anglican Church and the Canadian Labor Congress supported French Canadian demands for French-language instruction wherever there is sufficient demand outside Quebec. Many briefs sought improved and earlier teaching of French in all primary schools, but this was opposed by many other groups, mostly in Western Canada, which said French should not be imposed or foisted on English-speaking Canadians.

Public service: Some French-Canadian and civil service organizations advocated a salary bonus for bilingual federal employees, while some English-speaking groups said English should be the only working language in the government. Canadians speaking languages other than English and French asked for recognition. Most briefs generally favored an extension of bilingualism in the public service, without going into details.

Mass media: Nearly all French-speaking and many English-speaking submissions urged an extension of the CBC French networks from coast to coast. Other briefs said this would be too costly. Ukrainian and other groups called for programs about all cultural minorities. Broadcasters and newspapers were often asked to step up the interplay of information between all cultures and to be more objective.

Canada Cracks Back at Russia For Accusation

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has cracked back at Russia for accusing this country of supporting a Soviet-alleged revival of German militarism.

An official external affairs department spokesman said Wednesday night that Russia has mounted an entirely unfounded campaign of defamation against West Germany in an apparent attempt to sow mistrust of Germany as a partner in the North Atlantic alliance.

It is a matter for grave concern, the spokesman said, "that Soviet policy should apparently be directed not only toward the indefinite postponement of solutions to cardinal issues of European security, but also toward sowing mistrust of the Federal Republic of Germany as a partner in NATO by an entirely unfounded campaign of defamation against it."

The words were the harshest in the foreign policy field to emerge from official Ottawa in a long time.

The spokesman was commenting on a Moscow report Wednesday quoting the Soviet Tass news agency as saying that Canada is supporting the revival of German militarism by permitting West Germany to conduct cold-weather weapons tests at Camp Shilo, Man.

The spokesman said West Germany is a full and equal partner in NATO and that Canada doesn't discriminate among its allies.

What Canada was doing now to assist West Germany it had already done for other NATO members.

Zambia Seeks Russian Help

From AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (CP) — Two Zambian government ministers opened talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today, seeking Soviet support against neighboring Rhodesia.

Arthur Wina, Zambia's finance minister, and E. H. K. Mudenda, the minister of agriculture, arrived here Wednesday night from London on a three-day visit to seek Soviet aid. Another Zambian aid mission flew to Washington.

In London, the Zambians failed to persuade the British government to use force against Rhodesia.

In Moscow they were expected to seek Soviet aid, in particular trucks to ship essential goods such as food and clothing in and out of the landlocked country through any trade blockade from Rhodesia.

Senate

SPEAKERSHIP NAMED

One Senate prospect is Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton, 62, who did not seek re-election last month and will retire when the new Parliament elects his successor Jan. 18. In the past, many retiring speakers have been named senators.

Mr. Pearson indicated recently Transport Minister Pickersgill, 60, would like to be relieved of his heavy duties once he has piloted the controversial Railway Act revision through the next Parliament. There has been speculation this might involve a Senate appointment or a shift to a less onerous department.

Rene Tremblay, 43, who resigned last week as postmaster-general for health reasons, has been mentioned as a possible choice for the Upper Chamber.

Keith Davey, 39, who submitted his resignation as Liberal national organizer soon after the election and was asked by the prime minister to stay on temporarily, has also figured in Senate speculation.

Another name that has popped up is that of J. Harper Prowse, 52, former Alberta Liberal leader. He retired from the Alberta legislature in 1959 and now heads an Edmonton law firm.

NAMED FIRST INDIAN

The last non-political Senate appointment came on Jan. 31, 1958, when John Diefenbaker named the first Indian senator, James Gladstone, now 78. Senator Gladstone later joined the Conservative caucus and campaigned for the party.

The only three independents now in the Senate—straight independent Hartland Molson and independent - Liberals Callista Sauvé and Muriel McQueen—were named 10 years ago by Louis St. Laurent.

The former Liberal prime minister showed rare magnanimity toward the Opposition when on the same occasion in 1955 he named a former Conservative MP, the late John Hackett.

Show Creates Happy Magic Of Fairyland

TRENTON — Children who attended last night's presentation of "Topsy-Turvy Land" by students from the Ontario Theatre School in the high school auditorium were transported from the mundane world of reality to the magic of Fairyland.

The script was by Kaye Cunliffe of Colborne, one of the teachers at the school, and the story was designed to demonstrate to the parents what their offsprings had learned about ballet, tap and acting while attending classes.

Taking "star" parts in the show were Sandy Bain as king; Patay Parker as Pitty Pat; Jane Allin as the inspector; Linda Quibell as the Keeper of the Keys; Debbie Kinsella as a witch; Gary Day as Chancellor of the Exchequer; Kathy Van Rhyn as a barker; Mary Jane Simmons as an organ grinder; Beverley Bain as the Queen of Hearts; P. Parker, J. Leaman and C. Alvey as court jesters and K. Day, A. Arthur and C. Popwell as pages.

Others in the show were Connie Cecchetti, L. Bonfield, Bernier, R. Wright, C. Lamoureaux, R. Tyrrare, D. Sackiew, D. Adams, C. Desrosiers, L. Troope, J. Cunniffe, P. Cain, M. Howard, K. Manning, J. Armstrong, G. Sedd, M. Pospicil, S. Mountford, C. Shoniker, L. Pilpsen, M. Pilpsen, K. McLeod, C. Dineen, J. Bertrand, C. Holiday, D. Tian, L. Baguerary, P. Chambers, D. Pospisil, T. Sabiston, L. Cudlip, L. Nordquist, C. Salter, M. Cormack, K. Donamoor, P. Miller, W. Towns, C. Collin, M. Spencer, T. Rickley, M. Saucier, J. Bowman, S. Vadaz, L. Vadaz, P. Farrel, L. Christian, C. Pospisil, T. Dolte, L. Kennedy, T. Murray, R. Pennington, J. Rose, S. Holiday, J. Chapple, D. Cormack, J. Lewis and L. A. Gibbons.

The Ontario Theatre School trains children in all branches of the theatre, from beginners to professional standard. One of the principals, Rhoda Bain, trained in ballet in London, England, with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and the National Ballet of Toronto. Her sister, Mrs. Kaye Cunliffe, teaches tap and modern dancing and also received training in England and Canada.

Acting at the school is taught by Marjory Parker, who trained in Toronto and has had experience in radio and on stage. Assistant teachers are Beverley Bain and C. Desrocher.

The Ontario Theatre School may be considered an "amateur" effort, as the fees for dancing and acting lessons go to finance the salary of the little theatre group which is run in conjuction with the school.

Opposition Voiced to Store Location

TRENTON — One of the first items Trenton's 1966 council will deal with is the suggestion that the Ontario government means to locate a new liquor store on Ford Street, next to "Mosquito Park", a children's playground. The playground, which fronts on Division Street, could conceivably be re-located, north of Front Street.

But several members of 1965 council have openly voiced their opposition to locating the L.C.B.O. store on Ford Street, owing to traffic congestion now in the area . . . and future traffic congestion in the new bridge is completed. The 1965 council members who remain on council after Jan. 1, will no doubt carry over their objections to the location and at least one of the new councillors is also opposed to the idea.

The present liquor store is located on Division Street, near King.

Santa Won't Forget to Leave Toys

TRENTON — It looks as if every family in town is going to be able to sit down to a Christmas dinner with all the fixins, and Santa won't forget to leave toys for the children.

Church groups, other organizations and individuals have been busy getting together food, presents and cash for the less fortunate families in town. This has been due to Captain James Johnson of the Salvation Army Corps, and Mr. Davis said today that any last minute well-wishers should contact the captain for distribution of their gifts.

Mr. Davis also said the individual could do his or her share of spreading holiday cheer by visiting sick or shut-in persons, or dropping in to call on lonely older people who have no family and have outlived the friends of their youth.

Small Painting Bought in B.C. Worth Fortune

SEATTLE (AP) — A little painting Manfred Selig bought in British Columbia for $100 to brighten an office wall has yielded a fabulous dividend: It was painted on top of a second work that may fetch a quarter of a million.

Louis R. Guzzo, assistant managing editor of the Seattle Post - Intelligencer, unfolded the story of Selig's luck in a copyrighted article this week.

The painting caught Selig's eye while he was browsing in an antique shop in Victoria in 1959. In the style of the early Italian Renaissance, it depicted the Angel's announcement to Mary that she would bear the Christ child.

In 1961, eating on a lunch, Selig sent the painting to Dr. Heinrich Fuchs, an art historian in Erlangen, West Germany, for examination. Fuchs x-rayed the canvas and detected underneath a head of Christ.

Fuchs pronounced the under-painting to be a work of Giovanni Bellini, a 15th century master.

All these children found new parents and a home this year. Couples adopted these boys and girls as their own. They are now secure in the happiness of family life.

Hundreds more are waiting. Girls and boys of every age, Protestant and Catholic, of every racial background. They are fine children, lovable as those you see in any playground. They want to be adopted, to be sons and daughters again.

So we appeal for more adopting parents — for the children's sake — and for yours too, if you can offer a child the love and security of a family home. Among all these boys and girls there is probably one — or more than one — who could share a lifetime of happiness with you.

NATO Needs

Some idea of the importance Canada places on conventional forces and on its air arm may be gauged from the breakdown of expenditure allocated to the different services.

An Ottawa report says that allocation of defence funds is changing radically with integration of the forces. The emphasis now is on conventional weapons instead of nuclear carriers such as the CF-104 low-level jet bomber.

The RCAF receives $525,000,000, or 52 per cent of the current defence budget. It is pointed out for example, that with increased spending on factors like airlift and army equipment, Canada will be able to make a bigger contribution to NATO's 5,000-man mobile brigade.

The need for adequate airlift facilities was one of the main topics of the NATO ministerial meeting in Paris last week. Canada's response therefore is all the more significant.

This country has already committed an infantry battalion of the Black Watch Regiment to the NATO force, as well as the necessary airlift. With the extra allocation of funds, this commitment can now be strengthened, both in terms of air and army strength.

Brave Youngsters

A little girl of only seven years and a mature-looking 14-year-old boy are the winners of the city of Ottawa's first awards for "outstanding bravery and courage."

Mayor Reid has presented plaques to Kathleen Laurin and George Kingsbury, together with citations which say they saved others from "certain death."

On November 16 the little girl raced through a blazing kitchen to sound an alarm and save the life of her parents and four brothers and sisters as fire swept through their home.

The awards were the first given by a three-man committee headed by Mayor Reid. Only two such awards will be made annually, and considering the youthfulness of the first pair of recipients the occasion at City Hall was all the more remarkable.

Bardot—and Others

Names like Julie Christie and Geraldine Chaplin (a daughter of a famous father), who are both in Dr. Zhivago, and Rita Tushingham (A Taste of Honey).

There is even a Canadian girl, a classic beauty from Quebec who at 26 is already a big name in European cinema. Her name is Alexandra Stewart and she has made 22 movies there, mostly in Paris. She is currently appearing in an oddly-named piece called Mickey One, co-starring Warren Beatty and Franchot Tone, now being screened in Toronto.

Many are the attempts to analyze the magnetism and success of such performers, and interviewers often bring forth such spicy revelations—in this case from Miss Stewart—as, "Sure I've smoked pot."

Pot, for those unfamiliar with the eccentricities of the Bohemian world, is slang for marijuana. But Miss Stewart is no Bohemian. A top model before gaining success in films, she is a member of a wealthy Chomedy, Quebec, family, and by her appearance looks even cooler and calmer than do most models.

Speaking of European films, reference may be made to another screen beauty who, though still young, has been in the public eye longer than any of the aforementioned actresses. Who else, but Brigitte Bardot.

The glamorous "B.B." has been making her first visit to the United States, to promote a new film in which she appears. Meeting newsmen in New York she deftly foiled one questioner who asked for her views on Viet Nam. "We are here to talk about Brigitte Bardot," she countered.

The question was not as inappropriate as it might seem, since Viet Nam (formerly Indo China) was at one time a colony of her native France, and also because she almost became a pawn in the Algerian terrorism of a few years ago.

Like other prominent French citizens, Miss Bardot received demands for monetary contributions from the FLN terrorists. She refused, despite threatening noises from the FLN. As a young woman of spirit and courage, she deserves our respect.

Election Left Quebec in Weaker Bargaining Position

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Did you happen to catch, in reports of the National Conference on Poverty here in the Capital, that most revealing of developments?

No, it wasn't that sharply contrasting air of affluence amid all the talk of poverty, although that was revealing enough, seeing she delegates so concerned with the problems of the poor, doing their worrying while lapping up the caviar and knocking back the Scotches amid the splendid opulence of the conference and banquet halls of the recently renovated West Block.

No, it was the humility, the self-effacement, the well-mannered modesty of Quebec Resources Minister Rene Levesque. And what a switch that is!

There was the time — almost any day or week in the last couple of years — that Rene Levesque, simply by presenting his presence on Parliament Hill, could have half the Federal Cabinet close to a nervous breakdown.

Those were the days when Rene, l'enfant terrible from Quebec City, scarcely had to raise his voice to have the Federal Ministers falling all over themselves in an embarrassment of haste to assure him that his slightest wish was their command.

TREMBLING HILL

Rene wanted Quebec out of the Federal Pension Plan? Why of course. Rene wished La Belle Province to run its own show — on Federal tax grants, naturally — even to the point of having its own diplomatic representation.

For when Rene roared — as he so often did for special "State-within-a-State" treatment for Quebec — the Peace Tower all but shook as if in an earthquake.

And perhaps earthquake it was, political earthquake, that is, with the bedrock of Confederation sometimes seemingly rocking.

About the only member of the Federal power structure who dared stand up to Rene Levesque was Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing who had the effrontery to resist his imperious demands that Eskimos in Quebec, traditionally Free of charges, be made hostage to him.

Whichever it might be, Rene Levesque was up on Parliament Hill again this week for, first time since Quebec refused, it was so confidently expected in the Federal campaign, by long date John Diefenbaker and the Conservatives in French Canada.

Oh sure, he said Quebec wanted out of Federal Family Allowances. Quebec City would pay them instead of Ottawa, with Federal funds, of course. This was expected routine.

What was unexpected and not routine was the way he said it.

He didn't roar. He didn't threaten. He didn't make a scene.

He just said his piece.

Quietly.

Then sat down.

And this time he didn't scare anybody.

WHAT'S THAT AGAIN ?

In fact, the Federal people and the representatives from the other provinces looked almost, and certainly so far have acted, just as if they weren't listening.

And maybe they weren't.

For the Federal election has taken much, if maybe not all the sting out of Rene Levesque.

Suddenly, since the Nobody-Wins-Vote of November 8, Quebec — the Special Status State — has been poor of political style.

For two reasons:

A. The big split in national unity, Quebec voting en bloc one way, and most of the rest of the country another, just didn't happen. Quebec, like Ontario, New Brunswick, and British Columbia, played it pretty well down the middle politically. The split turned out to be a division not of national unity, but of East and West, and again the Farm with the City.

B. French Canada failed the country, neglecting to wipe out the Conservatives as, astoundingly, did just a shade better than last time.

So maybe it was that the Quiet Revolution really wasn't all that much of a revolution.

Maybe it was that it not only didn't Quebec come through, the full way and all out, for Marcel à la Resistance, but cut down what could have been their winning edge in the rest of the country.

Whichever did the most damage, Quebec Premier Lesage's disastrous tour of the West, Rene Levesque's furies, or the embarrassing hanky-panky of the Nationalists in French Parliament, La Belle Province no longer can bamboozle and bully the Federal administration as not as much as before, anyway.

For if they try, and try kind of hard, Premier Rene Levesque did, nobody seems to be really paying much attention any more.

Better still, Rene sounded suspiciously like he was conceding that Quebec after all, for better or for worse, is just another part of Canada, and best yet, kind of glad of it.

And until something better comes along, that shapes up as the most welcome Christmas gift for all the rest of the country.

Strictly Personal

On the Making of Money

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Americans believe so much in quantity as a good thing in itself that we would like to repeal the law of diminishing returns and that we be convinced that if one vitamin pill a day is healthful for us, three a day are useful, or that if one hour of exercise is beneficial, four can be downright harmful.

The "most fantastic comment" that still lingers on these days is that "Professors can't do any thing practical." Who do we think invented the atom bomb — two live salesmen and a marketing executive?

A melancholy truth, which will not be found in any of the learned tomes on economics, was expressed by Halevy, when he observed: "In order to make money, the first thing is to have no need of it."

A linguistic snob is not one who uses foreign phrases, but one who insists on using them when there is a perfectly good Anglo-Saxon word — like the Francophile who says "cul de sac" instead of "blind alley."

The idea of simple "cause and effect" has pretty much been abandoned in physical science, and I suspect it should be abandoned in the psychological realm as well; people interact with each other, and it is futile to guess whether her nagging drove him to drink, or his drinking turned her into a nag.

It might help matters if the American Medical Assn., instead of spending so much money on drug propaganda, would help educate the public to identify symptoms as describe them more intelligibly to doctors. Most patients don't know the difference between an "ache" and a "pain," and can only mumble to a physician, "I feel kind of funny, doc."

Possibly all the contradictions in human nature can be summed up in the fact that what every smoker actually wants is cigarettes which is both "mild" and "stimulating."

And perhaps the history of all learned human economics is summed up in L. H. Robbins' witty quotation of many years ago:

"Economics is concerned with
"Reaching majority,
"Seizing authority,
"Shaving (or shearing)!"

Why is it that the same people who reserve the right to criticize the views of the Opposition of those they feel are beneath them will bitterly resent the discrimination of those who feel above them?

It should be a sobering thought, especially to this unsober season, to learn that fewer firemen are killed annually in fighting fires than are killed in road accidents on the way to fight fires.

Carbon Monoxide Is Invisible Killer

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

This is the time of year for the invisible killer, the poison you can't see, smell, taste. Carbon monoxide.

It can't do any significant damage in the open air. It becomes deadly in enclosed places: In the house, in an automobile, in small sheds, cabins, garages.

Unless special tips about automobiles might be helpful to you — that is, might save your life. Of course everybody knows enough not to run an automobile engine in a garage unless the doorways are wide open. And it's still better to get the car outdoors.

Even the time can be a danger. A parked car, with the motor running (to keep the heater going) can be perilous, because monoxide can seep up into the car readily enough to cause death quickly. So don't do this without leaving a couple of car windows open far enough to provide fresh air.

Another useful trick is to watch condensation on car windows. This is more likely to happen when two or more people are inside with the wind or a lightly closed. When condensation forms on the glass, it's a sign of insufficient ventilation. If you have an air conditioner in your car, that's fine, turn it on. If you haven't, open a couple of windows enough to drive off the condensation. It will protect you from monoxide and besides, it clears the windows and you can see better.

* * *

Drowsiness while driving may not be fatigue. It may be the first warning sign of monoxide. And one more thing: In bumper-to-bumper driving, keep the radiator in the dashboard closed if the windows also are closed. That front "ventilator" can pick up enough monoxide from the exhaust of the car ahead so be harmful.

Unusual drowsiness or headaches can be clues to seeping carbon monoxide, so if these symptoms bother you in winter, but not in summer, have flues and air vents inspected: see whether the furnace is defective. Of course smoke or fumes from the furnace can tip you off. Carbon monoxide will be present, along with the fumes — but don't forget that monoxide may be escaping without smelly fumes.

Make sure all heaters that use fuel are properly vented — whether a stove or heater uses coal, oil, gas, wood, alcohol or other fuel, it can create monoxide. (Electric heaters do not.)

Any time a fire has limited oxygen, it will produce carbon monoxide instead of carbon dioxide.

Hence ventilation always has to be the answer: Vents (or chimneys) to let monoxide escape: ventilation to assure enough fresh air for you to breathe. The average house is far from air-tight — and should not be. Storm windows and doors are fine, within reason, but don't try to seal up a house too completely, and it is a good rule to keep a bedroom window open at least a little (or with a baffle in very cold weather) to be safe.

Dear Dr. Molner: I used to pare oranges because the inner peel contains vitamin C, which works with Vitamin C to help the capillary blood vessels. Recently I heard that rain may have cancer-producing properties, so I've discontinued paring oranges. Is there anything definite about this assertion. — C. V. T.

I am familiar with the rutin content of orange peel, but am aware of no evidence concerning the cancer factor. I strongly doubt that there is any. Some eye specialists recommend rinding the entire orange in a blender to provide the rutin-Vitamin C factor for patients with fragile eye capillaries. It seems to me that we should have definite facts, not a "maybe" before sacrificing the usefulness of rutin.

Note to F. V. I.: When the doctor, with his obvious reluctance, said he thought it might be a case of "malingering," he meant that it was a case of pretending to be sick, not really sick.

Australians Support U.S.

Ottawa Journal

The U.S. administration has so many critics of its policy in Viet Nam, including vociferous people at home, that it must find great comfort in the Australians.

Australia's policy involves firm support of the Americans. External Affairs Minister Hasluck put the government view when he said in a recent speech:

"It submits that the United States is not being imperialistic or doctrinaire. In my view it is exercising in Asia, with restraint and care, the inescapable duties of a great power and discharging its obligations as a great power in assisting to keep the peace of the world."

He Called a Spade a Spade

Stratford Beacon-Herald

William Dodge, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, spoke some common sense last week at a conference at the University of Toronto. He took a good slap at people who try to make themselves look important, by using fancy words to describe their jobs. Mr. Dodge's sensible view, a man who catches eels is a dogcatcher, and doesn't add one cubit to his stature by calling himself canine control executive.

The labor leader was one of 200 people who held a three-day conference which was sponsored by the industrial relations centre of the University of Toronto. Engineers, teachers, nurses, union leaders and industrial personnel managers spent the three days talking to each other, in veiled terms, about money and how to get it, and about status and how to get it.

Mr. Dodge finally had his say. "There is an atmosphere of evasion around this whole discussion. You don't talk about professionals having jobs; you say they have callings, vocations. There seems to be a constant search for a euphemism for the word work. The professional employee is subject to the same fears and uncertainties as any other worker. All this differentiation between professionals and other classes of workers is phony."

Cheers from this corner for Mr. Dodge. He had been listening. It seems, to quite a bit of learned waffle about the "the three Henries," a three-cornered free-for-all among professors at using labor-union tactics to get more money. He got his way with the fatty words, and injected some plain talk.

A good many professional organizations, such as teachers' associations, colleges of physicians and surgeons, and the like, are in the business of protecting labor monopolies, and trying for more money for their members. To the extent that they behave like labor unions, the right word for them is unions. When they use the strike weapon to enforce their demands, as in the case of the teachers at Lakefield, Ont., or the doctors in Saskatchewan, the right word to use is strike.

At Mr. Dodge rightly suggested, nothing is gained by smudging the facts with fancy words, and referring to a strike as a "withdrawal of services."

Dec. 22, 1965 . . .

Duke Henry of Guise and his brother, Cardinal Louis, were murdered 377 years ago — in 1588 — by Henry III of Valois, king of France. This turned the feuds in the "War of the three Henries," a three-cornered free-for-all among factions at using labor-union tactics to get more money. He got his way with the fatty words, and injected some plain talk.

Advertise For Peace In Viet Nam

LONDON (Reuters) — A full-page advertisement signed by 38 of Britain's leading scientists, industrialists, artists and clergymen in The Times today calls on the U.S. to stop bombing North Viet Nam and to recognize the Viet Cong as a legitimate bargaining agent for peace.

The advertisement calls on the U.S. to accept the provisions of the Geneva agreement of 1954 as a "legal, sound and practical basis for peace."

Office Worker Comes to Terms With Union

TORONTO (CP) — Gillian Green, a 26-year-old office worker, has come to terms with two rival unions after squabbling over whether she should be reinstated after being fired twice.

"It was, really, that we came up with something mutually acceptable," said Ellen Adams, president of Local 343, Office Employees' International Union (CLC).

Miss Green is a member of Miss Adams' union, but worked for the Teamsters before she was fired.

Office Manager John Haughey of the Teamsters said Miss Green was fired last June by his authority by taking sides in a dispute. She had been reinstated earlier this month after appealing an earlier firing to the Office Workers' Union.

Miss Green again he rehired under the agreement worked out by Miss Adams and Mr. Haughey. But she will be kept on full salary until Jan. 31, and remain covered on all welfare plans until that time.

Pope Anxious For Peace In Viet Nam

VATICAN CITY (AP) — On the eve of his annual Christmas message to the world, Pope Paul I reported to be directing a program of active Vatican diplomacy to encourage negotiations toward ending the war in Viet Nam.

Vatican sources said Wednesday night the Pope will specifically talk about Viet Nam when he makes his Christmas speech tonight.

He appealed Sunday for at least a Christmas ceasefire and the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands in Saigon said today they will observe one.

The sources said the Pope is growing increasingly concerned over the human misery of the war and fearful that the conflict will spread.

A sign of the Pope's growing concern was seen in an announcement Wednesday by Caritas Internationalis, a worldwide Catholic charity organization, that Paul has given a $100,000 Christmas donation for Vietnamese war victims of both north and south. The Pope gave $50,000 to Caritas several weeks ago for the same purpose.

Company of Young Canadians Should Be Crown Corporation Report Handed to Pearson

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Company of Young Canadians should be set up through a Crown corporation and should be as independent as possible, the government has been told.

A 35-page report by an organizational committee says volunteers should be chosen for their ability to serve and should be paid enough to ensure that only the rich don't apply.

Age and occupational qualifications should be broad enough to attract volunteers from all walks of life. Emotional maturity would be a major requirement.

The report, handed the government Nov. 15, was made public Wednesday at a press conference following a cabinet meeting.

In an attached statement, Mr. Pearson said announcements concerning the company's future will be made shortly. Its 1967 program was already in preparation.

MANY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Other announcements:

—A special committee with Mr. Pearson as chairman and six cabinet ministers as members will study the Fowler report on broadcasting, which recommends establishment of an all - powerful agency to control the industry in ads.

—A 29-man RCAF advance party left here for Africa late Wednesday to lay out a route for Canadian participation in an airlift to Zambia. Planes will leave Edmonton and Ottawa once oil runs are established. Ottawa has asked permission to use The Congo's Leopoldville airport in the airlift and has received an assurance of cooperation.

—Deputy director Robert Phillips, 43, succeeds Tom Kent as director of the special planning secretariat in the Privy Council office and will be responsible for coordinating the war on poverty. Mr. Kent has been named minister of immigration.

—Dr. R. Richmond, now on the staff of Premier Roberts of Ontario, will become a senior economist with the special secretariat.

The Company of Young Canadians organizing committee was headed by Dr. J. Frances Leddy, president of the University of Windsor.

The report said the company should be the federal instrument for supporting, encouraging and developing social service programs here and abroad.

The committee suggested close co-operation in Canada with bodies like Frontier College, which has been sending teachers into remote areas since 1899, and the Canadian University Services Overseas, which has recruited, trained and placed 538 young volunteers since 1961.

"Both the spirit of adventure and the sense of responsibility towards the community are qualities which must be possessed by the volunteer," the committee said.

He would have to respond wholeheartedly to the needs around him, seeking to remove fundamental causes.

THOUSANDS ENQUIRE

The report said thousands of young Canadians have asked how they can join since Mr. Pearson announced last April in the throne speech that the company would be formed.

It gave some ideas as to where volunteers might be needed.

"In Norfolk County, Ontario, between 40 and 50 per cent of all male non-farm wage earners received less than $2,000 a year.

"In the Kenora, Ont., area, there are 357 Indian men and only 10 of them have finished grade 8.

"Of the 1,100 communities in Newfoundland, only 129 have any form of community organization."

Mr., Mrs. Ira Hewton Mark 50th Anniversary

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hewton of Wesleyville were "at home" to friends and relatives on Sunday to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary. Around 170 called to wish them well.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Woller, Willowdale, Peterborough, Burkerton, Frankford, Picton, Stirling, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton, Consecon, Hillier, Bloomfield, Kingston, Carrying Place and Mt. Pleasant.

The tea table was covered with a lovely lace tablecloth, and centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

Their sons, Elmer and Charlie welcomed the guests and a daughters Mrs. Mae Miller and Mrs. Arobie Stewart and daughters-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Hewton and Mrs. Charlie Hewton, served the guests.? A granddon, John Stewart, was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewton received lovely flower arrangements, gifts of china, a purse of money, also telegrams from family and friends from Prince Minier John Robarts and a plaque, compliments of Norris Whitney, MPP.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewton are married at Ormsby, Mrs. Hewton is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Peters of Ormsby, and Mr. Hewton is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hewton, formerly of Ormsby. They moved to Prince Edward County in 1926, where they have resided since.

They are members of the Quaker Church, now the Society of Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewton have a family of four children. Charlie of Brighton, Mrs. (Mae) Miller of Brighton, Mrs. Archie Stewart (Eleanor) and Elmer of Wellington. There are eight grandchildren and three step-grandchildren.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Hew ton's brothers and sisters were Sunday afternoon guests.

Memorial Gifts Are Dedicated

RAWDON — On a recent Sunday, Rev. J. B. Small, pastor of Carmel United Church dedicated five memorial gifts for use in the church.

Harry Brown and his daughter, Mrs. Gerald Clancy of Wellman, donated two brass vases in memory of the latter's mother, the late Mrs. Harry Brown.

Mrs. Milton Hagerman donated one matching brass candlestick in memory of her husband and the other candlestick was given by an anonymous donor.

Mrs. Ray Keating donated a silver communion cup in memory of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stephens of Petherkicks Corners.

Rev. Small conducted Church Women made the presentation of an oak lectern and this also was dedicated.

WOMEN LOSE GROUND IN POLITICS — Only four women were elected to the House of Commons Nov. 8 compared with six in the old Parliament but one, Grace McInnis (right) is the first woman MP ever elected from British Columbia. She is also the first woman MP to sit for Vancouver. Health Minister Judy Lamarsh was re-elected as were Margaret Rideout (second from right), Liberal member for New Brunswick's Westmoreland and Jean Wadds, Progressive Conservative MP from the Ontario riding of Grenville - Dundas. The girls in Phi Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held the last pre-Christmas meeting on December 13 at the home of Miss Linda Cook. Final preparations were made for the Christmas party which will be held December 18. Mr. Andy Hale was the winner of the turkey draw. The girls brought gifts to the meeting wrapped in odd-shaped packages. Later, they were auctioned and the proceeds went to the treasury.

Canadian Women Lose Ground In Fight for Political Voice

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Canadian women lost ground in 1965 in their campaign for numerically stronger role in federal politics, but they still made their voice heard on a variety of issues. And they made a few gains in a bid for recognition abroad.

Only four of 37 candidates were elected Nov. 8 compared with a record six in the old parliament, but they were not the satisfaction of knowing she was the first woman MP ever elected from British Columbia.

Grace MacInnis, daughter of CCF founder J. S. Woodsworth and widow of six-term MP Angus MacInnis, was elected in Vancouver - Kingsway and became the first woman to sit in the Commons as a representative of the New Democratic Party.

The other three winners were Vancouver-Health Minister Judy LaMarsh from Niagara Falls and Margaret Rideout of the New Brunswick riding of Westmoreland, both Liberals, and Jean Wadds, Progressive Conservative MP for the Ontario constituency of Grenville-Dundas.

Mrs. Rideout and Mrs. Wadds are also widows of MPs and daughters of former politicans. Mrs. Wadds, formerly Mrs. A. Clair Casselman, is the daughter of Ontario's lieutenant-governor, Earl Rowe. Mrs. Rideout's father, Vance Saunders, was once mayor of Bridgewater, N.S.

WAS PIONEER MINISTER

Early days for women in politics were recalled in July with the death of Irene Parlby of Alta. Alta., 87, minister without portfolio in the Liberal government from 1921 to 1934. She was one of five Canadian women who successfully petitioned the Privy Council for a ruling that women could be appointed senators.

Controversial questions occupied many women during the year. About 75,000 signed a petition asking Canada to clean up its television programs. A delegation of six took it to Minister Pearson and Mrs. O. J. McNeil of Regina told him the petitioners were invited to witch - hunters nor prudes.

In February, 10 women, including the Metropolitan Toronto branch president, resigned from the Voice of Women. Eight of them said in a signed statement it was because the organization had become too militant and too destructive in its work for peace.

Another sort of tangle with authority went on for weeks in Victoria when 75 - year - old Mother, Cecilia Mary and six Roman Catholic nuns refused to close their animal shelter in spite of instructions from church officials.

In September, Mother Cecilia announced she and the nuns had switched to the old Catholic Church, regarded by the Roman Catholic Church as a splinter sect.

FINED FOR OBSCENITY

Two Toronto women were involved in lively controversies. Alderman June Marks provoked headlines and a judicial inquiry with charges that city officials at least tacitly aided speculators' block-busting tactics to turn downtown neighborhoods into slums. The inquiry report said the charges were unfounded but there were changes made in housing bylaws.

Art gallery owner Dorothy Cameron put on a show called Eros '65 and had a visit from police who seized several paintings. The works were later ruled obscene and she was fined $250 but said she would appeal because the principle was important to the public.

In the realm of international recognition, Alice Girard, dean of nursing at the University of Montreal, was chosen the first Canadian president of the 800,000-member International Council of Nurses, and Merle Law of London, Ont., became the first president from outside the United States of the 25,000-member National Secretaries Association.

A new field was opened to women late in the year when the post office decided they could be hired as mail carriers because of the labor shortage. It was timed to coincide with the Christmas rush.

And there was other recognition at home. Mme Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, was appointed first chancellor of the reorganized University of Ottawa, Aileen Nicholson, a psychiatric social worker, became Ontario's first administrator of adult female institutions, and Mrs. Percy Bruden was elected chief of the Beaver Lake Indian band at Lac-La-Biche, Alta.

Ann Landers

Women Turn Alcoholic Faster Than Men

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a sneaking suspicion that my sister is being turned into an alcoholic by her cheating husband. It breaks my heart to see this once beautiful, gay creature become argumentative and slovenly.

I've discussed the problem with my brother and he says I am worrying needlessly — that Marge likes to get into the sauce a little but she is no alcoholic. Maybe he is right, but I'd appreciate some information to go on.

What are the facts of alcoholism in women? How can one tell? — NEEDING THE FACTS.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR NEEDING: Ooe expert, Mrs. Marty Mann, the founder and executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism, has produced a list of 4 danger signals for female drinkers. I hope you millions of ladies who consider yourselves "social drinkers" will examine the list carefully. If you see yourself in six or more of these situations, you are no social drinker, Dearie.

1. Gulping drinks.

2. Making promises about drinking — but only to herself.

3. Lying about her drinking — minimizing the number of drinks, or concealing the fact that she has had any drinks at all.

4. Taking a drink before going to a party where liquor will undoubtedly be served.

5. Feeling the necessity of having drinks at a set time every day or night.

6. Getting tired or four drinks before she can entertain her husband's boss at dinner.

7. Needing drinks for "nerves" because of a shattering day at the office or a frazzle day with the children.

8. Drinking when blue — to forget her worries.

9 Insisting on drinks as part of any special event — theatre, dinner, baseball game or even a Sunday hike through the woods.

Mrs. Mann also says that most alcoholic women start drinking later in life than men. For a man, 10 years of excessive drinking is enough to bring him to the early stages of alcoholism. For a woman, it takes much less time. They slip over the line a lot faster.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago a good friend of mine was in a jam and needed a baby-sitter. I offered to load her the girl who sits for me.

I am now kicking myself for being so big-hearted. Twice last week when I wanted my sitter I wasn't able to get her. She had already committed herself to this friend. Now I am angry. Last night I telephoned the sitter and asked for two upcoming Saturdays. I was told that my "Friend" had booked her for the next three Saturdays.

It seems to me that before this woman tied up my sitter she should have telephoned me and asked if I needed her. I would not dream of engaging another sitter without first checking to learn if that person was planning to use her. Am I unreasonable? — SITTERLESS.

DEAR SITTERLESS: You talk about sitters as if they were not human beings, but property.

A sitter has a right to say yes to the first person who calls. If you want to insure yourself of the girl's services, line her up well in advance — which is what your friend is doing. And your friend is not obliged to call you first to clear the deal.

Marmora Council

MARMORA — Christmas meeting of Marmora Council of the C.W.L. was held on Sunday evening in Sacred Heart Parish Hall with Mrs. Breen O'Connor presiding.

Mrs. Charles Lajoie, mission convener, read letter of acknowledgment from Muskoka at Comberemere, for the 30 cartons of clothing recently shipped to them. Social Action convener, Mrs. reported two gifts and eight cards sent during the month. Request for postage stamps was read from Holy Redeemer College at Windsor. Proceeds from stamps are used to assist the work of missionaries in Japan. Stamps may also be sent to the Scarborough Mission.

The president thanked ladies for their efforts in making the Christmas Fair on December 4th a success. Plans were made to provide Christmas Baskets for the sick and needy in the parish.

After adjournment, and a Christmas message from Rev. W. P. Healey, the members enjoyed caroling led by Mrs. Kay McCagg. An article from the Lea gue magazine, "The Prince of Peace at Christmas" was read by Mrs. Breen O'Conflon. A reading "The Children Point the Way" was given by Mrs. Charles O'Connor and "The Story of the Christmas Guest" by Mrs. Pagi-Brady.

Santa Claus arrived, games were played, and a social hour and lunch enjoyed.

The Experts Say

Canadians Don't Know How to Prepare Fish

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians don't eat enough fish because they aren't aware of the many and delicious ways it can be prepared, says the author of a new book of family recipes.

"There are two schools—those who don't eat fish because they don't like the bones and those who don't like it because it isn't properly prepared," says Trina Ulverg.

Miss Ulverg, a graduate in home economics who has worked as food consultant and hospital dietitian, is the author of Family Heirlooms (McClelland and Stewart), a book of her recipes, most of which have been in her family for five generations.

In preparing fish, she says, the first step is to make sure it's not overcooked, a mistake made by most cooks.

"You can bake fish, in milk or in white wine with mushrooms, or you can broil it with butter and other sauces. Even if you haven't a whole fish you can stuff it by putting fillets and pieces together, and you can use almost anything for stuffing. You can deep fry fish, without covering it in batter, and then serve it cold—ideal for buffet dinners."

SERVE COLD

Miss Vineberg says Gaspe salmon, halibut, sole and haddock done this way with a bit of onion and salt and pepper are delicious.

"You can also steam fish by wrapping it in parchment or aluminum foil and putting it in a steamer or pressure cooker" But for those who don't happen to be where fresh fish is readily available, Miss Vineberg says:

Discussing her book, the author says the recipes begin with her great - great - great-grandmother who lived in Europe and taught her daughter how to cook. When the daughter came to Montreal in 1850 she brought the family recipes with her and succeeding generations have used and added to them.

"As it was intended as a book of old recipes, only one that I have developed myself—chicken orance—is included."

Asked if the recipes in the book had been influenced by French-Canadian cooking habits, she said:

"Not really. The only one is molasses taffy, called la tire."

This is a recipe her mother picked up during her girlhood summers at Riviere-au-Renard in the Gaspe.

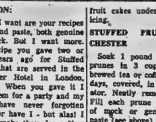
"The greatest thing about them is that they use the things around them—the game and the fish out of the water — more than Canadians do.

"They go in for more heavily spiced, richer food than English-Canadians, and in this way there are a lot of things in common between French-Canadian cooks and Welsh cooks.



"French - Canadians render down pork fat and serve it with French bread in the same way Jewish cooks might render chicken fat and enjoy the crisp morsels that are left."

QUESTION:

What I want are your recipes for almond paste, both genuine and mock. But I want more. That recipe you gave two or three years ago for Stuffed Prunes that are served in the Dorchester Hotel in London, England. When you gave it I made them for a party and my guests have never forgotten them, nor have I - but alas! I want to make them for a New Year's party and cannot find your clipping high or low.

ANSWER:

You timed It just right for Almond Paste rightly should not be applied to fruit cake until two or three days before serving time and the Stuffed Prunes Dorchester bears repeating at this present party time.

GENUINE ALMOND PASTE

½ lb. dry blanched almonds, ½ lb. icing sugar (measure ½ cups when sifted), ½ teaspoon salt, 1 large egg yolk, 1 teaspoon almond extract, 1 teaspoon rose water (optional).

Force almonds through fine nut knife of food grinder twice, using them through by adding the water if used. Mix with the remaining ingredients; then turn the mass out on icing-sugar-sprinkled board and knead until pliable and smooth. Form into ball, wrap well and store in jar to ripen 24 hours before applying to tops of fruit cakes and covering with smooth icing.

MOCK ALMOND PASTE

1 medium-sized sweet or Irish potato, baked,
½ lb. icing sugar, sifted (2½ cups when sifted),
½ teaspoon almond extract,

Bake sweet or Irish potato at 450 deg. Fahr until very tender. While hot, split and scoop inside out into bowl. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly when kneaded. This becomes firmer when cold. Must be stored air-tight. Apply to fruit cakes underneath simple icing.

STUFFED PRUNES DORCHESTER

Soak 1 pound medium size prunes in 3 cups of freshly brewed tea or coffee for 4 to 7 days, covered, in the refrigerator. Next day remove the pits. Fill each prune with a piece of quick or genuine almond paste (see above) and push into this a toasted almond. Close prunes neatly and place in fine paper cases in neat circles. (Or into a wide-mouthed glass jar if to be stored longer.) Pour over about 1 cup port, wine or sherry. Let stand so they will absorb some of the flavor. Serve with fresh sharp sour cream Or Devonshire cream (as they do at the Dorchester) if you can buy it, and a plate of lady fingers. (£1 per serving at the Dorchester.)

The chapter room was filled to capacity with 250 members and visitors and Mrs. Wynne Tomlinson, Worthy Matron, declared the anti - room as part of the Chapter in order to accomodate the crowd.

P. of Trenton Chapter, Sister Evelyne Little, Worthy Grand Matron and Brother Gordon Murray, Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, were welcomed and escorted to the east.

After the meeting, those present retired to the banquet hall, which was decorated with a huge Christmas tree and a Nativity scene, made by the Worthy Patron, Bro. Herbert Tomlinson. The head table guests were escorted in by ten choir boys from St. Thomas Church singing carols. Mr. Doug Davenport was organist.

ENJOY POTLUCK SUPPER

The blessing was given by Rev. Canon R. B. Wright of Christ Church before the potluck supper. Sister Dorothy McGlashon, P.D.D.G.M., presided at a toast to Grand Chapter and Sister Evelyne Little, W. G.M., responded. She told of her projects for her year. They are, Esther Chapter Star Training Awards for Religious Leadership) to help student nurses, Sister Terrence Nightingale Home; the Grand Chapter Benevolent, and the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Rev. Canon Wright, introduced the Sister Dorothy McGlashon, P.D.D.G.M., pro. gave a Christmas message and was thanked by Br. Harry Crews W. P. of Trenton.

Mr. Davenport played the organ, lent by Bro. Harold Howling, and accompanied choir boys and audience in the singing of carols.

Successful Living

Senior Citizens Keep Tabs on One Another

DEAR DORIS: What can be done when sudden illness makes it impossible for a lonely elderly person to call for help? If such a one is living alone a stroke might mean that even his telephone is too far away. — WORRIED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR WORRIED: You're right that it's a real concern. The telephone is a lifeline to outside persons, but you do have to be able to get to it, to dial, and to speak.

Here, elderly persons check up on each other, by way of a telephone chain — sort of an each-one-reach-one arrangement. The captain calls one; the called-on dials the next, who dials the next. And so on down a list of six.

If there is no answering hello, the captain is the next one dialed. He checks, then alerts the Red Cross to the unanswered telephone. A worker hops in her car for a personal investigation.

Thus our senior citizens in one community at least, take care of an important service for themselves. Not to mention the morale builder that a daily telephone call from a friend can be!

We'd like to hear from our readers about what is being done in other centres. Any special plans will be shared with the delegates of the Canadian Conference on Aging, taking place in Toronto at the end of January. People who work for and with the elderly in various parts of Canada will be comparing notes at the sessions.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am a wiser aged 46, though friend say I look much younger. I am in a boring job and wonder if it is too late to make a change.

I have always been interested in hospital work such as nurses did or something like that. — STILL YOUNG.

DEAR STILL: Practical nurses often take training at your age and older, if they are in good physical health. Go to the teaching hospital in your area and ask about courses offered where you live.

Finding work we can enjoy is worth no end of effort.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Is wheat germ oil useful for humans? What is it?

This is for the protection for some people as they do not know what they are using, which could be harmful.—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED: Wheat germ oil comes from the germ of wheat — the food-friendly germ, this time, from which wheat germinates!

Wheat germ is rich in the B vitamins, which every human body needs for the proper use of other foods. Most people don't need to take such things as daily doses, just as long as they eat the right things regularly. Trouble is, some don't. This oil is not harmful.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Mrs. Borden Bell presided at the December meeting of Marmora Home and School Association held at the Central School last week. Mr. Kenneth Gillies, principal, took attendance and banners went to Mrs. Dorothy Park and Miss Gayle Aikington.

Reverend Kenneth Bauder gave an inspiring Christmas message and was thanked by Mrs. Bell. A tape recording of Christmas carols by children of Earl Prentice School and Central School was re - played and enjoyed by parents. Lunch was served by Grade 3 mothers.

PILLOW TALK

Dear Susanna: Our son's room seems larger and has taken on the appearance of a office we provided him with a directional bed — no headboard.

The only difficulty resulting was that, he didn't have anything substantial against which to prop his pillow when reading in bed before he settled down at night.

I covered two perfectly good seat cushions from a discarded chesterfield with the same material as in his drapes. These provide the necessary prop for his pillows and are so flat though they have been professionally designed.

During day they are most attractive standing up at the head of his bed, or just left stacked on the floor as decorator cushions. If they are to be used for sitting around on the floor as well, it is wise to cover sides with plastic. — Homemaker.

* * *

Dear Susanna: Hardened glue in a tin or bottle will soften in a most cooperative manner when a little vinegar is added.—Betty Jean Barker.

* * *

Dear Susanna: Could you or some of your readers help me? Is there any way to stop cherries from falling to the bottom of a pound loaf? — Mrs. L. Hedges.

You've picked a stickler but maybe we can help a bit:

For one thing, you'll find the cherries are usually more likely to stay evenly suspended in the cake when an all-purpose (bread) flour, rather than pastry flour, is used.

The butter or shortening should not be overly soft, and it is important to bake the loaf at just the right temperature. If it is baked too slowly, the fruit is more likely to sink to the bottom.

Finally, commercial bakers advise that they wash off the syrup and carefully dry the candied cherries before incorporating them into the cake — they feel that this also helps.

Music Pupils Present Yule Concert

The Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. Emily Veley, R. M. T., on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Veley opened the meeting and extended a hearty welcome to students, parents and guests. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were heard.

The first part of the program consisted of grade work accomplished so far this season. The following pupils performed at the piano: Joel Oliver, Deborah Grass, Margaret Lewington, Melanie May, Beverly Lewis, Kathryn Sine, Beverly Hitchon, Kathryn McGeown, Diane Shorey, Carolyn Lewis, Linda Noakes and Evelyn Terry.

Three students then played the necessary requirements to pass them from one grade to another. From Grade I to Grade II - Susan Cook and Peggy Mackay. From Grade II to Grade III - Frances Faulkner. Mrs. Veley presented each of these successful pupils with Cards of Merit.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

Mrs. Veley and James Noakes opened the Christmas music part of the program with a piano duet "The Holy City" by Stephen Adams. Others contributing piano solos at Christmas carols were - Deborah Grass, Margaret Lewington, Helen Kreshka, Joel Oliver, Ann Keshula, Melanie May, Peggy MacKay, Kathryn McGeown, Linda Noakes and Carolyn Lewis. Carolyn and Beverly Lewis also favored with a piano duet and Deborah Grass and Susan Cook each playing with Mrs. Veley.

The musical portion of the program was brought to a close with the playing of "Hallelujah Chorus" by Dr. Arne for duet by James Noakes and Mrs. Veley.

Christmas parcels were exchanged and refreshments were served by the club hostesses.

Crescent Lodge Marks Birthday

THOMASBURG — On Monday evening a special program was planned by Crescent Rebekah Lodge, Thomasburg, as the lodge was celebrating its 52nd. birthday, with one charter member, Mrs. Irene Coulter, present.

Sister Coulter was called to the front of the lodge room by Noble Grand Sister Joyce Hall, who presented her with a certificate, making her an honorary member of the lodge.

After the close of lodge proceedings District Deputy President Sister Bisher and District Deputy Grand Master of the I.O.O.F. lodges in the district, Bro. Wesley Farrell, presented a short program.

Readings were given by Sister Eva Farrell, Sister Helen Hagerman and Brother Cecil Green. Several numbers by a rhythm band composed of lodge members and accompanied by Sister Merle Mumby on the accordion were enjoyed.

A number of old time records played on the first type of "talking machine" ever to be built brought expressions of pleasure from the audience.

A dialogue by Sister Fisher and Brother Farrell was followed by the showing by Mrs. Kenneth Jeffrey of slides taken by her daughter last summer on her European tour.

Soviet Women Want to Be More Beautiful

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia plans to set up a new scientific centre to discover how to make women even more beautiful under communism.

The new research institute of cosmetics will keep 300 experts busy working on new techniques for beauty.

Russia's older revolutionaries frowned on beauty aids such as lipstick and cosmetics. Now, the beauty trade has become a flourishing industry, and modern Russian girls are quick to copy Western trends.

The new institute will back up 185 beauty specialists, doctors and plastic surgeons working at the Moscow Cosmetics Institute, known as the Beauty Institute.

This was opened in 1937, shut down during the Second World War and reopened in 1945, with its main task to mend men's faces scarred in battle. When this job was done, the institute turned to making women beautiful.

Soviet beauty treatment has a strong medical base, and qualified doctors advise on how to overcome wrinkles and other facial problems.

Thousands of women come to the institute on Gorsky St., Moscow's main thoroughfare, for a "consultation," costing only one ruble ($1.20), less than the price of a good theatre seat.

Moscow beauticians—all except six are women—lay out across the country regularly to give consultations in 112 cities.

Cannot Use Courts for Punishment

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Quarrelling married couples must not use the courts to punish their spouses, Magistrate Gordon Stewart said Wednesday.

He spoke out against wives who charge their husbands with assault, make up and withdraw the charges in court.

"One of these days people who use the courts just to straighten out their husbands are going to start paying costs," he told a Sandwich West housewife who had withdrawn assault charges against her husband.

It was the second time the couple appeared in court this year on the same charge.

Church Groups

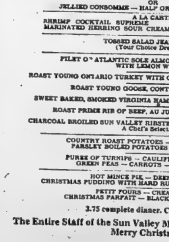
ST. MARK'S GUILD

DESERONTO — St. Mark's Guild held its final meeting for the year early this month, beginning with a potluck supper in the parish hall. This was followed by a short business meeting, and was concluded with carol singing, with the rector, the Rev. A. F. Dowdell as accompanist.

Reports for the year were made and accepted, and the balance of funds on hand was voted to the wardens. The bazaar report was surprisingly good, and there was such a large attendance despite the unseasonably heavy snow that day.

The first meeting of 1966 will be held January 10, when officers will be elected.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY



MARMORA — The Christmas meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was a Candlelight Service held Sunday evening in Marmora Free Methodist Church.

The program conducted by the president, Mrs. Everett Barrons, included many beautiful Christmas numbers: choral groups were led by Eldon Hardy and Mrs. Bitchie Wells and "The Christmas Story" was read by Rosetta Casselman.

Beaver Creek ladies provided a skit "The Best Gift," and Mrs. Murray Walker read a poem entitled "Ready for Christmas." Mrs. Penny Barrons sang a solo "Christmas" and there was a song by two juniors. A selection was played on the accordion by Lorne McKee with Mrs. Harry Mawer at the piano.

The meeting was closed by Rev. Kenneth Bauder.

U.C.W. Meetings

THOMASBURG U.C.W.

THOMASBURG—The Christmas meeting of Thomasburg U.C.W. took place in the church hall on Wednesday evening, with about 30 members and visitors present.

Mrs. James Seekings, leader of the evening group, opened the meeting with a Christmas poem. Mrs. Freda Morton was in charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. Royna Fraser read the Scripture followed by prayer by Mrs. Marion Morton. Mrs. Freda Morton gave an interesting meditation on the Christmas Story. Carols, accompanied by Mrs. Seekings, were sung.

There will be just one group in the future with the meetings alternating in the afternoon and evening of the second Thursday of the month.

PROGRAM FEATURES CAROLS

The program...which was in charge of Mrs. A. P. Smith, included singing of more carols, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Morton, and readings by Mrs. Harold Morton, Mrs. Gerald Morton, Mrs. Ross Wilson played two Christmas selections on the piano.

Two contests were conducted by Mrs. Laurieson Grills and Mrs. Gerald Morton.

The highlight of the evening was a comic skit with Mrs. Royna Fraser as Santa Claus, and Mrs. Lorne Coulson as Mrs. Santa Claus, on the night before Christmas.

Supper was served buffet style by members of the evening group.

Mrs. Smith was presented with a gift for which she graciously thanked the gathering.

Mrs. Ruth Seekings thanked all those who had in any way helped to make the event such a success.

FLEW TO RENDEZVOUS

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—Graduates of Vancouver's Templeton junior high school signed a pact years ago to hold a reunion in 1940. The first was so successful they decided to meet again every five years. Mrs. Kay Rhoades lost touch with the group on moving to Ontario but recently attended the sixth reunion in Honolulu.

Bridal Ensembles Will Be More Old-fashioned

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian bride of 1966 may look as idyllic as a Wordsworth ballad or as avant garde as cafe a go-go on a Saturday night.

The old - fashioned country wedding, the "baby doll" and the hooded costume were reemerging themes in the spring-summer 1966 press showing Wednesday of bridal ensembles by Portrait Gowns Ltd.

A new look with the distinctive flavor was the "cape" — a loose tunic of lace or chiffon over a simple sheath.

The romantic, countrified look appeared in a collection of shirtwaists inspired by European folk dress. Puffed sleeves, elaborate bodices and lavish use of lace were the garb.

Catering to the young were several variations on the granny gown theme. Skimmers and A-lines flowed from the high empire waist. Favorite fabrics in this group were embossed and embroidered cotton.

The "appaction" hood, copied from the garb of medieval monks, came attached to gowns or in matching capes and coats. One costume-like cape of chantilly lace had a matching hood convertible to a mantilla.

Creations were by Portrait's designers Anna Knoll and Emilie Salas.

LACE DOMINATES

In fabrics, lace played a major role. Alencon, guipure, cluny and chantilly were used for overskirts, coats, veils and as applique.

New on the scene was "patachou," a slubbed cotton resembling wool crepe.

Millinery was important with helmets, turbans and Juliette caps appearing along with more traditional veils. One helmet inspired by the crusaders of the middle ages was covered with silk flowers.

Emphasis was on the delicate, lightweight look with veils, flowers and casts in tulle, organza and lace.

Several creations came with sleeveless coats, sometimes matching the dress sleeve. One tuxedo jacket had a cutaway coat ending in a floor-length train.

Other innovations were the use of ornate ribbon lace for bodices and sleeves and handmade flowers scattered on skirts.

Still popular were the kitchi, or bell-shaped sleeve and the Spanish influence — mantillas, flamenco sleeves and tiers of lace ruffles.

Plans were made for the Legion annual Christmas welfare work. This year there will be about 75 baskets of food and treats supplied for needy families, and as many gifts for the sick and shut-ins in the district.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS

Winners were announced of the essay contest "How Remembrance Day Should Be Observed" conducted by the Legion in the senior group, grades 10 to 13 Ronald Grey, Marmora H i g h School, won first prize of $10. In the junior group, grades 6 to 9, first prize was won by Alice Casselman, Delore Public School and Jeff Rothermel of Marmora High School won 2nd prize of $5.

All entrants were given a dollar for their efforts. Essay winners will be entered in the District Ontario-Canadian Contest. In January there will be a public speaking contest in junior and senior groups and topics will be speaker's choice.

Deseronto News

Carol Singing Marks Church Festivities

DESERONTO — St. Mark's Anglican Church in Deseronto held its candle-carols service with nine lessons last Sunday evening. Readers of the lessons were Mrs. Lawrence Charles Gray, Donald Armitage, Craig Spence, C. A. Sarsfield, Master Brian Coles, Master Brian Jackson, Jack Layfield, and the rector the Rev. A. F. Dowdeb.

The senior choir sang eight carols and the junior choir sang "Peace on Earth" as its anthem during the offertory, and another carol "There Comes a Vessel Laden," was offered by Mr. George Topping as a solo. Charles Kalpfli is the choir master and organist.

The church was beautifully decorated for the service, with a lighted tree, and evergreens and candles in each window. On the altar were two tall candelabra, each holding eight candles. There was a good congregation to worship at this service, so true to the real spirit of Christmas.

ST. MARK'S CAROLLERS

Members of the choir of St. Mark's Anglican Church in Deseronto, and of the Girls' Auxiliary joined forces Monday evening to carry Christmas music up and down the streets of the town, and to gather g r e a t cheer about them as they sang on the street corners. Several homes were visited also, especially where there were old folk. One house is home for five out-patients of the Ontario Hospital. Back at the parish hall o n c e more, the carollers had a social hour and enjoyed the refreshments served by a group of ladies of the church.

Quebec Economy Is Unable To Grow Faster Than Nation

By CLAUDE HENAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec economy has come through another year of progress in 1965 but the view of the future is obscured by the prospect of reduced U.S. investment in Canada and tighter credit.

On the average, the economy kept pace with that of Canada as a whole. The estimated increase in the province's Gross National Product was eight per cent, around the level of the national figure but lower than the 9.3 per cent for Quebec in 1964.

Storm warnings, offsetting the generally optimistic economic climate, were hoisted toward the end of the year by Premier Jean Lesage, taking note of the Washington announcement that the U.S. is curbing foreign investment and the rise in interest rates.

These decisions "will affect education, new factories, universities, development of natural resources, salaries and wages," the premier said.

"The more pressure we exert at the present time in Quebec for construction, particularly between now and 1967, the more we create a situation which unavoidably engenders and nourishes the spiral of inflation."

It was premature to say what would be the long-term results of the policies but it would be necessary to set up strict construction priorities "so as to best use the finances which we will be able to obtain at reasonable interest rates."

BUILDING BOOMS

—New construction totalled $2,380,500,000, up 21.6 per cent.

—Gross farm revenue was $567,990,000, up 3.6 per cent.

—Investment in new enterprises was $4,128,400,000, up 14.6 per cent.

—Unemployment dropped to 5.6 per cent from 6.4 in 1964.

—Wages totalled $6,840,000,000, up 10.2 - per - cent increase, while the number of employed rose 4.4 per cent to 1,308,000.

A variety of individual projects contributed to the growth. A Canadian-financed assembly plant for Peugeot and Renault cars started operating in November at St. Bruno, east of Montreal, and a General Motors plant began production in September at St. Therese, also in the Montreal area.

Three thousand men were employed on the $1,500,000,000 Manicouagan - Outardes hydro electric development in northeastern Quebec. It is already providing power although not scheduled for full operation until 1973.

Some $70,000,000 in construction contracts hsb been let for the 1967 Montreal world's fair which is expected to cost $450,000,000.

During the year plans were announced for a $250,000,000 integrated steel mill to be built at Becancour on the St. Lawrence River and be in operation by Oct. 1, 1969.

HELP BUILD OTHERS

The importance of these projects lies not only in the employment and products they produce but also in the other industries they attract, said a senior official of the Quebec trade and commerce department.

For example, Duplate of Canada was building a plant at St Therese to provide windscreens and windows for the cars being made there, and Firestone was putting up a multi-million-dollar plant at Joliette, Que., to supply tires.

Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. had announced plans for a $40,000,000 steel-rolling mill at Contrecoeur near the Becancour plant.

The spokesman added that the government had undertaken negotiations with other firms and there were concrete indications that other plants would be set up to supply parts.

In the pulp and paper industry, a $40,000,000 project is being built at Miller's Bay by Consolidated Paper Corp., a $20,000,000 Canadian International Paper Co. plant is going up at Matane, and a $50,000,000 Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. project is going in at Quebec.

Profitable operation of the Miller's Bay and Quevillon plants requires elimination of the Quebec law that now prevents Sunday operations, a provincial Tax commission is studying the possibility of changes in the law but the firms apparently are already certain it will be changed.

The home was decorated with pink for the happy occasion. Relatives attended from Schell burnie, Reddendale, Odessa, Kingston, Oshawa and St. Lambert's, Quebec.

A buffet luncheon was served.

SLA PARTY

Miss Zelda Halsall entertained her Sunday School class of girls in Ross Lowery Hall on Saturday evening. They enjoyed caroling and returned to the hall where the U.C.W. served refreshments. The girls exchanged Christmas gifts with one another.

Smallwood Said Ready To Retire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph R. Smallwood of Newfoundland says his mind now is "completely made up"— he is ready to retire. But he won't say when.

The sprightly "Joey" — as most Newfoundlanders know him—celebrates his 65th birthday Friday, having passed what he terms "one of the most arduous years of my life."

He said in an interview his decision to step down as premier and head of the Liberal party in Newfoundland is "completely final." But there are certain jobs he feels he must complete before retiring because "in all honesty, I've not done so cowardly and I don't like to be cowardly."

The unfinished work to be taken care of is undoubtedly the Churchill Falls power project in Labrador, which is not only his brain-child but has been nutured by him for 10 years. He foresees that when it comes to construction would begin this year but this hardly seems possible now.

Moira

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Melmoy, Peter, Gary and Heather, Mrs. Lorne McMullen and Grant recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Melmoy.

Mr. Gordon Graham and baby of Oshawa and Mrs. Jim Hughes of Toronto recently visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vanderwater has moved into their new home in the village, while Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thompson and children have taken possession of Mr. James Vanderwater's farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hawley of Gananoque were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Holden.

Sunday morning the White Gift Service was held at Moira United Church.

Relatives attended from Schell burnie, Reddendale, Odessa, Kingston, Oshawa and St. Lambert's, Quebec.

A buffet luncheon was served.

St. Ola

ST. OLA — Mrs. Harry Phillips is visiting with her daughters in Trenton.

Mrs. Jim Derry of Gilmour, Mr. Allan Robbins of Ormsby and Mr. Bill Rosenau of Salt Lake and Willoughby, Ohio, are reported to be making good progress after major surgery.

Rev. H. G. Lester, superintendent of Home Missions, conducted Sunday services and administered the Sacrament on the St. Ola pastoral charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Carroll were guests on Saturday evening at the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stewart in Brighton.

There will be a New Year's Eve dance in St. Ola Orange hall, with Poulain's orchestra in attendance. The 500 and euchre party will be held the same evening in the upstairs of the Orange hall.

Mrs. Don Sprackett was the lucky winner of a popular table lamp made by Carlson's Carrol.

Greetings are received from Rev. Samuel and Mrs. Fuller and Stephen of Belmont, Ont., Mrs. Fuller received a call to the United Church in Belmont in July and journeyed from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, where he has been serving the last few years. Mr. Fuller served the St. Ola United Church charge in 1953-1957.

The St. Ola United Church Official Board met Friday evening in Ormsby Church, Rev. T. Colwell of Coe Hill and Mr. R. V. Cook of St. Ola, presided.

Tyendinaga

TYENDINAGA — Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McLean have returned home from Buffalo, having spent a week with his sister, Mrs. J. Cross. They also attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Cross of Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skelly is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Stan Watson has returned home after spending two weeks in hospital.

St. Andrew's young people's Roslin conducted a candle light service in Roslin Presbyterian Church Sunday night.

Mr. Garfield Sayers has been spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. G. Carter.

Dave's Hideaway

By

Dave Charles

I'm glad that we could be together at this time of the year. The new year of 1966 looks very promising indeed for. Belleville and district teens. Your support, and help, would be much appreciated in this respect so that we can organize our brilliant ideas into material projects.

One project which was started about a year and a half ago for the Belleville Teens will no longer be in 1966. Sorry to say the "Crow's Nest" will be no more. Unfortunately neither will the Club Commodore building. I am sure that this establishment has had many never-to-be-forgotten social occasions over the years.

The "Crow's Nest" did much for Dave Charles. In the first year of operation of the "Nest" I had a chance to meet many Belleville and area teens, as well as working with the top Canadian bands.

The "Crow's Nest" will be holding two more gigs for the teens of Belleville. Let's show our gratitude to this dance which has brought the tops in Canadian talent to this city for the Teens, by attending the two final events of the season. Christmas Day Vince and the Townsmen will be featured. This great new local sound is becoming more popular as weeks go by; see and hear it for yourself on Christmas Day. The final dance the "Crow's Nest" will be presenting is another Belleville first for teenagers. On New Year's Eve 1965 a dance for teen-couples only will be held, featuring "The Lively Set" from Toronto. Those planning to attend should call Mrs. J. Bennett for reservations. If you are one of the lucky couples, have yourself a good time.

In the new year I plan to have a Coffee House for the teens to call their very own. This will be something new, and different enough, to be successful. There will be no dancing, just seating accommodation, and typical Coffee House atmosphere which will be a change from the usual dance scene. A special menu will be devised for this new "click." More about it in 1966.

On the music scene, the Beatles managed to do it again sitting at the top of the "file" with "We Can Work It Out." This seems to prove without a doubt that they are still kings of pop musicdom.

In the year of 1965 the music trends have varied from Mod, to Folk Rock coming on strong in the latter half of the year.

There have been many great songs and a greatly improved Pop music industry as I am sure sales will show.

The Canadian music scene has changed for the better and shows great promise for our own Canadian performers.

Dave's Favorite Three :

1. As Time Goes By ..... The Rolling Stones
2. Girls ..... The Beatles ..... from Rubber Soul
3. Sunday and Me ..... Jay and the Americans

At this Christmas time 1965, the age of space flights, wars, and The Beatles, all seem out of focus and unreal to us.

Somehow the Yule Season makes a transition from worldly affairs to this time which man has celebrated since the birth of the Christ child. Joy and goodwill are to be found everywhere for this brief period. In this Season a light of hope is shed on our infected, troubled, and sorry world. Why is it not possible to have this harmony all year round that we experience at Christmas? If you can find the answer to this question the world would be a truly wonderful place to live. Agreed?

I MET A MAN

Wally West

I met a man one Sunday morn,
"Don't you attend?" said I.
"Oh no! he roared, "It's my day off"
"Besides . . . . who needs it anyway"
At Christmas time I meet this man
Again, on streets, in shops, this time
He bore great bundles, costly too.
And bore a smile more broad than mine
We talked upon this happy scene
Of things gone by, of good years past
I mused on one occasion when
This man had been indifferent.
"Do you believe?" I asked with fear
"Oh! no" said he, "But won't you come
And have some Christmas cheer?"

Shangri-La.

Christmas in Viet Nam

By E. K. FLINDALL (M.S.S.)

Is time he lay sad stayed asleep	So easily escaped his eye, But made him tired.
And could not wake to hammering feet;	The floor the bed the pine and lark
And silvered pine no more would creak,	Can not hold those eyes apart Which war has deemed to close.
Nor winter frost could chill his cheek.	And guns are pounding, clicking, killing,
He could not dream: he knew not war	While men give up their lives— unwilling.
The larks which wheeled up in the sky	Not even he who lives can say The good which death has brought this day,

"Cards for Kids" was the object of a campaign by Dave Charles in The Intelligencer and over CJBQ in the past few weeks. Yesterday afternoon he delivered over 1,500 of them to the Belleville General Hospital where (left to right) Stephen Turner, Nancy Foster, Michele Moon, Stephen Reid, and Pediatrics Head Nurse Mrs. V. Tompkins received them from Dave.

"Cards for Kids" Help Patients Enjoy Christmas

By DON CAMERON (UNB)

A hospital isn't exactly the most cheerful place to spend Christmas - especially for boys and girls.

With the help of Belleville's teens, Dave Charles of CJBQ decided to do something to make Christmas a little merrier for those youngsters who were sick at this time of year.

For the past few weeks "Dave's Hideaway" and the CJBQ radio program "At the Top" have radiated appeals for the Christmas cards to be sent to Dave so he could take them to the kids in the hospital. The response was tremendous - over 1500 cards came in from teens and their parents.

Yesterday afternoon Dave made his way to the Pediatrics ward of the Belleville General hardened down with his load of cards. Head Nurse Mrs. V. Tompkins was very pleased to receive them - they will be used to decorate she ward.

The number of cards Dave received was much greater than he had expected - a very special merry Christmas was his wish for those who helped him spread Christmas cheer among the boys and girls who couldn't be home for the Yuletide season.

Christmas Eve

By WAYNE LOWRY (N.C.C.)

The light snow, slowly drifting down from the star-studded heavens, softly caresses the cool earth, burying deep all the scars and wounds of a torn world. Other nights the world is saturated with fear and distrust; other nights the world expects and awaits total destruction; tonight there is peace.

In the houses, gaily-wrapped gifts are being brought forth with furtive step from well-guarded hiding places. The trees, brightly decorated, emit an occasional glow from darkened corners as a glimmer of light strikes the glittering surface of a star, resting majestically atop the uppermost branch. There is a quiet rustling as tinkling ornaments stir, moved by a passing breath of air.

Gradually people begin to emerge from their homes humming silently long-cherished carols, their faces reflecting the peacefulness of the night. The pealing church bells beckon them.

An occasional, warm "Merry Christmas" drifts through the frosty air and is returned with equal sincerity. Peace and serenity reign throughout the land. It is Christmas Eve.

Criticizes Christmas Commercialism

By B. DEVINE (M.S.S.)

The advent of the Christmas season brings an onslaught of assorted trash from the advertising media, and the perennial parade of door-to-door salesmen.

From this overemphasis of commercialism, one can only conclude that somewhere along the line the true spirit of Christmas has been lost.

Even the Christmas tree has succumbed to the wonderful world of industry, although some of the synthetic trees more closely resemble the Peace Tower.

Almost everyone sells Christmas cards, calendars and calendars. These supposedly "proper tokens of esteem" range from the small, innocuous type of greeting to the rather expensive prints selling for five dollars. Some even include calendars!

Of course, we cannot overlook good Branch #123456 of the XYZ Lodge which fights for the prevention of cruelty to the Symplocarpus Orbicularis what's ever that is. Weeks before the waylaid date, we are besieged by representatives from the Lodge, determined to inspire each and every one with Yuletide generosity. They even provide specially prepared income tax exemption forms "for your convenience" which may be instantly validated upon receipt of your cheque.

If you are extremely lucky and live in the right area, you might be able to purchase a Christmas Greeting from the Beatles for the nominal fee of one dollar. I do not know what they call it: "Ho Ho Ho a GoGo" I guess.

All I can say about this hideous mess is that it is a fortunate thing for the merchants that Christmas comes only once a year. After all, two Christmases would addle their calendars!

CHRISTMAS SURPRISE

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Dutchmen got an unpopular Christmas present Wednesday -new taxes which will raise the prices of a wide range of consumer items. Cars, cigarettes, liquor, radios, television sets, record players, tape recorders — all will cost more when new turnover taxes come into force Jan. 1.

Teen-age Canada Some Brain Twisters For Holiday Season

By JACK HUTTON

As any Christmas present to you, here's a handpicked list of brain teasers that will win you an overnight reputation as a wizard in any company.

First, did you know that without seeing them you can tell whether someone is holding a dime or penny in either hand. It never fails. And here's how it's done (quietly now, it's a trick around.)

Turn your back while the other person takes a penny in one hand and a dime in the other. Ask him (or her) to multiply whatever is in the right hand by 2, then multiply whatever is in the left hand by 3.

Then ask him to add them. Ask whether the result is an odd number or if it is, then the penny is in the left hand and if it's in the right hand.

Mysterious? If you think about it there are only two possible answers — 32 or 23. You've got the first if the penny is in the right hand, the second if it's in the left. But you don't have to explain — be mysterious.

TRY THIS ONE

While you've got them puzzling over that one, trot out what is sometimes called the Printer's Press Number: 12345679. (You'll notice only 8 is missing.)

Ask someone to write down any number he's sure of (except 0). Then ask the person to think very carefully and choose the number under 10 that he likes best. Tell him this is black magic and that he must concentrate very hard.

Let's say he suggests 3. Ask him to multiply the number he's written down by 27 (you try it) now to see what I mean). The answer comes out 333333333 (speedometer turning over 333333333).

If he suggests 4 you multiply by 36, if 5 by 45 and multiply by 63. The trick is to multiply his number by 9 and use it.

Impress your favorite aunt or uncle over Christmas or the New Year season whom you'd like to remember. They are a couple of old chestnuts that never fail to involve an entire family.

My favorite is the one about the man who is looking at a portrait while talking to someone. "Brothers I have none; but that man's father is my father's son."

Huh! Gets you, doesn't it? Nine out of 10 people think of his immediate ancestors that is wrong. The problem is that you have to juggle mental concepts of either end of the last sentence. It's like patting your head and rubbing your stomach at the same time.

And just to be difficult, I'll leave you to ponder a few moments. The answer is at the end of the column.

HERE'S A QUICKIE

Now a simple quickie that throws a surprising number of people. Someone says, "I have two coins adding up to 31 cents but one of them isn't a 50-cent piece. What are they?"

Come now, it's not that difficult. If one of them isn't a 50-cent piece that doesn't mean that the other one isn't. Try that one on an uncle who believes he's a mathematical genius.

Now for the oldest chestnut of all, absolutely forbidden around the dinner table if anyone has a nervous stomach or problems about getting to sleep. Pull down the blinds, draw your chair closer and listen to the Story of the Missing Dollar.

Three men check into a hotel and pay the manager $30 ($10 each). Shortly after the embarrassed manager realizes he's overcharged them by $5- and sends a bellboy upstairs with the money.

The bellboy decides it's too difficult to split $5 among three men, so pockets $2 and gives each customer $1. Each man, therefore, paid $9 for his room, adding up to $27. The bellboy kept $2 which brings the total to $29.

What happened to the other dollar?

The only way to answer this is to start back at the beginning. The three rooms cost $25; the men were given back $3; and the bellboy kept $2. But I'll guarantee this is still good for a 15-minute argument. (If you are a sneaky type, this leaves more food for you.)

NO PENCIL REQUIRED

Another question which does not require pencil or paper concerns a man just about to put on his socks when the lights go off. The problem is that his drawer is filled with black socks and white socks.

How many socks will he have to take out to make sure that he has one matching pair? We'll leave this answer do the end as well.

Finally, a headscratcher that you may want to try after dinner. A man on a train traveling 60 miles-per-hour walks toward the engine at the rate of two miles-per-hour. At the same time a fly is walking on his head from front to back at the rate of a half-mile-per-hour. Any idea how fast the fly is traveling in the direction of the train?

The way to work this out is, figure-wise, fast. The man is traveling. Then subtract the rate of the fly's progress. If the fly were walking backto-front he would be travelling 62½ miles per-hour. (The answer is below).

Answers: Portrait question: the man is looking at a picture of his own son: Sock question: he picks out two socks; Fly question: the rate is 61½ miles-per-hour.

Have a good Christmas.

Key Club Helps Needy

By MIKE REDDICK (B.C.I.)

The B.C.I. Key Club has been in the past years, taken on the responsibility of collecting 12 needy families around Belleville with food, toys and clothes. The student body is mainly responsible for the success of this drive. Boxes were collected from downtown merchants and one was placed in each classroom, accompanied by a list of the members of a family and their ages. Each class was asked to fill this box with food, toys and clothes.

The Key Club also sponsored a variety show featuring Mrs. Hazel Ann Reid. Music was supplied by the Eldorados and comedy by the Key Clubbers. Admission to the show was one can of food, which, with the toys and clothes collected will be distributed to the families by Friday. Also, to each family the Key Club gives one ten-pound turkey. We, the Key Clubbers, have a lot of fun doing this and hope we can make someone else less fortunate than ourselves, have a merry Christmas.

Transformer Explodes in Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Most of the city was blacked out early today after a hydro-electric transformer is believed to have exploded.

Police said they heard a loud explosion and saw a bright flash.

Public utility commission employees were called out and re-established the electricity at 4:20 a.m.

Workers Meet Management to Avert Strike

TORONTO (CP)—In an unexpected move, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC) met with representatives of Texaco Canada at nearby Clarkson today in an effort to avert a strike scheduled for 6 p.m.

Norm Allison, international representative of the union, had said earlier that "it looks like a strike" and no further meetings were scheduled with management before the deadline. He added that three meetings Wednesday with Texaco management did not produce a contract agreement.

But he said an agreement appears likely between the union and British Petroleum Oil Co. at BP's refinery at Brechin, about 32 miles north of Hamilton, following a tentative agree ment Wednesday at the company's refinery in Montreal.

The union and BP management were meeting in Oakville today, also in an effort to prevent a strike before 4 p.m. The BP contract talks involve Bronte's 120 oil workers.

The union spokesman said he felt the Montreal agreement would set the pattern for the Bronte talks.

Mr. Allison said the Montreal agreement included:

—Wage increases of 10 cents an hour, effective from last April 15, when the old contract expired, 10 cents an hour from Oct. 1 and 15 cents an hour, effective April 15, 1966;

—Establishment of a joint union - management committee on automation similar to one included in the formula that ended the strike at facilities of British American Oil Co. Ltd. in British Columbia last month;

—Severance pay equal to one week's wages for every year of service—to a maximum of 26 weeks—for men laid off by automation;

—Agreement by the company to work with government retraining programs to offset the effects of automation;

—The contract to cover the period June 1, 1965, to May 31, 1967.

Mr. Allison said a strike at Texaco would affect about 300 workers at the Port Credit refinery and a blending plant in Toronto.

He said lack of agreement at Wednesday's meetings was caused by "Texaco's refusing to come up to-parity on job security, wages and term (length) of agreement."

The Oil Workers' Union is currently on strike at the B-A refinery at Clarkson, 15 miles west of Toronto. The strike—which started Sept. 15, the plant has continued to operate with supervisory personnel.

U.S. Sending Humphrey To Japan to Mend Few Fences in Their Relations

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) —Vice-President Hubert Humphrey has been assigned by President Johnson to leave Monday for abroad visits to the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea and Japan—and Japan is the main stop.

The United States and Japan remain friends and strong trading partners—only Canada is a bigger buyer of U.S. goods and Japan is the biggest purchaser of American farm produce—but the relationship has been showing some wear and tear.

Like those strains wracking the Atlantic Alliance, they grow in part from Japan's miracle economic recovery. Japan is starting to take a more independent line these days and the U.S. doesn't always like that line.

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato speaks of "friendship and mutual interest . . . is strong but there always has been disagreement between the U.S. attitude that because of strong ties between the two nations, the right course for Japan is to accept the U.S. view without questioning."

A basic cause for American discontent is the widespread Japanese public opposition to U.S. Viet Nam policy. This is strong despite the U.S. and American.

Premier Sato, whose Conservative government supports the war quietly, said last January in a speech Viet Nam is an Asian problem to be settled by Asians but the huge American intervention since then contrasts with his advice.

U.S. state department officials have been angered by the reporting of the war in Viet Nam in Japanese newspapers, including first-hand reports from North Viet Nam which criticized the U.S. for indiscriminate bombing.

Then, as far as the U.S. is concerned, Japan is too soft on China.

As NATO allies were warned last week in Paris of the China peril, so Japan has been advised in recent months that it "gravely underestimates the threat that Chinese Communist domination of South and South-east Asia would present to Japan's own interests."

To Japan, China is a rich and hereditary market where contacts should be retained.

U.S. SHOWS IMPATIENCE

At an October conference on Japan rad the U.S., American impatience was indicated with the slow rate of Japanese participation in economic aid to non-industrial nations except for direct Japanese benefits.

William Bundy, assistant undersecretary of state for the Far East, also said Japan has "virtually no interest in sharing responsibility for the military defence of the Pacific area."

As the U.S. nagged West Germany to pitch in with military cost assistance, so it keeps pressure on Japan which has flourished since 1945 with the umbrella of a mutual security pact with the U.S. which it refuses to be able to 1970.

At the same time, Japan has had a climate of strong opposition to acquiring nuclear arms and has shown more edginess about control of U.S. military bases on its soil or the status of its old territory of Okinawa which is still under United Nations jurisdiction.

Like Canada, Japan's economy leans heavily of U.S. capital and it has a little fever now, some authorities suggest. It has

Legislation Proposed to Tighten Laws

TORONTO (CP)—Legislation to tighten conflict - of - interest laws applying to elected officials will be introduced at the next session of the Ontario legislature, Municipal Affairs Minister Wilfrid Spooner announced Wednesday.

Mr. Spooner said in an interview studies to prepare legislation to clarify and tighten the laws are under way.

The legislation will be ready for the new session opening Jan. 25, he said.

The law now requires municipal council members to refrain from voting on issues affecting their own property or business interests.

Mr. Spooner declined to discuss what changes might be incorporated into the new legislation.

His said studies are being made of new, tough conflict-of-interest legislation which recently went into effect in New York City. But he expressed doubt that any Ontario law would go as far as New York's in governing the conduct of civic officials.

No Split in British-U.S. Relations Over Viet Nam Wilson Tells Parliament

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson says there's a limit to how far he will go in supporting President Johnson in United States bombing of North Viet Nam but an aide says this is no way should be interpreted as a split in British-American policy.

The aide said Wednesday that Wilson made his remark mainly for the benefit of the Labor party's left wing which has conducted a strong campaign for a halt to the air bombardment of North Viet Nam.

Johnson has been under pressure from some American politicians to destroy North Viet Nam's biggest cities as well.

Wilson told the House of Commons Tuesday:

"We have always made it clear that these are some escalations of the bombing which we could not support, including bombing of the major cities in North Viet Nam."

QUALIFIES COMMENT

But he quickly added:

"Of course, it is no good approaching these problems on the basis which says that the United States should do this and stop doing that unilaterally. It is for us to be able to get some corresponding willingness on the other side.

"We are then prepared to put to the United States that the American should take or not take any particular course of action, as was suggested by the Commonwealth peace mission."

This seemed to suggest Wilson is waiting for some hint of a concession from Hanoi before putting pressure on Washington to reduce or halt its aerial attacks. Two Italian professors recently reported a willingness by President Ho Chi Minh to negotiate a peace settlement. But these reports were denounced by Hanoi as false.

Wilson will confer with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin next Feb. 21-24 in Moscow and undoubtedly the Viet Nam war will loom large in their discussions. But there is no evidence at this stage that their discussions will be designed to terminate hostilities.

HEADED AIR COMMAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Walter Sweeney, 56, former commander of the Tactical Air Command of the U.S. Air Force, died Wednesday night in Florida, the defence department announced. A spokesman said Sweeney died of cancer. The Pentagon described Sweeney as significant figure in the development of jet - powered bomber forces. For seven years he was director of plans for the Strategic Air Command at its Omaha, Neb., headquarters.

Exile Gives His Views

Sanctions Said Only Peaceful Way Of Fighting South Africa's Apartheid

Oliver Tambo, deputy leader of the outlawed African National Congress, lives in exile in Tanzania. Interviewed by Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween, he offers his ideas for fighting South Africa's racial policies.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (CP)—The only peaceful way of forcing the South African government to change its racial policies is by sanctions, says Oliver Tambo, deputy leader of the outlawed African National Congress.

"Countries like Canada, which has spoken very strongly against racial discrimination, should find it possible to take their protests further than condemning," Tambo declared in an interview.

Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd's Nationalist regime had repeatedly shown that it is impervious to pleas for a change in apartheid —racial separation—which it defends in the face of world obloquy.

"Many countries and organizations from the United Nations down have tried hard to talk them out of this policy and they claim that the whole world is wrong," said Tambo.

"Now, the way to get them to change the policy is to make it unworkable.

"There are two methods by which this can be done.

"The first is peaceful. We've lost the chance for this within South Africa. But countries outside can make it unworkable by refusing to co - operate with South Africa, in trade, for instance.

"To attack the economy is to attack the whole foundation of apartheid and its cheap labor. It is difficult, but it is the answer. There's nothing else that can be done from outside.

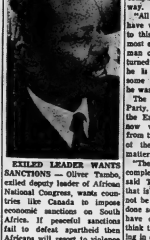
"If sanctions are imposed, then apartheid will become unworkable and if it is unworkable as a policy, the government will not have the country's support. Then they will become either a kind of Hitler regime or they will modify the policy. We wouldn't be satisfied with a modification but at least it would be the beginning of change."

ALTERNATIVE IS WAR

Falling sanctions, "the only other method is the one we have been forced to take, and that is not peaceful at all," Tambo added.

"The South African government knows it, and that's why they're arming and preparing and drilling and manoeuvring. They know they've deprived us of all peaceful methods. . . .

"We're going to attack the economy by methods not peaceful, but our way has the element of bitterness, and civil war atmosphere."



Tambo, 47, makes his headquarters in this Tanzanian capital because the ANC, biggest nationalist party, is banned in South Africa. Large, ominous looking wooden crates stand in his outer office. He is deputy to Chief Luthuli, ANC leader and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize who now is under detention near Durban.

"The situation is dictating the methods and whether people agree or disagree, the situation compels action in a particular way.

"All our outstanding people have warned against it coming to this. Chief Luthuli is one most well-known statesmen and a man of peace. His ideas were turned down. Precisely because he is eloquent and convertes some government supporters, he was put in detention."

The South African United Party, traditionally the party of the English - speaking people, now was "indistinguishable" from the Nationalists, the party of the Afrikaners, on racial

On a person-to-person basis, while South Africans could be polite but "more often than not they will take the opportunity to remind you, if you seem to have forgotten, that they are your superiors."

"In a sense, they are fighting with their backs against the wall. Tension is increasing and must increase until the breaking point is reached. This is what we are all looking forward to. . . ."

Asked if he expects to see a black prime minister in South Africa in his lifetime, Tambo replied:

"Oh yes, by all means in my lifetime. Good Lord, yes."

My "cellar" is a small wine rack with about a dozen Brights wines in it. Does a guest want an appetizer wine at room temperature? A chilled sauterne? A claret, a dessert wine, a port or a bubbly wine? You name it, I've got it. And the fot didn't cost much more than I'd pay for a pair of bedroom slippers.

Mon Ch. Paul CLARET Canada's most distinctive "wine of the country." Ideal with steaks, hamburgers, red meat of any kind.

Mon Ch. Paul SAUTERNE Chilled, it does wonders for white meat of any kind—fish, fowl or pork —and salads!

Du Barry SPARKLING VIN ROSÉ An "anytime" wine that's light and tingling on the tongue. Serve before, during and after any meal at all.

What more pleasant or welcome gift than a cellar of Brights fine Canadian wines? You'll never get a warmer "thank you!".

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

East Side, West Side, all around old Chicago town, football aficionados are breathing a new name in the same breath with which they use when speaking of Grange, the Four Horsemen, Blanchard, Davis, et al.

"Oh Sayers Can He Flee"—they're paraphrasing their national anthem—and the object of their football affection is taking all the kudos in modest stride.

He's Gale Sayers, the newest cub to join Papa Bear Halas' Chicago gridiron grinders who spotlighted the sports pages' headlines with sensational feats in his pro football freshman year.

The mercury-heeled colored phenom from the University of Kansas didn't raise an eyebrow of the veterans of the sports news media in a Chicago hotel a year ago. They intercepted the free-hauling exercises long enough to give him polite attention and remark upon his sartorial splendor.

The fact that the youngster was one of the three first-round choices of venerable Papa Bear Halas meant just that—and was worth a lookover.

They scarcely slowed up from the caviar and Chicago pheasant bountifully supplied by the Bears Inc, when Halas showed film clips of Sayers cavorting on the gridiron with the roaring cheers of U. of K. students blasting his ears.

But a year later the tomtoms and the typewriters clicked out a vastly different tune—a ringing paean of praise for a youngster who ultimately proved Papa Halas' statement that he had a "bolt of lightning in a bottle" in he context.

The Bear scout who shepherded Sayers into the club fold said, "this boy has more ability, more speed and more potential than Lenny Moore when he broke in with the Colts."

Sayers didn't make the public prints until last August when he played in a college all-star scrimmage against the Bears. He limped from the game with an injured knee but an unimpressed coach Otte Graham hinted that he was a poor prospect for the tough pro ranks.

Papa Halas' "lightning in a bottle" didn't pop the cork until the Bears were reeling from three straight losses on the road and finally defeated Los Angeles in Chicago on October 10th.

The big day dawned for the 22-year-old speedster at Bloomington, Minnesota on October 17th. Sayers became a household name as he ripped through the Vikings' hardrock defence for four touchdowns in a 45-37 comeback by the Bears. He smashed through for 227 yards on 21 runs, for receptions and rushes, and returned a kickoff 96 yards with two minutes left putting Chicago ahead 38-37.

He spearheaded a remarkable seven-games win streak for Papa Halas' Bruins. (The push was reached for the six-foot, 192-pound thunderbolt December 12th with his performance in the 61-20 rout of the San Francisco 49-ers.

Some 46,000 rain-soaked fans in Chicago's Wrigley Field saw the darting, ripping Sayers score six touchdowns, matching the NFL record and setting a NFL seasonal record of 21. Later he added another to set a new TD mark.

In addition to his six TD's against Frisco, Sayers amassed 336 yards on nine carries, two pass receptions for 23 yards and five punt returns for 134 yards, setting a NFL record for net yardage in a single game.

A veteran ballhawk said: "I wish I had the vocabulary to describe Sayers. He's a great, great football player already, at a very young age. He's got quickness and speed and something else—a sense of football, a feel for the game."

Almost as unbelievable as his skill as a gridiron phantom is Sayers' modesty. "I'm not any Jimmy Brown, I can tell you that," he said. "Brown does a lot of things I can't do. He is the most exciting football player I've ever seen."

An AP sports writer said, "As far as Bears' fans are concerned any further improvement would be just gilding the best football lily the 71-year-old Halas ever plukked in 47 years of nurturing pro football."

Hull (2), Hawks Singe The Blues!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago's Bobby Hull had no trouble chewing out New York Rangers to the tune of two goals and an assist Wednesday—despite his missing teeth.

The Rangers proved indigestible in their previous National Hockey League contest against Chicago, fighting to a 3-3 draw but Wednesday night, with Hull hitting the bits to them, they went down 4-3.

Said Nick Garen, trainer of Chicago Black Hawks:

"Bobby Hull can score three goals, and what picture do the photogs want? Hull, smiling with his teeth out and holding a puck. It doesn't make sense."

Bobby Hull, star left winger of Chicago Black Hawks, scored two goals and assisted on another in Wednesday night's game against New York Rangers and strengthened his hold on first place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Hull now has 41 points, five more than teammate Stan Mikita who is second in the standings. Mikita scored the winning goal for Chicago Wednesday and helped boost Hawks into first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens in team standings.

Mikita's tally put him one point ahead of Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, who now ranks third with 35 points on 11 goals and 20 assists.

Governments Intervene

CAHA Hit By Protest Deluge

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A deluge of protests followed by support from three levels of government, including Prime Minister Pearson, has forced the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to reconsider its decision to turn down a tour of Italy by a Canadian amateur hockey team.

Lionel Fleury, president of the CAHA, said three Montreal Wednesday night that the organization will conduct a new poll of its executives today.

Tuesday the executives, in a telephone and telegram vote, denied a request by an all-star team from Toronto's Italian-Canadian Hockey League for permission to make a five-game exhibition swing through Italy in January.

The 13-9 vote was followed immediately by a protest from Toronto alderman Joe Piccininni, who threatened court action if the CAHA upheld the decision and appealed to the prime minister for support.

Pearson replied that he hoped the all-star team could still go ahead with the tour.

"I would hope that in some way the association and the Italian - Canadian Hockey League of Toronto might be able to work out the matter in a way that will permit this very interesting program to go forward."

Support for the proposed tour also came from Ontario Premier Robarts, Mines Minister George Wardrope, Liberal members of parliament Hubert Badanai of Fort William and Joe Macaluso of Hamilton West, Toronto mayor Philip Givens and Metropolitan Toronto chairman William Allen.

SPOKE TO CAHA

Fleury said he spoke by telephone Wednesday night to Gordon Jackes of Melville, Sask., secretary-manager of the CAHA, and "we'll do our best to straighten things out."

"He's going to make a survey of the CAHA executives, especially among those who voted against allowing the team to go. He's supposed to report to me in the afternoon."

Fleury said he had been getting many letters and telegrams of protest at his home in Quebec City.

The tour, arranged through Ontario's department of economics and development, was to open in Milan Jan. 4. However, inder CAHA rules, such tours must be sanctioned a year in advance.

Two months ago the way was cleared with the Ontario Hockey Association for the tour, but last week the tour arrangers learned that sanction was also needed from the CAHA.

The tour was also to be a goodwill jaunt with the Ontario government arranging to stage a "hot Ontario week" in Milan to coincide with the trip.

Meanwhile, a telephone call was made to Dr. Anthony Santamaura, Ontario's trade commissioner to Italy, advising him to keep all reservations intact for the tour.

Fourth Win In Row

Rollins Jrs. Shade Petes

HASTINGS — Rookie Ray Summers scored his second goal of the game midway through the second period to give Belleville Rollins Construction a key 4-3 victory over Peterborough Petes here last night.

The victory was Belleville's fourth in a row and lifted the club into undisputed possession of third place in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" Hockey League standings.

Oshawa and Kingston have 22 points each, Belleville 18, and Peterborough 17.

Summers, the club lightweight who had not scored a goal until last week, came through in fine style last night as all the game scoring was recorded in the first half.

It was 3-3 at the end of the first heat and Summers triggered the winning marker at 9.10 of the middle frame on a play with another of the game's heroes, defenceman Doug Potts.

Summers also opened the game scoring back at 3.01 of the first, aided on this one by Jim Pringle and Harold Townsend.

Rollins again took the lead in the see-saw affair at 12.31 when Doug Potts scored on a solo rush for a 2-1 lead.

A scoring flurry broke out near the end of the period. The Doo Byes knotted it at 17.12 with Bill Stabler netting the goal, assisted by Norm Beau and Perry Chittick.

Directly from the face off, Bellerville lit it up. Grant Hagerman was the triggerman on a three-ply play with Potts and Bob Davis the aides at 18.48.

That was it in a scoring way until Summers' game-winner.

Rollins played fine hockey to protect the one-goal margin for 30 minutes.

Peterborough collected nine penalties and Belleville took a half dozen. Included were fighting majors to Rollins' Arnie Marks and the loser's Bill Stabler at 3.33 of the third period.

Belleville's next two games are also via the road, to Trenton next Wednesday and in Kingston on January 5. The next home encounter is against Oshawa here on January 7.

Belleville: Brant, Potts, Ebner, Davis, Saltern, Summers, Townsend, Marks, Dunsmore, White, Duval. Mult. Summers, Pringle.

Will Punish Bench Boxers

CLARENCE CAMPBELL

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, announced Wednesday that no further fines will be levied against players involved in a brawl during a game at New York's Madison Square Garden, last Sunday night.

However, the league president said that while five players—four from Montreal Canadiens and one from New York Rangers—were assessed a misconduct penalty and an automatic $50 fine, the league must take further steps to discipline players who participate in a fight without leaving the bench. Campbell said the misconduct penalties and automatic fines were against Montrealers Henri Richard, Jean Beliveau, Terry Harper and Dick Duff and New York's Jim Neilson. All left the benches and took part.

"This incident points up a deficiency in the playing rules in failing to provide for appropriate penalties for players who participate in an altercation without leaving their bench," the league president said, referring to the fact that several New York players managed to get in their best licks while still on the bench.

"The situation will have to be rectified," Campbell said.

Held Most Of Play

Swedes Nip Baby Habs

MONTREAL (CP)—Sweden's touring hockey team evened an old score Wednesday night by defeating the Montreal Junior Canadiens 3-2 in an exhibition game.

Two years ago, the Swedish team lost 5-4 to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League team.

The Junior Canadiens almost came from behind Wednesday but they started their rally too late and the Swedes held them off after leading 3-0.

The Swedes held the play for more than 45 minutes as they scored the lone goal in the opening period and came up with two unanswered goals in the second.

The Canadiens were reinforced by netminder Peter Sternig and defenceman Roland Campeau and Bob Leiviens of Muskegon Mukkies of the International League.

Danny O'Shea of Oshawa Generals and Andre Lacroix, Mickey Redmond and Danny Grant of Peterborough Petes were also added to the Montreal roster.

The line of Lacroix, Redmond and Grant was easily the best Montreal all night.

Bjorn Palmgvist made it 2-0 for the visitors in the second period after only 44 seconds to play.

Bobby Hull Named Athlete Of Year

By JIM CREAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bobby Hull, the golden boy of hockey, has been named Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1965 after a torrid voting race with track star Bill Crothers.

The National Hockey League scoring star with Chicago Black Hawks polled 230 points among the 141 voters who took part in the 31st annual Canadian Press year-end poll, announced Thursday.

Crothers, Canada's crack middle distance runner from the Toronto suburb of Markham, Ont., who breezed to victory in the balloting in 1964, got more votes than Hull this time but finished with 221 points, nine fewer than the 26-year-old blood bombshell. Hull gained the edge by picking up 53 first-place votes compared with 37 firsts for Crothers.

The voters, sports editors and sportscasters across Canada, were asked to name in order three individual athletes in order of preference. Points were computed on a 3-2-1 basis.

Hull, a left winger who received hardly a mention in 1964 when he picked up 26 second-place votes and 19 thirds for a total of 98 votes, Crothers pulled in 41 seconds and 28 thirds for 221 votes.

"I am very pleased and honored to be selected," said Hull after receiving a hilarious game with New York Rangers, in which he scored two goals and assisted on one to increase his margin so far this season to 25 goals and 16 assists for 41 points.

"I know it will make my mom and dad in Point Anne very proud."

BELIVEAU THIRD

Hockey star Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens was third with 110 points on seven first-place votes. Jockey Ron Turcotte also polled 54 votes but had 87 points for fourth place.

Hull a native of Point Anne, Ont., on Lake Ontario's Bay of Quinte, capped a birthday season last spring by winning both the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player and the Lester Bing Trophy as the player best combining gentlemanly conduct with ability.

In 61 schedule games he had 39 goals and 32 assists for 71 points with 32 minutes in penalties. He was the leading scorer in the playoffs with 10 goals and 11 points in 14 games, but Chicago lost the Stanley Cup final series to Montreal.

Hull, five - foot - 10 and 193 pounds, picked up this season where he left off at the playoffs by counting a league-leading total of 23 goals and 38 points in his first 21 games.

He joined the Hawks in 1957-58 and rocketed into the limelight almost from the start with blazing wrist shot and deadly shot quickly established him as one of the most feared forwards among NHL goaltenders. Through last season he counted 264 goals, 274 assists and 538 points.

He reached his scoring peak in the 1961-62 campaign by connecting for a record-tying 50 goals. Only other players to reach that one-season level were Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, both of the Canadiens. They are no longer active in the NHL.

He averages more than 30 minutes a game on the ice and shoots a lot. Through last season he had 2,446 shots on goal, scoring on every 9.3 shots. This year he's averaging close to a goal on every fifth shot on the net.

Crothers, a bespectacled pharmacist, electrified the track world in Toronto last June by handing Peter Snell of New Zealand his first defeat in four years over 880 yards. The victory, before more than 30,000 fans, was a classic, capping a brilliant season in which Crothers travelled around the world consistently winning his specialty—the half-mile.

He also won Canada's only gold medal in the World Student Games in Budapest last summer with a mark of 1:47.7 over 800 metres.

WON SEVEN STRAIGHT

Earlier in the season, Crothers reeled off seven consecutive indoor triumphs in the United States.

In the 1964 balloting, Crothers pulled 330 points to outdistance the rest of the field by a whopping margin of more than 200 points. He was awarded on the strength of outstanding successes in North America and Great Britain and his impressive second-place finish to Snell in the Olympic 800 metres in Tokyo.

Few Olympic competitors gracked the list of athletes this year. In 1964, Olympians swept the top three spots, sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver placing second and judo expert Doug Rogers, the strapping Toronto factory worker who was 6-foot-5, 250 pounds, third. Neither Jerome nor Rogers received a vote this year.

Beliveau, Canadiens' centre from Trois - Rivieres, Que., sparked the Canadiens to the Stanley Cup last spring by counting eight goals and eight assists for 16 points in the playoffs. He got 16 first-place votes, 14 seconds and 14 thirds.

Turcotte, 25-year-old native of Lac La Ronge, N.B., blossomed into an accomplished rider around thoroughbred racetracks in the United States during the year. He drew widespread praise for his victory aboard Dr. Fager in the Pimlico Futurity Stakes. His 87 points came on eight votes for first, 17 for second and 26 for third.

Hamilton swimmer Dan Sherry was fifth with 28 points. He became the world's fastest in the 110-yard butterfly event by setting a world record in the British national championships.

1965—Bobby Hull, hockey.
1964—Bill Crothers, track and field.
1963—Gordie Howe, hockey.
1962—Bruce Kidd, track and field.
1961—Bruce Kidd, track and field.
1960—Ron Stewart, football.
1959—Russ Jackson, football.
1958—Maurice Richard, hockey.
1957—Maurice Richard, hockey.
1956—Jean Beliveau, hockey.

Confident Nationals Face Tough Test

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team, which learned almost to its sorrow after being limited to the leftovers in international hockey for 26 months, will know before 1965 ends its chances of enjoying a feast.

The verdict will come in Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 26-31 when Canada faces three major hockey powers — Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden — in an invitational tournament.

The Nationals 6-1 triumph over the Soviet national team in Victoria Monday night although hardly a masterpiece of hockey has restored confidence that ebbed after fourth - place finishes in the 1964 Winter Olympics and the 1965 world championships.

The victory ended a famine against the Russian team that had stretched to nine games, including 4-0, 5-0 and 6-2 losses in the first stages of the Soviet giants' current North American tour. The margin was the widest achieved by the Canadian team over a major European opponent since it was formed in 1963 by Bert. David Bauer.

"We shouldn't become too elated over one win," said Father Bauer, now special adviser to the team. "But, at the same time, it must mean something. I think we have arrived."

"The players have reached a point where they are working together," he said. The result: Sound positional hockey that frustrated the renowned Russian pattern passing.

Much of the credit, Father Bauer said, must go to Jackie McLeod, 35-year-old Swift Current, Sask., native who fills the dual roles of coach and manager.

McLeod, a veteran of 10 professional seasons, took the direct approach to correct his squad's weaknesses. He abandoned retirement, laced on the skates and played Monday night.

He scored two goals and said Father Bauer, "should have had two or three more."

HUCK STARS

Fred Huck, 20-year-old centre from Regina, was another standout, capping his efforts with a picture-play goal.

Huck has sparked the Canadians to 17 victories and two draws in 22 exhibition games, most against minor profes- sional and senior opposition. He has 36 goals and 18 assists.

McLeod said the difference between the Victoria game and the three previous matches against Russia, was "just like night and day."

"We played our positions, no helter-skelter, and they were mortals. We kept them off balance and they made mistakes.

"We didn't do anything to fool them except play sound, fundamental hockey and I knew we could. We were picking up their wingers and there was no reach that one-season level were one open to pass to."

The Canadians have nine more international games, including one against Russia here tonight, before the 1966 world championships March 3-13 in Ljubjana, Yugoslavia.

SEND SOCCER TEAM

LONDON (Reuters) — This season's British soccer champions probably will take part in the Canadian centenary celebrations in 1967, Canada asked for a combined British team, but at a meeting of the four United Kingdom associations it was recommended that the winners of this season's championship should go if they are available.

Bobby Hull Named Athlete Of Year

By JIM CREAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bobby Hull, the golden boy of hockey, has been named Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1965 after a torrid voting race with track star Bill Crothers.

The National Hockey League scoring star with Chicago Black Hawks polled 230 points among the 141 voters who took part in the 31st annual Canadian Press year-end poll, announced Thursday.

Crothers, Canada's crack middle distance runner from the Toronto suburb of Markham, Ont., who breezed to victory in the balloting in 1964, got more votes than Hull this time but finished with 221 points, nine fewer than the 26-year-old blood bombshell. Hull gained the edge by picking up 53 first-place votes compared with 37 firsts for Crothers.

The voters, sports editors and sportscasters across Canada, were asked to name in order three individual athletes in order of preference. Points were computed on a 3-2-1 basis.

Hull, a left winger who received hardly a mention in 1964 when he picked up 26 second-place votes and 19 thirds for a total of 98 votes, Crothers pulled in 41 seconds and 28 thirds for 221 votes.

"I am very pleased and honored to be selected," said Hull after receiving a hilarious game with New York Rangers, in which he scored two goals and assisted on one to increase his margin so far this season to 25 goals and 16 assists for 41 points.

"I know it will make my mom and dad in Point Anne very proud."

BELIVEAU THIRD

Hockey star Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens was third with 110 points on seven first-place votes. Jockey Ron Turcotte also polled 54 votes but had 87 points for fourth place.

Hull a native of Point Anne, Ont., on Lake Ontario's Bay of Quinte, capped a birthday season last spring by winning both the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player and the Lester Bing Trophy as the player best combining gentlemanly conduct with ability.

In 61 schedule games he had 39 goals and 32 assists for 71 points with 32 minutes in penalties. He was the leading scorer in the playoffs with 10 goals and 11 points in 14 games, but Chicago lost the Stanley Cup final series to Montreal.

Hull, five - foot - 10 and 193 pounds, picked up this season where he left off at the playoffs by counting a league-leading total of 23 goals and 38 points in his first 21 games.

He joined the Hawks in 1957-58 and rocketed into the limelight almost from the start with blazing wrist shot and deadly shot quickly established him as one of the most feared forwards among NHL goaltenders. Through last season he counted 264 goals, 274 assists and 538 points.

He reached his scoring peak in the 1961-62 campaign by connecting for a record-tying 50 goals. Only other players to reach that one-season level were Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, both of the Canadiens. They are no longer active in the NHL.

He averages more than 30 minutes a game on the ice and shoots a lot. Through last season he had 2,446 shots on goal, scoring on every 9.3 shots. This year he's averaging close to a goal on every fifth shot on the net.

Crothers, a bespectacled pharmacist, electrified the track world in Toronto last June by handing Peter Snell of New Zealand his first defeat in four years over 880 yards. The victory, before more than 30,000 fans, was a classic, capping a brilliant season in which Crothers travelled around the world consistently winning his specialty—the half-mile.

He also won Canada's only gold medal in the World Student Games in Budapest last summer with a mark of 1:47.7 over 800 metres.

WON SEVEN STRAIGHT

Earlier in the season, Crothers reeled off seven consecutive indoor triumphs in the United States.

In the 1964 balloting, Crothers pulled 330 points to outdistance the rest of the field by a whopping margin of more than 200 points. He was awarded on the strength of outstanding successes in North America and Great Britain and his impressive second-place finish to Snell in the Olympic 800 metres in Tokyo.

Few Olympic competitors gracked the list of athletes this year. In 1964, Olympians swept the top three spots, sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver placing second and judo expert Doug Rogers, the strapping Toronto factory worker who was 6-foot-5, 250 pounds, third. Neither Jerome nor Rogers received a vote this year.

Beliveau, Canadiens' centre from Trois - Rivieres, Que., sparked the Canadiens to the Stanley Cup last spring by counting eight goals and eight assists for 16 points in the playoffs. He got 16 first-place votes, 14 seconds and 14 thirds.

Turcotte, 25-year-old native of Lac La Ronge, N.B., blossomed into an accomplished rider around thoroughbred racetracks in the United States during the year. He drew widespread praise for his victory aboard Dr. Fager in the Pimlico Futurity Stakes. His 87 points came on eight votes for first, 17 for second and 26 for third.

Hamilton swimmer Dan Sherry was fifth with 28 points. He became the world's fastest in the 110-yard butterfly event by setting a world record in the British national championships.

1965—Bobby Hull, hockey.
1964—Bill Crothers, track and field.
1963—Gordie Howe, hockey.
1962—Bruce Kidd, track and field.
1961—Bruce Kidd, track and field.
1960—Ron Stewart, football.
1959—Russ Jackson, football.
1958—Maurice Richard, hockey.
1957—Maurice Richard, hockey.
1956—Jean Beliveau, hockey.

4th Puck Star Honored

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Hull, named Canada's male Athlete of the Year in the 31st annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll, is the fourth hockey player to win the honor in the last 10 years.

Confident Nationals Face Tough Test

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team, which learned almost to its sorrow after being limited to the leftovers in international hockey for 26 months, will know before 1965 ends its chances of enjoying a feast.

The verdict will come in Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 26-31 when Canada faces three major hockey powers — Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden — in an invitational tournament.

The Nationals 6-1 triumph over the Soviet national team in Victoria Monday night although hardly a masterpiece of hockey has restored confidence that ebbed after fourth - place finishes in the 1964 Winter Olympics and the 1965 world championships.

The victory ended a famine against the Russian team that had stretched to nine games, including 4-0, 5-0 and 6-2 losses in the first stages of the Soviet giants' current North American tour. The margin was the widest achieved by the Canadian team over a major European opponent since it was formed in 1963 by Bert. David Bauer.

"We shouldn't become too elated over one win," said Father Bauer, now special adviser to the team. "But, at the same time, it must mean something. I think we have arrived."

"The players have reached a point where they are working together," he said. The result: Sound positional hockey that frustrated the renowned Russian pattern passing.

Much of the credit, Father Bauer said, must go to Jackie McLeod, 35-year-old Swift Current, Sask., native who fills the dual roles of coach and manager.

McLeod, a veteran of 10 professional seasons, took the direct approach to correct his squad's weaknesses. He abandoned retirement, laced on the skates and played Monday night.

2,000 See Charity Puck Game

The Belleville Educators threw a 11-7 loss at the CKWS No-Stars before a big crowd at Memorial Arena last night in a charity hockey game played for muscular dystrophy.

There were 1,355 paid, a big majority of them high school students who came to watch their teachers "in action" Most were surprised by their hockey talents. Youngsters under 12, admitted free, boosted the total crowd near 2,000.

The Educators led 4-1 after one period and 8-3 after two before the No-Stars held a 4-2 margin in the final chapter.

Leo Holland scored three winners' goals with D. Talbot, Dave Bell and R. Madden adding two apiece. Hyle Bryant and Bob Follwell fired one goal apiece. Jack Sisson drew three assists, M. Brydson, Bell and D. Sandan two each and Madden one.

For the No-Stars, B. Thompson scored three and helped on one, D. Ackland and R. Moon potted two goals each, P. Owen and G. Tinlin each had an assist.

There were some laughs but for most parts the boys "played it for real."

Varsity Wins Tournament

DETROIT (AP)—Hank Monteith slapped in four goals and led University of Toronto to a 6-2 victory over Michigan Tech Wednesday night in the championship match of the Great Lakes invitational hockey tournament.

The junior from Stratford scored at 1:13 of the second period and tied the score with a power-play goal at 7:25. Brian Lee and Bob McClellan then boosted the score to 4-2 for Toronto.

Football Sports Bonanza

JEAN BELIVEAU

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional football attendance in the U.S. climbed again this year suggesting it has only one way to go in the future: Higher.

In the 46-year-old National Football League, which struggled through financially distressing times in earlier seasons, 1965 crowds came close to a total of 5,000,000 persons.

The American Football League, in its sixth season, showed an increase of 23 per cent over 1964.

Each league will have an additional team next year, as well as new stadiums. With added clubs, new and more spacious parks, and the seemingly non-stop boom in popularity, U.S. professional football seems destined to remain a sports bonanza.

The 14-team NFL played 98 regular season games this year and drew 4,906,412—an average of 50,065. That set a record for the fifth straight year and represented an increase of 7.5 per cent over 1964.

Attendance in the AFL went up to 1,782,584 from 1,447,853 in 56 games—an average of 31,831.

Grid Bid May Reach $800,000

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bud Adams, owner of Houston Oilers football team, said Wednesday he thinks the bidding for Donny Anderson, Texas Tech's all-America halfback, will go as high as $800,000.

"Whatever it is, it will exceed the $428,000 that Joe Namath got from New York Jets," Adams said.

Anderson is the No. 1 draft choice of the American Football League Oilers and also is No. 1 with Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

AGREE ON ENTRY

LONDON (CP)—British golf soccer chiefs agreed Wednesday to recommend that one country —either England, Scotland, Wales or Northern Ireland, should represent Britain in the European Cup of Nations in 1968.

Tyke Player Scores Nine In Row

Michael Meeker cut loose with a terrific scoring burst as the Bruins blasted Canadiens 11-1 in a B.M.H.A. tyke game last night.

Meeker saw teammate Peter Coates score the first goal and promptly scored nine in a row before Jon Letersky got the final. Rick Mofina was the lone Canadiens' marksmen.

In the other games, Leafs topped the Wings 4-2 and Black Hawks edged Rangers 7-6.

Tony Bennett scored two, Lawrence Lougheed and Glen Woodley one each for Leafs. Tom Donovan and Michael Burke had Wings' goals.

Donna Reed Filming Last Closeup of Popular Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I feel just the same as I did when I graduated from college," said Donna Reed. "The exams are over."

The difference is that today she is graduating from The Donna Reed Show. The television series will continue until the end of the season and longer is rerun. But, for the girl she plays the last closeup for the last show.

"I've said that it's over—sorry, too. I think we've plowed that little field as long as we could, and I'm delighted to be done with it. But still, I'll miss my other family.

"After all, I've been with Paul (Peterson, her TV) son for eight years, and that's a lot of time in anyone's life. Trisha (Patty Peterson, her TV daughter) has been with us three years."

Now Donna returns to full-time duty with her own family, particularly a 4-year-old girl, Anne, born just before the series went on the air. She also has three vigorous teen-agers to supervise.

Does this mean she is retiring?

"I can't tell," she said. "I don't want to act right now, really I don't. I am so thoroughly fed up with facing the camera that I don't think I could do it again for at least a year."

She certainly doesn't need to work for the remainder of her days. The Donna Reed Show has made millionaires of herself and husband Tony Owens, who produced it.

They are starting a shift from entertainment to the sports world. Owens, who was once a part-owner of Detroit Lions football team, is talking about purchase of a West Coast franchise in the National Hockey League.

Christmas on Television

These are the highlights of special programming on the television screens. For information about local programming, please consult the daily listings.

Christmas Day

Carols For Christmas
Sir Malcolm Sargent conducts the Royal Choral Society in a program of carols, filmed at the Royal Albert Hall. (9.30 a.m.) Her Majesty the Queen
The annual address by H.M. the Queen, followed by Christmas messages by the Rt. Hon. Lester Pearson and CBC President Alphonse Ouimet. (10 a.m.)
White Trees
A program filmed on Rocky Mountain ski slopes near Lake Louise, featuring skiers Jean Geiger, Nancy Green, Colin and Neil Sammerauer, Guy Bowsets, and Bob McLennan. (10.15 a.m.)
Moscow State Circus
A Christmas Carol
A new version of Dickens' classic tale, starring Frederic March in the role of Scrooge. Also featured are Basil Rathbone, Christopher Connelly, Tiny Tim, and Basil Rathbone as the ghost of Marley. Maxwell Anderson has adapted the story for a musical setting with an original score by Bernard Herrmann and traditional carols sung by the 16-voice Roger Wagner Chorale. Rex Middleton appears as Fred, Scrooge's nephew, and as the ghost of Christmas Present. Sally Fraser also has two roles — as Belle, Scrooge's sweetheart in his youth, and as the Ghost of Christmas Past. (2.00 p.m.)
The Silent Tree
A Tale of Marco Polo. The adventures of Marco Polo brought to life in the imagination of a young girl reading the tales by the living room on Christmas Day. Griffin Brower plays Marco Polo, Daphne Kilpatrick, the girl. Graphics were designed for the program by Montreal artist Graham Bardell. Produced in Montreal by Larry Paxton and written by Malcuh Hodge. (3.00 p.m.)
The Three Shepherds
An adaptation by Ernest Langford of the Nativity story. Produced in Vancouver by John Thorne, this re-telling of the story is a departure from the traditional in that modern speech is used. There are no sets in this production. Lighting and a few simple props create the mood for the tale. The three shepherds, Michael, Stephen, and Mark, are played, respectively, by Robert Clodhier, Don Francks and David Hughes; Mary, by Judy Sinclair. (3.30 p.m.)
Christmas Pageant
Seasonal folk songs and Christmas ballads by soloists Catherine McKinnon, Jim Bray, Prof. McKenna, the Don Burke Four, Mike Stanbury, and the Jubilee Singers. Singing host of the third annual Christmas frolic of song and fun is Bill Langstreath. Produced in Halifax by Danny Finkleman. (4.00 p.m.)
The Man Who Sold Christmas
A musical comedy about the commercial aspect (with a twist) of Christmas. An advertising agency wins a contract from Santa Claus to promote the spirit of Christmas to everyone in the nation. Len Andrew and the Neil Harris Singers star in this animated production. Words and music by Neil Harris. (4.30 p.m.)
Her Majesty the Queen
Repeat telecast of the address by H.M. the Queen (11.00 p.m.)

Sunday, December 26

The Sounds of Christmas
A half-hour of Christmas music by the Earle Terry Singers, a group of 30 young girls from London, Ont. Tom Daley is the host for this program, which features paintings and drawings of Christmas carols by schoolchildren from grades one to four in the London public schools. (2.00 p.m.)
The Commonwealth Entertains
Highlights from the recent Commonwealth Arts Festival held in Britain. Participants in this one-hour television special include: the Australian Ballet, the Sierra Leone National Dance Troupe, the Ceylon Dancers, the Trinidad Steel Band and Limbo Dancers, the Legion Musicians from Ghana, the Merry Makers of Jamaica, the Kandyan Dancers from Ceylon, and the National Dance Company from Jamaica. (2.30 p.m.)

Show of Wild Chimpanzees Was Thrilling Documentary

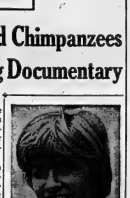
By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It was one of those rare and happy nights Wednesday when I was responsible to forgive television for some of its past disappointments.

First there was CBS' Miss Goodall and the Wild Chimpanzees, a film of what must have been one of the most thrilling adventures of modern woman.

Jane Goodall, a pretty girl of 26, went into a South African jungle with only native assistants to observe the habits of chimpanzees. The program consisted of some of the film taken for the National Geographic Society.

Gaining the confidence of the animals took two years and more. Eventually, she bribed her way —with a limitless supply of bananas—into their friendship.



Fine film made by Baron Hugon Van Lawick, who joined her after two years and now is her husband, showed in detail the big animals frolicking, grooming each other politely and caring tenderly for their young.

SHOWS DISCOVERY

Miss Goodall was able also to get film showing the chimps stripping leaves from twigs and using the twigs to draw termites from their nests—the insects being a chimp delicacy. This demonstrated a her discovery that they were able to make and use primitive tools, hitherto believed something only man could do.

NBC's Michaelangelo: the Last Giant came later in the evening. Lou Hazam, the producer, is an artist and innovator who without phoneying up a documentary by using actors to recreate historical scenes and events, can still make the events come alive.

The program told of the artist's early struggle, the second half of the documentary will be broadcast in eight weeks—and that is too long a time to wait.

AT THE PARK — Academy-Award-winning actress Shirley Patty Duke stars in the title role of Arthur Penn's gay comedy with music "Billie", opening Monday, Boxing Day, Dec. 27th., at the Park Theatre, in Technicolor and under the Panavision process. Also featured are such accomplished players as Jim Backus, Jane Greer, Warren Berlinger and Billy Wells. On the same program also opening Monday is the Walt Disney Production, Disney Presents and Bernie Seiger. Both film are in Technicolor. Matinees daily at 1 and evening performances at 1.30 p.m.

SMASH DOPE RING

VANCOUVER (CP) — A major narcotics distribution ring that was supplying Vancouver addicts with heroin from the Orient has been smashed, police said Wednesday. The police announcement was made following the arrest of four persons in neighboring New Westminister late Tuesday and seizure of pure heroin valued at $120,000 on the illicit market.

Cash Receipts For Farmers Reach Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Farmers' total cash receipts from farming operations reached a record $2,630,400,000 in the first nine months of this year, up 5.4 per cent from the previous record in the same period last year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday its figures included cash from the sale of farm products, payments from the Canadian wheat board on previous years' crops, cash advances on farm-stored grains in Western Canada, and deficiency payments made by the agricultural stabilization board. The figures are gross—not counting the cost of producing the commodities sold.

Most of the increase resulted from higher payments by the wheat board out of funds earned on the sale of earlier crops, the bureau said. There were also higher returns from the farmers from vegetables, eggs and dairy products.

Ontario had the largest dollar gain from higher prices for cattle and hogs, but Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick made the largest percentage advance through better potato prices.

Cash receipts for Ontario farmers in the period were $780,396,000, compared with a 1964 figure of $720,221,000.

Castro Orders Hardships on Countrymen

HAVANA (AP) — The Castro regime is threatening Cubans who want to go to the United States with hardship in the months they wait to leave.

Orders have gone out in the past week to many government-controlled offices, businesses and public utilities to fire all employees who plan to leave the lives in the United States. Hundreds have been fired in the last few days, informed sources say.

Cuban officials have made no comment.

The U.S. embassy in Havana, which the Swiss run, is being bombarded with questions from would-be refugees since the end of the pre - Christmas crackdown. Swiss officials tell them they have no control over the situation and can not hasten the Cubans' departure for the United States.

Many of these people may have to wait many months, some possibly for years, before they obtain jobs difficult or impossible to find, they are faced with a critical shortage of food, especially shelter and clothing for their families until they leave.

Those with bank savings are no better off. Recent government regulations provide that all money withdrawn from private bank accounts since the refugee plan was announced Sept. 28 has to be returned to the state before the owner can leave the country.

Hope Tears Ligaments in Left Ankle

The accident occurred backstage while Hope was waiting for his entry cue shortly before the show at the air base, 150 miles northeast of Bangkok. Most of the 75,000 men in the outdoor ballpark apparently were unaware of the accident.

Witnesses said Hope was standing beside a door backstage when an unidentified person rushed through the door and brushed past the comedian. Hope lost his balance and fell backward off the stage. His fall was broken by several soldiers who caught him.

The comedian is making his 14th annual Christmas tour to entertain U.S. troops overseas. He is scheduled to give another performance in Thailand this afternoon before leaving for Viet Nam Friday.

CFL President

Urges Sports Scholarships

CALGARY (CP)—Raising the calibre of Canadian college football and improving Canada's stature in international athletic competition is a responsibility for the country's universities, says Pat Mahoney, president of the Canadian Football League.

The present system of financial aid to promising athletes is "a real hit-and-miss proposition, products of a Bruce' Kid here or Bill Crothers there," Mahoney said in an interview Tuesday. Canada could be getting "scores" of good athletes if universities would adopt athletic scholarships.

At the same time, athletic scholarships would improve the calibre of Canadian college football by boosting the number of players with professional potential.

The CFL president was expanding remarks made Dec. 1 in a speech at the University of Alberta here.

He said the speech was not football. "One of the measures of that has to be the number of players you have with professional potential."

28 MADE IT

In his speech, Mahoney said that of 331 Canadians on the rosters of the nine CFL teams last season, only 28 came from Canadian universities. Some of it criticism of Canadian universities for their lack of concern in sending players into professional ranks.

His point was, he said, that he cannot accept the idea that Canadian universities "do not figure" that the calibre of their players were drawn from junior leagues of the Canadian Football League and senior leagues from American universities where they received training.

"The Canadian college draft has settled into a poor third place as a source of Canadian personnel," he said.

He repeated his stand that Canadian universities should "get active in the recruiting CRU," adopt athletic scholarships and stop letting junior CFL teams "do the dirty work around" by grabbing player prospects.

The Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, which "has for all practical purposes withdrawn from active participation" in the CRU, probably set out because it viewed the CRU as controlled by the CFL.

However, while the CFL will likely continue its $50,000 annual aid to the CRU, the amateur football group is being "over-hauled very drastically," the effect of which will be to make it "once again acceptable to the universities."

Grandma Tells Christmas Story About Old-time Office Parties

NEW YORK (AP)—It was Christmas Eve in the suburbs. Grandma, 72 tell-tale gray, asked one of the little tots. "Grandma, you tell us a story."

"Well, all right," said grandmother. "Would you like to hear about the old - fashioned Christmas story?"

"Oh, yes. Goody goody!"

"Well, 72 tell-tale gray they used to celebrate at the office in the old days before your grandpa retired," said grandmother.

"Somebody put gin in the water cooler early in the morning of Christmas Eve, but the party usually didn't get going until they all came back after a three-hour lunch.

"The men gathered around the office Christmas tree and sang carols. Then they sang old war songs, and started drinking out of bottles.

"After that, somebody hung up a bit of mistletoe, and then all the secretaries ran gin chasing all the pretty girls around the room."

"How did you ever get invited to the party, grandma?" asked one of the little tots.

"Oh, all the offices had wolves in those days, didn't they?" replied grandma, looking at grandpa. Grandpa looked at his feet.

TELL OFF BOSS

"By quitting time nobody wanted to leave," grandma continued. "Some men were passing out the window whistling at girls on the street below. Others were telling the boss to go fly a kite. And still others were leaping from desk to desk like goats.

"Pandemonium reigned for hours and hours. Now and then a fight would break out and they'd have to call the cops. At one of the parties a man who lived in Brooklyn disappeared and he was gone seven days later in Berlin.

"I remember one year when grandpa didn't show up until 3 a.m., and then he attacked our Christmas tree. He thought it was a mugger."

"I tripped on the rug, and just happened to knock the tree down," said grandpa lamely.

"Those old-fashioned Christmas parties don't sound like the Christmas parties of the little tots. They sound awful. Do they have office parties like that any more?

"Well, not so many since your grandfather retired," answered grandma.

"Do you think that was a true story about Santa Claus?

"I don't know," said the other little tot. "That's the trouble with grownups — you never know when to believe them."

Lord Thomson Will Add Shipbuilding to Enterprises

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson, the Canadian - born publisher, has decided to add shipbuilding to his extensive enterprises, it was learned today. Lord Thomson's basic operations are in newspaper publications and broadcasting. He once described his acquisition of the independent Scottish television network as a license to print money. But over the years he also moved into book publishing, banking, tourist travel and a number of other enterprises on the advice of his associates who suggested he ought to diversify his massive accumulations.

CARDINAL VISITS GIs

SAIGON (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman arrived in Saigon Thursday to spend his 15th consecutive Christmas with American soldiers overseas. The 77-year-old Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York also is vicar of the U.S. armed forces.

'Papa Bear' Coach Of Year

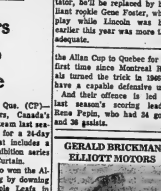
NEW YORK (AP) — When George Halas took Chicago Bears to training camp at Rensselaer, Ind., last summer he summed up the season outlook with these words:

"I am not promising a thing but we are going to be better than last year. This was a disgrace—a losing year for the first time in 44 years."

Halas was right. With the help of new men like Gale Sayers, Dick Butkus, Jim Jones and Dick Gordon, the Bears almost came back all the way. They were in the National Football League's Western Division race until the final Sunday and were regarded by many as the best team in the league.

As a result of this comeback, Halas was named the league's Coach of the Year Wednesday by a panel of 43 sports writers and sportscasters, three from each league city, voting in an Associated Press poll.

It was a wide-open competition with seven of the 14 coaches drawing ballots. Halas had to fight off Bill Austin, coach of defending - champion Cleveland Browns who clinched the Eastern Conference early, earned nine votes.



Allie Sherman, who led New York Giants from the cellar to a second-place tie with Dallas Cowboys in one season, drew eight votes. Jack Christiansen, coach of converting San Francisco 49ers into a high-scoring contender in the West earned him six votes.

If Lincoln ends up a spectator, he'll be replaced by brilliant rookie Gene Foster, whose play while Lincoln was hurt earlier this year was more than adequate.

Beavers Off To Europe

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Sherbrooke Beavers, Canada's representative in hockey this season, leave tonight for a 24-day European tour that includes a Christmas Day exhibition series behind the Iron Curtain.

The Beavers, who won the Allan Cup in 1958 and were runners-up to Montreal Royals, also turned the trick in 1946-47, have a capable defensive unit. And their offence is led by last season's scoring leader, Reno Pepin, who had 24 goals and 36 assists.

Colts Rated Underdogs

NEW YORK (AP) — Fran Tarkenton's success in running against Green Bay Packers rushes a faint hope for Tom Matte and underdog Baltimore Colts in Sunday's National Football League playoff game. If Matte could throw like Tarkenton, their hopes for the Western Conference title would be much brighter.

Tarkenton is a scrambler who dashes hither and yon, eluding linemen and linebackers, until he gets set to throw a pass for Minnesota Vikings. Sometimes he keeps the ball and runs.

Matte, the converted halfback who succeeded Johnny Unitas at quarterback after Unitas was injured, has to throw to be effective. Matte is not the slightest bit of a threat to run.

Defenseman Dino Mascotto of St. Hyacinthe, Que., Bob Chevalier of Drummondville and forward Gerry Burchell from Verdun have returned to their own clubs for regular season play.

However, playing - coach Georges Roy, who led the Beavers to their first cup, is confident his Quebec Senior League regulars will give a good account of themselves against European opposition.

The Beavers will represent Canada in the European Amateur International hockey tournament scheduled for Stockholm from Jan. 6 to 15.

Napanee Nutria Breeder Sells Stock to Russia

NAPANEE — An order was confirmed by telephone to Canadian Nutria, Ltd., Stouffville, for the sale of 200 pedigreed Ebony Black nutria to the USSR. Wallace Hogeboom was contacted immediately to ascertain how many animals were available from the local members of Eastern Ontario Nutria Breeders Association, whose members are all associate members of Canadian Nutria.

These animals are to be flown by jet to France and then to Russia. This is a trial shipment, and if the results are satisfactory the Russians are planning to breed the mutation shades, and will place orders here.

Wallace Hogeboom is president of the Eastern Ontario Nutria Breeders Association. He has been a nutria breeder for three years on his ranch, known as Sunny Acres Nutria Ranch one mile west of Napanee on Highway 2. He now has 140 animals in four of the five mutations. In addition to Ebony Black, he has Albino White, Palomino Gold and Exotic Haze. He does not have Champagne White.

Parking Ban Now in Effect On Town Streets

NAPANEE — Car owners who leave their cars parked along the street between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. from now until March 31 will either find a parking ticket on the windshield, or else that their cars have been towed by police order. The night parking ban is to be enforced, council decided at a special meeting Monday evening.

Deputy Reeve W. R. Douglas, chairman of the Market and Police committee, brought up the matter, reporting that a total of 226 cars had been ticketed with warning notices between December 18 and December 19 inclusive, some of them twice. Police have been instructed to enforce the by-law whether there is snow on the streets or not.

Final accounts of the year were passed, and a resolution was passed to the effect that the council is not interested in assuming the duties of the Public Utilities Commission. More lights will be installed in Centennial Park, and council also approved a plan of lighting for the Rollins subdivision, which was submitted.

Mayor Lorne Smart was strongly critical of the contracting firm doing the work for Lakeland Natural Gas in Napanee. The gas pipe line is being extended along Dundas Street from Raglan Road to the hospital, and the mayor stated that he had received numerous complaints about the attitude of the workmen, who apparently believe they may do as they wish because they are working on town property. One resident had complained that workmen were drilling the pavement near a nursing home at two o'clock in the morning.

Another councillor said he had received complaints about hedges and lawns were being destroyed.

"This must stop," the mayor said. "We must back up these people, who have taken pride in making their homes and surroundings attractive."

Unless things look the same next spring as they did before the work started, the town will take action, the mayor declared.

Small Schools Will Close In January

NAPANEE — January will see the closing of many of the one - room schools in the vicinity of Napanee. The Stark Road public school in Richmond, formerly with two rooms but eventually to have ten, will have pupils in six of the new rooms when school opens January 3. Two others are not yet ready. The merger means that four small schools will be closed, one on the Deseronto Road, one at Mount Pleasant on Highway 401, the Long schoolhouse also on 401, and the brick schoolhouse at the junction of the Deseronto Road and the Stark Road.

The H. H. Langford school at Little Creek will not be ready for use until January 31 at least, and consequently all nine one - roomed schools in North Frederickburg will remain open until then.

The four new classrooms being added to the school at Sandhurst, which already has four, will not be completed in time for school opening, but should be ready a week later, Inspector Anderson reports.

Pupils in all the 12 or 13 small schools north of Selby and in Selby itself must wait at least six weeks before buses will bring them to the new consolidated school under construction in Selby.

Many of these old schools were in a bad state of repair.

Methodists Plan Yule Services

NAPANEE — While both services last Sunday in the Free Methodist Church emphasized Christmas, the major musical effort has been reserved for the Christmas Eve service, when the old, old story of Christmas will be unrolled in words and music. A modest cantata will be presented. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will conclude the service, which begins at 7:30 and will last not more than an hour.

The morning service next Sunday will have Mr. Brent Smith as the soloist, Mr. Smith is a student at Roberts Wesley College near Rochester, and toured Europe with the choir for six weeks last summer. He is visiting his sister, Mrs. Gordon Hammond and the Rev. Mr. Hammond. The evening service will be given over largely to congretional carol singing.

Jesus Was Warm, Winsom Lad But He Often Wandered Alone

From the time Jesus was born until He was about 30, only one incident is recorded in Scripture — His venture away from parental supervision to converse with the Jerusalem scholars. The following, the fourth in a series of five articles on the hidden years of Christ, deals with that educative, maturing period in His life.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

He had become increasingly independent, sometimes baffling Joseph and Mary. He was a warm, winsome lad, spontaneously attracting friends. But He often wandered off alone. That was the problem. They couldn't find Him.

The 12 - year - old Jesus was missing in the crowded, clangorous city of Jerusalem.

His family, accompanied by kinfolk and neighbors, had made the 90-mile trip there to celebrate the Passover. And after a week's stay, the caravan already had travelled a full day on the way back to Galilee before His absence was noticed.

Considering His personal initiative of late, Joseph and Mary had not been concerned that He wasn't closely in tow when the homeward trek began, assuming Him to be with others in the big company. That He was not, came as a shock.

Alarmed, the couple hiked approximately 25 miles back to the city.

It was a bewildering atmosphere for a rural youngster to be lost in. Gaudily-clad military mingled in the babbling, polyglot traffic, the street dancers, the armed Roman legionnaires, the bare-chested Greek wrestlers, the threadbare poor

Soothsayers and sellers of magic potions beckoned from their booths and dealers in sour wine clashed their copper cups to lure buyers. Slaves bore the sedans of the rich, and mothers with shaved heads offered their hair in exchange for bread for their spindly, vacant-eyed children.

SEARCH CAMP FIRST

Joseph and Mary probably first searched the camp outside the eastern wall, where poor pilgrims stayed, threading among its cluttered tents and garbage heaps. Then, with rising anxiety, they began tramping city streets and markets.

For three sleepless days, their search went on.

Although it was probably Jesus' first time in Jerusalem since infancy, Scripture notes that His parents had made the pilgrimage annually, indicating their orthodox piety.

Adult Jewish males were supposed to make the trip each fall, for the harvest feast of the Weeks, and each spring, for Passover. Wives often went along.

The seven-day Passover observance was a heart-stirring affair, and taking part in it in the "City of God," with all the temple pageantry, singing choirs and trumpet fanfares must have spurred keen reflection in the boy.

Throughout His growing up, as a member of a traditionally worshipping family, He had been prepared for assuming His adult religious duties, generally at 13, as a "son of Torah."

Regular schooling had begun at the age of five. Although Back-country Nazareth lacked a special "house of the book," it doubtless had a synagogue school, its "lessons" for the youngsters sat in a semi-circle around the teacher, the "chazan."

Pupils were steeped in the Torah, the first five books of the Old Testament, the law and the prophets, until it was stamped into the memory and woven into the conscience. Scripture was the only textbook until age 10.

A Jewish legend relates that Jesus flustered two successive teachers with His comments out of them fleced at Him, "Hast thou read books?" He replied that He had "read both books, and things which were not contained in books."

After Joseph took Him to a third teacher, however, the accounts say "the young child followed him gladly."

At 10, instruction had begun in the oral traditions, the interpretative lore of the Talmud, the points settled (Haggadah) and disciplines (Halachah). Among them, "Do not seek but what is beyond you."

The family probably went to synagogue thrice weekly when there were prayers and Scripture readings, especially on the Sabbath, when Joseph must have occasionally donned a prayer shawl to give the lesson — as all Jewish men were expected to do.

By ecstoc, Mary would have sat in a separate section for women. The congregation chorused the responses, "Praised be the Lord, to whom all praise is due." And while birds sang outside, Jesus would have joined in the Amens.

So He had reached the age of that manly occasion, going up to Jerusalem. As was always necessary, someone in their big party had obtained a "room" for their Passover meal — the Seder. Then, garbed in festive white, they had all gone to the temple for sacrificing their lamb, and worship.

"Every knee shall bow to Thee. . . ." The people prostrated themselves as Levite choirs sang. Smoke and incense arose as blood was sprinkled on the altar. Then the dressed lamb was returned to them and they flocked to the rented room for the engrossing banquet.

Passover is the great festival of freedom, commemorating the exodus from slavery in Egypt, and as in other Jewish celebrations, the emphasis is not just to recall history but to relive its meaning in the present.

"Why is this night different from all other nights . . . ?" The youngest child present asks, as Jesus likely did at some point. The head of the table answers, "We were bondmen . . . and the Lord our God delivered us with a mighty hand."

Yet again, at that moment, Israel was under domination — by Rome, awaiting deliverance. Between the intermittent courses of wine, lamb, bitter herbs and other symbolic foods, the story - telling and singing went on, melancholy, merry, confident.

"Let all who are hungry come and feast with us."

Divinity's presence is felt at that table as His people glory in the unfinished adventure of history, trusting His every. Always, the door is left ajar and an extra plate set at a vacant seat — for the prophet of God's Messiah.

Disappointment is voiced when he fails to come. But hope endures. Perhaps he would come next year . . . tomorrow . . . soon. . . .

Jesus, after the haunting celebration was over and the crowds had started home, disappeared. A tired and desperate Mary and Joseph hunted for Him. Scripture relates:

FOUND IN TEMPLE

"After three days they found Him in the temple, sitting among the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions." Eager, open-minded, a mutual give-and-take. "And all who heard Him were amazed at His understanding and answers."

His mother interjected, "Son, why have you treated us so? Behold your father and I have been looking for you anxiously." She was naturally upset.

But He said, "How is it that you sought me?" They should realize, He implied, that He must be getting started on His particular way. "Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"

They "did not understand the saying," Scripture notes. Puzzled, they took him back to Nazareth. He was a child no more, but He remained obedient, the record says. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."

That is to say, people liked the young man — favored Him — and so did His Father under whose direction He continued after Joseph died.

No Way of Finding Out How Jesus Came to Know Mission

A divine mandate rested on the child born in Bethlehem, and when the hour came, He shouldered it. No ordinary criteria can be used in analyzing the development of His self-understanding and His response to it. The following relies primarily on His own statements about it, made later in His life. This is the last of a five-part Christmas series about the hidden years of Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

There is no way of determining when He came to know it, or how. There is no way of finding out whether the knowledge came to Him instantaneously or gradually...or what particular circumstances or event may have disclosed it.

But it imbued the young man of Nazareth. " . . . There is another who bears witness to Me. . . ."

The details of that realization are deeply inaccessible. But at some point, He recognized it. There came a day, and He was certain. Sometime before Jesus reached his finished manhood, He knew.

"The Father is in Me and I am in the Father. . . . I came not of my own accord; but He sent Me."

It was a stunningly awesome fate to confront.

"My yoke," He would call it. It was as if He had been made both sovereign and servant at the same time, both everything and nothing. He cancelled out Himself. "I seek not My own will, but the will of Him who sent Me."

Yet there was no avoiding it; it fastened on Him inescapably, irresistibly. On Him, had "God the Father set His seal."

Every youth, as he matures, passes through the strained turmoil of discovering his own individuality, of peering hard at himself with that new, critical faculty, as if observed from outside himself, judging his own person.

The sounder the man, the more he begins to know what and who he is and where he is going, even if only dimly. Normally, even the best vision remains partial.

FEARED PROSPECT

But in one case it was complete — in the complete man. That did not make the going easy, only sure. The prospect, considering the character of men about Him, was plainly excruciating.

"The Son of Man will suffer at their hands."

In Christian belief, Jesus is considered fully human, subject to the conditions of finite existence, sharing men's nature, needs, delights and travail, but also a perfect projection of God —the divine functioning flawlessly in the flesh.

"I and the Father are one."

At some point before Jesus took up His predestined vocation, the man who had reared Him as an earthly father died. Old Joseph didn't live to see the lightning impact of the life of the young one whom he had guarded so fiercely.

Legend says Joseph lived to 111, and describes the deathbed scene at the family's meagre abode in Nazareth. Mary sat at his feet and Jesus at his head.

The old carpenter clutched the youth's hand. "I requested Thee, O my beloved Son, to be quiet in all things." He apologized for once pulling Jesus' ear in shushing Him. Jesus went. Mary stroked her husband's feet and legs, which grew cold.

After washing and anointing the body, they buried him there in the hills of Galilee, it is related. Jesus, who had toiled with him there in the woodworking lean-to, now faced His own calling.

OUTLOOK CHANGED

Aware of the pattern of His growing up, He later—in talking to the apostle Peter—cited the curious changing outlook of that progression into responsible manhood:

" . . . When you were young, you girded yourself and walked where you would; but when you are old, you will stretch out your hand, and another will gird you and carry you where you do not wish to go."

After Joseph's death, Jesus still had to provide for His stepbrother, a duty He fulfilled until His own death, when He turned the task over to an apostle and kinsman, John. But He also had to set his own course.

Jesus Himself, as He entered manhood, spent much time alone in prayer, apart from the fractious babble. If may have been this, in part, that caused Nazareth neighbors to start looking on this once-favored youth as an odd disturbing one.

Also, in the practising Jewish tradition in which He was raised, young men were supposed to marry by about the Not to do so was considered peculiar. "Cursed the man who at 20 years was not married," the saying went.

But He grew older, 24 . . . 27 . . . 29 . . . and still did not marry. Although women ultimately proved to be among His most loyal, unflinching friends in crisis, He went his solitary way, hearing that primordial, prodigious call: "Before Abraham was, I am."

It was as if He were totally at home in this world, loving its beauty and feeling its agonies, yet also bearing a universal embrace. It was a lonely path. "No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son. . . ."

NOT LEFT ALONE

Yet, no matter how harsh the rejections and blindness, "He who has sent Me is with Me; He has not left Me alone." It was up to Him, as man, to manifest in natural terms which man understood the supernatural concern they did not understand.

"I will make it known, that the love with which Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and I in them." That passion glorified, yet effaced Him. "Not my will, but Thine."

Strangely, in receiving "all authority," He gave up all of Himself. "He who believes in Me believes not in Me, but in Him who sent Me. My teaching is not Mine, but His. . . ."

More than any descriptive words, however, it was His behaviour that distinguished Him He spurned pride, the will-to-power. This singular difference was dramatized in His temptations by the devil before His ministry began.

In those subtly revealing passages, Jesus is tempted to turn stone into bread, to make a sensational leap in draw acclaim and a huge following, to assume governing power—most of these things evil in themselves—yet each appealing to man's egotistical impulses.

Jesus' refusal ran contrary in the age-old, self-seeking twist in man. Instead, He chose an alarmingly selfless course, leading not to adulation (the mirage we all pursue), but to a cross.

When He preached His first sermon in his hometown of Nazareth, His neighbors were infuriated.

"The spirit of the Lord is upon Me," He said, "because He has anointed Me to preach good news to the poor . . . to proclaim release to the captives—to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

They ran Him out of town. So began the public life of the Babe of Bethlehem—the true man, the "man for others."

Explanations Offered More Fascinating Than Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—In television's positive lexicon there is no such word as failure. At least it is never used in connection with a program or a series until long after it has quietly disappeared.

Some of the explanations offered as to why a show fares badly are more fascinating than the programs.

If it is faltering in a Friday night spot, for instance, it is never because of a rival show. It is because the audience is out doing the weekly shopping. If it is too late for shopping, it is because everybody has gone bowling.

When a program is faring badly in a niche that was also a dim spot the previous season, the reason is that viewers formed a habit of changing over from the channel before and have never even "sampled" the new wares.

Participants of such programs as East Side, West Side and The Richard Boone Show insisted that their low ratings were caused by a determination to say something important to an audience that wanted mild entertainment.

When a program is ailing early in the evening it is because there are too many children in the audience. If it is a sour note later in the evening it is because the audience is starting to retire, even if it is only 9:30.

The King Family collapsed, it is alleged, because its prickly appeal was to older viewers; Shindig is on its way out because only teen-agers would look at it. However, Lawrence Welk stays on because his appeal is to older viewers, and The Man at 10 p.m.—because the kids from U.N.C.L.E. is a success adore it.

The time spot of a program is obviously important. Surveys inevitably show that the youthful audience builds up until about 8:30 p.m. when the adults take over. And that the audience starts to drop off from a peak at around 9:00.

The real reason for high or low ratings is in the quality and content of the show itself. Most viewers pick the program which most appeals to them at any one time period. It is usually a comedy or an action series.

But a program which was most popular last season because it had little competition may hit the skids the next year when attractive new competitors are deliberately moved into position.

This is called "counter-programming". Right now, Ed Sullivan's ratings are suffering from inroads by The FBI and Branded. Bewitched, a front runner last year, is having trouble with reruns of feature movies on a rival network.

And so it goes—but it is never, never because the scripts are poor, the actors incompetent and the direction trite. Anyway, if it is, nobody will ever admit it.

Christmastide Here And Abroad

By The Associated Press

As the Christian world prepared today to observe Christmas, war and tension once more marred the celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

In Viet Nam, the United States announced the start of a 30-hour Christmas truce while the Communists promised to halt hostilities for 42 hours. But the 24 hours before were as bloody as ever, and U.S. officials expected the war to resume in full violence after midnight Christmas.

India and Pakistan stood entrenched in battle positions along their border, deadlocked in the Kashmir dispute. India also confronted the menace of China, whose border troops have been involved in recent shooting incidents with Indian patrols.

Unrest and fear still stalked the streets of Santo Domingo in the wake of last April's revolt in the Dominican Republic. "I'll be the worst Christmas of my life," said one nervous housewife. The military and the rebels remained enmeshed in mutual resentment and suspicion.

In Africa, black-ruled nations kept up demands that Britain invade Rhodesia and crush the white-minority regime. The British, who limited their reaction to economic sanctions, are worried that the tensions may burst into a race war.

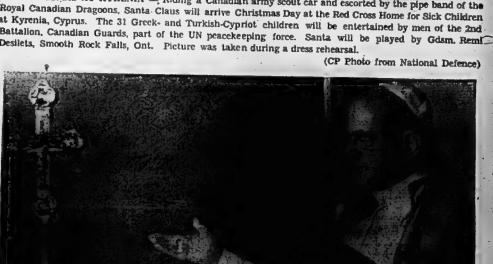
Indonesia, although wracked by instability at home, showed no sign of letting up in its "crush Malaysia" campaign.

IRAN-IRAQ SQUABBLE

Iran was reported reinforcing its border with Iraq with a squadron of fighter planes after two alleged attacks by Iraqi MIGs.

In the quiet hills of the Holy Land, 15,000 Christians were expected to visit Bethlehem, where Christ was born.

Although Israel and Jordan remained technically at war, each year Christians from Israel are allowed through the Jerusalem Gate to join in celebrations at Bethlehem's 1,400-year-old Church of the Nativity.



In another divided city, thousands of West Berliners passed through the Communist wall to bring Christmas cheer and gifts to relatives in East Berlin.

On the island of Cyprus, still smoldering from republic-wide violence, Canadian troops of the UN peacekeeping force in Nicosia put the final touches on an armed patrol car they have converted into Santa's sleigh. It will bring Santa, gifts and candy to 21 youngsters at a Red Cross hospital for refugee children.

President de Gaulle of France declared an amnesty for 203 persons convicted of crimes related to the Algerian war. South Korea paroled 29 political prisoners and cut in half the remaining terms of 27 others. Ecuadorian President Raul Leoni parliament also pardoned and commuted the sentence of 107 others.

CHRISTMAS AT KYRENIA — Riding a Canadian army scout car and escorted by the pipe band of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, Santa Claus will arrive Christmas Day at the Red Cross Home for Sick Children at Kyrenia, Cyprus. The 31 Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot children will be entertained by men of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, part of the UN peacekeeping force. Santa will be played by Gdsm. Yuletide Truce

Jerusalem Barriers Lifted

BETHLEHEM (Reuters) — Israel and Jordan today lifted the barriers dividing them in the ancient city of Jerusalem, and more than 4,000 Christian Arabs living in Israel crossed over to celebrate Christmas here.

The two countries traditionally shelve their hostility to enable Christians to celebrate Christmas in Bethlehem, which is in Jordan.

About 4,740 Christians who walked through the Mandelbaum Gate early today were met by relatives living in Jordan and other Arab countries. About 500 foreigners and members of the diplomatic corps in Israel also passed through.

Christmas celebrations began with a procession from Jerusalem to Bethlehem led by the Roman Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem, and escorted by police cars.

Services are scheduled throughout the day. Bazaars and streets in Jerusalem were thronged with shopping pilgrims.

Canadian Guards in Cyprus To Fete Hospital Children

The patients will be feted Saturday by men of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, part of the island's United Nations peacekeeping force.

Santa will ride a Royal Canadian Dragoons' scout car, escorted by the unit's pipe band. The Canadians in their spare time have decorated the hospital and put up Christmas trees. For weeks now they have been collecting gifts and saving cake and candies from their rations or from parcels sent from home.

Their visit to the 31 Greek- and Turkish - Cypriot children, mostly victims of polio, muscular dystrophy and rheumatism of the heart, will highlight a busy Christmas weekend.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In a clear reference to Viet Nam, Pope Paul appealed Thursday in his Christmas message to the world for "just and sincere negotiation to restore order and friendship."

He put the Roman Catholic Church squarely behind all efforts for a settlement of the Viet Nam fighting, saying: "Is not the first contribution which the church can offer, from her position in the midst of the world, to give, promote and teach peace?"

"At this very moment," he added, "we are making a new plea for peace—and this, not simply because peace is a good thing in itself but also because it is a good thing which is in such danger today."

The Pope did not name Viet Nam in his 2,000-word address but he spoke in unmistakable terms.

His urging for peace and negotiation carried forward his speech of just four days ago when he appealed for a Christmas ceasefire in Viet Nam and asked world leaders to pursue all possibilities for negotiations.

Word that a Christmas ceasefire was to be undertaken by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces was rushed to the Pope earlier Thursday and he was reported to be "extremely gratified."

There was no mention in his speech of the ceasefire, however.

The Christmas message, the third of his reign, was recorded Wednesday for radio and television broadcast by the Vatican and by networks throughout Europe and elsewhere.

Truce Quiets Viet Nam

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON (AP) — The armed might of the United States and its allies in Viet Nam was put under wraps at 6 p.m. (1 a.m. EST) today to start a 30-hour Christmas ceasefire.

The Viet Cong said they will observe the truce for 12 hours, announcing three times on their radio today that they will undertake no offensive action or acts of terrorism from 7 p.m. today until 7 a.m. Saturday, 11 hours before the U.S.-South Vietnamese truce periods ends.

All American and allied units were on the alert and had orders to react sharply in self-defence although prohibited from initiating any offensive actions.

U.S. officials in Washington expected the truce to hold for the first 12 hours, since the Communists had set that period themselves. They hoped the Viet Cong would join in the extended ceasefire proclaimed by the U.S. and South Vietnamese command. They believe the war will resume in full violence after that.

Spell Out Medicare Program

OTTAWA (CP) — Under the federal medical care insurance proposals, will a patient have to pay his doctor more than the amount paid through insurance benefits?

The answer seems to depend on arrangements expected to be worked out between provincial medical associations and those provincial governments which plan to launch medical care insurance programs.

The federal government has offered to pay half the cost of such provincial programs, provided four basic conditions are met.

Only Saskatchewan appears to have a plan in force which conforms to the federal conditions. But federal health authorities expect that Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia at least will be working out programs to meet them.

In each case, the question of "extra billing" by doctors seem certain to come up.

Southern Ontario and Quebec To Have Mild, Green Yuletide

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A mild green Christmas is in store for Southern Ontario and Quebec, but most areas of Canada can expect the traditional white Christmas.

Widespread regions of Quebec and Ontario faced the prospect of a rainy Saturday. The Maritimes and Prairie provinces had forecasts of cold weather and light snow. Rain Thursday washed away most of a five-inch snowfall which slammed the West Coast earlier and little change is expected by the weekend.

Scattered showers were forecast in Ottawa, in the wake of a three-inch snowfall Thursday. Temperatures would be mild. Freezing rain was forecast in northern Quebec with mild temperatures and some rain in the south.

Elsewhere in Ontario, the forecast was for occasional showers early Christmas Day with temperatures ranging from freezing to 40 degrees in southern regions to 15 degrees and up in the north.

Overcast skies and showers were expected for the lower mainland of British Columbia and Vancouver Island. Snow was predicted for northern areas and the interior.

Cloudy skies and colder temperatures were the outlook for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Cold air was to move into Manitoba today with temperatures dropping to 10 below zero Saturday.

Saskatchewan was expected to escape the main push of cold air from the Arctic until late this evening when below zero temperatures would take over. The weather office predicts an inch of snow in Alberta during the weekend.

Police Warn Motorists To Take Extreme Care

Trenton News

By EULA GOELING — 392-3829

Chief Warns Drivers to Be Careful

TRENTON — Chief R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton Police Department issued a warning to local drivers today to leave their cars at home if they intend partying tonight and hire taxis.

"The police don't like to be killjoys," said the chief, "but we intend to crack down on drunk drivers, in the interests of public safety."

Sgt. John McKendry of the OPP Brighton detachment, says his department will have a full complement of men patrolling the area highways.

Sgt. McKendry echoed Chief Rutherford's advice for drivers to arrange for other transportation if they intend to drink. He advised all motorists to exercise extreme caution on the highways in view of the weather reports and expected heavy traffic.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis of Trenton warns parents to make sure the baby sitter they employ to look after their children is old enough to take responsible action should an emergency occur.

Parents should tell the sitter where they are going and provide them with a telephone number, as well as the number of the local police station and the fire department.

Chief Ellis said it was a criminal offence for parents to leave younger children unattended.

The chief also warned about smoking while presents are being unwrapped and said to make sure Christmas lights were out if the family went out or when they go to bed for the night.

An appeal for care, courtesy and common sense on the highways during the Christmas holiday period, was issued today by A. L. Needham, assistant commissioner for the traffic division of the Ontario Provincial Police at General Headquarters.

The appeal called for special efforts in avoiding all traffic violations and stressed the duty of the road and at the same time warned against the folly of taking the wheel after taking a few Christmas drinks.

The importance of proper signals, making proper turns and the dangers of following too closely were stressed.

And for those motorists who might be tempted to take an extra Christmas drink before driving home from parties or other functions, the advice was "don't do it."

If party goers feel they must take that drink, the advice is to pre - arrange transportation home or take a taxi.

However, out of the blue, Ti Mi Ling came home, and her grateful owners have spent a small fortune in catnip mice, squeaking rubber rats and other playtoys to put in her Christmas stocking.

PETS LOOKED AFTER

From conversation with pet owners and a survey of local stores where pet supplies are sold, not one cat, dog, budgie bird, or hamster who is home to call his own will be forgotten this Christmas. Most folks are planning on hanging upstockings for their pets, filled with "extras" in the way of food and toys suitable to the species.

Strays will have to take their chances on folks filled with the milk of human kindness which the Christmas season evokes, or their luck in being able to knock lids off garbage cans, containing the remains of the turkey dinners.

Wild bird lovers have already started to buy up supplies of bird seed and at least one resident has made a Christmas tree in his back yard for his feathered friends, complete with suet balls slung on the branches.

Mark Arena's Tenth Year

NAPANEE — The children who make good use of the Napanee and District Memorial Arena just take it for granted, but older folk remember when it was only a dream, and the years of effort that made the dream come true.

Wednesday evening the tenth anniversary of the opening of the arena was marked by a special celebration at centre ice when at half-time in a hockey game, pucks bearing anniversary figures were presented to the commissioners of that day and to the commissioners of today.

The 1955 commission members received their souvenirs from the present chairman, L. Harold McCaul. They were: Mayor Lorne Smart, Miss Kaye McFarland, Murray Wilson, A. Douglas Alkenbrack, Thomas L. Hendshilwood and Werk Poole. Elmer Arena was the treasurer and Harold Webster as secretary. S. A. (Cy) Alkenbrack was the arena manager.

MARKS PRESENTATION

Bruce McPherson, president of Gibbard Furniture Shops and the original chairman of the arena project, and the man who really got the ball rolling, made the presentation to members of today's commission. Chairman Harold McCaul, Murray Dean, Ernest J. Marshall, Kenneth Johnston, Mrs. D. A. Gordon, Robert Wartman and Don Reid. Carson Graham is treasurer and Walter Hawke is secretary and arena manager.

Players in the opposing hockey teams faced each other on the blue lines, and when the name of the commission member was called, each in turn skated to centre ice and handed the memento to Mr. Caul or Mr. McPherson, who then made the presentation.

Mr. McPherson gave high praise to those who had brought the arena into being and kept it going, singling out the late Ernest Gibbard for his outstanding effort.

Harold Webster was chairman for the event.

For years the idea for an arena was merely an idea, but it spread and strengthened until everybody was talking about it. Committees were formed and then dissolved at their own expense to similar arenas in distant parts of the province. Only when the moment was ripe did the fund raising start and then events moved fast.

Car Windows Are Smashed

Scattered incidents of vandalism in Belleville last night may make a number of car owners surly for Christmas.

Police today are investigating the smashing of car windows in at least six separate locations through the city.

Auxiliary Will Give $20,000 To Hospital

The sum of $20,000 will be presented by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary to the building fund of the new Belleville General Hospital in 1967, it was decided at the December meeting of the Auxiliary held Tuesday in Education Hall.

Cheques representing six months' proceeds of various auxiliary money - raising projects were handed to Mrs. Wilham Dallas, president, Mrs. F. J. Bewley, convener of the Opportunity Shop on Market Square, announced a six months' net profit of $2,300; Mrs. Angus Duffy, convener of the hospital Coffee Cart, a profit of $175; and Mrs. Ronald Leslie, convener of the hospital's Gift Corner, a profit of $30.

Mrs. Ben E. Burtey, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for 1966, which was adopted by the meeting:

President, Mrs. William Dallas; past president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby; 1st vice - president, Mrs. W. G. Harvey; 2nd vice - president, Mrs. J. E. Robinson; 3rd vice - president, Mrs. Herbert Brown; recording secretary, Mrs. J. R. Blackbourn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. E. Nelles.

Moving Truck Demolished

NAPANEE — A packing truck belonging to F. La Palm Fruit Co. of Belleville was completely demolished about 2½ miles west of Napanee on Highway 401 Tuesday afternoon. The driver, Jap Vandevoorn, had parked the truck in front of the home of A. Harvey, a salesman for Ideal Venders, preparatory to moving him to Toronto. Mr. Vandevoorn and Mr. Harvey, was on the top of a slope, and evidently the brake failed, allowing the truck to roll down the driveway, where it collided with Dan's Delivery truck, driven by Dan Lucas, driver. Don Card of Belleville, was unhurt. OPP from the Napanee detachment are investigating.

Mrs. G. Parks Dies Suddenly

NAPANEE — A Napanee resident, Mrs. Annie Flossie Parks, widow of Gordon Parks, passed away suddenly Wednesday when on her way to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Wallbridge, in Belleville. She was removed from the bus at Sunnyside and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Toronto, where she was pronounced dead.

There was some delay in identifying her. Her son-in-law was at the bus terminal in Oshawa at 1.15 p.m. and would reach Sunnyside shortly after 1.50 p.m., and it was five hours later before Tierney's Ambulance service was directed to go to Toronto for the body.

The funeral service will be held Friday in Tierney's Funeral Home, Napanee, at 3.00 p.m.

It is not the first time that the Christmas season has brought sorrow to the Parks family. Two years ago Roy Grooms of R. R. 8, Napanee was killed in a car accident December 16. His daughter is married to Clarence Parks, a son of the deceased woman. Mrs. Clarence Parks has just returned home from the Kingston General Hospital following major surgery.

Christmas Business Here Has Been Really Booming

The fact that Santa may arrive this year via auto, rather than in his traditional sleigh, has done little to dampen the shopping enthusiasm of his Belleville helpers.

Most downtown merchants in Belleville were almost unanimous in their assessment of the Yuletide shopping trade when polled at random yesterday afternoon. That business was "booming" and "the best yet" was generally agreed upon by the retailers, who seemed to feel that "no Christmas-like" weather probably was an important factor in enabling more people to get out and shop.

It was also generally conceded that this year's Christmas shopper was the most "quality-conscious" to date. The manager of a men's wear shop noted that people appeared to be willing to spend more money than ever before on individual gifts in order to get a quality item, and his observation was reiterated by every merchant interviewed.

Contrary to what one might expect, there has been less credit buying than at other times during the shopping year. As one store-manager put it, "I haven't seen so many $5 and 100 dollar bills in months."

BUSIEST BY DAY

Despite the fact that most of the downtown stores have remained open each evening for about a week, the shopping traffic has still been heaviest, with a few exceptions, during the day. Several managers, in fact, could scarcely afford the time away from their crowds of midafternoon customers to be interviewed. A lady's wear store has had to double its staff in the month of December to cope with the influx of shoppers.

Since most retailers had anticipated a Christmas rush of a somewhat lesser degree, they had themselves running short of various styles or sizes at the last shopping days. Items such as sports shirts, cardigans, colored stockings, records, and, of course toys of every conceivable type were mentioned as customer favorites and "shelf-emptiers."

There is little doubt that both suppliers and recipients of gifts in Belleville this year will enjoy a most merry Christmas.

Weekly Livestock Review

Stirling Couple Wed On Christmas, 1900

It was a green Christmas back in the year 1900 — just like it appears will be the case this year.

The lack of snow at Christmas 65 years ago is among the memories of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stapley, 38 Emma Street, Stirling, who December 25th will observe their 65th wedding anniversary.

Although the actual anniversary date is Christmas Day, the event will be celebrated Monday when the couple will be "at home" to their immediate family and personal friends.

The couple have six children (three daughters and three sons), 17 grandchildren and one great grandchildren. Both are natives of the Stirling-Rawdon district, Mrs. Stapley was the former Elizabeth Carr of the Bay Road. Mr. Stapley is 86 and Mrs. Stapley 85.

STILL ACTIVE

But despite his 86 years, Mr. Stapley is still active. He cuts his own car and truck almost every day, Mrs. Stapley is also active and does much of her own housework but a stroke two years ago affected her speech. Mr. Stapley has been a threshing machine, and sawmill operator for more than seven decades and still manages to "keep his hand in" by making the steam fire engines which were his first love.

He went on his first threshing beat 72 years ago and has been operating sawmills ever since.

The generating station, developing only 500 watts, operated only from four p.m. until midnight and then the lights went out. In summer the hours of illumination were shorter.

OWNS 7 ENGINES

The Stapleys (Mr. Stapley and his three sons) own no less than seven steam engines and every one of them is still operational although the oldest was built more than half a century ago.

Mr. Stapley has no use for the modern day trend toward gasoline engines which is indicated by the fact that one of his threshing separators is 82 years old and is still being used each fall.

Despite the inroads of diesel and electric power, steam engines still rank high in Mr. Stapley's thinking.

The Stapley's traction steam engines still appear in old-time farm parades. He admits that this is about the only use for them now.

But the steamer is still used for sawing lumber and, using otherwise unsaleable fuel, marks up a saving of $17 per thousand feet over diesel oil burners.

Y's Activities

Y.M.C.A. MARATHON SWIM

In its third year of operation, the YMCA's Marathon Swim has proved one of the local Y's most popular Christmas holiday events. Many non-members enter just for the fun of finding out how many lengths they can swim. Incidently for all their efforts, one boy and one girl may win a beautiful trophy, donated by the Boys' and Girls' Leaders' Corps at the spring banquets.

Each length of the pool swim is equal to 4 miles with the goal being to swim across Canada or other distances, eg. the St. Lawrence Seaway or the Welna River. Any swim stroke may be used except a back flutter kick only, or back scissoring or back finning only. Lengths must be swum only one period a day and no refreshment is permitted. Naturally no snorkels or flippers are permitted!

The Marathon Swim started yesterday with a dozen 'Y' youth members competing against each other. Eight minutes is the day and resumes next Tuesday through Friday. The period is from 4.00 to 4.00 p.m. each of these days.

Minister, Wife, Three Children Die in Crash

PORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—A Baptist minister, his wife, three children and a woman were killed in a two-car collision in Port Erie early on Queen Elizabeth Way five miles north of here Thursday night.

Dead are Rev. Herman Tery, 34, pastor of the First Church of God, Buffalo, his wife, Shirley, 32, and their three children, Michael, 9, Timothy, 7, and Stephen, 2.

The dead woman was not immediately identified by police.

SCRAP FRIGATES

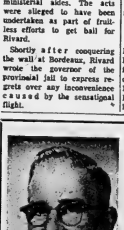
HALIFAX (CP)—Six former Royal Canadian Navy frigates have been sold to an Italian firm for scrapping. Sold to Lotti of Laspezia were the Cap de la Madeleine, Buckingham, Port Erie, Lanark, Outremont and la Hulloise.

Lucien Rivard, Letter Writer, At It Again

QUEBEC (CP) — Lucien Rivard the letter-writer is at it again

The Quebec justice department has received a letter from Rivard, now in a Texas prison, apologizing for all the inconvenience and concern he caused the department in 1963.

He was especially apologetic for his "stupid act in climbing the wall at Bordeaux Jail."



Rivard had warm words of praise for Justice Minister Claude Wagner, and sent season's greetings.

Convicted by a U.S. court on narcotics - smuggling charges this fall, Rivard was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment and a $20,000 fine. He has appealed the case.

He escaped from Bordeaux jail in Montreal March 2 while awaiting the outcome of extradition proceedings. He was recaptured in July.

The proceedings had given rise to allegations of attempted bribery and coercion on the part of federal ministerial aides. The acts were alleged to have been undertaken as part of fruitless efforts to get bail for Rivard.

Shortly after conquering the wall at Bordeaux, Rivard wrote the governor of the provincial jail to express regrets over any inconvenience caused by the sensational flight.

Happy Holidaying

Tomorrow is Christmas.

That means I should be thinking seriously about giving presents to my wife, my dog, my friend(s) and my fellow workers in the editorial room.

My wife's present is easy — she simply takes my paycheque. (Yes, I do get paid for this.)

The dog loves playing with a rubber ball, but the one he owns now has been chewed to bits. Not only will a new ball make the dog happy, but my wife will be overjoyed by it also. The present ball is falling apart on the living room rug, under the beds, in the kitchen, in his water dish in the philodendron. Pieces of it are everywhere.

Presents for my f s are no problem because I have none. (Oh the woes of crusading journalists.)

However, when I think of gifts for my colleagues in this editorial room — the den of iniquity — the true spirit of Christmas takes over.

I am transformed into a kind, generous and considerate person at this time of year.

The magic of Christmas has caught me. (It caught the editor too — I even heard him say something friendly yesterday.)

Christmas has a charm. It casts a spell over people.

Firmly believing that it is more blessed to give than to receive, I shall give in the hope that I will not receive in kind.

To the editor — that master of the English language — that fine gentleman — that, that . . . I will give a bullwhip. I will even do more. The bullwhip will be inscribed with the names of all this year's Hamilton Tiger Cats.

To the city editor . . . oh, the city editor . . . the gentleman of the editorial department . . . I will give the color films of the 1962, 1963 and 1964 Stanley Cup Finals. (You will recall of course that Toronto won all those years.) As an added bonus, and to further acknowledgement of the great esteem which I hold for Mr. T., I will give the film of Angelo Mosca tackling Willie Fleming in the 1963 Grey Cup Classic in Vancouver.

To the sports editor, Mr. C., I will give a Beatle wig and a three-year crystal ball. I will also give him encouragement. After all, if one keeps predicting and predicting, one is sure to guess right for more than 1 out of 7 times.

To Mr. A. of the sports' department I will give Number 24 in the latest bubble gum hockey cards, which of course is Mr. Bobby Hull. This, Mr. A. will treasure — as all statisticians are treasured. Why is it a milestone? Well, it will be the one millionth picture of Mr. Hull in Mr. A's collection.

To Mr. M., our industrial writer, I will give the latest pamphlets on Australia, New Zealand and Brockville, Brockville! Good heavens!

To the social department, Mrs. S and Mrs. W., I will give, along with my sympathy, a 10-pound box of chocolates. (Yes, I admit, I have ulterior motives here. Those women, like most, should be conscious, will undoubtedly not eat the chocolates, and will, I hope, share them up and down the corridor with those who wishes to have one.) There is only one problem. I do not know what their reaction will be when I ask for the money with which to buy them. However, it is Christmas, and I am sure they have the Christmas spirit.

To our guest reporter, Mr. C. from UNB, I will give misletoe. He can use it as he will. (I wonder if he will?)

To my fellow reporters, Mr. P., Mr. M. and Mr. S., what can I say? If I do say anything, they are liable to gang up on me. I'll simply wish them a Merry Christmas and keep giving them a headache the year round.

To Mrs. C. in the dark, dark dark room, I will give a den mother's badge and a booklet on how to deal with errant reporters.

To those who sent me nasty letters, I will give a poison pen. Also a toilet bowl set to explode at X-hour.

Married?

To those who sent me nice letters — there were a few — and especially those couple whose letters gave me glorious ideas — and goodness knows, I need ideas (don't I E.A.W.?) — I give my very best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

My Christmas list is thus complete.

To will notice I did not spend any money for these gifts. I am not going to be a miser when it comes to me, but I do shoot myself before someone else beats me to it. There is a matter of honor involved in this you know.

Merry Christmas.

Yuletide — 1965

The commercialization of Christmas is scarcely a modern phenomenon. Even in the time of Christ there were the moneychangers, and mankind was divided against itself — as it is today.

The human problems that beset men and women nearly 2,000 years ago were no different than they are today—the age of the atom bomb and the Beatles, Medicare and

...ual social pension plan. The age too of the psychiatrist.

...s and government legislation may change, ...ion psyche.

...and women then were born — as they are today unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward.

Christ Himself was betrayed by one of His followers. And who among us has not felt betrayed at some time or other, or humiliated, or downcast. Then again, who has not known peace and contentment, even joy, in the day to day evolution of family life.

But you can have too much of a good thing. A life of endless contentment is not one that is conducive to the fulfilment of human personality. The rough with the smooth has always been necessary to the well-being of the race. It is ever otherwise, the world would not have reached its present level of development.

It is true that the global scene, in terms of human brotherhood, is not a satisfactory one. There are wars and rumors of war. Nation is set against nation and race against race. In Africa and Asia the trumpets are sounding. . . . And on the other side, and in the after life nor in eternity. The hate and killing are all down here on earth, and no one knows where it will end.

What has all this to do with Christmas? Just this: that in the midst of strife and conflict and extremity, mankind — for all his failings — has never lost hope or the vision of a better life.

A concrete example of this today is the plea of the United States for the establishment of a United Nations peace service that would seek to prevent international disputes from becoming wars. This is not hypocrisy (nor is the idea a new one). The United States may be at war in Asia, but at the same time it is striving to find a means of settling the conflict in Viet Nam.

Beyond all the discord, the message of this time is still the same. As we exchange gifts and messages with family and friends, men still look back to the birth of a little child, in Bethlehem of Judaea, nearly 2,000 years ago.

It is appropriate at Christmas that we think mostly of children. Their future is at stake — just as earlier generations also looked ahead to a great unknown. Today, as never before, we should be cheered mankind's restlessness into peaceful rather than destructive avenues of purpose.

In this newspaper recently there appeared a picture of a small Vietnamese girl. She had lost one parent and was herself injured. Her agonized and dejected appearance aroused the sympathy of many people around the world. Offers to adopt the child poured in. Ultimately she was found in a hospital and placed under the care of an international welfare agency.

This child of war is Asiatic, but the response to her ordeal was universal. It would have been the same whatever her color background. The little girl is not just Vietnamese, but a symbol of childhood everywhere. And in this outpouring of love for her, in the hearts of people of many nations, lies the true nature of man, seeking always, and poignantly, to find expression.

Information Unlimited

A newspaper editor in his time receives a vast amount of material from overseas sources —government departments, embassies and the like.

It is uncommon, however, to receive a message like one just received from an industrial news service in London, England, noting that "because we are anxious to avoid overloading you with material for which you have no use, and also to avoid unnecessary expense on our part, we are writing to ask you if you find our London Letter of use to you editorially."

The answer, of course, is that we do find the material useful. What could be more interesting for instance than the information in the current issue relating to the origin of the Christmas card greeting.

According to the Scots, it started in their country—at Leith, which is Edinburgh's outlet to the sea. In 1841 a Latin bookseller displayed an example of a Christmas greeting card and two years later a merchant in London's fashionable West End commissioned a special design for a card to sell at Christmas.

The result was Sir Henry Cole's card depicting a Victorian family sitting round a table laden with Christmas fare and raising their glasses in a greeting. Side panels showed the distribution of gifts to the poor and to orphaned children.

As editor David Curnock, of the news service of the Aims of Industry,in London, notes, the card has grown into a vast industry, but the simple and sincere message at Christmas remains much the same.

Meanwhile, the pile on our desk grows bigger. As if anxious to catch up on all the other international information services, the Spanish Embassy in Ottawa has suddenly weighed in with more than a dozen attractively-packaged news sheets containing a mine of information on the Spanish scene.

Mental Health of Students

Ottawa Journal

The suicide a few weeks ago of a Carleton University student has resulted in new attention for an old but apparently still growing problem—student mental health.

"Virtually all of us have had days when we're surer we will not get term papers done, or that we won't pass an exam. There are a great many things which raise our anxiety or make us depressed. Most people do not withdraw from reality although their basic problems are the same as those of the people who do. The difference is sometimes just having a friend to talk to."

To people who attended university 10, 20 or 30 years ago, some of this will seem very new or different. University has always been the place where students can find they little worlds shaken up by new ideas and knowledge. The problems of modern students—such as inability to study, lack of direction, loneliness—are in kind not much different from those of students a generation ago.

There seems to be a difference of degree, however. As the campus grows larger it becomes more impersonal. "Just having a friend to talk to "is a blessing many troubled young people lack at the modern university. If, as has been charged, there is inadequate opportunity for worried students to talk to experienced staff or faculty counsellors, then the problem is compounded. Further, an apparent shortage of professionally trained counsellors and psychiatrists on campuses can result in acute mental problems going unattended until it is too late.

Some way is desired to "reach" lonely, confused students and find themselves a friend on the campus. It's no easy problem—an over-worked professor looking out over a class of 200 or so is hardly in a position to know who needs help with mental problems.

More thought to individuals' problems does not mean coddling students but it does mean making use of modern knowledge to prevent suffering and even the loss of human potential. The pressures of modern society and competition are very great and the university wishes to turn out well-rounded citizens, so young people can take somewhere their college years with enough.

Of course there are students who glory in sociability and find ample opportunity for it but the tensions which can cause trouble are most common among the serious - minded who are allowed to withdraw into tortured worlds. The impersonal campus may be affected but it will fail unless it is also friendly.

Urban Sprawl Problem in Ont.

Windsor Star

The Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs has formulated suggestions for the prevention of the urban sprawl. These, however, need to be followed up by effective controls.

The Department has issued a memorandum on the subject. It states that residential development should take place only where a municipality has an adequate administrative organization and is equipped with or is capable of, providing essential services including water, sewage disposal, street maintenance, etc.

It also stipulates such developments should be carried out in an urban community, or in a new community organized in an official way.

Those ideas refer to residential developments They should apply, with equal pertinence, to industrial developments.

Most every major urban centre in Ontario has obtained room for expansion, and tidied up its boundaries, by "annexations. But, all too often, new developments have sprawled outside the new boundaries, recreating the very conditions which made annexations essential.

The Department says an adequate administrative organization is necessary, and that is. This is required so there will be proper zoning, proper building inspection, proper planning, etc.

The responsibility fory controlling the urban sprawl must be primarily that of the province if it is to be done. Where it is a province-wide problem. And no city has authority over adjoining municipalities.

The province already has, in large degree, the means of control. Those are vested in the Department of Municipal Affairs, the Ontario Municipal Board and the Ontario Water Resources Board. Additional powers, if required can be obtained by legislation.

The Department has set forth a fine set of principles. All that is now needed is that it practices its own precepts by the application of these policies. That certainly is in the public interest If we are to avoid unnecessary, uneconomic and unsightly urban sprawls.

Strictly Personal
Extremism in Modern Music

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Listening to a concert of modern music that was at "far out" as one can get and still remain subluxary, I thought how the creative urge is perpetually torn between the opposite vices of imitation and originality.

In the desperate effort not to seem imitative, many new and young artists — whether writers, painters, musicians — swing to the other extreme, and feel that they must be "original" at all cost. But originality for its own sake is a deadly trap in the arts, and often a dead end.

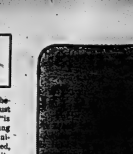
Some years ago, in a book called "The Making of Music," Ralph Vaughan Williams, the composer, remarked: "The innovators are the small men who set the ball rolling. The big men come at the end of a period and sum it up."

Bach crowned his age and brought its style of music to perfection. Mozart built on Haydn, and Beethoven built on Mozart. Each of these composers brought his own kind of music to a supreme peak; none of them began a school or a sect of music writing.

When Bernard Shaw was being a superb music critic in London some 70 years ago, he made the same observation as did Williams:

"In the arts," Shaw wrote "the highest success is to be the last of your race, not the first. Almost anybody can make a beginning; the difficulty is to make an end — to do what cannot be bettered."

Shakespeare did not write a single "original" play but one: "The Merry Wives.of Windsor," generally conceded to be his worst. Not only did he steal good scenes and plots for most but his technique borrowed a little from Marlowe and the other Elizabethans, he was not an innovator, but a culminator — and no one could not be done better that way.



Dickens was perhaps the greatest simplifier in the English language, yet he introduced absolutely nothing new into the form of fiction, except perhaps the novel as he found it. Dozens of "original" writers followed Dickens, and are not heard of.

The same is ture, as Shaw pointed out, for Praxiteles in sculpture, Raphael in painting, Moliere in playwriting — these men were not concerned with originality in the ordinary sense of the word, for they knew intuitively that the only kind of originality is that which (as the word implies) consists in returning, again and again, to the origins of mans' traditions.

Air Pollution

Washington Post

In this decade the cities are becoming concerned about their water supplies. In the next decade perhaps they will have to become concerned about their air supplies. It is no longer altogether fantastic to suggest that future cities may need air purification and oxygenat ion plants precisely analogous to the present metropolitan filtration and sewage disposal systems. Perhaps there will even be occasional fresh air fly down from the mountains.

To Your Good Health
Leukemia in Aged Is Not Likely Acute

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 70 and was discharged from the hospital with lymphatic leukemia. The doctor says it is just a mild case.

Could you relieve my worry, by giving me some information about this disease? What is a mild case? What causes this? Improper diet, not enough rest, etc.? — J. H. G.

* * *

As you doubtless know, lymphatic leukemia, when it occurs in children, is usually acute, and is an extremely dangerous disease. Why should I mince words? It is a terrible disease because we do not know of any way to cure it, and we are only beginning to be able to postpone its ravages for a time.

But when it occurs in an old er person, it is not likely to be in the acute form. Rather, it may simply well be in the chronic type. While I dislike saying that leukemia is ever "mild," I still can assure you that chronic lymphatic leukemia in an older person is quite different from the acute form which is so savagely rapid in a child.

For the older person with chronic leukemia, medication, and when indicated, the use of X-ray, can keep the disease within bounds for years.

Diet and the amount of rest have nothing to do with the disorder, fundamentally. Naturally with this, as with any number of other chronic ailments, an ordinary, healthful diet and adequate rest keep up the patient's strength. That's true for everybody — with or without a chronic disease. No fancy diet does any good. Rest, beyond the normal amount each night to restore one's energy, isn't required.

At 70, practically all of us have some sort of chronic ailment that needs to be cared for. We can't live forever. Just regard this chronic leukemia in that sense.

The cause of it? We do not know.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss "Fifth disease." It seems to be a new disease named by doctors. Is there a way to arrive at such a name? — Mrs. E. D.

I don't believe it is a "new disease," but rather one which only recently has been recognized as a separate entity.

It is one of a group of diseases with symptoms in common: a rash and fever. My understanding is that its name came about from the fact that four such diseases already were known:

1 — Scarlet fever. (Also scarlatina, which is a milder form.)

2 — Regular measles (rubeola).

3 — German measles, also known as rubella, or "three-day measles," a mild disease except that it causes frequent and often very serious defects in the baby if the mother gets the disease in the first, second, or third month of pregnancy.

4 — Roseln infantum, which can be more severe than measles, with temperatures up to 102 to 105.

5 — This is the new one: "Fifth disease." It is known also as Hungarian measles. The symptoms are much the same: rash and fever. The one difference is that "Fifth disease" appears to have a tendency to recur, whereas the others don't. One attack of the others confers immunity.

It is suspected that "Fifth disease" is the explanation of why some people think they have had measles or Ger m a n measles several times. Actually, they probably had "Fifth disease." Or so we suspect.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 20 and have an undescended testicle. What could or should be done about it? — J. M.

It is best to correct this somewhat sooner (early teens) but often it can be done later on. Consult a urologist who can determine whether surgical repair is possible.

Sings With Her Heart

Windsor Star

The other day we heard the Walkerville Collegiate Girls Choir and it was an enjoyable experience. There were many fine voices in it but one little lass caught the attention of all.

Even before she had a solo part, it was apparent this girl had an unusual voice. But it wasn't just that. She was entering into the songs with verve and enthusiasm. She was enjoying herself, and really giving out.

This illustrates that more than a fine voice is essential. It is necessary that a singer have the soul of music, else the voice de pot is maximum advantage. This is as it should be. Singing is for enjoyment, of others and of oneself.

Chaos When Computer Balks

Milwaukee Journal

A computer at the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company in New York stopped working the other day and for 24 hours the bank and its customers were in the dark on the status of $3 billion in checking deposits. The bank couldn't check on customer balances and customers couldn't find out whether cheques had been cleared.

This is another sign of how dependent our society has become on electronics. This company's computer handles 700,000 transactions a day—and obviously if they were handled by clerks the personnel overhead would be staggering.

When the northeastern part of the country blacked out in the big power failure early last month computers all over the area stoped working. Records and work piled up so that it took several days to get back to normal.

There was a recent rainstorm at Pennsauken, New Jersey, the New York Times reports, and it flooded the Ultronic Systems Corp. The firm specializes in computing payrolls without information.

In some ways man has become helpless. A national magazine reports that a utility in an eastern community habitually billed all of its customers as delinquent. They protested. The utility threw up its hands. Its computer, it said had gotten behind in its work and didn't get around to billing until the day after payments were due. So it listed everyone as delinquent—and "there's nothing we can do about it."

India's Food Problems

Windsor Star

A survey in India finds that half the food produced in that over-populated country is destroyed by insects, rats and bad storage before it ever gets to the mouths of the hungry. This perhaps is an extreme example of wastage but it is true that there is a great waste of foodstuffs. Paradoxically, the greatest wastage is often greatest where there is a shortage of food.

Climate sometimes is a factor, as it makes proper storage of foodstuffs more difficult, especially of perishable products. Faulty distribution system also can lead to foods going bad before they can be used where they are required. And modern chemicals, etc., could prevent much of the wastage due to insects or other pests.

In India, of course, there is another factor. Sacred cows, monkeys, etc., eat huge quantities of food, thus depriving humans of it. This is a delicate issue, because it impinges on religious beliefs.

Growing more food, by modern means, is one way to feed the hungry. Another way is to avoid wastage of what is grown. We on this continent often are accused of being wasters; throwing much from our tables that would feed the hungry elsewhere. But we waste a minimum due to pests or bad storage.

Phone Menace

Peterborough Examiner

The telephone joker is not content unless his play serves some disaster end. He starts ringing the phone at three in the morning, and then when it is answered, simply hangs up. He may disguise his voice and impersonate someone with disturbing news.

His ability to cause pointless trouble is limited only by his imagination and his nerve and both are usually in long supply. But there is little to be done except perhaps to drop and quarter him if we are lucky enough to catch him or contrive something about the infernal telephone if we are not.

Today in History

Dec. 24, 1962 . . .

The former Italian colony of Libya assumed its independence 14 years ago today—in 1951—and Mohammed Idris of the Senussi tribe took office as King Idris I. Backed by the British and French under a United Nations mandate since 1942, the country was set up after the first parliament, representing 1,000,000 residents, met in 1952. Since then its prosperity now is dependent on U.S. grants and rents for military bases and installations.

1945—Full pardons were proclaimed for American convicts who had served one year or more in the armed forces.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—a Turkish attack on Kut-el-Amara besieged the fort but was repulsed; British Prime Minister Asquith said his government had no intention to. Dec. 9 numbered 338,227.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the Luftwaffe and RAF began a two-day blitz of Londin's Christmas truce; heavy fighting continued in Libya and Albania; Lt. Gen. Earl L. McNaughton was appointed to command the Canadian Corps, to be formed from all Canadian army units in Britain and British armored units.

CHRISTMAS DINNER DETAILS

On Wednesday I promised to give you the method for making my highly recommended Honey-Glazed Yams with Pecans and Turkey Gravy.

HONEY-GLAZED YAMS WITH PECANS (to serve 6):

6 medium-sized yams, unpared, 3 to 6 tablespoons honey (see below), 3 to 6 tablespoons butter (see below), about ½ cup large whole pecans.

Boil washed yams with skins on until tender. Cool and peel. Arrange in buttered shallow baking dish. Sprinkle pecans over all. Drizzle with honey, dot with butter. (Note: Amounts of honey and butter depend on your taste and your diet.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes, basting with pan syrup at half-time. Marvellous.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

(The Day Before)

Boston Clam Chowder; Hot Corn Bread; Celery Hearts; Baked Apple Dumplings with Lemon Sauce; Tea.

SUNDAY

MONDAY

TURKEY GRAVY:

One cup gravy makes 4 or 3 servings. Make 3 cups gravy to serve 12. Measure 6 tablespoons pan drippings (fat and brown sediment) into saucepan (or leave them in roasting pan). Add 6 tablespoons flour and stir over medium heat until smooth and blended. Add 3 cups liquid, stirring. This should be broth in which giblets or potatoes were cooked plus enough boiling water to make it up to 3 cups. Stir until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. Chopped giblets may be added if desired. If gravy is not a rich brown and does not have a good rich flavor add 1 or 2 chicken bouillon cubes and a little "gravy browner".

MARY MOORE'S MERRY CHRISTMAS MESSAGE FROM GERMANY:

One time when anticipation is not going to be better than realization is when I sit down at a German-made piano in Marianne and Herbie's dining-room beside 6-year-old Sus and teach her how to play "Silent Night" by Franz Gruber on Christmas Eve, 1965.

Sorst time will be many hours ahead of Canadian time. Maybe when you read this all really will be silent in the Pitts' home and everything will be at full speed in yours. Or it could be Marianne and Herbie and I will be giving one last admiring glance at our handiwork on their Christmas tree. One important item I do not have to do can thing about is Christmas dinner. Marianne adores me to sit in the kitchen and watch her hover over the turkey and make gravy with great flourishes and much tasting. Last year a big production was made of breaking the bread for the stuffing by each one of the Pitts children around a huge clean dish-pan. Maybe they will get their precious little hands into the crumbs again this time.

With all my heart I wish you just as much joy — and as especially delicious Christmas dinner.

We're spreading the news to friends near and far, that we wish them all the very brightest, cheeriest and happiest holiday season ever! Merry Christmas!

Successful Living

Giving Ourselves

Most Welcome Present

"Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare."

It is not always the costly gift that is highly prized.

To my mind comes the picture of a girl who had been raised by an aunt. Auntie, who doted on this child and longed to make up to her for the mother and father she never knew, lavished all manner of comforts upon her: no dress too expensive, no luxury beyond reach.

But in her spite she never realized that while withdrawn from giving what Margie needed most of all — her own loving self. When Margie asked in her turning she never dreamed was adamant. No argument — just "No!"

Many a time Margie, in tears, would go and unload to her high school pal, until she had cried enough, talked enough, and felt a little better.

Companionship is hard to come by. At holiday time we reach out to a solitary individual in the extent of offering dinner. But do we think of his other empty days?

Do we keep odd Mrs. J in mind and drop in on a cold, blustery day in January? Do we make any attempt is really understand loneliness?

Ann Landers

Big Bertha Says Enough Is Enough

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I read one more letter from a girl who complains because she has nothing to put in her brassiere I think I will scream. My problem is just the opposite and believe me I would gladly change places with any of those "Flat Florences."

ANN LANDERS

I've had this problem ever since I was 13. I used to walk down the school corridors carrying my books in front of me — and slouch-shouldered at that. By the time I was 16 I wouldn't dared to wear a sweater or a blouse cut on the bias. It was almost impossible to find a dress that would fit. It was always four sizes too tight on top or three sizes too large across the waist and hips.

My bras had to be custom made, with special padding under the straps — and even then the straps dug into my shoulders and caused a great deal of discomfort. In addition to the physical comfort, I am the target for cheap jokes.

I hope you will publish this letter, Ann. It may silence the moaners and groaners who feel inferior because they are under-endowed. Thank you — BIG BERTHA (my high school nickname.)

If you haven't discussed this problem with your physician, you should do so. There is help for you. Meantime, I hope your letter will help to bring our dimension-wacky readers to their senses.

FRANKFORD UNITED CHURCH

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday, Frankford United Church Sunday School held its annual Christmas concert at Ross Low, ary Hall. Rev. C. Dugan was chairman.

The nursery and kindergarten departments sang Christmas songs and a Nativity scene was put on by the six junior classes. The primary department presented a skit on Christmas around the world. Intermediate boys sang a carol and Victor Rabel played two accordion solos.

Santa Claus appeared at the end of the program and distributed bags of candy to the children.

Merry Christmas

The Joyous Christmas Season is here, filling our hearts with its spirit of happiness and good cheer. May you enjoy an abundance of pleasures among family and friends. And please add our sincere greeting for a very, Merry Christmas.

A JOYOUS CHRISTMAS

"Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord"

While humble shepherds watched their flocks, a heavenly glory shone upon them, as herald angels sang of a Holy Child. Far to the East a Star shone, guiding the wise men in their search for Him. Across the years the sacred message shines for us today, ever renewing in our hearts all the joy and wonder, the hope and promise of that Holy Night, so long ago.

As we worship in spirit at the blessed manger, we wish for all a truly joyous Christmas, rich in meaning, with faith ever deeper... with inspiration ever greater.

Lines on Life

The Aloof Also Sin

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A carful of passengers in a subway train watched placidly. It was as if what was taking place before their eyes was an event transpiring a million miles away. No one rose to intervene; no effort was made to restrain. A would-be murderer was stabbing his victim, mercilessly. And no one seemed offended.

By now, the criminal has most likely been apprehended, will probably be accused of murder, found guilty, and sentenced to death. Justice will be done. And it will be seen to be done.

But what of his victim? Did he have to die? Whose hands are stained with his wasted blood?

If we too agree that the passengers are not to be held guilty — morally or legally — then we can easily appreciate why none of them felt it necessary to intervene against the murderer. They, too, felt no guilt, no sense of participation in the crime, no involvement in the life of the victim. They were merely observers, not participants.

Regarding ourselves as merely observers, never as participants in the moral dramas raging around us, produces the current debased human attitude— the "it's - none - of - my - business-mood." If our youth seem callous to moral questions who can blame them? What else are many of their elders teaching if not an extreme indifference to the lives of all but themselves. "Don't get involved" has become one of the major themesongs of the day.

In all of the discussions —pro and con — regarding Hochhuth's play, "The Deputy," wherein is depicted the strange silence which greeted many of Hitler's atrocities, this major question seems to have been avoided. Some have seen the play as a critical diatribe of a German Protestant against Pope Pius XII, others as a reminder of the Nazi threat, still others as a cerumen's attempt to switch the guilt from his own people and load it on the whole Catholic Church.

Few have recognized in it what Dr. James W. Kennedy, Rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in New York City understood. Said he to his congregation: "The Christian conscience prompts to action. Bystanders and fence-straddlers are never innocent. This is guilt by silence. We must look to our own time and its evils. For God's sake, we must speak. We are all part of the same humanity."

Paradoxically, we now live in an age in which the interdependence of men has never before been equalled. Individuals and societies are now totally dependent upon the conduct, of other individuals and societies — for their sheer survival. In such a time there is no longer any moral distinction possible between committed or omitted acts that lead to hurt and destruction. If the effects of an act that is committed produce complicity in guilt is it not as immoral as that deed which is overtly committed and publicly seen?

Justice must be done and must be seen to be done. But when? After the evil act which could have been mitigated if not avoided has done its baleful harm? No. Injustice is also committed when justice is not seen and not done in the very presence of evil!

For God's sake, when must we speak? When justice is to be done, only then? Or also when injustice is being done? Moral cowards are always ready with an answer to these questions.

JOHNSTOWN SCHOOL

A Christmas concert was held Monday afternoon at Johnstown School. Mrs. L. Carter, principal of the school and teacher of grades 3 and 4, was hostess. Miss Sandra Gray, teacher of grades 2 and 4 and Mrs. R. Margaretson, one of the Sidney township music supervisors, helped to produce the concert.

Grade 3 and 4 pupils entertained with Christmas songs. Grade 5 and 6 pupils put on a production number with the group dressed as Indians and depicting the story of the first carol brought to the Indians by Jesuit priests.

Coffee and refreshments were served with the help of Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. R. Pearson and Mrs. M. Gazza. The children exchanged gifts.

The turkey draw was won by Mrs. W. Ingram. Money raised in this way will be used to buy games for the school.

Miss R. Scott Addresses W. A. Group

At a recent meeting of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary held in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, Bellerville, the members had the opportunity of hearing Miss Ruth Scott, Principal of the Anglican Women's Training College speak of her work and the work being done by former and present students.

Her college family at the present time is made up of students from the Barbados, Jamaica, Pakistan, India, Japan, Latvia, England, U.S.A. and Canada from Newfoundland to British Columbia. As they come in for training from all parts of the world so they go back out to all parts of the world in order to work. There are now about 400 graduates in the field doing work for the Church.

It is possible for students to join with existing organizations to work in other countries on projects, such as building a classroom and chapel. While doing this they are able to talk and discuss and share with others the things nearest and dearest to them. Through these discussions many of them decide they would like to work for the Church in that country and hope they will receive an invitation to return upon graduation from the College. There are now three representatives on the continent of Africa. Many from other countries have finished their training at the College and gone back to work for their own Bishop.

To interest people in the College Miss Scott has been given the opportunity of travelling across the country to make known to church groups, women's groups of all kinds and to young people's groups in schools and universities, the opportunity there are for young people to serve in the church. Young people are asked to give thought to this when they are considering a vocation. She has been from coast to coast and met a great number of people. Many of the graduates are working in Canada. In the Diocese of Brandon there are working as Bishop's Messengers and some of them are in charge of a parish. In Calgary, Edmonton, New Westminster and other places many of them are Directors of Christian Education in parishes.

In closing Miss Scott said the type of people they are looking for to attend the College were those with an understanding of other people, agreeable and compassionate. She asked for prayers on behalf of the work of the College as well as gifts to assist in its support.

Mrs. R. H. Godden, of Belleville, thanked the speaker and assured Miss Scott the W.A. was interested in the work of the College and would give all possible support.

The president, Mrs. S. G. Jackson, Brookville, presided at the meeting and the Rector, Rev. A. Dunlop conducted the opening and closing devotions.

Miss Jessie Dobson, president of the W.A. branch welcomed the members present and Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Hastings Deanery President expressed thanks to them for the hospitality.

Susanna's Family Fare

For the ninth hour crew who always leave gift wrapping until there is nothing left but shelf paper to do the job, here is a reminder of how we can make our own elegant wrapping paper in less time than it takes to tell about it:

Lay a plain sheet of paper on the ironing board or over several layers of newspaper on a card table. Sprinkle the white paper with colored crayon shavings, and cover with another piece of paper the same size. Press these together with a warm iron (warm enough to melt the fine shavings.).

Separate them, and what do we have? A fine design if I ever saw one! — SUSANNA

• • •

Dear Susanna: Some recipes call for sour milk, and in case there's none on hand, simply add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice to 1 cup of milk and it sours quickly.

Do enjoy your column so much. — Mrs. Roy Badgley.

• • •

Dear Susanna: As a florist, may I suggest that the special red of red carnations is the perfect shade for an appropriate festive bouquet.

These brilliant flowers interspersed with cedar boughs make a glorious centrepiece against the background provided by a gleaming white linen cloth. — H. T. Williams.

• • •

Dear Susanna: Being very fond of lavender, I purchased an inexpensive quantity from the drug store — (it comes in the form of dried petals) and use it to fill tiny sachet bags for the little girls in the neighborhood who often run errands and do other kinds of things for me.

I make these bags from odds and ends of material and ribbon — silk, satin, and even fine nylon net do beautifully. The youngsters love them for their bureau drawers and when the scent fades slightly, it is a simple matter to renew the fragrance by rubbing the sachet bag between the thumb and forefinger to stir up the petals. — D. E. G.

Some day his ball or send very best wishes for a fun-filled Holiday to all.

CHERNEY'S STORE-WIDE YEAR-END CLEARANCE

Pope Paul Now Emerging From Predecessor's Shadow

VATICAN CITY (AP)—With the end of the Vatican ecumenical council, Pope Paul comes into his own.

Large as he has loomed at the head of the Roman Catholic church, he has stood up to now in the broad shadow of his predecessor, John XXIII

But the third year of his reign, Pope Paul's greatest dedication has been to fulfill his pledge to guide successfully the ecumenical council that Pope John convened eight months before his death June 3 1963.

Sources close to the pontiff, 65, have predicted that now this duty has been fulfilled, Pope Paul's own character will emerge. It is expected to be dramatic.

His actions up to now have given indication that he may and probably will:

—Enter as mediator for peace in war-threatened areas of the world.

—Drive vigorously for eventual Christian unity, even though its achievement is unlikely within his lifetime.

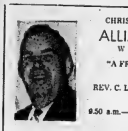
—Make major new pronouncements on birth control.

—Visit Communist Poland and yet stand firm in his denunciation of communism.

Certainly, the informants say, he will continue to travel. He already has made unprecedented trips so far to the Holy Land, Bombay, India and New York.

John Cardinal Heenan of Britain said as the council was ending that Pope Paul had refused to put his own imprint on the council which was begun by Pope John."

"But Paul now has begun to emerge as a pontiff with his own characteristics," he added.



All this will have to be done while Pope Paul fulfils another solemn pledge: That he will put in no effect the program for church renovation approved by the 2,300 prelates in the ecumenical council.

He must reform the central old Curia, the Rome-based administration body of the church. He must spread authority out through the Synod of Bishops which he created.

He also must arbitrate between the church's conservative and progressive factions.

He also has said he plans to enlarge the Sacred College of Cardinals. He increased it last February to an unprecedented 103. There have been reports he might name as many as 150 more.

The pope is believed eager to visit Communist Poland next year for celebration of that country's 1,000th anniversary of Christianity.

Generals Nudge Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Generals opened a four-point lead atop the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings Thursday night with a 6-4 victory over the second-place Peterborough Petes.

Hamilton Red Wings, meanwhile, moved into a fifth-place tie with Montreal Junior Canadiens by edging Toronto Marlboros 4-3.

Oshawa snapped a 14-game undefeated streak by Peterborough. The Petes had 10 victories and four ties for the long-est unbeaten string in the circuit so far this season.

Bobby Orr, Danny O'Shea, Bill Heidt, Bill Little, George Babcock and Don Duisamme scored for the Generals, who now have 25 points to 21 for the Petes.

Andre Lacroix scored twice for the losers with George Godson and Mickey Redmond adding one goal each before 4,606, the largest crowd to see a regularly scheduled Junior A game in Peterborough.

If The Red Wings Are Abel!

YORKTON, Sask. (CP)—Any National Hockey League team could beat the touring Russian Nationals, Sid Abel, manager of the NHL Detroit Red Wings, said Thursday.

Speaking in a telephone interview from Detroit, Abel said the Russians probably could win a game or two on their own home ice under their rules.

But he said under NHL rules they wouldn't stand a chance.

Rollins Juniors Scoring

Linemates Bob Boyle and Grant Hagerman are running neck and neck in Belleville Rollins Construction Junior's individual scoring race.

Unofficial figures kept here show Boyle leading the club in points with 27 and in goals with 12. Hagerman has 26 points, including a top 17 assists.

Carl Boomhower holds down third place with 17 points and Pete Fleming, third man on the Boyle - Hagerman line, is fourth with 16, including 11 goals. Doug Petit, the starry rushing defenceman, is fifth with 13 points.

In goal, Wayne Brant has low-considerably since returning to considerably since returning to the nets. He has given up 60 goals while playing five of the club's 14 games for an even 4.00 average.

Maybe In Boston ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Yes, Emile There Is A Santa Claus

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Not In Detroit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Emile Francis isn't going to get the Christmas present he asked for.

Earlier this week Francis, coach and general manager of New York Rangers, said he wanted at least five points from his team's games against Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins.

Well, the best Francis' club can do now is try to take two points from the Bruins Saturday, because New York lost 4-3 Wednesday night to the Black Hawks and Detroit defeated the Rangers 4-2 Thursday night in the only scheduled National Hockey League game.

Not known as a prolific scorer, Henderson banged in two goals within 45 seconds late in the third period, giving the Red Wings the victory.

His two goals Thursday night were his seventh and eighth of the season.

PETERS SCORED FIRST

However, Detroit went ahead 2-1 in the second period on goals by defenceman Gary Bergman and Floyd Smith, who missed Detroit's last three games due to a shoulder injury.

The Rangers came back and re-knotted the score early in the third period on a goal by defenceman Wayne Hillman.

The game remained tied until 15:37 when Henderson put the puck through the legs of Ranger netminder Don Simmons.

Hank Bassen played goal for the Red Wings for almost five minutes of the first period after Roger Crozier was hit in the face by the puck.

New York's Rod Gilbert took a shot and the puck bounced off Crozier's chest, hitting him on the cheek. A tooth was chipped but Crozier returned to action after sitting on the bench for several minutes.

All six teams play home-and-home series this weekend.

Detroit is at Montreal Saturday and the two teams return to Detroit for a Sunday meeting. Chicago and Toronto Maple Leafs split it out in Toronto Saturday night and then travel to Chicago to complete that series. The New York-Boston return engagement will be held in New York Sunday.

Yields To Pressure

CAHA Gives Hockey Tour Nod

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association two days of pressure from irate fans, hockey officials and government representatives to change its mind and allow an Italian-Canadian all-star team from Toronto to tour Italy next month.

The CAHA, governing body of amateur hockey in the country, Tuesday turned down an application, by the all-stars following a vote of its executive and branch members. The margin was 13-9 against.

"I can only say that for the team Christmas has arrived two days early," said Toronto alderman Joe Piccinnni, who went to bat for the team.

Wednesday, Piccinnni had charged the CAHA with failing to furnish its executive and branch members with all the facts before conducting the vote.

He appealed to Prime Minister Pearson and Ontario Premier John Robarts, several cabinet ministers and hockey officials for support.

He got it.

"Half the Ontario cabinet must have wired us," Gordon Juckes, secretary manager of the CAHA, said at his home in Melville, Sask. Thursday.

Juckes wired CAHA members early Wednesday, advising them that President Lionel Fleury of Montreal recommended an exception be made in the body's tour policy.

RETREAT UNANIMOUS

"The last replies reached me Thursday afternoon," Juckes said. "The decision was unanimous to accept Mr. Fleury's recommendation."

He said he was cabling the International Ice Hockey Federation in London for routine approval of the tour and added the team expects to leave Canada Jan. 3 for Italy and a five-game tour.

In Montreal, Fleury said his recommendation to allow the teams to make the tour did not mean the CAHA was changing his policy on overseas hockey trips. He said his recommendation was accepted because the tour had a meaning.

"It isn't just a pleasure trip," he said.

The teams will play in Orsesel Jan. 4, Cortina Jan. 5, Milan Jan. 7, Bolzano Jan. 12 and one other game for which a date has not been set. The tour was planned by Canadian and Italian trade officials as part of Canadian-Italian trade week in Italy.

Normal CAHA policy, Juckes explained, is for the association to notify all its branches of any invitations for a Canadian team to tour Europe. A "deserving team" is then picked from names submitted by CAHA members.

"We still feel strongly that all teams should have the chance to be considered for such tours," Juckes said.

Dover's

Russ Dump 'Picture-Goal' Nationals

Score Was 4-1

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team passed up scoring chances while looking for picture goals Thursday and it cost them a 4-1 decision at the hands of the touring Russian national team.

Rev. David Bauer, special advisor to the Canadians, said after the game his squad missed "all kinds of scoring chances. The biggest mistake was that they were trying to score the picture goals."

During the hard-checking first nine minutes of the game, Canada had a two-man advantage for 43 seconds and a one-man advantage for a minute and 45 seconds but failed to connect. Father Bauer said four players missed the open goal during the game.

Russia opened scoring at 9:43 and ran it to 3-0 before the end of the period They added one in the second and Canada got on the scoreboard in the third.

Alexandre Strigunov, Igor Romichevesky, Vladimir Yurzinov and Victor Polupanov scored for Russia and Morris Mott connected for Canada.

SKATING OK

Father Bauer, who directed the Canadians from behind the bench while coach Jackie McLeod joined his players on the ice, said the game proved the Canadians could skate with the Russians.

"If we could have scored when we had the chances, especially in the early part of the first period, we could have had them on the run."

Russia has defeated the nationals in four of five encounters of the current tour. Canada won in Victoria Monday and Father Bauer said the difference between the 6-1 victory and the 4-1 defeat was a matter of seconds.

"In Victoria, we were a second ahead but at home we were a second behind."

Russia's interpreter was not available after the game so the coaches could not comment.

Forward Victor Jakushev set up the first Russian goal with a brilliant fake and passed to Strignov who was uncovered at the edge of the crease.

GAVE THEM LIFT

The play sparked the Russians who began to connect on their precision passing. On a power play, Romichevsky cut in from his defensive spot to take a pass from Polupanov and beat goalie Ken Broderick with a wicked slap shot. A momentary lapse by the Canadian defence enabled Yurzinov to get in close and flip a backhand between Broderick's pads.

With a 3-0 cushion, the Russians played a defensive game, letting the Canadians force the action. Polupanov got the fourth Russian goal late in the second period by banging in a rebound.

Mott scored on a hard shot on the right side from the boards.

A total of 18 penalties were called, 11 to the visitors, including a misconduct to Barry MacKenzie of Canada. He was called for cross-checking and shook his stick at Russian referee Nikolai Sneikov.

His penalties, along with two other minors to the Canadians, led to Romichevsky's goal.

MacKenzie came back in the second period to redeem himself and was all over the ice while the Canadians were a man short.

The two teams next meet at an international tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 26-31.

Colts' Hopes

Special Efforts From "Special Teams"

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore Colts will be looking for a special effort from their special teams Sunday in the playoff at Green Bay against the Packers for the Western Conference champion ship of the National Football League.

The special teams are used by professional football teams to receive or defend on punts and kickoffs.

Baltimore's special teams, captained by Alex Hawkins, have set up several victories this season and helped preserve a 24-24 tie with Detroit Lions.

Two blossoming rookie runners could provide fireworks Sunday in the American Football League championship game at San Diego.

Foster is expected to start at fullback ahead of Keith Lincoln, the veteran who has been slowed since Dec. 12 with a strained knee. Smith appears to have moved veteran Billy Joe out of the Buffalo backfield, adding speed to the Bills' running attack. Halfback Wray Carlton would move to the fullback slot and Smith would play halfback.

NEED HELP

In the NFL championship game, the Baltimore offence can use all the help it can get with converted halfback Tom Matte handling the quarterbacking chores.

"The special teams will be more important than ever this week," coach Don Shula says. "We hope they can give us good field positions, or even put some points on the board."

For the season, Baltimore's special teams have outgained the opposition on punt returns 11.7 yards to 7.6 yards a carry and on kickoff returns 24.3 yards to 21.4 yards.

Matte is unlikely to do much passing in the game. He played quarterback at Ohio State where the emphasis was on a running attack. He is a rollout artist who simply slides and runs.

He threw only two passes last Saturday in his first NFL start at quarterback as the Colts downed Los Angeles Rams 20-17 to make the playoff necessary. But he ran for 99 yards.

Soccer Attracts Europe's Millions

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — The World Cup soccer finals come to England next year, with the fear of possible riots and bottle-throwing hanging over them.

Sixteen teams will play in the finals in four groups July 11 to July 30, and English officials are worried in case over-excited fans stage riots at various grounds.

The soccer year of 1965 was marred by riots in many ways and on many grounds.

The English Football Association, for instance, ordered barriers to be erected at two grounds because goalkeepers had been pelted by missiles.

Things became more serious in an English League match between Manchester United and Liverpool in October.

CLIMAX IN ITALY

The climax to all this hooliganism came when Chelsea played Roma of Italy in the European Inter-cities Fairs Cup in Italy.

Fans started throwing anything at hand and two Chelsea players complained they had been hit and injured as a result.

Suddenly the tough hand of the law stepped in, the tough hand being the Inter-cities Fairs Committee.

Roma was banned for three years from competing in the Inter-cities Fairs competition for not taking sufficient steps to keep its fans in order.

The teams through to the finals of the World Cup are Brazil, the defending champions; England, the host country; and Mexico, Uruguay, Argentina, Russia, Hungary, Portugal, Chile, West Germany, France, Spain, Switzerland, North Korea and Italy.

The final place will be decided in a playoff between Belgium and Bulgaria in Florence, Italy, Dec. 29.

The draw for the four groups in the championship will take place in London Jan. 6.

Soccer is often plagued by exuberance of players and the partisanship of fans.

Despite this, the fans still stream through the gates, especially for matches involving club teams in Europe in competitions like the European Cup of National Champions and the European Cup of Cup Winners.

Internionale of Milan won the European Cup of Champions on a net of good in Milan May 27 before 80,000 fans paying $303,000.

Inter Milan's victory over Portugal's Benfica Lisbon gave the Italian team a second straight victory in the money aspioning European Cup of Champions.

In London, West Ham United defeated TSV Munich 2-0 in the European Cup of Cup Winners competition and a sellout crowd of 100,000 paid $228,000 for the privilege of watching.

Inter Milan's victory in the European Cup of Champions qualified the Italians for a world club championship series against Independiente Buenos Aires of Argentina.

The Italianns won that series on an aggregate score of 3-0, latter won 3-0 in Milan and then tied 0-0 in Buenos Aires.

The playoff between the champions of Europe and South America shows the growing interest in soccer throughout the world. The team winning the European Cup suddenly can find itself playing before anything up to 200,000 in South America.

The year saw Manchester United back on the European throne after seven years of agonizing rebuilding. Manchester, returning from a European Cup game in Belgrade, lost eight players who did in in Munich air crash of 1958.

The world of soccer also saw a great tribute paid in England's retired Stan Matthews, recognized as the master winger player throughout the world. The Queen made him the first knight of soccer.

Quinte Hockey League Results

If the other three teams hope to defeat the unbeaten SACO club in the Quinte Hockey League this season they are going to have to stop Don Forsythe.

Meanwhile Skinner Hardock Combines downed Grant's Realty, also by a 5-3 score.

Tec-Haar's Ron Pointer and SACO's Gary Genereaux exchanged first-period goals before Forsythe took over. He scored twice in the second heat to open up a 3-1 lead. Ron Moore and Hubert Pointer scored for the Dunlops in the third but Forsythe matched their effort for the final 5-3 score.

Forsythe also assisted on the first goal while Harry Reid, Garry Little and Larry Potter gained one helper each. Lucien Haulin, Hubert Pointer, Jack Calnan and Ron Moore had Tec-Haar assists. The winners drew eight penalties, the losers half that number.

Soft goals helped the Simson-Horlock cause. After a 1-1 first heat, the Combines held 2-1 margins in each of the final two periods.

Leroy McBride opened and closed the winners' scoring while Reg Ell, Keith Dicker and Bill Genereaux hit the twine in between. McBride also earned two assists, with one apiece for Roger Young, Doug Weese, Wally Istead and Dickey.

Bernie Boulter netted a pair of the Realty markers and assisted on the third, fired by Bill Lattimer.

The losers took eight penalties and the winners four, including a misconduct to Genereaux.

St. Paul Defeats Sweden

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—St. Paul Steers of the United States Hockey League scored four goals in the third period Thursday night and trounced the touring Swedish national hockey team 6-2.

The score was tied 2-2 going into the final period, but Art Miller tallied twice and Ken Williamson and Marsh Tischida got apiece as the Steers won going away.

U.S. Planes Extend Lull In Air War

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Viet Cong Plan New Truce

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong announced late today it would observe a four - day ceasefire against Vietnamese government forces during the Tet, the lunar new year celebrated by the Vietnamese people.

A broadcast by the Communist Liberation Front radio said the Viet Cong would "stop attacking the puppet armed forces and government" from 12:01 a.m. Jan. 30 to midnight Jan. 23.

The broadcast heard here did not make any reference to air attacks on U.S. or other allied troops during that period. It mentioned only the "puppet armed forces and government," the military and government of South Viet Nam.

Such a ceasefire could apply to U.S. and other foreign forces fighting alongside the South Vietnamese. Although these forces are based and operate independently, their military action is still co-ordinated with the Vietnamese even when they are not joint operations.

FIREWORKS KILL FOUR

MADISON, S.C. (AP) — All four children of a rural storekeeper died Wednesday when his stock of fireworks exploded and fire destroyed the store. Sheriff Boyd S. Owens said Clyde Young gave the children, ranging in age from 3 to 7, a pack of firecrackers shortly before the explosion. Fireworks are legal in South Carolina.

". . . And I got a new Finance Minister, a new Agriculture Minister and a new . . ."

A U.S. spokesman reported at midday that Washington had not yet given the order to resume bombardment of the north. He refused to comment further on the longest interruption in the air attacks since a five-day suspension in May.

Five hundred guerrillas twice attacked a militia post in the mountains near Gia Nghia, 120 miles north of Saigon, but were beaten back each time. The defenders reported light casualties.

EXPECT WEAK SPOT?

The Viet Cong apparently expected an easy time with the camp because of recent unrest among the Montagnard tribesmen in the area. The mountain people are again grumbling about Saigon's rule and want autonomy although they are anti-Communist.

Fifteen more Montagnard leaders were convicted by a government tribunal in Pleiku for their part in an abortive revolt 11 days ago. They were sentenced to terms ranging from one month to 20 years in prison.

Four Montagnards sentenced to death Monday filed a plea for clemency. Thirty-five Vietnamese officers and civilians were killed in the 11-day uprising, the second revolt among the tribesmen in 15 months.

Asked about reports from Hanoi to the air-lift, state department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said in Washington: "I know of no noteworthy comment from Hanoi on any subject relating to Viet Nam within the last 24 to 36 hours."

CHECK ROME TRAFFIC

ROME (AP) — Rome, where all roads lead in a traffic jam, will start a 10-day experiment Monday banning private automobiles from a 13-block-long pie - shaped wedge through the heart of the city's shopping and restaurant district. The aim, latest effort to solve the problem of modern traffic in the city's 2,000 years of existence, will be effective from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. until Jan. 5.

Gasoline Rationing First Real Blow To Way of Life of White Rhodesians

Record Snowfalls Hit B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Record snowfalls paralyzed the Fraser Valley, briefly isolated Vancouver, and created havoc on Vancouver Island Monday.

Some people who may not normally see a flake all year looked out on a foot of snow. The cumulative total since Thursday for places such as Nanaimo on the island was more than 25 inches.

Power losses were so frequent in and around Victoria the could not be counted and many families went to bed without heat, water or lights.

Monday's snow came from a storm that swept north up the U.S. coast. Victoria's 8.9 inches marked the heaviest one-day fall since 1922 and the 9.4 inches dropped on Vancouver eclipsed all records.

Residents at both cities stayed home in droves because it was a holiday anyway. Another storm brewing off California promised more snow today, but a late forecast promised it would move inland across Washington state, not British Columbia.

Coming on top of the season's first snowfalls Thursday and Friday, the storm created highway conditions blamed for SALISBURY (Reuters)—Gasoline rationing began in Rhodesia today—the first real blow to the way of life of the country's 220,000 whites since the November seizure of independence.

It came into force at one minute past midnight and follows the oil embargo imposed by Britain Dec. 17.

A statement by George Rudland, minister for commerce and industry, said the gasoline rationing was a temporary move and a first step toward full rationing.

No coupons are involved and wholesalers and retailers will, in effect, ration their customers.

In a country where a car is regarded as an absolute essential, and where virtually every family and most young people own at least one, gasoline rationing strikes hard at the very basis of the white Rhodesians main mode of business and leisure transport.

Although observers here had regarded the introduction of gasoline rationing as inevitable before the end of the year, the severity of the initial rationing quotas surprised many.

The ration varies according to the vehicle.

But in effect it means that each private car owner will get enough gas for approximately 100 miles of motoring a week—virtually a starvation allowance for people who hesitate to walk 100 yards.

Some people will be exempt from the rationing, among them doctors, diplomats and disabled ex-servicemen.

Government corporations such as the railways, Central African Airways and the Central African Power Corp. and the country's broadcasting corporation will also be exempt.

Prime Minister Ian Smith said in an American television interview a few days ago that Rhodesia had enough gas and oil stocks to last for six months.

The Smith regime combats the oil embargo against Rhodesia by blocking normal oil channels to neighboring Zambia. Britain then launched an airlift of oil to help the Zambians.

Monday, an RCAF Yukon plane reached the Zambian capital of Lusaka with a token load of oil to begin Canada's participation in the oil airlift.

The Yukon aircraft also brought Canadian, United States, British and Commonwealth officials from Leopoldville for talks on the airlift.

They included Gordon Brown, Canadian ambassador to The Congo.

Brown told a press conference it was hoped a second RCAF plane would arrive in Zambia from Leopoldville today with a consignment of oil and the full-scale airlift would begin in two or three days.

Four RCAF Hercules transport planes, each able to carry 4,000 gallons, would take the fuel either to Lusaka or the copper mining town of Ndola. The number of trips to be made was among the points to be settled in the current talks, he said.

Oil Rig Collapses, 13 Missing

CLEETHORPES, England (Reuters)—Divers today probed the sunken wreckage of the giant oil rig Sea Gem after a report that some of the crew may be trapped inside. There was no indication whether they could still be alive.

The latest police figures on the disaster, which occurred when the rig collapsed Monday 40 miles out in the North Sea, put the casualties at five dead, eight missing and 19 survivors.

Jack Gillard, managing director of British Petroleum Exploration, told a press conference here that 15 divers with oxygen helmets and skin-diving helmets went down to the sea bed 85 feet below the surface to probe the wreckage.

At present we cannot be absolutely sure that there is not someone trapped inside the Sea Gem," he said, adding that it was not known whether anyone was alive or dead.

"If it clearly the worst disaster we have suffered," Lound said.

All survivors from the 87,000-ton Sea Gem were suffering from shock. "We are only now beginning to question one or two men on what happened," he said.

"Clearly the disaster took place while jacking operations (to lower the Sea Gem in the surface of the sea) were in progress. It happened in the Car Halted When Turn Was Missed

An inquest has been ordered into a flaming two-car crash on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway near Belleville that cost the lives of two young women and the Christmas holiday ended last night.

The mother of one of the victims is hospitalized with burns suffered when the collision turned her small automobile into a fiery wreck.

Dead are Margaret Eves, 22, of 101 Maple Drive, Belleville — nurse at Perth — and her friend Ann Elizabeth Bender, 17, of Kingston.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Thelma Eves, about 42, suffering second-degree burns.

THROWN CLEAR

Provincial police said the accident happened when Mrs. Eves missed a turning on the Freeway median, stopped, to back up in the passing lane and was struck by an oncoming car. Both girls were thrown out and believed killed instantly.

A sister of the Eves girl, Mrs. Sharon Taft, R.R. 1 Amelias-burgh, said her mother had driven to Perth to meet her daughter at the town hospital. They returned through Kingston and picked up Miss Bender.

Police say Mrs. Eves apparently missed the Belleville turnoff from the Freeway and continued west about seven miles seeking a spot to turn around.

By grisly coincidence she also missed the Vandervoort sideroad which crosses the Freeway.

She then stopped her car, say police, and was about to back up to the median crossing when she was struck by an oncoming station wagon driven by William Buttery, 23, of London.

HURLED ONTO MEDIAN

The impact hurled the little compact Ford car through the air onto the median where it caught fire on striking the ground.

Belleville firefighter rushed a truck to the scene and doused the flames.

Mr. Buttery and his 25-year-old wife, Edith, treated for minor injuries, then released from Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Their daughter, Kerrie, 7, escaped uninjured.

No date has yet been set for the inquest, ordered by coroner Dr. John Sloot.

Find Airline Stewardess Strangled

MONTREAL (CP)—Jealousy may be the motive behind the brutal slaying Sunday night of airline stewardess Claire Laroche, 21, police said Monday. Miss Laroche was found dead in her apartment in Montreal's north - eastern Rosemount district. Her body bore stab wounds and lacerations and there were slashes in her clothing, but doctors said she apparently died of strangulation.

An autopsy is to be performed today and the coroner's inquest has been set for Thursday.

Police said they went to the apartment after receiving an anonymous telephone call. They found the body on the floor and a man sitting nearby in an easy chair.

Two men evidently had entered the apartment with Miss Laroche, police said. One man, described as black in his early 20s, was being held as a material witness and another was being sought.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A weakening ridge of high pressure will cross Ontario today and most areas will get some sunshine. Afternoon temperatures will be near seasonal normal values.

A disturbance is developing in the Dakotas this morning and is forecast to move to Northern Ontario Wednesday. This should bring snow to Northern regions tomorrow while cloudy skies are expected in the south. The trend will be to mild temperatures in all of Ontario.

East, West Coasts of Canada Battered by Winter Storms

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winter storms battered the east and west coasts of Canada Monday, bringing with them winds up to 72 miles an hour and leaving deep snow, low power failures and snarled traffic.

In British Columbia and the northwestern United States more of the same is the outlook today but in the Atlantic provinces more temperate conditions are expected with only light snow.

Most of the weather action Monday was in British Columbia as a storm tied up highway traffic, grounded aircraft, pulled down power and telephone lines and knocked out at least two radio stations.

About a foot of snow dropped on the south coast of British Columbia and Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi issued a plea to motorists to stay off the roads.

He said traffic conditions were poor throughout the province and plows were busy with clearing operations.

The day ended with rain and fast - melting snow in many areas. Another fall would begin again sometime today the weather office said.

In the Maritimes, parts of Cape Breton received six to eight inches of snow and winds of up to 50 miles an hour.

In Prince Edward Island, high winds and "blowing snow blocked many roads, while Nova Scotia reported icy driving conditions. Sydney airport recorded wind gusts up to 75 miles an hour that forced cancellation of all flights during the day.

Inland, a cold air mass is expected to cover all of Ontario, giving a mixture of cloud and sunshine. Temperatures will range from about 20 in the south to below zero in the north.

Strengthening winds and fresh to gale - threatened near-blizzard conditions in southwestern Saskatchewan, while temperatures were expected to remain well below zero everywhere but in southern Alberta.

Light snow, which started in Alberta Monday, was to continue with up to three inches forecasts in the south and an inch in the north.

Temperatures in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were expected to range from a high of zero to a low of 20 below. Mere snow was forecast for Manitoba.

Beer Commercials for NHL Hockey Games Criticized

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A Toronto minister criticized beer commercials Monday as "basically unprincipled" and suggested the National Hockey League obtain a new sponsor.

"I don't like how it (the alcohol beverage industry) makes its profits and I don't like what it sells," said Rev. J. R. Hord, secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada.

He told a panel discussion at a youth conference that alcohol problems that brewers should not be allowed to become associated with television with Canada's national game.

"You can't be a good hockey player and drink," he said.

Mr. Hord told about 650 teenage delegates to the four - day conference that began Monday that Canadians don't take drinking problems seriously enough.

"They still laugh at drunks," he said.

Scott Young, a Globe and Mail columnist, said he didn't know of a hockey player in the NHL that didn't drink, "but they don't drink a lot." He said he didn't think the commercials affected young persons greatly, but agreed that NHL games should have another television sponsor.

Dr. Gary Cormack, a Toronto psychiatrist, said there is a possibility children might identify the product with their hockey hero and drinking is something the hero might do.

Gary Lautens, a Toronto Star columnist, said he didn't think "people believe half the things they see on commercials."

Earlier in the day, Thomas Knott, an Ontario Temperance Federation official, criticized parents, James Bond toys and

Canada to Welcome New Year With Parties and Celebrations

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians will welcome the new year in traditional fashion with midnight church services, private parties and increasingly extravagant night club and hotel celebrations.

Theatres are expected to draw their regular full houses for special midnight shows and private parties of anywhere from two people up will be popular as usual.

The public parties will cost from $3 a couple at some ballrooms in Edmonton Jo $35 at Ottawa's Chateau Laurier and Vancouver's Panorama Roof at the Hotel Vancouver.

Many of the public celebrations have been sold out for weeks. Others — notably the main Toronto hotels—still have space but are expecting full houses by midnight Friday night.

The standard offering at the hotels is a buffet dinner, dining, dancing and entertainment with as many as three acts. The Chateau Laurier will have Canadian comedian Rich Little and Toronto's Park Plaza has a mixed French singer Claudette.

Not all Canadians will do anything Friday night, Many how ever. Montreal nightclub owners report French-speaking residents generally entertain at home New Year's Eve and do the club circuit the night before. English - speaking Montrealers prefer house parties Dec. 30.

In some centres the attraction of public parties has been increased by an extension of bar hours. Halifax's 12:30 a.m. closing time has been extended two hours, and Montrealers will have until 2 a.m. instead of 1 a.m.

All the parties will draw the usual extra number of drivers and would-be drivers onto the highways and the Canadian Highway Safety Council has predicted 30 persons will die in traffic accidents this weekend. The average new year's death toll over the last 10 years is 25.

Police in most centres will be carrying on a stiff crackdown on drinking drivers but many departments say they are making no abnormal effort. Calgary police are offering a drive-home service for motorists who feel they are in no condition to handle their own cars.

Thurlow Twp. Phones Will Soon Be Linked With City

Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, and Clarke Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings East, received assurance on Christmas Eve that Thurlow residents will be able to make Belleville telephone calls free of charge early in the new year.

Some time ago, when the Bell Telephone Co. acquired the Thurlow Telephone Exchange at Plainfield from Harry McCreary, the former owner, it was stated that there would be free exchange of calls between Thurlow and Belleville telephones. Later, however, this decision was changed, owing to the increase in the number of telephones which would then put Belleville in a different rating category if Thurlow telephone had been added.

Thurlow residents protested and several meetings were held between the subscribers and Bell Telephone officials, with Mr. Grills and Mr. Rollins participating. Christmas Eve the two members received word from Stanley Dale, Kingston Bell Telephone area manager, that dialling between Thurlow and Belleville would become operative not later than February.

Seven Calls Answered by Fire Dept.

The Belleville Fire Department had a busy holiday week-end, answering a total of seven calls.

An overheated coal stove at the home of William Bridge, 80 Prince of Wales Drive, caused between $1200 and $1500 damage Sunday evening. The Fire Department was notified at 8.14 p.m. by a neighbor who had spotted the smoke. The Bridge family were away at the time. Smoke damage was heavy.

Firemen also answered a service call Sunday on Byron Street, when a woman was locked out of her house and called for assistance.

There were three calls Christmas Day, all of a minor nature. A telephone pole was broken off and reported at 8.42 a.m.

Spent Money For Christmas, Lacks Lawyer

A Belleville man, given time to retain a lawyer on an assault charge, spent his money for Christmas instead — and ended defending himself in magistrate's court today.

Robert Day originally appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wilkie December 8 and was granted until today to find a lawyer.

Today he requested another remand — to retain a lawyer.

He said he could not afford to retain legal defence at Christmastime.

That's the most unreasonable and outrageous excuse I've heard in a long time," retorted Magistrate Wilkis. "I've never heard such nonsense in my life."

"Sit down," he ordered Day, in telling him the case would be heard immediately.

It was — but later adjourned to Thursday when Day requested permission to call witnesses supporting his story of how an incident in a hotel barroom landed him an assault charge.

Kingston Police Are Opposing Integration

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—City police today opposed planned integration of the Canada Pension Plan with Ontario municipal and government employees' schemes.

Finley Smith, president of the Kingston Police Association, said some employees would lose money under the new system. He said the varied systems of service records and estimated certain members could lose $1,000 a year.

Similar opposition came Dec. 22 from the Kingston Firemen's Association.

All Signs Indicate Soviet Policy Is Being Retooled Early in Year

By WILLIAM L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

The shape of Soviet world policy in 1966 will have important bearing on chances for negotiation in Viet Nam. By spring, the world may have a better idea of those chances.

All signs indicate Soviet policy is being retooled to fit new situations, including a fading prospects for any reconciliation with China.

Soviet aims seem concerned with security and insurance: security to pursue internal economic goals and insurance against involvement against its will in direct conflict with the United States.

Soviet policy now is zeroing in on Western Europe, suggesting that Moscow wants to make friends with its Western neighbors, expand economic and cultural contacts and reap longrange benefits. A Soviet-British summit meeting is in prospect for February, and President de Gaulle may drop in for a Soviet-French summit.

In this, Moscow appears to seek insurance in the form of some sort of settlement of West Germany's role in Atlantic nuclear defenses. It is capitalizing on lack of enthusiasm among the United States' allies for West German participation, but also on de Gaulle's opposition to stepped - up NATO integration and to the West German election year.

Since the Kremlin appears to subordinate Viet Nam to European policy it also can be expected to limit its form of insurance in Asia, too. This is manifest in persistent Soviet efforts to end Asian tensions. Hanoi's insistence is North Viet Nam, to premier Kosygin's device in future developments in Viet Nam. Soviet Navy likely will discuss Viet Nam with British Prime Minister Wilson in February.

Significantly, the Chinese have been accusing Moscow of pursuing its own "special aims" in Viet Nam.

Deteriorating Moscow - Peking relations apparently play a dominating role in the shaping of Soviet policy. One hears no more from Moscow that an attack on China would be an attack on the Soviet Union.

The Kremlin is not surrendering its claim to leadership of world revolution but rather seems preparing to assert that there are safer ways of promoting it than risking world nuclear conflict.

The Soviet theory is that the stronger the Soviet Union becomes economically, the better the chances later on to support those "national liberation movements" which are revolutions against established authorities in non-Communist nations. But obviously, Soviet national interests now come first.

Kiddies Enjoy Fall of Snow On Christmas

All those people dreaming about a white Christmas were not disappointed after all!

And hundreds of kiddies whose gifts from Santa included new skates, sleighs and toboggans took full advantage of the last minute change of mind on the part of the weatherman.

Sunday skaters turned out in force for the first time this season on the Belleville harbor, also kiddies with sleighs and toboggans were seen on many of the city's slopes.

On Monday there were at least 150 skaters enjoying themselves on the ice of the inner harbor.

Mission Unauthorized Says Dept.

NEW YORK (AP)—Staughton Lynd, a Yale professor and a spokesman for the "new left," is reported in Hanoi to talk with leaders of Communist North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong.

Lynd, accompanied by two other Americans, is on an unauthorized mission that could result in stiff federal penalties.

The trip is sponsored by the magazine Viet Report "in an effort to clarify the position of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) and the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam," said John McDermott, associate editor of the magazine.

The other two men on the trip are Thomas Hayden, a founder of the Students for a Democratic society, and Herbert Aptheker, a reputed Communist theoretician.

WENT VIA PENING

The three left New York Dec. 19 and flew to Brussels, Prague, Moscow, Peking and then to North Viet Nam by way of Cambodia, said McDermott.

McDermott said the magazine is sponsoring the mission because "reports that appear in the American press purposefully describing or distributing positions to the National Liberation Front and the DRV conflict with their reports of their position. The purpose of the trip is to clear that up."

The three men could face a $5,000 fine, five years in prison or both for visiting North Viet Nam without permission from the U.S. state department.

Hayden, 26, is an organizer for the new community union project in Newark, which seeks to organize the poor on issues such as housing, unemployment and welfare.

Aptheker, director of the American Institute of Marxist Studies in New York, is a historian and author of two books.

A Documentary History of the Negro People in the U.S. and American Negro Slave Revolts in 1963 the state department withdered his works removed from U.S. overseas libraries.

Traffic, Fires Chief Killers Over Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia recorded 63 of the 81 accidental deaths reported across Canada in the 78-hour Christmas holiday.

A Canadian Press survey of 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday night local times showed the total was 49 fewer than the record 130 set in the 84-hour, 1961 Christmas period, but five more than last Christmas's 44-hour total of 76 deaths.

Traffic and fires were the chief killers this Christmas with traffic claiming 54 lives and fires 21.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council had predicted 69 traffic victims, or three more than were killed during the 1964 Christmas holiday.

WOMAN FREEZES

Ontario's total consisted of 16 killed in traffic, six in fires, a woman who froze to death in Toronto and a boy who fatally wounded while examining a shotgun near Woodstock.

British Columbia had 22 deaths, 14 in traffic, seven in fires and one fatally injured when the car he was repairing fell on him.

Quebec's total of 17 accidental deaths included 15 in traffic, one asphyxiation and one person fatally injured in a fall.

Newfoundland reported one traffic death and one person killed in a fire.

New Brunswick and Alberta each reported two road deaths while Nova Scotia had one drowning.

Saskatchewan reported four traffic victims and one person killed in a fire while the Yukon and Manitoba each reported three fire deaths.

Editors Released

SEOUL (AP)—Two of three South Korean editors arrested last week and accused of violating the anti-Communist law were released Monday night on bail. The three, all members of the newspaper Hanil Shinmun of Taegu, 130 miles southeast of Seoul, were charged with aiding North Korean Communist agents to escape by prematurely carrying a story of a police manhunt for them.

Judge Welcomes News Officers Will Sue

TORONTO (CP)—Judge Ian M. Macdonnell, a member of the Metropolitan Toronto board of police commissioners, Monday welcomed the news that two constables are suing for damages arising out of a fight July 29 with sailor Roger Armstrong.

"I think this is a good thing," said Judge Macdonnell. "This will bring the whole case out into the open and the courts will settle it.

"We have been accused by some people of trying to cover up this whole affair. This isn't true and I'm pleased it's going to court. It'll be aired completely there."

The two constables asked that a writ be issued against Armstrong. It was served Christmas Eve.

Constable John MacCracken is seeking $2,500 damages and Constable Paul Coughlin $500.

Armstrong was involved in a fight with the constables and the writ claims that Armstrong and Elmer Wilson, a companion, "with no cause whatsoever assaulted and beat him (MacCracken) by striking him with their fists and with a billy, by kicking him with their feet, thereby causing him serious injuries" which kept him off work from July 29 to Sept. 19.

CHARGE DISMISSED

The charge of assault against Armstrong was dismissed Aug. 30 and a similar charge against Wilson was withdrawn.

Metro council earlier this month requested the police commission to review the case after it was reported the police statement misquoted evidence from the court and did not give the story of two witnesses.

The commission cleared the officers.

Judge Macdonell said the writ makes any discussion of the fight between Armstrong and the police "sub judice," that is, it cannot be discussed elsewhere while it is before the courts.

The commission now will have a report on its review of the affair until it has been heard in court.

FIND BABY IN SACK

Rollins Method of Building Praised by U.K. Visitors

Canadian methods of frame house construction have attracted great interest in Britain.

Two well known United Kingdom builders visited Ontario recently to inspect the Canadian timber frame method of construction.

Gerhard Feld and Derek Ashworth, of Dover, Kent, England, were invited /67-Garvda by Maurice H. Rollins of Rollins Construction Limited, Belleville. Mr. Rollins had previously visited Britain to inspect their methods of construction.

Mr. Ashworth said, "we have now visited the Rollins plant at Belleville and many of his subdivisions around the city of Belleville and are convinced that Rollins Construction designs and workmanship are the best we have seen in Ontario.

"We now feel that any timber builder, no matter how small, can be a part in our vast housing program should visit this friendly city of Belleville and the Province of Ontario, meet people who regard housing as a vital part of their society, see the Rollins' quality of design and construction and then go back to England and emulate the drive, energy and success of Belleville."

Mr. Rollins in commenting on Mr Ashworth's letter said that "The British Building Industry is presently producing some 300,000 houses per year of masonry construction and only a modest 13,000 per year of system-built factory production from 13,000 units per year to 100,000 units."

Mr. Ashworth noted that Britain needed to build 4,000,000 homes in the next 10 years and then continue to produce 500,000 homes per year just to keep up to the need. He said the Canadian methods of framed construction "have been able to save 50 per cent of labor time in construction, thus producing twice as many units of housing in the same period of time."

Fun on Skis Now Enjoyed as Family Sport

Families who enjoy doing things together are discovering the fun of family skiing as a winter past time. On Sunday afternoons, mom, dad and the kids load into the car and head for their favorite snow-covered slope to enjoy this healthful outdoor sport together.

The popularity of skiing in this area has been steadily growing and nearby locations such as Mountain View, Oak Lake, Walker Bridge, Napanee, Batawa and Cobourg all offer excellent facilities within easy driving distance of Belleville. For a weekend jaunt, families are heading farther afield to such places as Ottawa, Huntsville, Lake Placid and the Laurentian Mountains.

Modern ski equipment has made skiing safer and easier than ever, which accounts for the "family" appeal . . . from the youngest members up.

One of Belleville's most complete selection of ski equipment for all sports is located at Booth Radio and Television Limited, 384 Front Road, Belleville, ski clothing — everything for the skier from the beginning to the seasoned pro.

Get the family started now in this popular sport! You can outfit every member for no money down and as little as $1. a week at Booth Radio and Television Limited, 170 Front St., (Opp. City Hall. Dial 968-5785.

Members of Royal Family Display Wide Variety of Surprising Talents

By HELEN CATHCART

Even the press boys were shaken when Princess Anne chanced to meet a deaf and dumb girl while touring a Yorkshire carpet factory — and instantly talked to her in deaf and dumb sign language.

Asked where he learned that finger-flapping, the Earl of Snowdon shrugged and wouldn't say.

But why not, Tony? Maybe it would have been too long to explain that it dates back to the tough months you spent in Liverpool lingering in your tent. Partly paralyzed by polio, you passed the time learning deaf-dumb from another wheelchair patient.

Hindered by illness, Tony Snowdon failed his architecture exams in architecture. Strictly for the birds, his flop didn't stop him designing the $120,000 aviary for the Zoo.

For different birds, he experimented in human engineering — and launched his own collection of with-it ski clothes.

PRINCESS ANNE

And this decidedly was one of his first common interests with Princess Margaret, who has a secret flair for fashion drawing.

Her deft professional touch in drawing the dresses she wants — just like the sketches in fashion magazines — continually startles ace couturiers like Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies.

In fact, you can't tell what the royals are like just by looking at them — or reading about them. Their hidden talents should be exposed!

Prince Philip has fun on wet days building castles in his attic, life gets busy with 4/4 scale drawings, scissors and glue — and has now made impressive models of all the royal residences.

As a young and homeless naval officer, friends recall he was forever making drawings of an ideal home — thicky stuff with staircases, and bedrooms that could be used as ballroom by day.

He never dreamed he would one day modernize castles and palaces, and in girls, dogs, books, pilot planes and invent an ideal mud-scraper for jeeps.

Newcomers to the Palace are invariably surprised when Prince Philip shows them his drawing-board. Yet greyhounds race yearly for the Prince Philip Cup and Tatler Trophy designed himself. And the Queen uses a platinum powder compact that looks like the work of a superb metal craftsman. It was, in fact, made to Prince Philip's design.

Naturally, with art in the family, it's not so surprising that Prince Charles has acquired pottery. One year he had no fewer than eight exhibits in a school craft's exhibition — and a list of odd-shaped royal Christmas parcels last year proved to be jugs, marmalade pots and vases evolved by Charles' skilful potter's thumb.

TALENTED MUSICIANS

He plays the trumpet, too, that boy, classics or jazz. Princess Alexandra tollily plays Bach or Scarlatti on the harpsichord. But high-hat virtuosity didn't stop her from bashing the drums in a supreme swing session at her elder brother's birthday party.

The Duke of Kent, too, is a showy jazz drummer who once sat in for the regular drummer at a winter sports hotel. Duke of Windsor not only plays the bagpipes but also composes bagpipe music — and his slow march "Mallorca" is still played by pipers of the Scots Guards.

Again, it's a striking fact that the Queen, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, Princess Alexandra, Princess Anne and the Duchess of Kent pooled their talents, they could stage a vaudeville act on six pianos!

Everyone has heard of Princess Margaret's gifts of mimicry . . . from her party-spirit impersonations of the Dickie Sevenson singers to the newest cats in the disc charts. Noel Coward and Peter Ustinov agree she would make a great revue star.

Yet, the Queen Mother has party tricks up her sleeve, too, and you can take that literally — the Queen Mum learned a few simple conjuring tricks to help amuse her grand-children — and since then she's acquired several boxfuls of magical apparatus to keep the fun going.

MADE FLYING SUITS

Touring a military clothing factory, the Queen Mother once watched a woman stuffing woollen insulation into airmen's flying suits — and then quietly leaned forward and surprisingly whispered, "I used to do that, you know!"

At Glamis Castle, in the first world war, she in fact spent a great time at a makeshift bench stuffing jackets and sleeping bags with wool and softened tissue paper. In the second world war, when invasion threatened, the Queen Mother practised drilling with a .300 rifle on a .38 revolver with unexpected James Bond expertise.

Now let's take a hard look at the hidden talent of H.M. The Queen Mother — and this judgment this year placed her fifth among winning owners and sixth among winning trainers.

QUEEN FILMS HORSES

Outside the stables few people know that she films her racehorses in action and edits the films closely to help detect and iron out the horses' faults.

Yet, the Queen Mother also took a census of birds in the Buckingham Palace gardens — and the Queen recorded them of two species they might have overlooked.

The Queen's aunts, Princess Marina and the Duchess of Kent, are better-born gamblers than Monte Carlo's best-known pictures for charity. Yet in a showcase at a Barbados pottery there's a treasure-stock of basalt bowl revealing the deep-felt-hidden talent of all.

Women for Armed Services

A growing manpower shortage in the armed forces—the result mainly of economic prosperity in the civilian field—may lead to the recruitment of more women, according to Ottawa reports.

Such a move is being contemplated despite a number of drawbacks to the employment of women. The main one, of course, is that in many instances a woman is no sooner trained than she gets married. Rotation of men in various administrative jobs also becomes more difficult if such jobs are filled increasingly by women.

However, if there is a shortage of manpower, there is no reason why a program of at least limited recruitment should not be advantageous. Actually, the defence department is said to be thinking in terms of "thousands" of women recruits, and details of costs and other information have been prepared for Defence Minister Hellyer.

Who knows, the prospect of large numbers of young women entering the services might even act as a spur to male recruitment as well. The services, if they do not offer the monetary advantages of civilian life, have other attractions. Overseas travel is one which immediately comes to mind in connection with all three services.

Perhaps the luckiest of all the more than 1,000 young women serving in the armed forces today are the stewardesses of RCAF Transport Command who regularly fly to various parts of the world where Canadians are serving.

Season for Colds

Got a cold? Well, this is the time for that nasty affliction. And down the years people have come up with as many remedies as there are folks with colds.

One fellow we know claims he has not had a cold since November, 1963—more than two years ago. He remembers it well because he was in Vancouver and it was very cold damp and drizzly. Our friend was bound for Hawaii, but before he reached that sunny realm a week or so later the cold grew somewhat worse. And all because of grey skies and chilly weather for the [illegible] since days at sea—and the ship's air-conditioning.

Air-conditioning is fine, but if it clashes with the wrong kind of temperature it may give a fellow a touch of the sniffles.

As to a remedy, this shipboard traveller resorted to periodical hot whiskies laced with lemon and sugar and eventually the poor fellow recovered.

Of course, there are any number of remedies for the common cold. They are not so much remedies, as sweeteners or comforters for an unpleasant condition that must run its course anyway. Today they even include injections, but this seems rather a drastic measure for anything so common as the common cold.

When the cold also involves a throat infection, as it often does, we swear by anyone of the various emulsions, preferably one that is flavored with something we can stand. Barely taste. These preparations not only contain vitamins but by their very nature soothe the rawness in the throat.

"Cough lozenges," on the other hand, seem only to aggravate a throat condition—tickling it further and spoiling one's appetite to boot.

And so it goes. We all have colds now and again, and all have one remedy or other.

Those Computers

Computers do the damdest things. The Rutgers University brain machine at Newark, New Jersey, classed "genius" as a male taboo.

So what happened? An attractive 20-year-old sophomore called Enrica Gaetano received a summons from the local draft board.

Enrica, a dark-haired Latin beauty, had no difficulty dodging this particular draft.

Less fortunate are some of her fellow students in universities across the United States, and particularly those who may have participated in demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam.

A Washington report points out that when a student is identified as a picket protesting Viet Nam policy, his military status is immediately re-classified to make him eligible for the draft at a moment's notice.

This could be one reason why anti-Viet Nam protests by U.S. students seem to be on the wane.

Help for Needy

In its 20th year of service, the international welfare agency CARE of Canada is helping to feed 37 million hungry people on four continents.

CARE aids the victims of war and disaster as well as those who suffer from poverty, disease and ignorance. It also promotes projects and programs with the co-operation of local governments, thus helping people to become self-supporting.

To accomplish such a vast program, CARE depends largely on individual contributions Packages made possible by Canadian donations carry not only the donor's name but a green Maple Leaf sticker as well.

Thus, practical aid to the needy carries with it the personal touch that means so much to recipients.

The Battle Against Famine

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Half a decade ago President Eisenhower believed that "ours is the first generation to enter the arena of victory in the world's battle against hunger, and our own country's contribution is that struggle." He spoke in the wake of a 10-year period during which the major famines had occurred anywhere in the non-communist world. Today the picture of this battle front had changed alarmingly. President Johnson's four-day Canadian Conference on International Co-operation made this point very clear.

Some 30 reports analysing approaches to the problem of feeding the world's ills were presented at this conference but one theme recurred again and again. It was the question of how the Food for Peace program could be revised and made more effective, in the face of famine threats that are growing alarmingly in many parts of the world.

A noteworthy example is India, which is facing its worst food shortage since attaining independence in 1947, and where a famine crisis is right of the states in Indian [illegible] alone, five million people are affected. The United States already is pouring 20,000 tons of wheat into India daily, but the nation's internal distribution system is incapable to get the grain to the stricken areas in time.

Throughout the Far East, where nearly one-half of the world's 3.3 billion people live, food production lags far behind the population increase. The same applies to many states in Latin America. According to the United Nations, world population will double within another generation unless corrective are applied at once. There are currently 180,000 new mouths to feed every day and the vast majority of these children live amid poverty in the world's undeveloped nations.

Reporting on the Washington conference, the Boston Globe predicts that it will be heard on this subject when the President outlines his administration's policy next month before Congress. In the meantime, it adds, Seneca's admonition in De Brevitate Vitae is pertinent: "A hungry people listens not to reason, nor cares for justice, nor is bent by any prayers . . ."

It also adds emphasis to the appeals of UNICEF, the Unitarian Services and those many other organizations which solicit support at this season of the year.

Canada's Role In Sanctions

Orillia, Packet and Times

In Tanzania the British embassy was sacked and the ambassador's car attacked by [illegible] deputy Britain's failure to crush Rhodesia, and missiles carrying placards calling on the British to "Hang Ian Smith."

As the ambassador's residence sheltered in his besieged embassy, he might well have reflected that it is the declared policy of his country to turn Rhodesia into just such another state as Tanzania, ruled by just such impulsive children.

It is Canada's policy, too, and we are the ones to expect millions of the taxpayers' money to pay for the sanctions and the military "preparedness" moves to force it on the orderly and civilized south of Rhodesia, where native Africans already enjoy better living, education and freedom than in any other African state.

Voyageur Idea Hits Rapids

Charlottetown Patriot

It is hard to find tears of sympathy for the vanishing dream of the centennial planners who thought up the paddle pageant of voyageur canoes travelling by waterways and portages from the Rockies to Montreal in 1967.

If the centennial promoters have to paddle their own canoes to go through with the scheme it will be because neither the provinces nor private enterprise, who were to share in the cost, find enough merit in the idea to put up some cash.

Only its fond fathers can see the plan as a sound promotional or publicity stunt to call attention to the centennial celebration. The waterways across the country do not generally follow the railways, highways or, more important, the chain of microwave relay stations that carries national network television. They publicity gallery would be lost for days at a time to the mass media watchers of their progress, particularly in the wide open spaces of the prairies and the bush of northern Quebec and Ontario.

Besides, in 1967 we will be celebrating the 100th birthday of Confederation, not any anniversary of the opening of the west.

Strictly Personal

Toy Guns an Outlet for Kids

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My youngest son is mad about weapons of all kinds — guns, swords, tanks, planes, anything that will attack and destroy his mythical enemies. He is a one-boy annihilation squad.

In San Francisco this Christmas, the Women for Peace organized a new committee" to combat the manufacture and selling of war toys. The group passed out literature at shopping centres to urge support of those few stores that ban war toys.

Although I sympathize with their motives, I think they are wasting their time and efforts. There is no more reason to believe that war toys encourage a child's pugnacity any more than there is reason to believe that dirty pictures stimulate a child to sexual activity.

The toy strategy may not know that in Soviet Russia no war toys are manufactured or sold; they are prohibited by the government. Yet, this has not appreciably diminished Russia's hostility toward the West, nor has it made Russian children less bellicose in their personal relations.

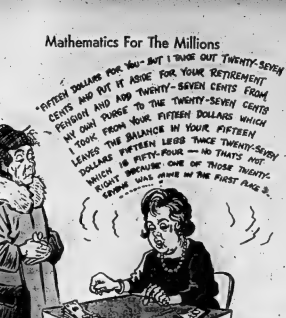
This is simply too easy to blame military toys for aggressive tendencies, and to blame erotic pictures for premature sexual activity in both cases, we are confusing a symptom with a cause — because it is easier to remove, or make, a symptom than to get at an underlying cause.

My little boy likes war toys because he is in an aggressive psycho-social stage of life. He needs to run and jump, to kick and hit, to devastate his surroundings. If this need were too greatly repressed at his age, it would come out much more fiercely at a later (and more dangerous) age.

At that later age — in puberty, for instance — what determines how aggressive the boy is has nothing to do with the war toys he was allowed to play with. Rather, it has to do with the way in which his sexual energies are allowed to drain off.

If he is motivated and interested in his school life and home life, he will not become delinquent. If he is treated with a limited opportunities offered by his environment, he will break windows and inflict less harm on society than the boy who is bored and frustrated in his.

The young people in Russia created a revolution in 1917 because nothing was offered them by a stagnant social system; the German youth followed Hitler in the 1930's because Germany was broke and bitter and violent nationalism was offered to them as an empirical.



The Negro youth today riot in Watts and elsewhere because they are bored and hungry and have no constructive outlet for their energy. It is not the toys they play with that make people aggressive; it is the pur poselessness of peace.

Ocean News

Charlottetown Guardian

The sea floor has been called the world's biggest junkyard. Ocean explorers report that empty bottles rattle down to the bottom to get at an underlying cause. all kind litter the floors of the Atlantic Ocean, the Red Sea, and the Indian Ocean. Captain Jacques-Yves Cousteau, whose expeditions are supported by the National Geographic Society, said recently that he would never forget his first deep dive in a bathyscaphe. "I landed in front of a spreadout newspaper."

Skin Cancers Easiest Of All to Detect

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Which method of detecting cancer of the face or neck is most reliable — X-ray or smear tests? For how long can an external cancer exist before becoming painful? — T. O.

* * *

External cancers — skin cancers — are the easiest to detect of all cancers, and have the highest cure rate because of that. You can see them and have them removed before they can grow or spread beyond the point at which they can be cured.

When you say "face and neck," you cover a lot of territory. Do you mean on the surface of the neck, or inside the neck? It makes a difference.

For a surface cancer, neither X-ray nor a smear test is used. Rather, a suspicious lesion (a lump, or a "sore" that does not heal but is not painful) can easily be removed. The tissue is taken to a laboratory for microscopic examination. If cancer cells are present, then additional treatment is started. Or if cancer cells are not present, that's the end of the matter.

Inside the body, you cannot see such a lesion developing; therefore X-ray is used to detect it when it becomes big enough to be a lump.

The "smear test" is used to test moist secretions for cancer cells; that is, a "smear" taken from a nipple, cervix, prostate fluid, or other sources.

Finally there are situations in which special instruments, such as the bronchoscope (in the bronchial area) or proctoscope (in the lower bowel) or gastroscope (in the stomach.) Then a small sample, or perhaps several small samples of tissue will be taken. If microscopic examination shows no cancer cells that's fine. If cancer cells are present, then it is apparent that surgery is necessary to remove the cancerous tissue.

* * *

How long does it take for a cancer to become painful? This varies depending on the type of cancer, location and age of the patient. Cancer is not painful to begin with. That's why cancer is such an insidious disease. It grows as microscopically small growth.

As it keeps on growing, the lump (when it becomes big enough to be a lump) can exert pressure on sensitive tissues. Only then does it become painful.

Unfortunately, in some instances cancer cells break away and through the blood stream or lymph system, or by spreading directly from one area to the next, before pain occurs. This spreading of "metastasis" is the most dangerous situation of all, because if there has been a spread to one direction, there probably has been the beginning of spread in some other direction.

Never wait for cancer to become painful. Watch for the other signs which come first: "sores" that do not heal, hoarseness, persistent cough, change in bowel habits, an unusual discharge, any change in mole or size or shape) of a wart or mole. Pay close attention to those and you'll detect most cancers in time. Wait for pain, and you are gambling with your life!

Dear Dr. Molner: When a person has possibly worn the wrong eye glasses for over a year, does this change or cause damage to the eyes? — J. A. S.

If the glasses were wearable, as evidently they were, I doubt that any damage was done, but better get a pair that will let you see better.

Note—D. M. N.: Color blindness is [illegible] trait, and I doubt that any of the tests for color vision (sunstroke, night school study, or reading in bed) has anything to do with it at all.

The last ruling monarch of Italy, Victor Emmanuel III, died 18 years ago today —in 1947—in exile in Egypt. He had divested himself of all powers in 1944, after the Allies entered Rome, and abdicated in favor of his son, Humbert, three weeks before the population voted to end the monarchy, in the First World War, Victor Emmanuel proved a sagacious and strong leader because he did not interfere in the conduct of the war but lived the life of an active soldier. However, this constitutional policy led him, after 1922, to ratify the Fascist decrees which contradicted his own oath to protect the people's freedoms.

Letter to the Editor

Hate Should Have No Place in 1966

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

If I never set foot in a church or acknowledge the presence of a God, I can have an excuse for hating. I am ignorant of many facts. If I attend church regularly I have no excuse for hating. I can learn the meaning of the word "Love."

I was born with a memory. I find it easier to remember the hurt that certain people have inflicted upon me, than I do to forget it. But God teaches us how to forgive. Who was it who said, "To be able to forgive is divine"? I only know that it is one sure way to find peace in my heart.

We talk about having peace in the world and we have ways for it, but do we have it in our civilized communities or even in our own homes?

We cannot choose the moment when we will take our last breath, but we can choose to love our neighbor, right now.

If hate, resentment, anger or bitterness is in our heart we cannot possibly be happy. We can only fool ourselves into thinking we can.

If we can humble ourselves and break down the barrier of pride to tell just one person that we're sorry, then let us do it now, for we shall not pass this way again.

Let us search our souls, recognize our own faults and correct them. Let us all make our own little bid for peace among humanity. Then and only then will we truly mean it when we say, "Happy New Year."

Physical Training In the Schools

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I have followed with interest the letters regarding the physical education in the schools.

I agree that it is important in this technological age that the children have a physical education program in the curriculum and I certain approve of the health course given, however I most definitely disapprove of physical prowess being counted with the academic subjects. The marks and of a qualifying mark of any sort being given for the "physical" work in the course. This is one part of the curriculum which I believe should not have the presence of a mark given. When I attended high school, the P.T. class was looked upon as a period of exhilaration and a relief from the grind of the other subjects. We enjoyed it thoroughly as we were taught games and exercises without any thought given to how well it was performed, except for those who were volunteers for the teams which competed with other schools.

I believe that to place P.T. in the category with the academic subjects is to defeat the whole purpose, which to my mind is to help youngsters enjoy physical exercise, and to understand the health of the body.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 28th, 1945

Tribute to local and district motorists for the care and precaution exercised in driving over the Christmas holiday was paid by Police Chief Reginald Herbert today. According to police officers precaution was exercised at all times and despite the fact that streets were in a slippery condition, only a few minor accidents occurred.

City auditors following their annual examination provided typical Yuletide for inmates of the City Mercantile Jail.

Merchants and their staffs relaxed today and viewed nearly empty shelves, aftermath of one of the busiest shopping seasons in years. Mr. and Mrs. John Public appeared to have plenty of ready money and credits asked were extremely low.

30 YEARS AGO

December 28th, 1935

Miss Francis Walters of Prince Albert, Sask., student of the University of Alberta is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Walters, Catherine St.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Reddick, corner of College and Frank Streets, are observing today the 30th anniversary of their wedding. Many friends will be pleased to extend congratulations, and good wishes.

Through the generosity of a local citizen 15 transients sat down to an excellent Christmas dinner at a local restaurant at noon on Christmas Day. Annually this philanthropic citizen sits at the police station and leaves a standing order with Chief Alec Kidd to have him send all transients, who sleep at the station on the night of December 24th, and also those who appear later in quest of a meal on Christmas Day, to a local restaurant where they would be fed well at his expense.

40 YEARS AGO

December 28th, 1925

Dr. Reginald Third and his mother, Mrs. James Third, of Kingston, spent the week-end with Mrs. David Waters and family.

Mrs. S. A. Hyman left for Florida where she will spend the winter.

Miss Elsie Milburn, Toronto, is spending the Christmas vacation at her home on Charles St.

Mr. Nolan has moved his family from Cochrane, to spend the holidays at his home on George St.

Mr. Gordon Robertson is home from Toronto to spend the holidays.

Mr. Harold Holway of the K. and S. Industrial Hockey team, is home on a visit.

50 YEARS AGO

December 28th, 1915

Mayor Panet was host at an impromptu banquet last night following the adjournment of the city council. Besta included the aldermen and the city officials.

Mrs. S. S. Lazier was made a Christmas present of a life membership in the Red Cross Society in recognition of untiring efforts on behalf of the Red Cross and other patriotic societies and her untiring devotion of affairs as president here. The presentation was made by Mrs. Curtis Bogart, Mrs. S. D. Lazier and Mrs. E. Guss Porter.

From the copy at this time in 1895: "The local Methodist churches in this city will observe tomorrow the 100th anniversary of Methodism here. The Rev. Darius Dunham was the first Methodist preacher in visit Belleville."

Movie Subsidy

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

The Italian parliament has decided to give no more subsidies to Italian motion pictures, but has approved a subsidy of $4,000 a year for each of 20 feature length pictures considered to be films of particular interest. The Italian movie industry is one of the world's leaders and still has to be heavily subsidized. Our government which is toying with the idea of getting into the movie business, ought to think of the consequences.

Merry Christmas

Christmas comes but once a year.
Thank heavens!
It takes the best of the year to pay for it.
There are many nice things about Christmas though. The family gathering together. The turkey. The plum pudding. The trees. The presents.

Yes, the presents.

Though the presents themselves may differ from house to house, there are many familiar scenes that happen everywhere. .

One of them happened to me Christmas.

I was at my mother-in-law's house Christmas morning. My brother-in-law was there too, along with his three small children.

Father-in-law played Santa and handed out the gifts.

"Patty," he said, addressing one of his grandchildren, "here's a gift for you."

It was a toy telephone.

"David. Here's something for you from Santa."

David, a little toddler, opened his truck quickly and just as quickly disposed of it and went after the telephone.

Then the fun began.

"That's my telephone!" Patty protested.

"Aaaahhhh!" replied David. He was too young to talk but old enough to have developed a healthy screech.

"Give me my telephone!"

"Aaaahhhhh!"

"Mommy. David's got my telephone."

"David," said Mommy. "Give Patty her telephone."

"Aaaahhhh!"

David let his grip on the phone slip momentarily and Patty grabbed for it, promptly pulling the bottom part away from the top part.

"You broke my phone!" Patty yelled.

"Aaaahhhh!"

"Okay you two," Father said. "If you can't play properly I'll take the phone away from you."

"But it's my phone." Patty pleaded.

"Aaaahhhh!"

With that, father leaned over and took the phone — both pieces — and put it out of reach.

It seemed that David had won the battle because he soon went back to his truck and Patty was left sitting without anything.

Peace was restored.

But it was not for long.

Patty soon decided that she did not really want that old telephone anyway. I mean, who wants a broken telephone. However, a truck, now there was something a person could really enjoy. And a truck with a siren on it. Wow!

Meanwhile, the gift-giving was continuing and everyone had lost interest in the private battle between Patty and David.

Everyone that is, except Patty.

She was watching curiously as David wheeled his truck unflinchingly up over mountains and around dangerous curves in the road, barely missing an oncoming truck on two occasions.

"Here's another present for you David."

This was it. Patty's chance. David dropped his truck, turned, and reached out to his grandpa for his gift.

Patty was quick to act.

David saw what she was up to.

"Aaaahhhh!"

He reached for the truck but was too late. Patty had it and was racing around the corner with it.

Crash!

No, not the truck; Patty. She crashed into the door because she was too busy watching what David was doing to watch for the door.

"Aaaahhh!" said David as he view his three-wheeled truck on the floor. The other wheel had flown across the room with the impact.

"Aaaahhhh!" returned Patty, holding her nose now where it had smashed into the door.

Soon the trouble was over and the presents were all given out. I wondered why kids are not satisfied with their presents and always want to play with what the other one got.

Later, as I sat, putting together the Mary Poppins jigsaw puzzle that my niece got from Santa, I really wondered about it.

"They should be happy with what they get." I told myself, just after finding the right piece to fill a gaping hole in the puzzle.

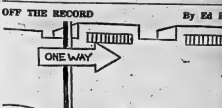
20 Iron Curtain Travellers Seek Asylum

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Twenty Iron Curtain travellers have slipped out of Communist lands in an apparent wave of defections from the banks of the Danube to the Baltic coast.

In Vienna, 15 Czechoslovaks last tourists failed to turn up at the assigned collection point when their party took off by bus for the homeward journey to Czechoslovakia, Austrian travel agency officials said. The rest of the group left after a prolonged walt.



Austrian authorities said they expected them to ask for political asylum here.

In Athens, the Greek ministry of public order disclosed that two Bulgarians and a Hungarian had fled from the Bulgarian cruise liner Nessebar on arrival in Piraeus port last week and have sought asylum.

Police in the Swedish port of Karlskrona reported that two Poles had asked for asylum following a Christmas Eve mutiny aboard a trawler in the stormy Baltic. A Swedish coast guard cutter which spotted the trawler found the skipper locked in a cabin. The two crew members had taken command of the ship, police said. Despite the recent increase in defections, eastern Communist regimes have shown no sign of curbing travel to the West.

EMPLOYERS
Canada Pension Plan Deductions Begin Jan. 1st 1966

Employers must deduct contributions from employees who are aged 18 to 70 and paid at a rate equivalent to more than $600 a year.

Contributions of 1.8% are payable on earnings of between $600 and $5,000 a year as set out in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables.

Employers must match contributions deducted from their employees and remit the combined amount. Instructions for remitting are contained in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables, sent to employers in November. If you did not receive these Tables, or if you have any enquiries regarding the Plan, contact your nearest District Taxation Office.

Issued by Department of National Revenue, Taxation Division
by authority of
The Minister, The Honourable E. J. BENSON

ENROLMENT A RECORD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of students enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities this fall rose 12 per cent over last year to a record 5,900,000. The office of education said 5,570,000 students are working toward degrees at 2,181 institutions. Another 397,000 are enrolled in study not leading to degrees.

Successful Living

First-time Builders Should Plan Carefully

DEAR DORIS:
1. My fiance and I have drawn up rough plans of the kind of home we'd like. Do we buy the lot or would a contractor do that?
2. Would we need a lawyer to arrange the mortgage?
3. How long would it take to build the house and take advantage of the Winter Work Bonus? — ENGAGED.

DEAR ENGAGED:
1. If you at least consult with a reliable contractor in buying the lot, he'll watch out for services such as sewers, sidewalks, electric power. DORIS CLARK
2. I'd say so. A lawyer will handle the deed as well as the mortgage, searching titles as far back as 40 years.
3. If you get the foundation in before freeze-up the rest can be done quickly. To qualify for the W.W. Bonus the Canadian Department of Labor requires that the work has not proceeded beyond the first floor joists by November 15th. It must be completed by April 15th. The gift of $500 goes to the home builder-owner or first purchaser.

A word of warning: Experts agree that you have to build at least three homes before you know what to do and what to avoid. Unless you have studied the subject exhaustively, your best plan may be to buy a house already built, by a contractor with a reputation beyond question. Few of us can afford a thousand-dollar mistake, and the dons happen.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: About the letter signed "Sensitive", I had the very same experience with my daughter-in-law, only it was "iced tea on the lawn," with the next door neighbor. I have never had iced tea and would have appreciated the offer. I also was only about three feet away.

I had travelled several hundred miles to see them. I think I can safely say I was the quietest mother-in-law on record as I was too afraid to open my mouth all the time I was there. My friends say that she was "jealous" of sharing her husband with his own mother.

What do you think? Perhaps some daughter-in-law could write in and explain such actions on the part of "Sensitive's" daughter-in-law and mine. — ALSO SENSITIVE, HURT AND BEWILDERED.

DEAR SENSITIVE: Short of a serious daze or amnesia, a normal person could hardly fail to know what she was doing. I go along with you in thinking that something is troubling her. Would some understanding daughter-in-law please comment?

* * *

Confidential to ABUSED: Most humans are not even remotely related to chameleons. We cannot turn from insult and abuse and willingly yield to the caresses of the tormentor. From the standpoint of your own health, I'd urge that you take the suggested action soon.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My nose turns a bright red when exposed to the cold. I feel so embarrassed that I dread going out during the cold weather.

Have you any idea what causes this condition, and what steps, if any, I could take to overcome it? — NOT MRS. RUDOLPH.

DEAR NOT: If you are thin-skinned and fair, blood vessels near the surface are showing the heart's reaction to the cold — pumping more blood. There are plenty of red noses on zero days.

Protect your face. Wear a lacy, wooly scarf, and pull it up over your nose when you walk in a winter wonderland.

A good opaque make-up can mask the redness to some extent — and your cosmetic saleslady will help you with this.

* * *

(Do you wonder why the people you care about act as they do? Let Doris shed light on your particular human problem. And remember that stamped envelope!)

U.C.W. Meetings

PLAINFIELD U.C.W.

PLAINFIELD — The December meeting of the U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hall, with 17 members present.

The president, Mrs. Clarence Hall, opened the meeting with a Christmas poem, hymn and prayer.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Don Bowers, assisted by Mrs. Horace Palmer, who read the Christmas story, as told by St. Luke.

Mrs. Arnold Bilts sang a solo.

Mrs. George Southall gave an interesting talk, with demonstrations, on "The Two Sides of Christmas." Mrs. Clarence Hall presented her with a small gift.

Mrs. Clarence Marshall gave a reading.

Mrs. Harry Harrison closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Christmas Concerts

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

POINT ANNE — St. John's Church Girls' Choir held their annual carol service on Sunday morning. The candles were lighted by Peggy Giroux, Jill Smith, Randy Coe and Dana Akey. The choir led the singing of the carols and also sang the Christmas Anthem. Nine lessons were read by the members of the choir and Penny Hartt sang a solo, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. James Horwood.

Mr. Alfred Elvin was master of ceremonies. The combined choirs of the Point Anne United and St. John's Anglican churches led the group in song. Mr. Neville Burroughs welcomed the guests on behalf of the Company. Mr. Fred Clarke, chief of the Voluntary Fire Department, also welcomed everyone and wished everyone a safe fire - free Christmas.

A draw on a basket of groceries and turkey was won by Mr. Paul Belanski of Belleville. A jolly old gentleman in a red suit then put in his appearance and distributed gifts to the boys and girls present. He had a number of assistants and the mountain of parcels were distributed at the conclusion.

The Sunday School of St. John's held its Christmas concert on Sunday evening in the Parish Hall with all members of the church taking part in a variety entry.

Mr. Elmir Brown welcomed the guests and Mr. Herb Cavanagh was master of ceremonies for the evening. The nursery class sang "Away in a Manger". Mrs. Harry Farrer is the teacher of this group.

Duane Akey sang a solo and Nancy Cavanagh and Penny Hartt sang a duet. The intermediate class read a poem. The teacher is Mrs. Akey. The senior class sang "What Child is This?" The teacher is Mrs. Hart. Mr. Cavanagh who had so successfully led the group 16 resolves for the coming year had them play a game.

Santa appeared and with his helpers, Linda Fraser and Allan Calder, proceeded to distribute the gifts from under the tree. The choir members decorated the hall and Christmas tree.

Mrs. Percy Akey spent the day as guest of her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey.

Members of the First Aid team at Canada Cement had a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lee Belleville on Saturday evening.

MEN OUTNUMBERED

Women outnumber men in Japan by 1,707,637, in the total population of 96,281,953.

ALLAN PUBLIC SCHOOL

RAWDON — Mrs. Grace L. Morton, teacher, and her pupils at Allan Public School staged their Christmas concert in the schoolroom last Wednesday evening.

Special seating arrangements had to be made to accommodate the 75 persons in attendance.

Gordon Hoard, one of the oldest pupils of the school, was chairman. During the program there were seven school choruses with three pupils, Bonnie Williams, Janet Scott and Lorraine Jeffs, taking turns as accompanists.

Recitations were given by Linda Hoard, Isabel Hoard, David Graff, Byron Hubble, Bill McKelvie, Randy Scott and Margaret Hoard.

Kenneth Couch contributed accordion music. The juniors sang two choruses with Jeannette Hoard as accompanist and they also gave a humorous letter exercise.

A humorous dialogue and a two - act play were part of the two - hour program.

The girls of the school sang carols and presented a drill, with Janet Spencer and Shirl McAvinn as accompanists. Donald Campbell gave a humorous recitation with Maurice Bell as accompanist.

Mrs. W. C. Cox thanked the teacher and pupils. Santa Claus distributed gifts and candy to the children.

WILLIAMS PUBLIC SCHOOL

RAWDON — Williams Public School was the scene of a Christmas concert given last Tuesday evening by the students under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Muriel Hoover. A lighted tree and Yuletide decorations gave a glow to the schoolroom. Robert Merrick was chairman and welcomed the large number of newcomers to the school section.

The pupils sang two choruses with Linda Potts as accompanist and the audience sang two carols with Miss Sally McAdam as accompanist.

Recitations were given by Ian Hubel and David Hearns. Miss Gail Hoover and Linda Potts played piano solos.

The main feature of the evening was a pageant in two scenes. Two short plays and a selection given by costumed players were enjoyed.

William McAdam thanked the teacher and pupils and Mrs. Hoover replied.

GIRL BRED CHAMPION

Stirling Couple Honored at Shower

STIRLING — On Saturday relatives and friends gathered in the Community Hall, Stirling, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Thain (Mrs. Doris Wedge) on their recent marriage.

The hall was decorated with gold and white streamers and large pink bells and a lighted Christmas tree. On a table, appropriately appointed with linen cloth, pink candles and silver services, was a decorated three-tiered wedding cake made by a friend of the bride and groom.

Bridal attendants, Rasbura Thain, brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Glenn Crawford, sister of the bride, were present.

Mr. Kenneth Myers introduced Mr. Malcolm Bassett of Peterborough, who acted as master of ceremonies.

A short program included accordion numbers by David Thain of Sudbury, vocal solo by Robin Lane of Harold, tap dance and baton numbers by Rhonda Myers of Stirling, and a tap dance number by Carolyn Thain of Sudbury. Greetings and best wishes were extended to the bride and bridegroom by Mr. Bogart Linn, J. C. Thain, Boyd Moorcroft and Mrs. Edd Linn.

Garnet, on behalf of Doris, thanked all for the lovely evening with special thanks to his fellow orchestra members, Mrs. Fred Rivers, Shelford Mercer, Jack Lemon and Doug McPherson, who provided enjoyable music for dancing.

The lunch served included the wedding cake cut and served by the bride and bridegroom to their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Thain are residing at 488 Sidney Street, Belleville.

Before their marriage on December 11th, Mrs. Ken Myers was host at a personal shower in her home for Mrs. Thain.

Ken Myers was host at a stag for Mr. Thain where he was presented with a walnut coffee table.

TEN KILLED IN CRASH

VILLAHERMOSA, Mexico (AP)—A state truck carrying a church group to a festival skidded on wet pavement and plunged into a water filled ditch Monday, killing 10 and seriously injuring 21. Police said the driver replaced regulation forbid the use of stake trucks to transport people and the trip was being made in the early morning hours to avoid detection.

NEW YEAR'S DINNER MENU

About 8.35 p.m. a carload of us arrived at my brother's home. The cooks pitched in to get dinner ready. Wyn said, "Mary you do something" with that red cabbage". I found some leftover cranberry jelly and the results were so popular I decided on the spot to include red cabbage in my New Years dinner menu for you. I hope you try this complete menu.

Roast Lamb Shoulder; Mint Jelly; Pan Roasted Potato Halves; Fresh Frozen Green Peas; Tossed Chef's Salad with French Dressing; Party Cupcakes with English Lemon Butter Filling (see Mon.); Coffee.

STUFFED ROAST GOOSE
(12-lb goose yields 10):

Stuffing: ½ cup butter, ½ cup chopped onion or 1 tablespoon green onion flakes, 3 tablespoons chopped parsley or flakes, grated rind 3 medium oranges, 1½ teaspoons rosemary, 18 slices bread pulled into crumbs (8 cups fine soft crumbs, not packed), juice 1¼ cups orange juice, 1½ teaspoons salt, (2 cups chopped cored unpared apples — optional), (½ cup cut up tender prunes — optional).

Melt butter in very large frying pan* or saucepan and add chopped onion or onion flakes, parsley, orange rind and rosemary and gently blend with butter. Add all remaining ingredients tossing lightly.

Stuff into ready prepared goose, skewer opening shut. Place goose on rack in open roasting pan. Now to get rid of some excess fat pierce skin of goose with sharp skewer at 1½" intervals all over. Roast at 425 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. Carefully tip of all accumulated fat. Sprinkle with salt. Cover bird with tent of foil. Reduce heat to 300 deg. Fahr. for 4½ hours or until drumstick will move very easily in thigh joint. But every hour rub entire skin with the cut side of half an orange, squeezing the orange to be sure orange juice covers all skin. This gives a gorgeous dark gold crisp finish.

SWEET AND SOUR RED CABBAGE (serves 8 or 10):

6 cups finely sliced red cabbage, ¼ cup hot water, ½ cup vinegar, 3 tablespoons margarine (or butter), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup cranberry jelly (or sauce), 1½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Mix all ingredients in saucepan and simmer covered 15 minutes. Serve in preheated vegetable dish with a generous dollop of dairy sour cream on top if desired.

RICE WITH MUSHROOMS:

In top part of large double boiler cook 1¼ cups raw long grain rice in 2¾ cups boiling water until it ceases to boil. Place over boiling water. Add 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1 teaspoon salt, and cook covered until tender — about 40 minutes. Saute ½ pound washed, sliced, fresh mushrooms in ¼ cup butter until barely limp. Stir into rice and serve.

NOTE:

If you decide to serve the Lemon Ice Cream buy 1 quart 18% cream and 2 large lemons and see recipe Friday.

Girl Guide, Brownie News

3RD BROWNIE PACK — Mrs. C. Bateman, Brown Owl.

Early in December thirteen Brownies were enrolled by District Commissioner Mrs. T. Golden. They were: Wilma Brown, Bettie Jane Burkitt, Colleen Donly, Karen Empey, Linda Empey, Barbara Graham, Cherylle Hannah, Patricia Hill, Kate Kneisel, Susan Leamon, Marilyn Mackey, Marion Mackey, and Janet Wilson. A Christmas party was held for the Brownies with special Christmas stories and games. The Brownies were delighted to have Major Bernat of the Salvation Army with us as he accepted a cash donation as their Good Turn for the Christmas season.

8TH BROWNIE PACK — Mrs. S. MacDonald, Brown Owl.

The following Brownies were enrolled on December 12th by Mrs. T. Golden, District Commissioner, Leslie McCormick, Carol Frost, Heather Wiens, Susan Doran, Cheryl Cole, Martha Bishop, Cindy Stock, Valerie Bell and Luann Ashley. Golden Bars were presented to Wendy Ashley, Gillian Hammond, Sandra Livock, Julie Nettleton, Nancy Ray, Nancy White. The Brownie mothers were present at this meeting and were invited by the Brownies. On December 20th a Christmas party was held with Major Bernat of the Salvation Army present to accept a basket of white gifts for needy families. The Brownies entertained with a skit or Christmas tab. leau.

On December 15th, eight Brownies were enrolled by Arlene Coates. They were Jennifer Beach, Kathryn Bukard, Catherine Flynn, Shelley Hartt, Linda Hilborn, Cynthia Hunter, Sheila McMurray, and Catherine Wills. At the same ceremony, Charlene Murphy was presented with her Golden Bar. Attending the ceremony was Mrs. D. Stewart, Division Commissioner, Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, who is known as "Grey Owl" to all Brownies, and Miss Hilda Collier. Pack 15's Tawny Owl, Mrs. I. Hilborn and Golden Owl, Miss Holly McMurray recently attended a Basic Brown Training course under the direction of Mrs. Neelands of Hastings.

16TH BROWNIE PACK

Mrs. D. Chartrand, Brown Owl.

At a recent meeting, seven Brownies were enrolled and seven Golden Hand badges were awarded to Mary Ann Bowers and Donna Barrett who then "Flew-Up" to Guides along with Joanne Baird, Patricia Hendry, Ivy Smith, Joanne Ellard, Shelley Kat and Joanne Molaski. For their Christmas Good Turn, this Pack mailed a box of children's clothing to an Indian Mission in Nova Scotia. On December 13th, the 9th Brownie Pack joined the 16th Brownie Pack for a Christmas party where games were exchanged, and sandwiches and cookies prepared by the mothers were served.

COMPANY 1

Mrs. Russell, Captain

A number of First Class tests have been passed recently by Cathy MacDonald, Carol Pope and Pamela Thornton. Cathy MacDonald received her Pioneer Badge and Pamela Thornton her Friend to the Deaf, Toymaker and Writer's Badges. At the Christmas Party held on December 16th, the Guides heard the record of the Littlest Angel, filled a Christmas hamper, exchanged gifts and finished with a sing song of Christmas Carols.

COMPANY 9

Mrs. D. Kirkham, Captain

At two enrollments held recently, the following girls were enrolled as Guides: Judy DeBoer, Debbie Lake, Susan Rissi, Janith Sier, Lisa Wilson, Brenda Keyes, Debbie Johnston, Marion Brinkman, Candace Clarke, Lesleigh Hussey, Barbara Jones and Barbara Goodfellow. During the enrollments eight Guides earned their Hostess Badges. They were Heather Kirk, Marissa Adamson, Pamela Sayers, Christine Thompson, Deidre Barlow, Marjorie Fields, Anne Hilborn, and Patty Phillips. Mrs. T. Golden, District Commissioner, and Mrs. B. Corke, Hostess Badge Convenor were present at these parties. Donna Henry was awarded her Pioneer Badge and Donna Kirkman received her Homemaker and Pioneer Badges. For their Christmas Service Project, the Bluebird Patrol collected toys for the Firemen for delivery to needy children at Christmas. On December 16th, the Guides sang carols at Hastings Manor and took baskets of fruit to the residents. They have also made 200 New Year's place cards for the residents of Hastings Manor Mrs. Aaron Home has also been teaching home nursing to the First Class Guides.

COMPANY 14

Miss Jennifer Carter, Captain.

At a recent ceremony held by this Company, 13 Brownies Flew Up to Guides and 9 girls were enrolled as Guides. First and Third year service stars were also presented at this ceremony. For their Christmas Good Turn, this Company mended old toys and presented them to the Foundling Department of the Belleville General Hospital.

1ST POINT ANNE COMPANY

Mrs. W. L. Horwood, Captain.

This Company has a record number of Brownie Guides this season, 16 girls who will be enrolled early in the new year. The Patrol Leaders, along with the Point Anne Rangers, assisted the Hastings County TB Association in packing Christmas Seals again this year. On December 13th, the Guides sang Christmas Carols through the village and later exchanged gifts and packed a large food hamper. Lieutenant Governor Mrs. Annie McDonnell Ford and Henry Ford II will be married today to Gianfranco Lanelli, a Wall Street stock broker. The civil ceremony will be performed before a small number of friends and family in her mother's Fifth Avenue duplex apartment.

Never more than 450 guests were invited to a dance at the Belmonico Hotel Monday night, with many of those attending a dinner given by the bridegroom's father, Giorgio Lanelli.

For the party, decorators transformed the hotel's main ballroom into a bower, white and gold tent with gold-framed mirrors reflecting flickering candelabras. On round tables were cloths with huge white dots against a black background, "a kind of pop-op effect," as a hotel publicist explained. Stands covered with black felt held large sprays of Florentine palms painted gold. A golden chandelier with gold tassels was placed with the centre of the dance floor. Meyer Davis' society orchestra provided music.

EAT CANADIAN BACON

A buffet of scrambled eggs, chicken hash, hamburgers, Canadian bacon, finger sandwiches and champagne was set up in the smaller supper room, decorated in twinkling pink lame and trimmed with roses. A company piano was the large part of the Ford family from Detroit.

The bride's father, Henry II and his wife Christina, whom he married after a divorce from Anne McDonnell Ford a year ago, also were to attend the party.

The celebration for Anne, who made a debut at a cost of $200,000, will make up somewhat for her simple civil wedding rites, called for because young Lanelli is divorced. Anne is a Roman Catholic.

Her older sister Charlotte, 24, who came out at a cost of $250,000, beat Anne to the altar by a week. She married twice-divorced Stavros Niarchos, 56-year-old Greek shipping magnate, in a civil ceremony in Mexico.

Mother's Helper

A WICKER BASKET mounted on the outside wall of your house or garage is a nest builder for the kind of sports equipment that gets underfoot. Fasten it at convenient child-height. Junior will go for a handy place to keep those important balls, gloves, shuttlecocks, darts, and other odds and ends. (Thanks to Mrs. Gilbert Barrett, Milwaukee, Wis.)

Big Splash For Anne Ford Being Wed

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Decorators received a "young and golden" effect as the proper background for the pre - wedding festivities of a young golden girl, Anne Ford, great granddaughter of auto maker Henry.

The 22 - year - old younger daughter of Mrs. Anne McDonnell Ford and Henry Ford II will be married today to Gianfranco Lanelli, a Wall Street stock broker. The civil ceremony will be performed before a small number of friends and family in her mother's Fifth Avenue duplex apartment.

AN AIR OF WELCOME

Dear Susanna: As a decorator, perk a small quantity of powder. This gives the house a pleasant aroma. Friends tell me our home always smells so inviting.

In the living room and bedroom, when company is coming, try using large, pretty flower vases in place of waste baskets. Unusually attractive. — Mrs. P. E. McGrail.

WOOLLEN WONDERS!

Dear Susanna: Don't throw away that lovely, heavy woollen sweater just because the elbows are worn thin. Instead, use your imagination and ingenuity to re-shape it into a handsome knitting bag, purse or envelope bag.

Before cutting out the neck and sleeves to "square off" your bag, be sure to mark the pattern you intend using with dressmaker's chalk. Stitch this outline on your sewing machine so it won't unravel as you work.

A lining will be necessary, as the wool alone would be inclined to stretch and sag with the weight of articles put into it.

The lining, and a casing at the top, will give a firm base to which a wooden, bone or chain handle can be fastened.

An envelope purse would not require lining at all; but some finishing or edging, such as crocheting around the flap, would be required. — Mrs. E. Duncan.

If anything can be homespun and exciting all in the same breath, this is it.

We have experimented with your fine idea and have worked out three patterns:

(a) An evening bag with colored woollen flowers appliqued to a plain background made from a black cardigan.

(b) A type of carpetbag for holding needlework, made from a heavy sports sweater. (c) A smart daytime, dress-wear, catchall purse from a knobby pullover.

Please be our guest and share these patterns with us — they're yours for the asking. Of course, it would be kind of you to return the compliment, and asked us to share a favorite hint or two of your own. This is a good way of saving for just such an occasion. But hint or no, we will be delighted to hear from you at any time! — SUSANNA

(If you have any hints for running a successful household or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

A VERY SINCERE THANK YOU . . .

As 1965 draws to a close, we want to say "A Very Sincere Thank You" to the people of Belleville and the Quinte area for the very generous share of business accorded us during the past year.

Our policy of selling Better Furniture and Carpeting at modest prices has been well received by the general public, and we appreciate the many opportunities we have had to offer advice on room decor and planning.

Your response to our Rug and Broadloom department has been most encouraging. As you know we carry one of the largest displays of Carpeting between Toronto and Montreal, and our volume of sales enables us to buy direct from the Manufacturer at Savings that are passed on to you.

The Management and staff joins in offering Warmest Seasons Greetings to each and every one.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Stop her! She's going back after her [tradition stamps]!"

Ann Landers

Sorrowing Mother Hopes to Save Others

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column hits everybody sooner or later. I got mine in the letter from the grandma whose daughter left her three-year-old playing — unattended — in the bathtub.

Here is my story:

I left my three little girls in the tub while I went to give the infant his bottle. The two older girls climbed out and turned the faucet on. A few minutes later the older one came to tell me that her little sister was "asleep with her face down in the water" and wouldn't wake up.

ANN LANDERS

We lived two blocks from the police station. Within minutes the police were on the scene. They rushed the child to the hospital, but it was too late.

I can still hear the voices at the funeral. "She should have known better." What a foolish person to have left those children alone."

Ann, if you will print my letter and save just one mother the agony I went through it will be worth the heartache I am still suffering as I put these words down on paper. Thank you. — MRS. E.

* * *

DEAR MRS. E.: Here it is and I can add nothing except my devout wish that all mothers who read your letter will remember what they have read.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The cleaning woman who has worked for me for six years is an alcoholic. Please don't send me your booklet. I am not interested in curing her. When Ruby is stoned she cleans the house better than my other cleaning woman did when she was sober. As far as I am concerned, she can drink all she wants to. What I want to know is how I can get Ruby to quit drinking a half fifth of expensive Scotch every time she cleans the house.

I am sure she is not used to such fine liquor and when she buys the stuff herself she gets a very cheap brand. Would it be wrong for me to buy Ruby some cheap booze and tell her to leave the good stuff alone?

Don't suggest that I lock up the liquor cabinet. I did this once and she asked for the key so she could clean it thoroughly. So you see she is a smart old lush. Thanks. — STYMIED.

* * *

DEAR STY: Obviously, she's a lot smarter than the lady she works for.

Hasn't it occurred to you to keep the liquor cabinet locked and clean it yourself?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I told my husband that the very next time he walks into the house with unexpected dinner guests I'm going to put on my coat before they sit down and march them right over to a restaurant. He threw three extras at me last night and I was embarrassed to death.

I am a very good cook, Ann, but I am no magician. I can't stretch a four-pound roast and a pound and a half of green beans to feed 10 people.

My husband says the salesman he brings home are so hungry for home cooking that they'd rather have a fried egg in our house than a steak in a restaurant.

Please, oh please, tell me what to do about this. — SICK OF SURPRISES.

* * *

DEAR SICK: Your husband gave you the answer. Fry 'em an egg and don't make any apologies.

If your husband objects to cackle-berries for dinner tell him to bring along extra T-bones when he brings those salesmen who are so hungry for home cooking.

WEDDING

GRAVELL — WELTON

FRANKFORD —The wedding was solemnized recently in St. James Catholic Church, Annette Street, Toronto, of Susan Jane Welton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welton of Frankford, and Joseph Gerald Gravell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alcide Gravell of Earlton, Ontario. Rev. Father Stock of Toronto, performed the ceremony, and music was played by Mr. Iacan no of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace with a pearl tiara headdress, and carried a bouquet of apricot roses and white mums.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Barbara Leonard of Toronto, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gold peau de soie gown with velvet jacket, and carried rust roses and yellow baby mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Fern and Gravell, sister of the bridegroom, wore a floor length peacock blue gown with velvet jacket and carried rust roses and yellow baby mums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Janice Leonard, niece of the bride, wore a floor length gold dress and carried a miniature bouquet of rust roses and yellow baby mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Terrance Gravell of Toronto. Ushers were Mr. Kenneth Reichert and Mr. Claude Gravell brother of the bridegroom. Both are from Toronto.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, 32 Warren Crescent, Toronto, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a cinnamon printed silk dress with gold and brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses and baby mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a powder blue lace dress over satin with black accessories and corsage of pink roses and white baby mums.

Women's Institutes

WELLINGTON W.I. YULE PARTY

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Women's Institute held their annual Christmas family party in the town hall recently. About 70 sat down to a bounteous potluck supper which included turkey and the trimmings.

After all had partaken of the tasty meal a program was presented by the hostesses of the party, Mrs. Denard and Mrs. Spencer.

Two carols, were sung by everyone. Mrs. Denard gave current events, Mrs. Spencer read a poem, Miss Dorothy Parks gave a piano solo, Don Ward sang a number accompanied by Mrs. N. Foster at the piano. Mrs. W. Nind read three of her own poems. Mrs. Spencer read a selection and Brenda Wilson favored with a vocal solo, accompanied by Virginia Wood at the piano.

Rev. Truax told the Christmas Story and Don Ward played a piano selection. Stephen Wilson, Ken Wood and Bruce Wilson played a trio selection on ukelele, accordion and guitar. Don Wood played a solo on his piano accordion. A Christmas carol sung by all brought a lovely program to a close. A short business period took place, after which exchange of presents with everyone receiving a nice gift.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR TEA

When tea became unpatriotic for Americans after the Boston Tea Party, a mixture of coffee and raspberry leaves was tried, unsuccessfully.

Former P.S. Principal, Wife Wed 65 Years

BRIGHTON — As each year of the 20th century has ticked by it has marked a wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. G. Smith Langdon who celebrated their 65th anniversary here the day after Christmas.

Mr. Langdon who was 90 last July enjoys good health and is able to be about town regularly regardless of the weather.

After 40 years as a teacher, 20 as principal of Brighton Public School prior to his retirement several years ago he looks back on his first teaching assignment near Picton.

His salary was $285. per year Later he received $300. when he taught at York Road and Wade's Corners before coming to Brighton, where he continued his teaching career until retirement.

Mrs. Langdon who has been confined in her bed in recent weeks was able to sit up during the afternoon to greet friends and relatives. Among the guests was the best man at the Langdon's wedding George Little, who lives just north of Brighton at Hilton. Of the Langdon's five sons and four daughters eight of their children and families were present to join with their parents on their 65th wedding anniversary.

They are Donald Langdon, Q.C. and James of Toronto, Gerald and Goldwin of Brighton, Mrs. Garfield Smith and Mrs. Mabel Buller of Toronto, Mrs. Eva Hayman of Richmond Hill and Mrs. Marjory McCull

Club Activities

CAMERA CLUB

The last meeting for 1965 of the Camera Club was held on Wednesday at the Kiwanis Centre. Vice - president John Feitl opened the meeting. The results of this months competition, "fences" were announced. The entries varied from old snake fences to modern wire fences, making the judges' decisions difficult. The results of the black and white were: 1st V. Soulbos; 2nd, R. Godfrey; 3rd, F. Luscher. The colored slide results were: 1st J. Lewis; 2nd, L. Luscher, and 3rd, R. Godfrey.

Slides taken of India were shown by Don Ascot. These illustrated the many aspects of life in India and the great contrast between the rich and the poor.

The next meeting will be held at the Kingston Centre, January 5 at 8 p.m. The meeting will deal with "taking a picture", Entries for the January competition "occupation" will be received.

Church Groups

RAWDON HI-C

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins and daughter Nancy entertained Rawdon Hi-C group at their home on Thursday evening with 30 people in attendance.

Lyle Couch presided for the Christmas devotional with Nancy David and Ralph Dunham assisting.

The program consisted of an accordion solo by Nancy Tompkins, a reading by Ralph Dunham and a vocal selection by Judy McAdam. Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts.

Betty McAdam read an address to the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dracup and they were the recipients of a gift.

The next meeting will be held on January 5th at Mount Pleasant Hall. A new slate of officers will be elected.

Elsewhere, in New York for example, the Sweet 16 party is becoming big business with some restaurants. Some may have several going at any one time Friday nights, Saturdays or Sundays.

Some are mostly for girl guests and relatives, unlike Jessica's party. Some offer menus from $1.50 to $12.50 or more a head.

Sweet 16 'Happening' Quite Costly for Fathers

By ARCH MacKENZIE

It's catching, a "fun" thing — and decidedly expensive for fathers of 16-year-old daughters who indulge.

The occasion is a coming-out party for girls turning 16, a pre-deb social rite set to cakes and rock 'n' roll. It illustrates, for one thing, that some corners of the U.S. don't need the war on poverty.

Take the recent festivity here for Jessica Berk, a Washington high school student who entertained 250 of her friends at a downtown hotel ballroom at a cost conservatively estimated at $10,000.

"The whole thing was more than any girl could wish for," said Jessica afterward, having planned the entire affair for weeks. "A successful party, just the right atmosphere, people and presents. And to top it off, my grandfather gave me a burgundy hardtop Mustang."

That's a car, not a horse.

LIST INGREDIENTS

A discotheque theme, two bands including the New York aggregation headed by Sam the Sham at $2,000 a night, two soft-drink bars, two discotheque dancers originally intended to perform in cages hung from the ceiling, special decorations including gas-filled balloons, food ranging from scrambled eggs and bacon through pizzas, pastries, sandwiches, hamburgers, lox and bagels, pretzels and French fries and a five-tier birthday cake.

Elsewhere, in New York for example, the Sweet 16 party is becoming big business with some restaurants. Some may have several going at any one time Friday nights, Saturdays or Sundays.

Some are mostly for girl guests and relatives, unlike Jessica's party. Some offer menus from $1.50 to $12.50 or more a head.

Some discreetly offer "hard" refreshments for the adults.

Christmas Concerts

WHITE'S CHURCH PAGEANT

WHITE'S DISTRICT — On Sunday afternoon White's Church choir presented a Christmas pageant with Mrs. James Palmer as pianist throughout. The guest soloist, Mrs. George Bilham sang a Sicilian hymn, with the Palmer family, Elizabeth, Mary, Michael, David and Andrew singing We discant. The minister, Mr. McGrath read the Scripture throughout.

Mrs. Byron Woods made the costumes and Mrs. Clayton Harding was the pageant director.

The choir sang the "Magnificant," the music being 400 years old.

In the manger scene, played by Helen Ketcheson as Mary, Darryl Woods as Joseph, Paul Lidster as Simeon, Angela Salusbury as Elizabeth, the choir sang "Lullaby Baby Saviour Divine." The music and words were written by Muriel Broadworth of Hallaway.

In the shepherd scene Gillian Miller played "O Holy Night" on the accordion and the choir sang "Shepherds Shake Off Your Drowsy Sleep."

The shepherds were: Larry Thompson, Michael Pelletier and Dale Brodie. The kings were Michael Palmer, Perry McGrath and Don Brodie.

The congregation joined with the choir in carol singing. "We Three Kings" was sung in parts by Gillian Miller and Mary Palmer, Barbara Ketcheson and Beth Palmer and Deyrd Palmer and Andrew Palmer.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. Earl Meyers, Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe and Mrs. Eric Jones served lunch.

Mr. McGrath was presented with a turkey and Mrs. Palmer received a box of chocolates.

ST. ANDREW'S S.S.

MARMORA — St. Andrew's Sunday School children were welcomed to a Friday evening service by Superintendent Bob Sanderson. The program opened with carol singing followed by a film.

Reverend Maurice McLeod conducted a White Gift service, during which time each child placed a white envelope enclosing a monetary offering beside the Manger, to be used for needy children. Treats were distributed by Santa Claus in the Christian Education Building.

The program on Saturday afternoon for pre-schoolers and kindergarten children was opened by Mrs. Doug Vilneff's class singing "Away in a Manger," at the nativity scene. The little ones trimmed the Christmas tree with decorations made by Mrs. Vilneff's class, and a film "A Christmas Dream" was shown by Mr. Kenneth Gillies.

Refreshments were served upstairs to children and parents, and Santa supplied candy.

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST CHURCH

MADOC — The annual children's pageant and concert was performed in St. John the Baptist Anglican Church Sunday evening. Each department of the church school participated in the program. The primary class and juniors said recitations, and sang Christmas carols. The second primary class performed the Christmas story as a puppet show. A full size puppet theatre was used along with seven children and teacher, Mr. Alan Danford, depicting the Nativity scene.

The junior choir sang "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." Rev. J. H. Thompson spoke briefly on "The Eve of Christmas."

Following the service, a reception was held in the parish hall when the children received Christmas presents, candy and nuts. Parents and Women's Auxiliary members served light refreshments.

Pension Premiums Will Wipe Out Last July's Cut in Income Taxes

Canadians received a 10-per-cent income tax cut last July but it will disappear Jan. 1 when they begin contributing to the Canada Pension Plan. How the plan operates is discussed in this story.

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Most Canadians will feel the pinch in their pockets Jan. 1 when payments into the Canada Pension Plan begin.

The immediate effect will be to wash out the benefit of last July's 10-per-cent cut in income taxes. The long-term effect will be to provide most Canadians with a relatively good pension when they reach 65.

At this stage, it's unlikely that the start of compulsory contributions to the plan will hit many by surprise. The government has been bombing households with information since the plan became law last May, and 200 revenue department assessors now are touring the country sage to the 400,000 employers in Canada. Full-page newspaper advertisements have been carried from coast to coast.

So when most working Canadians begin to contribute 1.8 per cent of their incomes—self-employed persons get hit for 3.6 per cent—it will scarcely be without warning.

Probably few people missed the prolonged controversy and countless conferences that brought the plan to the statute books. It's doubtful whether any other piece of legislation required so much effort to bring it from conception to completion. And the plan is bound to raise new problems for the national revenue and health departments which will administer it.

DETAILS EXPLAINED

The health department has spent some $2,000,000 informing Canadians about the plan, the money coming from the pension fund as part of administration costs.

This cost of 44 cents per contributor included sending out a pamphlet to all 4,000,000 households, followed by a thick booklet — the Canada Pension Plan—which outlined all the details, including the contributions and benefits. Then there was a series of nine newspaper ads.

The revenue department, responsible for collecting the contributions, sent out two booklets to all employers—Contribution Tables and Information for Employers. In addition, the 200 assessors, hired early in the summer, are following up with personal calls.

It was the biggest such blitz ever sponsored by the government. With much of the literature coinciding with the general election campaign, it aroused criticism in many opposition parties. Several Conservatives said the information booklet for householders, carrying a picture of Prime Minister Pearson, was designed to influence voters. Judy LaMarsh, then health minister, said the publicity campaign was planned months ahead of the election.

FACES DEADLINE

Because contributions begin this Jan. 1, the revenue department had the toughest assignment in gearing itself for collection duties. The health department, which will administer benefits, has until Jan. 1, 1967, before payments start.

Both departments have established special pension plan sections to handle the extra work. Computers will play a large part.

The revenue department will gather in 3.6 per cent of all income between $600 and $5,600 a year from all employed persons 18 and over. Half will be paid by employees, half by employers. Self-employed persons must pay the entire 3.6-per-cent contribution. They enter the scheme when they earn $600 or more a year.

Most employees will have their contributions deducted by their employers and forwarded to the government. The self-employed will make direct payments to the revenue department.

The minimum and maximum limits of $600 and $5,000 for the employed mean that persons earning less than the minimum will not make any contributions or receive any benefits, and persons earning more than the maximum will not make any contributions on income above $5,000.

RANGES WIDELY

For average yearly earnings of $620 a contributor would receive a pension of $150 a year and the maximum pension on $5,000 income would be $1,200.

This maximum pension of $104.17 a month is separate from the $75 old-age security pension which, by 1970, will be available to everyone at 65.

Pension payments begin Jan. 1, 1967, but they will be on a graduated scale until the plan reaches maturity in 1976.

While it is basically wage-related, in its early years it will provide "windfalls" far beyond contributions. This is because it becomes fully matured in 10 years, and a 35-year-old person who contributes during those 10 years and then retires will get the same benefit as though he had contributed 40 years.

Assuming he earns more than $5,000, he would contribute $79.30 a year—1.8 per cent of $5,000—for a total of $792 and he would then get a pension of $104.17 a month. Within eight months of retirement he would be ahead of the game.

This relatively short maturity period was one of the more controversial clauses in the massive pensions bills. It means, in effect, that future contributors will subsidize those receiving windfalls.

THIRD PLAN WINS

Actually, the pension plan as it now exists was the third one introduced in Parliament, as changes were constantly being made in its format. Nearly two years of exhaustive actuarial and economic studies went into it, along with countless conferences, wearying federal-provincial negotiations, 26 days of Commons debate, 51 sittings of a Senate-Commons committee, and three days in the Senate itself.

The federal plan was complicated by the fact that Quebec was planning its own. Negotiations between the two governments finally meshed the plans into an identical structure so persons can transfer across the provincial border without changes in contributions or benefits.

But one important change was made in over-all benefits. The qualifying age for old-age security payment, which had been 70, is being reduced, by one year annually so that by 1970 all persons aged 65 will qualify. By 1976, the maximum benefits available from the plan, when added to the old-age payment, will total $179.17 a month.

Both benefits are geared to the cost of living.

Government actuaries have said that by the 1980s it is probable the rate of contributions will have to be increased. There have been no firm predictions of what might happen.

COVERS SPECIAL CASES

A basic principle of the bill is that everyone who contributes is eligible for a benefit. If a girl works for five years before she marries, and then quits permanently, she will get benefits at age 65, from a five-year income averaged over the entire period. It wouldn't be a forfeiture.

There are other complicated formulas covering those between 18 and 70 who earn income although retired, those who become disabled, and widows of contributors.

For instance, if a widow is over 45 and has dependent children, she could receive the full pension her husband would have received. Or she could get precisely nothing if she is under 35 without children. There is provision for a $25-a-month benefit for children of deceased contributors.

A contributor who becomes disabled after 1970, after paying into the plan for five years, will get 75 per cent of what he would have received at 65, plus a $25 monthly payment.

Those exempted from the plan include provincial government employees — until such time as their provinces agree to enter the federal scheme; members of the armed forces and the RCMP, who have their own plans; those who are paid less than $250 cash for working less than 25 days a year for one employer in farming, logging or lumbering, fishing or hunting; any woman employed by her husband or vice versa; and employees of international organizations, including foreign governments.

CAN MERGE PLANS

For many who already have private pension plans there may be no difference in their total pension contributions and benefits. Their employers may "integrate" the private scheme with the Canada Pension Plan so the end result will be the same. The only difference will be that instead of receiving one pension cheque they will get two — from their private company and from the government plan.

How this integration is handled is strictly between employer and employee. Some may decide to "dock" the Canada Pension Plan on top of the private scheme and thus increase contributions and benefits.

As contributions begin pouring into the pension plan fund Jan. 1, they will far exceed benefit payments for many years. A reserve, which will be made available to the provinces in the form of loans, will reach an estimated $4,500,000,000 by 1976.

While the plan is completely separate from the old-age security payments, the total benefits to be received in 1976 make an interesting comparison with the government's initial venture into the field of old-age security.

Prior to 1926 there was nothing of that sort. Then Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government brought in legislation to establish government annuities, which still exist, and Canadians could, if they wished, contribute to their own retirements.

STARTED AT $20

Direct government assistance didn't come until 1927. The Old Age Security Act, providing a $20-a-month pension at age 70 with a stiff means test, received royal assent March 31, 1927. At first the provinces paid half of the cost, but in 1931 Ottawa took over 75 per cent of the burden.

In 1937, pensions of $20 a month were introduced for blind persons over 40. The means test was less severe in these cases.

The first increase in old-age pensions came in 1943 when they were raised to $25 a month, but the total income ceiling of $365 was retained so many pensioners could not qualify for the increase. A year later, the ceiling was raised by $60 to allow for the increase.

At the same time,the qualifying age for blind persons was lowered to 21.

In 1947, the pension was raised to $40—along with the blind pension—and in 1951 the means test was removed. At the same time, the old-age assistance program was introduced to provide the pension at 65 with a means test.

INCREASED $8

In 1954, the Disabled Persons Act was passed, so that persons unable to work could get the $40.

A year later, blind pensions became available to everyone over 18.

OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY ..... THURSDAY NIGHT TIL 9 P.M.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JCT. — A pleasant evening was enjoyed recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Smith, when Mrs. Ernest Wilson of Halloway, B.R. 1, Mrs. Hannah of Belleville, Mr. Robert Stapley of Frankford, and the guest of honor, Mr. Murray Stapley, were guests at a dinner on the occasion of Mr. Stapley's birthday.

Mrs. Clayton Prest has been spending some time at the home of her daughter, Mrs Harvey Goodfellow of Roslin, a patient at Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges entertained relatives over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy attended the Rawdon firemen's party at Springbrook last Friday night.

Mrs H. Ashley spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller and family of Belleville.

Miss Sharon Reid of Peterborough is spending the Christmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reid.

WHITE GIFT SERVICE

On Sunday night a combined church service and Christmas white gift service was observed at Eggleton United Church.

The church had previously been adorned with three bells, evergreens, twinkling electric lights and candles.

At the piano, quiet music was played by Mrs. Bruce Stapley and as each one arrived, Billy Stapley handed him a printed program.

The Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Forde Stapley, presided.

After the call to worship, the choir of 16 girls and boys of the Sunday School sang a carol.

The selected Scriptures readings were given by Bryan Novach and Glen Stapley, and the special Christmas story was read by Dianne Stapley.

Wayne McMullen and Lloyd Clancy gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer read by Keith McMullen.

The minister, Mr. A. Smith, delivered the Christmas message and spoke briefly on the meaning of the Christmas candle in various countries.

After the benediction, Mrs. Harlow, on behalf of Eggleton U.C.W. and Mrs. Clancy on behalf of Eggleton Sunday school, presented Mr. Smith with a gift, for which he expressed thanks.

All then enjoyed the church family Christmas supper.

Minto

MINTO — The Christmas concert held Friday evening in the school was well attended and presented. The children and pupils are to be congratulated for their fine program.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heath of Bonarisaw spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sivers of Strathclare, Manitoba and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Diamond of Campbellford visited Mr. and Mrs. Orval Jackson on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Yorke of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Yorke and Roger spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sladeczek and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bauder of Oshawa.

Mrs. Ethel Anderson and Mrs. Mary Green of Campbellford spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner and Mr. Mac Anderson.

Student Named Premier of Boys Parliament

KINGSTON (CP) — Tom Owen, 21, a student at the University of Western Ontario at London, was elected premier Monday at opening ceremonies of the 15th annual session of the Ontario Older Boys Parliament.

The 125 youths representing 116 constituencies at the five-day session were addressed by the speech from the throne by Syl Apps, the Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston, acting as lieutenant-governor.

Teen-agers are not bound by rigid social structure, nor are they governed by a common morality, Mr. Apps said in the throne speech.

Today's youth questions authority, he said, and no field has gone untouched. Even the church and state, traditionally immovable bastions, are being challenged, he added.

Oil Rig

space of about five minutes—possibly less."

Eight ships and a helicopter scouring the area for missing men today found only a few empty lifebelts.

Sgt. Lee Smith, a helicopter pilot who flew low over the scene today, said only two or three feet of the rig was still visible above the water.

Driller Kevin Topham, 38, said today the accident happened as the huge platform, normally standing 50 feet above the waves on 10 hydraulic legs, was being lowered to sea level on jacks and prior to being moved to a new drilling site.

"It was about 20 feet above the waves when suddenly it started to drop much faster than it should have done and I was flung over on to the floor," he said.

Most of the crew ran for the lifeboats. Those still missing are thought to have run instead for the helicopter landing pad, high t spot on the platform.

HAVE LITTLE CHANCE

An RAF spokesman at the station organizing the helicopter rescue today said there was little chance for the men if they had been in the water all night.

A spokesman for the British Insurance Association said the rig, whose crew only a week ago jubilantly celebrated the first commercially usable gas strike in the North Sea, was insured for between £3,000,000 and £4,000,000 ($9,000,000 to $12,000,000).

But a spokesman for the British Petroleum Company, owner of the Sea Gem, said later that the rig was insured with the Tanker Insurance Company for about £1,500,000.

An inquest was due to be held today on the four men who died. Officials of British Petroleum were also expected to arrive to begin questioning the survivors, who included three Frenchmen.

RAF planes Monday night dropped flares over the disaster area, off the north England coast, where the Sea Gem's recent find scooped 20 other oil groups on a similar search.

Rainbow Lake Discovery Is Highlight Of Year for Western Oil Industry

By RON MacDONALD

EDMONTON (CP) — The western oil industry pushed far into northwestern Alberta for its most significant 1965 discovery—a reservoir in the Rainbow Lake area from which production likely will begin flowing to markets next April.

Rainbow Lake, 450 miles northwest of Edmonton, was a focus of industry interest all year. After Bluff Oil Ltd. of Calgary announced discovery of oil in February.

The oil was found in a geological formation known as the Winnipegosis-Keg River formation. The Rainbow discovery prompted oil companies to drill into the Keg River formation at a number of points on the Prairiess, particularly in Saskatchewan.

Companies bid about $18,000,000 during the year for oil rights on crown lands in the Rainbow area.

In October, Resources Minister Laing said federal geologists believe the discovery may indicate existence of the largest oil field in North America, a potential 7,000,000,000 barrels.

At the end of 1964 the Canadian Petroleum Association estimated recoverable oil reserves at 6,178,000,000 barrels. not counting the vast Athabasca oil sands in northeastern Alberta.

The Alberta government estimate of recoverable reserves in the oil sands, from which production is to begin in 1967, is 300,000,000,000 barrels, one of the largest reserves in the world.

HAVE BEST YEAR EVER

The British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan governments look on 1965 as the best year in history for their oil industries, with revenues and production runs at a record or near-record levels.

In Manitoba, the industry is small in comparison with those of the other western provinces and it has not approached its record year of 1957.

The general outlook for 1966 has only one significant cloud on the horizon—the possibility of a slower growth rate for Canadian oil exports to the United States. A slowdown seemed indicated by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

Canadian crude exports to the U.S. now run about 317,000 barrels a day, up from 297,000 barrels a day in 1964.

The early part of 1966, like late 1965, promises to be a time of heavy emphasis on exploratory drilling in northern areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

In addition, there is growing interest in the continental shelf. Construction of the first Canadian-built offshore drilling platform, a $9,000,000 structure for Shell Canada, is under way. The company plans to explore for oil under the Pacific Ocean.

There were no significant changes in government regulations affecting the oil and gas industry in B.C., Alberta or Saskatchewan in 1965 but in Manitoba a new incentive program was put into effect to spur exploration.

RIGHTS EXTENDED

Companies drilling deeper exploratory wells are allowed to acquire oil rights on up to 75 per cent of the crown land they explore. Previously the limit was 50 per cent. The new program applies to the southwest quarter of Manitoba. Several significant oil discoveries were made in 1965 in southwestern Manitoba within 15 miles of the U.S. border.

In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, oil companies couldn't produce enough oil in 1965 to meet the demand. In contrast, demand for Alberta oil was only about half the production capacity of the province's wells.

A. C. Cameron, Saskatchewan's resources minister, and Jim MacNicol, manager of the Saskatchewan office of the Canadian Petroleum Association, said the province will be unable to meet demands again in 1966.

There were no major discoveries in Saskatchewan in 1965 but the province expects to find enough new oil in 1966 at least to keep pace with growth of demand.

Donald Brothers, B.C.'s mines minister, is also optimistic about prospects for new finds in

RAINBOW LAKE MAY DOUBLE OIL RESERVES — Typical of the accelerated activity in the oil fields of Western Canada this winter is this wildcat rig exploring for oil in the Rainbow Lake area of northwestern Alberta. Discoveries indicate what may prove to be the largest oil field in North America with a potential of 7,000,000,000 barrels. (CP Photo)

IT MAY BE THE BIGGEST — Resources Minister Laing says the Rainbow Lake area in northwestern Alberta may be the biggest oil field discovered to date in North America. Federal geologists estimate a potential 7,000,000,000 barrels. At the end of 1964 Canada's recoverable oil reserves, not counting the Athabaska oil sands, was estimated to be 6,178,000,000 barrels. (CP Newsmap)

A GOOD YEAR FOR OIL — The western oil industry expects to look on 1965 as their best year in history. The total value of exports in crude oil and natural gas should reach an estimated $385,000,000. In 1964 the value of exports exceeded imports by about $36,000,000. The estimated increase in 1965 of exports over imports is about $55,000,000.

Final figures are expected to show Alberta oil production for 1965 at a record 186,000,000 barrels compared with the previous high of 175,000,000 in 1964. The government figures revenues will be $140,000,000 from sale of oil rights on crown land and $102,000,000 from royalties, rentals and fees, both records.

The sale of crown rights was far above the previous record figure of $94,000,000 in 1964. The area around Lesser Slave Lake, 250 miles north of Edmonton, accounted for much of this revenue as companies scrambled for properties in the new producing area.

Saskatchewan production is estimated at a record 86,000,000 barrels compared with $1,400,000 in 1964. Royalties, rentals and fees were a record $29,000,000 compared with $21,400,000 in 1964. Revenue from crown rights sale is estimated at $11,900,000, close to the record $11,900,000 of 1957.

B.C. estimates production of 12,840,000 barrels, a record, compared with 11,530,000 in 1964.

Manitoba production is estimated at 4,300,000 barrels compared with a record 6,000,000 a year earlier.

B.C. Artist's VD Poster Became Collector's Item

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jean Andre has the dubious distinction of painting a venereal disease warning poster that became a collector's item.

The 33-year-old Victoria artist and commercial designer painted a red-haired girl leaning against a lamp post with a warning against VD beside her.

The poster brought protests from redheads, the Voice of Women and a member of the British Columbia legislature, among others.

Health Minister Eric Martin, who commissioned the poster, said many put up in public washrooms throughout the province were stolen. Some were said to have been sold for as much as $3 each.

Interviewed, here during an exhibition of some of his paintings and sketches of nudes, Andre says the furore over the poster was ridiculous. "It was the dullest, most unimaginative poster." He added that he thought so little of it that he didn't even bother to sign the work.

"The only answer for getting away from complaints about the color of the hair is to give the girl striped hair.

"She had to be beautiful so it would show the danger. If I had painted a prostitute like an old hag without any teeth there would be no danger. Nobody would go to see her so what would be the worry about spreading disease."

Redheads complained that the poster was an insult to them; the VoW said it gave the impression women are the main reason for spread of VD; and Lois Haggas, an M.L.A., said the poster was disgraceful.

A native of France, Andre came to Canada in 1951 and worked "... a year in Saskatchewan, then two years in the bush near Prince George, B.C.

"I lived in a log cabin, you know, with snowshoes and the kind of thing you visualize as Canada when you're in Europe. I think every immigrant should go through this before settling into the soft life in the city. It is the Canada as it should be."

Speaking of his exhibition of nudes in Vancouver, Andre said he could not have shown the collection in Victoria.

"The pictures would be up five minutes and the red lights would be flashing. You'd have to have a little draw curtain for each one."

U.S. Foreign Policy Seriously Threatened As Year Comes to End

WASHINGTON (CP) — How many Viet Nams and Dominican Republics can the United States handle?

This is one of the questions which creates doubts here about American foreign policy—made plainer in 1965—of countering threats of Communist expansion with unilateral global police action.

In Viet Nam, the troop commitments may be near 400,000 before 1966 ends. In Santo Domingo, where recent events show how tenuous the peace still is, there remain 9,000 American troops, or the bulk of the peace force hastily patched together by the Organization of American States.

There still are about 50,000 soldiers in South Korea and the American NATO forces in Europe, which some European Allies fear will be tapped for Viet Nam.

Democratic Senator Frank Church of Idaho, one of the critics of the American Vietnamese policy, recently wrote:

"As president of the U.S., Lyndon B. Johnson can no more protect the world from insurrection than Woodrow Wilson could make it safe for democracy.

"People are wondering: Are we to be self-appointed firemen returning to quench every revolutionary blaze no matter how repugnant the government that sounds the alarm?

"How many Dominican Republics and Viet Nams can we stalk on? What if revolution should now occur in Bolivia, Nigeria and Iran?"

His question helps explain the U.S. preoccupation with creating a full - time hemisphere peace force, an idea quietly shot down by Latin America, as helps explain the renewed U.S. backing in 1965 for a more effective United Nations and firm if limited support for Britain's program to break the Rhodesian rebel regime.

DEPICTED AS THREAT

It also played a part in the recent renewal within NATO to depict China and the Vietnamese war as just as great a threat to NATO as the Soviet Union ever was.

But Church says the U.S. is going to have to take a more realistic look at its foreign policy because of the sweeping change abroad in the world, the natural tendency for communism to promote "liberation movements" and the sheer impossibility of being everywhere all once.

Johnson may find it difficult to dampen U.S. fear - inspired pressure for more interventions Church says, "but if he submits to the siren songs of the new crusaders, he may well forfeit the great place in history he deserves for it will fit serve our interest, as it lies beyond our power, to impose a pax Americana on an unwilling world."

APPROVES BUREAU

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial cabinet has approved the formation of an Ontario bureau of statistics, Stanley Randall, economics and development minister, announced Thursday. Dr. Kenneth Cheng, a statistics statistician, will direct the new bureau, to be called the Ontario statistical centre.

Walkie-Talkies Create Jam On Airwaves

MIAMI (AP) — Transistorized walkie-talkies—the Christmas gift for the kid who has everything—are creating a traffic jam on the airwaves.

The U.S. Federal Communications Commission doesn't like some of the juvenile patter its monitors are picking up, and the FBI is listening with interest.

Some children with walkie-talkies and a high - powered vocabulary are butting into the citizens radio band network with purple anecdotes and suggestions. The chatter is burning the ears of licensed radio operators tuned in on the same frequency.

Most of the walkie-talkie conversations are perfectly legitimate message traffic between pal with a new toy. As long as the talk is clean and no conscious attempt is made to interfere with regular traffic, the FCC has no objections.

"Actually, the kids who are abusing the use of the airwaves don't come under our jurisdiction since they are not licensed operators," officials said. "But we do co-operate with the FBI when federal statutes involving profane and indecent language is involved."

Of more serious concern are the false emergency messages being heard on some nets. One boy on Christmas Day had several radio operators worried when he broadcast an SOS—pleading that he was in a sinking boat. His alarm turned out to be false.

In Toronto, the walkie-talkie sets sell for $22.95 to $110 a pair.

No licence is required to use them and they operate in the citizens' or general - service band (about 27 megacycles or nine metres).

A suburban Scarborough radio ham said Monday "the air was jammed" Sunday with these kids swearing and yelling and playing music. Nobody could get in a word because of them. It's an bad out our way, some of us are taking crout-bearings on them so the department of transport can track them down."

ASK RELIEF

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — The superintendent and matron of the Victoria County Home for the Aged have asked to be relieved of their duties until charges of brutality against the home are cleared up, it was announced Thursday. Byron Rogers, chairman of the home's management committee, said Mr. and Mrs. Laughie Kelser's duties will be temporarily handled by an Ontario public welfare department inspector.

Pope Trying To End War In Viet Nam

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican diplomats were reported Monday to be negotiating under orders from Pope Paul to bring about a New Year's ceasefire in Viet Nam.

Some reports said contact already had been made between papal envoys and representatives of North Viet Nam in Cambodia. The Vatican likewise has apostolic delegate to the Roman Catholic hierarchy there.

Another possible channel was through Hungary.

Informants said Vatican diplomats had been instructed in the wake of the Christmas ceasefire experiment to step up their secret contacts with both sides in the Viet Nam war.

Pope Paul was disappointed that the Christmas ceasefire he had appealed for was so short-lived.

United Nations Secretary-General U Thant sold reporters in New York that the Pope consulted him before making his appeal for a Christmas ceasefire.

Thant said he felt the truce was very necessary and desirable," even though it survived so briefly.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson received Monday an indirect message from Pope Paul expressing "great concern over the Christmas truce in Viet Nam."

Associated Press Secretary Joseph Laitin said the letter was from the apostolic delegate to Washington, Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi.

Laitin did not make public the text, but said the apostolic delegate asked that the president be advised that the Pope "had received with great pleasure the news that a Christmas truce was ordered by the armed forces in Viet Nam."

Cyrus Eaton Takes Look at Prime Steers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Canadian-born Cyrus S. Eaton, a controversial capitalist who has on occasions dropped in for a chat at the Kremlin, celebrated his 82nd birthday Monday by taking a ride on a horse to look over his prime steers.

Eaton is chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and exerts major control or important influence over an empire with an estimated $3,000,000,000 in assets. Both of these figures represent an increase of $100,000,000 over 1965 but their significance, Mr. Drury said, is that without the auto agreement the spread would have increased sharply.

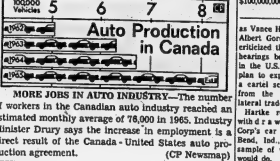
Of more direct interest to the consumer is the effect of the pact on retail prices.

For Americans, it should mean price levels will be easier to maintain since U.S. manufacturers will have access to some components produced more cheaply in Canada.

For Canadians it should mean lower prices because of the economies of the longer production runs possible under the agreement.

Canada Likely to Acquire Bigger Slice of Auto Market

By ARCH MacKENZIE



WASHINGTON (CP) — The Canada-United States auto production agreement, long on the drawing board, rolled off the assembly line in 1965 as a new-breed model of North American economic machinery.

Just how well the plan will work will be clearer by 1967 when it comes up for an initial three-year review, but the signs leading into 1966 indicate a fatter slice of the North American market for Canadian plants.

(CP Newsmap)

PRODUCTION AHEAD — The North American auto market had its fourth consecutive record production year in 1965. Canadian manufacturers hit $35,000 vehicles compared with 671,000 in 1964. The signs pointing into 1966 indicate a fatter slice of the North American market for Canadian plants.

(CP Newsmap)

MORE JOBS IN AUTO INDUSTRY—The number of workers in the Canadian auto industry reached an estimated monthly average of 76,000 in 1965. Industry officials say the increase in employment is a direct result of the Canada - United States auto production agreement.

Canadian manufacturers claimed price differentials between the two countries closed slightly with the introduction of 1966 models, but argue that costs of shifts in production patterns and expansion mean the price gap can be narrowed only over the long haul.

The agreement's origins trace back six years to the one-page royal commission under Dean Geoffrey Bladen of the University of Toronto on Canada's auto industry prospects.

It was after his report, the Canadian government tried to encourage parts exports to the U.S. by a system of tariff rebates to manufacturers who increased shipments above a basic quantity. A year later, after it had proved successful from Canada's position, the program was extended and U.S. industrialists started to complain.

The U.S. treasury studied the matter but its report was not made public before the new auto pact was worked out. It was generally agreed the treasury would have called for countervailing duties on grounds the Canadian tariff-rebate program was an improper export subsidy prevent barring U.S. manufacturers.

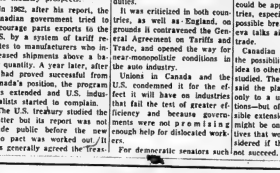
Although it now is law, the agreement hasn't escaped without attack. In Canada it was called a $50,000,000-a-year subsidy for the auto-makers; that's the amount the Canadian treasury will lose during the three-year pact through lifting of duties.

It was criticized in both countries, as well as England, on grounds it contravened the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, and opened the way for near-monopolistic conditions in the auto industry.

Unions in Canada and the U.S. condemned it for the effect it will have on industries that fail the test of greater efficiency and because governments were not promising enough help for dislocated workers.

For democratic senators such as Vance Hartke of Indiana and Albert Gore of Tennessee, who criticized the plan at senatorial hearings before it became law in the U.S., the venture was a plan to export jobs to Canada, a cartel scheme and a retreat from the principles of multilateralism.

Hartke repeatedly cited the with drawal of Studebaker Corp's car division from South Bend, Ind., to Hamilton as a sample of what the agreement would do.



UAW CONCERNED

Senator Paul Douglas of Ohio, who earlier in the year voted for the bill on union, joined with the United Auto Workers union in expressing concern that the Canadian consumer was not getting to see any price cuts

And if there are no cuts, he said, Canada's market won't flourish and the U.S. can't expect to pick up more auto trade to offset losses.

Still being debated is whether the agreement sets a policy that could be applied to other products, especially in view of the possible breakdown of the Geneva talks aimed at freer world trade.

Canadian officials have said the possibility of extending the idea to other industries is being studied. The U.S., however, has said the plan is unique, valid only to a unique set of conditions. Such officials concede possible extensions of the principle might be one of many alternatives that would have to be considered if the Geneva talks do not succeed.

CAR BUSINESS BOOMING — Exports and imports in the Canadian automobile industry in 1965. Canada imported an estimated $935,000,000 in United States cars and parts and exported $285,000,000 to the U.S. Both figures represent an increase of about $100,000,000 over 1964.

Canadian Advertisers in Foreign Publications Begin Slashing Budgets

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian advertisers in foreign publications have begun to slash their budgets in preparation for introduction of new laws Jan. 1 designed to strengthen the competitive position of this country's newspapers and periodicals.

In the new year, the expense of placing advertisements in foreign publications with an eye to selling goods on the Canadian market will be disallowed as a corporate income tax exemption. Advertising in Canadian publications will continue to be allowed as a business expense.

The new law adopted by Parliament last summer after lengthy argument also is designed to curb foreign takeovers of Canadian newspaper and magazine ownership. To enable advertisers to claim their business expense deductions, the publications must remain 75 per cent or more Canadian-owned.

Revenue department officials who will administer the new law say they are not making hard and fast rules beyond the literal wording of the Income Tax Act amendments. They will deal with each case as it comes along in the normal examination of corporation income tax returns.

MAY HAVE TROUBLE

But difficulties may be encountered in applying the new law when it comes to interpreting the wording. It is aimed at Canadian advertising in a non-Canadian newspaper or periodical "directed primarily to a market in Canada."

A Canadian corporation advertising in a United States publication to attract U.S. customers would not be hurt by the new legislation. But a Canadian corporation advertising in a U.S. publication primarily with a view to finding customers in Canada would be.

Canadian editions of foreign publications which have been edited, printed and published in Canada at least since the spring of 1964 are exempt. The notable ones' falling within this exemption are the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest.

Also exempt are catalogues and publications devoted to encouragement of the fine arts, letters, scholarship or religion. Here again the officials may find some difficulty in interpreting the law's wording. Fine arts "not defined precisely in law and some dictionary and business interpretations of it are wide enough to include landscaping and even home gardening."

AIMED AT SPLIT RUNS

The main intent of the law is to discourage Canadian advertisers from taking advantage of the relatively cheap "split-run" editions of posh U.S. magazines that come into Canada. Some U.S. publications, after printing copies for their domestic American market, use a few pages of an edition to include Canadian advertising in copies sent to Canada.

Canadian publishers complained this was draining off advertising revenues that should come to them. A royal commission headed by Senator M. Grattan O'Leary of Ottawa, established by the former Conservative government, recommended steps to protect Canadian publications from undue competition.

After Jan. 1 customs officers will prohibit entry into Canada of foreign periodicals—but not of foreign newspapers—containing Canadian advertising directed to the Canadian market which does not appear in the home editions of those foreign magazines. If one such issue of a magazine appears, the customs men will have power to prohibit entry of it and the three subsequent issues.

Another section of the new law defines "Canadian newspaper or periodical" as one whose publishers are Canadian citizens, or partnerships or corporations with Canadians forming at least three-quarters of their members or common shareholders.

The deterrent for foreign takeovers of Canadian publications works this way: Anyone abroad thinking of buying a Canadian newspaper or periodical would have to recognize that advertisers are unlikely to spend much money in a non-Canadian outlet when the expense would be disallowed for corporation tax purposes.

Lucien Rivard's Activities Voted Top Story of Year

Lucien Rivard's fantastic activities were voted the top Canadian story of the year by news editors participating in a Canadian Press poll.

The doings of the chunky, 30-year-old dope smuggler from Montreal — jail break, recapture, trial and attendant political touches — easily beat out the November federal general election in the annual survey. The Dorion inquiry into the political side of the Rivard case rated third on its own.

On the world scene, the No. 1 story in Canada was the death of Sir Winston Churchill on Jan. 24, which edged a pair tied for second—the March 18 "walk" in space by a Russian cosmonaut and the Los Angeles race riots in August.

The selections were made by editors representing CP membership newspapers and radio and television stations served by Broadcast News, a CP subsidiary. They were asked to pick the top six in Canadian and world events.

INQUIRY CARRIED OVER

The judicial inquiry by Mr. Justice Frederic Dorion into the way Federal authorities handled a bribery allegation in the Rivard affair was the only story in either category that carried over from 1964 to stay among the leaders—third place in 1965. Rivard personally did not make the 1964 selections, but this year his particular March 2 jailbreak at Montreal and subsequent stories kept him consistently on the front pages until his sentencing Nov. 12 in Texas to 20 years for directing a ring smuggling large quantities of heroin into the United States.

Here are the selections:

CANADIAN

1. Lucien Rivard's continuing story.

2. The Nov. 8 federal election in which the Liberals narrowly failed, for a second time, to get a parliamentary majority.

3. The Dorion inquiry with its June 30 report critical of the way then justice minister Guy Favreau handled an allegation that a ministerial executive assistant offered a bribe to ease Rivard's way out of jail.

4. The Feb. 18 avalanche at the British Columbia mining camp of Grandue in which 26 men died when snow and ice thundered down a mountainside.

5. The mystery crash of an explosion of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane over central British Columbia July 8 with a toll of 32 lives and a persisting question mark as to whether it was accident or mass murder.

6. The death of 28 persons in a natural gas explosion that ripped open an apartment block in the Montreal suburb of Ville LaSalle March 1.

Behind these came the unfolding story of Quebec's arson-bankruptcy - murder links and the great northeastern North America power blackout of Nov. 9, the latter also just failing to make the first six in world news.

WORLD

1. Sir Winston Churchill's death.

2. Soviet walk in space and Los Angeles race riots.

4. Rhodesia's assumption of independence from Great Britain on Nov. 11.

5. The escalation of the war in Viet Nam.

6. Pope Paul's historic visit to the United Nations Oct. 4 with his plea for peace before the General Assembly.

Right behind came history's greatest power blackout, traced eventually to a relay on the Ontario side of the Niagara Falls hydro installation, and the India-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir, where Canadian airmen are serving with a United Nations mission.

Editors of Associated Press newspapers and broadcasting stations in the U.S. put the Viet Nam war intensification at the head of their list and rated the other stories this way: 2. The Los Angeles riots; 3. President Johnson's legislative program; 4. The power failure; 5. The U.S.-Soviet Russian space flights and probes; 6. The civil rights march on Selma, Ala.

Rivard Taken To Penitentiary In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (CP) — Lucien Rivard, 30, of Montreal, serving a 20-year prison term after being convicted as a key figure in an international heroin and smuggling operation, has been transferred from Texas to the federal penitentiary here, it was learned Monday.

A penitentiary spokesman said Rivard was transferred to the prison Dec. 8 after having been found guilty in Laredo, Tex., Nov. 12. He also was fined $20,000.

Rivard, who has filed a notice of appeal, was among the 2,284 prisoners who feasted on chicken Christmas Day. "The spokesman said turkey normally is served on Christmas but that the prisoners had voted overwhelmingly in favor of chicken.

Christmas Eve church services were held for Protestant prisoners and a midnight mass for the Roman Catholic. Church services were held also Christmas Day, followed by the Christmas dinner and a movie.

Rivard was brought to trial after his recapture following an escape from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail last spring. He had been held by Canadian authorities at the time pending extradition proceedings.

The U.S. Federal Court at Laredo convicted him specifically on charges of conspiring to smuggle 75 pounds of heroin, worth possibly as much as $75,000,000 on the illegal market, into the United States from Mexico. Three of Rivard's associates received lesser terms.

Birth Control Pills May Change Views

BERKELEY, Calif. (CP-AP)—A University of Wisconsin professor says that widespread use of birth control pills may lead to sex becoming more a recreational pursuit than a means of procreation.

Dr. Martin B. Loeb, one of the panel members considering the social revolution being wrought by the new, simplified methods of contraception, said the methods lead to a subtle shift in moral values.

The group of scientists met Sunday as a section of the 132nd annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In the United States, Dr. Loeb said, the pill and other birth control measures are leading to "conscious control over reproduction," affording man greater capacity to control his own environment according to his own hopes and expectations."

This, he said, permits separation of sexual enjoyment from reproduction. Reproductive technology provides the environment within which the history of choice may thrive, he said.

He said family relationships "will continue to undergo tremendous change," that planned parenthood may be aimed for the birth of married students' children to coincide with the less active summer months or, for the woman factory worker, the less productive industrial period.

Westminster Abbey 900 Years Old

LONDON (AP) — The Queen placed a bouquet of red roses on a small altar in Westminster Abbey today to inaugurate the year's long celebration of the 900th anniversary of Britain's premier church.

The abbey was consecrated Dec. 28, 1065, Holy Innocents Day. Edward the Confessor, who had ordered it built, died soon after without seeing the completed structure.

Since its consecration as a Benedictine monastery, the abbey has been the coronation church of all of England's monarchs but two. The Queen was married there in 1947 and crowned there in 1953. Thirteen British kings and five queens are buried there.

It was to honor the abbey's builder that the Queen took the rones today from a cushion carried by the abbey's senior chorister and laid them on the altar near the marble tomb of King Edward.

Press Barred As Teachers Talk Salaries

TORONTO (CP)—Secondary school teachers in Ontario should be paid a maximum $12,000 a year in order to attract top quality persons into the profession, a Hamilton school teacher says.

J. H. Russell, chairman of the salary committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said in an interview Monday that the figure was strictly a personal one. It was not suggested by the federation's annual assembly which opened a four-day meeting here Monday.

The assembly barred the press when discussion of teachers' salaries started.

Mr. Russell said his suggested maximum salary would be between $11,000 and $12,000 a year more than top salaries now paid.

WARNS LOCALS

The assembly in closed session passed a resolution warning local bargaining units not to accept voluntary conciliation or arbitration of salary disputes "lest this give rise to a government to have conciliation and arbitration procedures made a part of legislation."

The assembly, which represents 22 600 secondary school teachers, rejected the recommendations for education made by the ooe - man Goldenberg royal commission on Metropolitan Toronto's future. Instead, it passed a resolution supporting a proposal for a four-city plan for Metro students.

The federation also passed a resolution opposing Dr. Carl Goldenberg's recommendation for a strong Metropolitan school board working with 11 district education councils.

The resolution said the recommendation would lead "to rigidity, standardization and bureaucratic control."

Vice-President Of U.S. Starts On Long Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey started out Monday on a 29,000-mile, eight-seat trip as vice-president of the United States.

The week-long journey to the Philippines, Japan, South Korea and Nationalist China may be largely ceremonial. But the war in Viet Nam, Humphrey said, will be a major topic in his private talks with leaders of the four governments.

Before leaving Dean Rusk and diplomatic representatives of the four Far East countries met on hand at nearby Andrews Air Force Base to see Humphrey off aboard a presidential plane, with Tokyo its first foreign stop.

Humphrey heads a U.S. delegation which will attend the inauguration of the new Philippine president, Ferdinand Marcos.

Underground Tunnel Network Could Cut Toll of A-Bombs

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A new concept of nuclear warshelters—a multi - billion - dollar network of underground concrete tubes to protect city dwellers from blast as well as fallout—was discussed Monday at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Eugene P. Wigner of Princeton University said the concept, developed at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, answered many of the questions raised by opponents of extensive civil defense measures.

Wigner said the blast shelters under study would be built in addition to fall out shelters.

The system would have interrecting and parallel tunnels with enough entrances so that one could reach a safety from any point on a city street within 10 minutes—well within the 15 - minute warning time available after detection of onrushing missiles.

All the tunnels would be interconnected, he said, so families could reassemble below ground and so medical care could be rushed wherever needed.

The tunnels would be strong enough, he said, to protect against all but very close explosions.

Wigner said the system was designed to protect people, not houses and factories on the surface.

"Every nuclear war would cause great damage to the economy," he said. "However, the resulting suffering could be much alleviated by foresighted arrangement: Surplus food stocks could be distributed uniformly over the country, tools and supplies could be held in reserve for the repair of power lines, gasoline could be held in storage and vehicles shielded against radiation to make possible the evacuation of people to unaffected areas."

Hope U.S. Industry Chops Billion Off Payment Deficit

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's administration is counting on U.S. industry to chop $1,000,000,000 from the U.S. balance of payments deficit in 1965.

That would bring the international accounts close to the balance point, said Andrew F. Brimmer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, in an address prepared for delivery to the American Finance Association.

Brimmer said that target is necessary for the so-called voluntary restrictions on export of dollars for foreign investment have been clearly focused on industry.

The 1968 "guidelines" on foreign investment limit such spending during the two-year 1965-66 period to 90 per cent of the level of investments in the three-year 1962-64 period.

BOOST EXPORTS

Corporations also have been asked to boost exports and report quarterly on foreign transactions. The number of companies filing each quarterly will be more than 900, compared with about 500 in 1965.

Brimmer contended that the 1965 voluntary program "is likely to be a major source of the substantial improvement in the U.S. balance of payments for 1965."

That came about, he said, through increased expansion of exports and the repatriation of income earned overseas.

"On the other hand, the continued high rate of direct investment has dampened the over-all improvement," Brimmer added.

Consequently, in the face of the possibility of more of the same in 1966, the guidelines were redrawn to attack the investment situation.

The voluntary program was inaugurated last February after the U.S. payments deficit soared over $3,000,000,000 in 1964. The deficit was the 11th in 15 years.

Charge Cairo Editor Handed Secrets to U.S.

CAIRO (AP)—An American-educated Egyptian newspaper man, Mustapha Amin, pleaded not guilty today to charges of handing over military information to a U.S. intelligence agent.

Amin, 48, former editor of the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar, was arrested last July and charged with passing information harmful to the United Arab Republic to Bruce T. Odell, U.S. embassy political affairs officer.

The Egyptians claimed Odell was an agent of the United States Central Intelligence Agency. He was arrested with Amin but later was released and left Egypt.

Amin told the special military tribunal trying him he was innocent of the principal charge of contacting agents of a foreign country and giving them information, including details of Egyptian military strength, harmful to the state.

He admitted he was guilty of smuggling personal funds out of Egypt illegally, however.

Prosecutor Sala Nassar demanded the death penalty. He requested that the trial be held in secret, saying state secrets would be revealed, and the court granted his request.

The trial is not expected to last long, but officials said the verdict would not be announced until after President Nasser ratifies it.

Pedestrian-only Zone in Rome Is Protested

ROME (Reuters)—Businessmen with stores in the centre of Rome held a protest meeting Monday night over the creation of a pedestrians-only zone in the heart of the city.

The traffic experiment prohibits private cars from driving to some of Rome's most famous tourist spots. Monday, many stores in the area were almost deserted.

The triangular zone includes the piazza as the famous Spanish steps and one of Rome's smartest and most expensive shopping streets, Via Condotti. The experiment is due to last till Jan. 5.

The only motorists permitted in the area are those with police passes proving they reside in the area. Increasing numbers of buses and taxis also are being granted entry.

The shopkeepers called the zone "a Necropolis" and asked the city authorities to end the traffic ban.

The area itself was reasonably peaceful Monday with its limits guarded by police who stopped cars from entering. Around it were scenes of even more concentrated traffic and more exasperated drivers than usual.

Mercer 'Party' Blamed on One Woman

TORONTO (CP)—A homesick woman ran wild touching off reports of an attempted mass breakout Christmas Eve at the Mercer Reformatory for Females, Superintendent Glenn Thompson said Monday.

He refused to comment in detail on reports which said a group at the institution had drunk wine made from fruit and stolen table sugar, which tried to escape by the building's front door with a key taken from a matron.

The published reports said the prisoners tried to escape but were stopped by guards and that during the height of the "party" the women broke chairs and knocked over a Christmas tree.

Mr. Thompson confirmed that a Christmas tree had been overturned.

"It is unfortunate to make capital of the actions of one disturbed individual," he said, "It was an incident related to the usual unhappiness around Christmas time in institutions."

Asked in an interview whether other persons had been involved, he said:

"A disturbed individual is bound to have an effect on those around her."

LUCI ATTENDS CHURCH — Newly-engaged Luci Baines Johnson and her fiance, Patrick John Nugent, 22, are met by unidentified greeter as they enter St. Bartholomew's Roman Catholic Church in Waukegan, Ill. NOTES OFF THE HOLIDAY CUFF

American sportswriters and broadcasters ran the entire gamut of superlatives and whatnot after that record-breaking Green Bay - Baltimore Colts bone-crunching battle for the NFL western title . . . It was the greatest gridiron spectacle these sports eyes ever witnessed. Five, crammed or no 4th squarface, . . . Right now I've got bruised ribs merely from wincing when those padded behemoths crunched into each other . . . It was tension, tenacity, guts, bash and bang at its best ending in a spine-curling climax that flickered the northern lights over Wisconsin, broke the Colts' hearts and made the Packers' Don Chandler the man of the century from a Green Bay point of view . . . Stunned and reeling from a first play injury to their star quarterback Bart Starr on the first play backed by a lightning touchdown from a fumble, the Packers reared back to knot the count and win it in the last two minutes of a sudden-death overtime.

The clash between the Packers and the eastern champ Colts from Cleveland on the weekend could be another thriller biller but in this agent's opinion it will be anticlimactic from a football point of view. The Browns' defence is far from that of Colts and if Lombardi's Royal Packers can contain big Jim Brown and the Brown offence look for the league bauble to rest on a Green Bay mantel.

Closer to home in the National Hockey League the ole tales of the gilded cage played give-and-take in true holiday spirit. Henri Richard was the darling of the Canadiens' fans Saturday night in a holiday thriller when the Habs edged Gordie Howe and his Red Wings 4-3 in a battle that belonged to anybody until the Pocket scored that beauty. I'm sure that The Wings hoped the Habs in a last minute decision 1-0 in Detroit Sunday night.

Bobby Hull upped his points string by four points and his goals to 27, or one a game with a pair in Yesterday-Saturday night when the Hawks whipped the Maple Leafs 5-3 with the rambunctious Eddie Shack again stealing a big chunk of the spotlight . . . The Hawks sweetened out a 1-1 tie in Chicago on Saturday . . . The Boston Bruins, tired of being the doormat rose on their knuckles Saturday and whipped the Rangers 4-1 only to wind back into the rut Sunday with a 6-4 setback at the hands of the Blues. Bob Nevin came up with a stylish effort with three goals and two assists while John Marshall scored one and helped on four counters.

On other sports fronts the Buffalo Bills - San Diego Chargers battle for the American Football League championship will be watched with more than a little interest after a Stanley Cup battle in comparison to the Packers-Colts Waterloo . . . The Bills practically made it a romp after the first quarter and two blocking touchdowns . . . The 1965 Allan Cup winner, the Sherbrooke Beavers got off to an auspicious start in that European "Abearon" tournament defeating a Swedish team 10-3 in Stockholm . . . If you're interested the South defeated the North 21 - 14 in the 20th annual Shrine football game Saturday in the yearly dress rehearsal for the football "Confederacy" toppled the "Unionists" 23-19 on a dying-seconds touchdown . . . Here is Canada the touring Finnish national hockey team defeated the Flin Flon Intermediates 4-2.

BCIVS and Quinte S.S. senior basketball teams play in the Queen's Tournament Wednesday. They are in Davis Cup play between Australia and Spain — the Aussie captain Harry Hopman predicts a 4-1 win for the "down-under." . . . Believe it or not, Bill Gadsby has the best coaching record in the NHL. As a pluck-hitter for Sid Abel he had been behind the Red Wings bench for seven games and his record is 7-0. Three games last season and four this year.

71 Eligible

'Sliver' Heads Hall List

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, the last of baseball's .400 hitters, headed a list of 71 former major league players named Monday as eligible this year for election to the Hall of Fame.

The list announced by the Baseball Writers Association of America includes 30 top vote getters in balloting last year and 41 former stars who are also eligible for the first time.

In addition to Williams, newcomers who have been retired as players for the required five years include Enos Slaughter, Don Newcombe, Alvin Dark, Hank Sauer, Bobby Thompson and Mickey Vernon.

Holdovers include Red Ruffing, runner-up to Luke Appling in a runoff ballot by the association in 1964; Roy Campanella, Joe Medwick, Peewee Reese, Lou Boudreau, Al Lopez, Leo Durocher, Pepper Martin, Billy Herman, Ralph Kiner and Johnny Vander Meer.

To earn election to the Hall of Fame, a player must be named on 75 per cent of ballots cast. Each voter may name up to 10 former players.

Although often at odds with baseball writers during his career, Williams was sure bet to win election in his first year of eligibility.

He spent 19 season with American League Boston Red Sox, compiling a .344 batting average and belting 521 homers despite time out for service in both the Second World War and the Korean conflict.

In 1941, he batted a fabulous .406 and led the American League with 37 homers, a .735 slugging percentage and 143 bases on balls.

During his career, he led the league in batting six times—the .406 in 1941; .356 in 1942; .343 in 1947; .369 in 1948; .388 in 1955, and .328 in 1958. He hit over .300 in 18 of his 19 seasons before retiring after the 1960 campaign.

Green, a rugged 180 - pound defenceman, broke one National Hockey League modern-era record, tied another and came close to tying a third mark — all in the penalty department.

The five - foot - 11 rearguard picked up 47 minutes in penalties in Boston's two games last week, including 26 minutes Sunday when he received a record seven penalties—three minors, two majors and two 10-minute misconducts.

The seven penalties broke the modern era record of six held by Jack Stewart, formerly of Detroit Red Wings; Reg Fleming, who equalled the mark with Chicago Black Hawks five years ago; and Wayne Rivers, who played with the Bruins last season.

TIED ALL-TIME MARK

Green's seven penalties also tied the all-time mark set by George Boucher of Ottawa Senators Jan. 28, 1927, when he received seven minor penalties against Montreal Maroons.

Green's 36 minutes, however, fell one minute short of the record set in 1960 by Fleming, who now plays for the Bruins.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show Hull with 45 points, including a league - leading 27 goals, in the Black Hawks' first 28 games, four of which he missed because of injury.

AIMS AT POINTS RECORD

Barring further injury this season, he could set a record for most goals scored in a season. The standard now is 58 points set by Dickie Moore, with Montreal Canadiens in 1958-59.

Hull's lead over the runner-up, teammate Stan Mikita, now in seven points. Mikita has 38 points include 18 goals, second highest in the league.

Bobby Rousseau of Montreal is third with 36 points, one more than Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings. Rousseau and Ullman are tied for the lead in assists with 21 each.

Gordie Howe of Detroit is fifth with 34 points, three more than Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens.

Roger Crozier, Red Wings' netminder, gained his third shutout of the season Sunday and now shares the lead in that department with Glenn Hall of Chicago.

Generals Defeat Flyers 5-3

BOSTON (AP)—Oshawa Generals downed Niagara Falls Flyers 5-3 Monday night in an exhibition game between the two Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams.

The Generals currently are leading the circuit and the Flyers are third.

About 6,000 persons watched Danny Dickhes, with two goals, and Bobby Orr, with a goal and two assists, lead Oshawa to victory. Bill Heindl and George Babcock also scored for Oshawa.

Scoring for Niagara Falls were John Arbour, Ted Snell and Rosaire Paliement.

Oshawa goaltender Ian Young turned in a standout performance, blocking 37 shots. In addition to his offensive performance, Orr helped Oshawa defensively. Barry Wilkins was also strong on defence.

Referee Hugh MacLean called 15 penalties in a wild first period, including four majors.

Former Hockey Star Dies

KITCHENER (CP) — Nelson Seibert, 75, a former member of the Seibert family hockey team, died here Monday.

Mr. Seibert played left wing for the family team, the oldest of five such teams that played in Canada.

Other family teams were the Schnarr boys of Kitchener, who played the most games; the Schell family, also of Kitchener who with nine brothers were the largest team, the King family in Guelph and the Gills in Paris, Ont.

Bret Hanover Top 1965 Purse Winner

NEW YORK (CP) — Bret Hanover, a three - year old pacer who holds the world record of 1:55 for the mile, was the top standardbred winner in 1965 with $340,975, the American Harness Racing Institute announced Monday.

Armbro Flight, named Canada's Harness Horse of the Year today by the Canadian Trotting Association, was third with $252,340.

Second was Dartmouth, another trotter, with $257,348.

Browns' Coach

Says Packers Tough Both Ways

CLEVELAND (AP)—How do Green Bay Packers look to Cleveland Browns' coach Blanton Collier?

"Their defence is something like that of Dallas Cowboys," he said. "I'd say the offence resembles that of St. Louis, the one the Cardinals had before injuries hit the team."

That means Collier thinks the Packers are tough both ways. Dallas had the slingiest defence (280 points) in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League.

St. Louis, before the injuries, beat the Browns 45-21, the worst defeat the defending NFL champions suffered in compiling an 11-3 won-lost record.

Collier, who takes the Browns to Green Bay, Wis., Sunday for the NFL championship game, made some other observations about the Packers Monday in an interview:

Q. Were you impressed with the Green Bay Backers against Baltimore Colts?

A. I certainly was. I guess Ray Nitschke must be the top middle linebacker in the league. Their three regulars all have an unusual combination of height, weight and speed.

Q. How about the defensive line?

A. This is a different type of defensive line from everyone else. Only ones like those of Detroit and Los Angeles. Fellows like Henry Jordan and Willie Davis use that quickness and mobility to get the job done. Lionel Aldridge and Ron Kostelnik are more the conventional, big, strong types."

Q. How did Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor look against Baltimore last Sunday?

A. Too good. Hornung seemed to be running as well as ever. Taylor is the type of player who scratches and squirms for every yard. He works well in close quarters. If there's any running room he usually finds it."

Q. Will Cleveland game plans be changed if Bart Starr—hospitalized at quarterback rather than Bart Starr?

A. We do just about the same things against either of them. I have a high regard for Starr. He has talent plus the ability to follow a game plan. I believe he's been bothered by sore ribs much of this year. It may have hampered his throwing. As a result Bratkowski has played quite a bit.

The Browns, who played their last game Dec. 19, have held light workouts and were joined Monday by flanker Gary Collins and halfback Ernie Green. Both missed practice last week because of injuries.

Field Goal Wide?

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Chandler's field goal which tied Green Bay Packers - Baltimore Colts game Sunday and set up his winning kick in overtime was wide, Lou Michaels of the Colts contended Monday.

"It was wide by three feet and you can print that," said Michaels who plays defensive end and does the place kicking for the Baltimore team.

The first field goal tied the score 10-10 with less than two minutes left in regulation time. His second field goal after 15 minutes of sudden death overtime won the game 13-10 and the National Football League western conference title for the Packers.

Colt team members also were critical of a 15-yard penalty which preceded the first field goal.

Colt coach Don Shula said it "was the first time I had ever seen" such a penalty.

Of the field goal, Michaels said he was in good position to see it. After being stopped in an effort to block it, he said he turned to watch the ball and it was "three feet wide of the upright."

Fred Miller, the other defensive end, agreed with Michaels.

"If that kick was good, then I'll eat the football," Miller said. "I was standing in nearly the same area as the Ball was kicked from and I watched it go outside the post."

Michaels challenged Chandler to say whether the kick was good. Chandler was quoted in Baltimore as having said "it wasn't a real good kick and I couldn't tell."

Top Teams Lead AHL Scoring

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Players from Quebec Aces, Rochester Americans and Pittsburgh Hornets, the top three teams in the American Hockey League, continue to dominate the individual scoring race.

Weekly figures, released today by the AHL, show only one change in the top 10, which is again headed by Gord Labossiere of the Aces.

Labossiere picked up two assists in his only start last week for a league-leading total of 41 points. He paces the league in assists with 24.

Dick Gamble of Rochester moved into second place with three goals in the Americs' two victories over Pittsburgh. He trails Labossiere by three points. Murray Hall of Pittsburgh is third with 37 points.

Alain Caron of Buffalo Bisons is the No. 1 goal scorer with 22. Gary Bauman of Quebec is the leading goaltender with a 2.72 average yield. George Gardner of Pittsburgh is the shutout leader with five.

Dic Mattiussi of Cleveland Barons leads the penalty pack with a total of 62 minutes.

METS SIGN SCHEFFING

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Scheffing, former manager of Chicago Cubs of the National League and Detroit Tigers of the American League, was named director of player development Monday by New York Mets. Scheffing, 50, replaces Eddie Stanky, signed earlier this month as manager of Chicago White Sox.

City Midgets Advance In Tournament

Scoring late in the third period, Belleville Western Tire nipped Whitby 4-3 to advance into the next round of a midget hockey tournament being played in Orillia.

The club was scheduled to play Kingston in the next round this morning at 10.30. Earlier Kingston ousted Richmond Hill.

Ron Fuller was the Belleville hero, triggering the only goal of the third period at the 18.00 mark to snap a 3-3 deadlock. Cal Wilson and Storms got assists on the winning play.

Whitby had led 2-1 after one heat and Belleville tied it by bedding a 2-1 edge in the second.

Bob Fuller scored his club's initial goal, assisted by Bob Carter, late in the first heat. That came at 15.00 and made it 2-1, for Whitby.

In the second, Wayne Storms finished off a play with Ron Fuller and Wilson at 2.30 and Joe Lamsden made it 3-3, scrided by Ray Summers, at 18.22.

Petra Burka Top Female Athlete

Second In Row

By JIM CRERAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Figure - skater Petra Burka continued to improve on the ice this year and it showed in the balloting for Canada's 1965 female athlete of the year.

Results of a poll, conducted by The Canadian Press among 414 sports editors and sports-casters across the country, showed the 19-year-old Dutch-born Toronto girl the winner of the honor for the second straight year. Her victory was announced Monday night.

The brown - haired, blue-eyed skater won in a landslide after her stirring victory in the World Figure - skating Championships at Colorado Springs, Colo., last March.

PETRA BURKA

* * *

She drew 102 first - place votes, nearly three times as many as the remaining 13 candidates listed, and rolled up 363 points. That put her 145 points ahead of second-place skier Nancy Greene from Rossland, B.C. Golfer Gail Harvey of Toronto was 203 points back in third place, marking the second year in a row she finished third.

Selectors were asked to name the top three athletes in order of preference and points were computed on a 3-2-1 basis.

FEW VOTES LEFT

The voters this year had little trouble deciding. There was a drop in balloting to fourth place, which went to golfer Jocelyne Bourassa of Trois-Rivieres, Que., with 14 points.

Golfer Marlene Stewart Streit of Foothill, Ont., was fifth with six points and Equestrian Gail Ross of Edmonton sixth with five. Nobody else got more than three.

Miss Greene received 27 votes for first place, Miss Harvey seven and Miss Bourassa two. They were the only others drawing first-place mentions besides Miss Burka.

Miss Burka registered victory in the 1964 poll when she drew 212 points to 186 for second-place Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Ont., a left-handed discuss and shot-put thrower. Miss Harvey was three points behind Miss McCredie.

The top three this year pulled down 250 votes and 738 points. The remaining 16 drew only 32 votes and 49 points.

In addition to her 102 first-place votes, Miss Burka got 25 seconds and seven thirds. Miss Greene placed second on 45 ballots and third on 44 while Miss Harvey was second 46 times and third on 47 ballots.

Miss Burka's victory in the World Figure - skating Championships this year was the first by a Canadian woman since Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa won 16 years ago.

CAPTIVATES CROWDS

A strong free skater, Miss Burka has captivated audiences since she first achieved international notice with a fourth-place finish in the World championships in Prague in 1963.

That year she became the first girl to execute the triple salchow—three turns in the air—regarded as one of the most difficult jumps.

She improved her school figures—worth 40 per cent of the total mark in international competition—and placed third in 1964 world championships. The experts predicted she would win if she continued to improve.

She proved them right this year.

But the year ended on a doubtful note. Petra's mother disclosed that her skating was so costly she might have to turn professional to stay amateur.

Mrs. Burka added that Petra, who has had offers up to $100,000 to turn professional, probably won't make a decision until after the 1968 Olympics.

Victoria Defeats Seals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Billy McNeill took over first place in the Western Hockey League scoring race and Gilles Villemure recorded his third shut-out of the season as Vancouver Canucks defeated San Francisco Seals 4-0 Monday night.

McNeill, last year's most valuable player, scored a goal and two assists to bring his total to 41 points—one point more than Victoria's Milan Marcetta.

Defenceman Dunc McCallum, with two goals, and Howie Hughes, with his league - leading 19th of the season, scored the others for Vancouver.

The win before 2,948 fans inched the Canucks within five points of second-place Portland Buckaroos, while San Francisco missed a chance to pass Seattle into fourth place.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A crowd of 4,862—including busloads from Ontario and Quebec centres—took in Monday's holiday trotting program at Western Fair Raceway, putting $312,718 through the parimutuel machines.

Although short of a record wagering here last February of $323,652, the figures were up from Boxing Day last year when 4,260 fans handed $151,303 through the wickets.

The featured ninth race, $1,100 preferred pace, was captured by four-year-old Championdale with co-owner Neil McRann in the sulky. Son of Jimmy Chief and Ronnie S. Grattan, Championdale finished three-quarters of a length ahead of Rendezvous Boy and returned $11.50 after travelling the mile in 2:10 3-5 over a snow-covered, track.

Central Pro Loop Scoring

Art Stratton of St. Louis Braves holds a three - point lead in the Central Professional Hockey League scoring race, statistics released today show.

Stratton, who leads the league in assists with 23, has seven goals for 30 points in 20 games.

Paul Andrea of Minnesota Rangers is second with 27 points on 12 goals and 15 assists. Tied for third with 26 points each are Andre Champagne of Tulsa Oilers with nine goals and 17 assists and Jim Johnson of Minnesota with six goals and 20 assists.

Oscar Gaudet of St. Louis and Bill Inglis of Houston Apollos are tied for fifth place with 25 points each. Gaudet and Max Mestinsek of Memphis Wings have goals with 13 each.

Drop 4-3 Decision

Swedes Give Russians Scare

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP-AP) — The Soviet Union plays a confident Canadian national team tonight after edging Sweden 4-3 in an international hockey tournament Monday night.

The Soviet Union, which has won 10 out of 11 games with the Canadian national team, had to fight off a last-ditch effort by the Swedes to win Monday's game.

Tord Lundstrom brought Sweden to within one goal of a tie with less than four minutes to go.

Sweden pressed the attack and got two shots on goal in the last minute but couldn't get the equalizer against the world champion U.S.S.R.

Sweden was beaten 8-3 by Czechoslovakia in the opening game of the tournament here Sunday.

SCORE FOR RUSSIA

Scoring for the Soviet Union were Vladimir Vyrdinov, Alexander Strigunov, Veniamin Alexandrov and Victor Kuzkin. Bjorn Palmqvist scored both of Sweden's other goals.

Jackie McLeod, coach and manager of the Canadian team, feels his team has reached the point where they could beat the Russians tonight.

McLeod watched the Czechs beat the Swedes Sunday night and was not impressed with the Czechs' performance.

"They didn't show too much," he said. "They're not too strong."

"They didn't bring their best team here. . . . They brought a lot of young kids."

SWEDES AGGRESSIVE

The Canadians could have taken a lesson from the Swedes Monday night on how to handle the Russians. The Swedes were more aggressive than they were against the Czechs.

They drew first blood with Palmqvist's first goal but Yurinov matched it before the first period was over.

The Swedes blitzed up the Russians behind their own blueline in the first part of the second period but the Russians broke through for two goals after the nine - minute mark. Kuzkin's third - period goal looked like an insurance marker before Lundstrom brought the Swedes within striking distance.

Finns Down Winnipeg 7-1

WINNIPEG (CP)—Finland's national team took advantage of defensive lapses by the Manitoba Junior Hockey League all-stars and downed the all-Winnipeg team 7-1 in an exhibition game Monday afternoon.

The victory, before 1,800 fans, gave the Finns five wins, one loss and one tie on their Canadian tour. They have been beaten only by Canada's national team — 10-4 — in Vancouver Dec. 19.

Finland's goals were scored by Reijo Hakanen, Matti Reunamaki, Jorma Peltonen, Ilpo Unskvira, Juhani Jylha, Lasse Oksanen, and Matti Keinonen.

Bob Anderson replied for the all-stars.

Finland grabbed an early lead and dominated play for 40 minutes with the aid of erratic passing, weak power-plays and costly defensive lapses by the all-stars.

Trenton Bows To Riteways

Belleville Riteways defeated Trenton 6-2 in an OMHA Novice division game played at Trenton Sunday.

The game was tied 1-1 after one period and Riteways led 4-2 at the end of a pair, adding two unanswered in the third.

Peter Snarke was Belleville's lone two-goal performer. Mark Coats, T. Whelan, G. Goegan and W. Deinaro potted a goal apiece. Coats and Deinard earned three assists apiece and P. Crawford got one.

B. McAlpine and B. Glover were the Trenton marksmen both on solo efforts.

Belleville collected four of the game's six penalties.

Belleville Rollins Construction peewees dumped Richmond Hill 7-1 in an exhibition game played Sunday.

Robert Foster scored three Rollins goals with two for Rick Meagher and singletons for Phil Kirby and Dave Smith. Smith also got three assists, Meagher two, Dennis Cone, Foster and Danny Lupenette one each.

Dick Webber scored Richmond Hill's lone goal, aided by Steve Cronkwright and Robbie Sackfield. They fell behind 2-0 in the first period and 4-1 after two beats.

HORSE OF THE YEAR — Armbro Flight, owned by Armstrong Bros. of Brampton, Ont., has been named Harness Horse of 1965 in results of a poll announced by the Canadian Trotting Association. Trained and driven by Joe O'Brien, native of Alberton, P.E.I., she holds the world trotting record for a half-mile track, and Gilles Montage shows other winners individual classes. Trainer-drivers Ron Feagan of Goderich, Ont., and Gilles Lachance of St. Schoiastique, Que., were tied in balloting for harness horsemen of record for 1965. (CP Wirephoto)

Armbro Flight Harness Horse of Year

TORONTO (CP) — Armbro Flight, who set a world record over a half - mile track last September, was named Canada's harness horse of the year for 1965 in a poll announced today by the Canadian Trotting Association.

Trained and driven by Joe O'Brien, 45-year-old native of Alberton, P.E.I., for owners Elgin, Ted and Charles Armstrong of Brampton, Ont., Armbro Flight dominated trotting in the United States and Canada during the season.

She won 22 of 26 starts, set a world record time of 1:59 1-5 for a half-mile track is a race Sept. 20 at Delaware, Ohio, and was voted the outstanding three-year-old of the year by the United States Trotting Association.

Armbro Flight was named the top three-year-old trotter in the individual Canadian awards while Woodlawn Drummond, a filly owned by Gerard Veilleux of Drummondville, Que., was the top three-year-old pacer.

NAME LEADING TROTTER

Golden Blend, owned by Nicholas DeAngelis of Montreal was the leading two-year-old pacer while another Armstrong horse, Governor Armbro was the outstanding two-year-old trotter.

The aged Canadian trotter of the year for the second time in a row was Sprite Kid, owned by Edward Wolos and Montague Israel, both of Montreal. Timely Knight, owned by Allan LeBlanc of Quebec City, was named the outstanding aged pacer.

Trainer-driver Ron Feagan, 29-year-old resident of Goderich, Ont., and Gilles Lachance, 27 - year - old resident of St. Scholastique, Que., were named co-champions in the balloting for the best harness horsemen.

Each driver won more than 200 races during the season, becoming the youngest in history to reach that total in one year. Feagan, with 213 victories, led Canada's drivers, while Lachance was second with 206.

Armbro Flight, Canada's outstanding harness horse as a two-year-old in 1964, was edged by Egyptian Candor in a fourth-heat raceoff in the Hambletonian at Du Quoin, Ill., in September but dominated the United States trotting scene after that. She won the Kentucky Futurity and the Dexter Cup at more than $100,000 as two-year-olds and Armbro Flight and Governor Armbro are among them.

Woodlawn Drummond's victory in the three-year-old pacing category was the closest in the balloting with Jerry Hal, owned by John and Audrey Langford of Chatham, Ont., second. Woodlawn Drummond earned $79,132 during the year and split with Jerry Hal in two meetings, winning one and losing one.

The awards will be made at the CTA's annual dinner here Jan. 13.

Only six trotters have won $239,652 in her career.

U.S. Leagues Bottle Talent

Leeds U Edges Liverpool

LONDON (AP)—Inside-right Peter Lorimer gave Leeds United a 1-0 victory over English League soccer leader Liverpool Monday and so gained revenge for his team's 2-1 defeat by Liverpool in last season's cup final.

Despite the defeat, Liverpool still heads the major league with 32 points, followed by Burnley with 30, Manchester United with 29 and Leeds United and Tottenham Hotspur each with 27 points. Leeds has played four fewer matches than Liverpool.

Lorimer's vital goal came in the 14th minute. He booted the ball into the net after Liverpool goalkeeper Tom Lawrence had only partly stopped a shot from left-fullback Paul Reaney.

Stoke City scored three times in the last 19 minutes for a 3-1 victory over Burnley.

To complete an unhappy day for the top three clubs, Manchester United managed only a 1-1 tie against West Bromwich Albion.

BAUN IMPROVING

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Bobby Baun of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, out of action three weeks with a knee injury, is progressing faster than expected, Baun, on crutches, is recovering from surgery to the knee injured when Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings fell on him during a game in Detroit. Doctors told Baun he must remain on crutches one more week.

TORONTO (CP) — Coaches Ralph Sazio of the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Bob Shaw of the last-place Toronto Argonauts agree on at least one point.

They say it's almost pointless for a club in the Canadian Football League to go after a college player that the National or American Football leagues are interested in.

"The guys you really want you can't afford to get," said Sazio Monday. "I just lost a kid today to New York Jets. He was a free agent—wasn't even drafted—and they gave him a real good bonus."

Sazio and Shaw have been trying to sign talent at colleges in the United States.

Shaw, close to completing his signing safari after an early start when the Argos missed the Eastern Football Conference playoffs, said he thought he had a good chance of landing one youngster, but the player signed with an NFL team for $30,000.

Shaw said he has signed about 82 players, but did not reveal all of them.

SIGN NORTHERN STAR

One, however, is Wally Gabler, a quarterback for the North in last Saturday's Blue - Grey college all-star game in Montgomery, Ala.

Sazio said he has signed four-ifle left Monday night for New York City to talk to prospects and then will go to Jacksonville, Fla., to scout the Gator Bowl game there Friday night.

The Argos hope to land Mike Wadsworth, a Toronto - born tackle attending Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind. Wadsworth, son of former Ottawa Rough Rider star Bunny Wadsworth, is recovering from damaged ligaments and ear-tilege to his knee and his future is uncertain because of the injury. He expects to get word on his knee by Easter and will discuss terms with Toronto then.

The Argonauts also have their eye on George Priedlits, a graduate of Parkdale Collegiate in Toronto who played end for Dubuque University in Dubuque, Iowa, during the last season.

The Ticats hope to land some American - trained Canadians, among them defensive end Lonnie Maich of Brantford, attending Kent State University in Kent, Ohio.

LOST TO ALL-STARS

SAN DIEGO (AP)—San Diego Charger flanker Lance Alworth probably will miss the American Football League all-star game due to separated cartilage in his rib cage, the Chargers said Monday. Alworth was injured in one of the last plays of the Chargers' 23-0 loss to Buffalo Bills Sunday in the AFL championship game. Buffalo will play the all-stars Jan. 15 at Houston.

Meet Russians Tonight

Canadian Coach Confident

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Jackie McLeod, veteran coach of Canada's national hockey team, expressed confidence Monday night that his team will beat the Soviets in tonight's international hockey game.

"I feel we can beat them," the 35-year-old Swift Current, Sask., native told The Canadian Press in a telephone interview.

"We beat them 6-1 in Victoria," McLeod said, "but they came back and beat us 4-1 in Winnipeg.

"We missed three or four chances in that game and it could have gone either way.

"We've got a young club and it takes a while for us to jell. We've only been together for 2½ months while the Russians have been playing together for seven years."

TOURED CANADA

The games in Victoria and Winnipeg were part of a recent tour by the Soviet squad, during which they had a 4-2 won-lost record. In addition to losing to the national team, the Soviets lost 2-1 to a strengthened Montreal Junior Canadiens team. The Soviets now have won 10 of 11 matches with the Canadian national team.

Asked whether the team was working on any particular strategy for tonight's game McLeod said "we're just trying to improve in general." The team arrived here Sunday night and worked out Monday.

He expressed confidence the team will be able to improve enough to win the world championship in Czechoslovakia next March 3-13.

McLeod, a veteran of 10 professional seasons, also serves as manager of the club. He came out of retirement as a player for the Victoria game and scored two goals.

He will be back in action tonight on right wing on a line with centre Gary Dineen and left winger George Faulkner.

RETURNED TO TEAM

Dineen, a 22-year-old Montreal native and veteran of the original national team, planned to sit out this season due to pressure of studies at the University of British Columbia, but decided recently to return to the team.

Faulkner, 31-year-old native of Harbor Grace, Nfld., also plays defence. His brother, Alex, played for Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Czechoslovakia defeated Sweden 8-3 Sunday in the tournament's opening game. The Soviet Union, which won the championship in Tampere, Finland, in 1964, is favored in the six-day tournament. The Czechs finished second in 1964, Canada third and Sweden fourth.

Lead Spain 3-0

Aussies Retain Davis Cup

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — As the sun blazed down on an easy doubles triumph over centre court at 114 degrees the flamboyant Spanish team John Newcombe and Tony of Manuel Santana and Luis Roche blted over it with the Arilla. same intensity today as Austra-

His retained the Davis Cup with triumph over the gallant Spaiards gave Australia an unsurmountable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series and kept the big silver cup, emblematic of world amateur tennis supremacy, in Australia for the 13th time in 20 years.

Santana tired noticeably during the third set, apparently feeling the effects of the 60-game singles match he lost to Fred Stolle Monday, 10-12, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. Spain fell behind 2-0 when Roy Emerson whipped Juan Gisbert 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Negotiations Still Drag On For Utilizing Labrador Power

By DAVE BUTLER

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Negotiations over the long - proposed 9,000,000 - horsepower Churchill Falls hydroelectric power project in western Labrador dragged on in 1965 without final agreement being achieved.

Despite hopeful announcements by Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland that he expected the project would start before the end of the year, construction has yet to begin. And reports from Quebec were pessimistic or, at best, non-committal.

The British Newfoundland Corp., Newfoundland's agent in the development, is seeking to sell the Churchill Falls power output to Hydro-Quebec which would in turn sell it to Consolidated Edison, a United States utility company.

The scheme has been in the planning stage for 12 years and Brinco has invested $14,000,000 in it.

Early in 1965 relations between Newfoundland and Quebec were at a low ebb due to an exchange of sharp comment between their respective premiers late the previous year. Premier Smallwood was still standing by his announced plan to have the power transmitted to New England via the Maritime provinces.

CONDITIONS IMPOSED

In early March Robert H. Winters, Brinco chairman, addressed the Newfoundland legislature at Mr. Smallwood's request and made it plain that the Maritimes route had been scrapped in favor of the "most economic way"—through Quebec.

By mid-March, Premier Lesage of Quebec indicated his province would be eager to resume negotiations with Newfoundland which had been broken off the previous December. However, negotiations would be resumed only if the price of the power was right and if "the other conditions" were suitable.

These conditions roused Mr. Smallwood's ire.

He said Quebec had demanded, in return for its agreement, that Newfoundland nationalize Churchill Falls power, that the power be delivered to Quebec to do with as it pleased, that jobs be provided on the project's construction for about 5,000 Quebecers who were out of work due to delays on other Quebec power projects, that all materials must come from Quebec and that the Labrador border be redrawn in Quebec's favor.

Premier Smallwood said he had rebuffed all the conditions with an emphatic "no." Premier Lesage, commenting on Mr. Smallwood's statements, confirmed that some of the conditions had been made but termed others "whimsical."

RIVER RENAMED

On April 14 the Newfoundland legislature took one concrete step. The name of the Labrador river on which the project is to be built was changed from the Hamilton to the Churchill to perpetuate the name of the great British statesman. It also changed the name of the project.

Negotiations started again in late March and picked up slowly. By mid-July the two premiers were chatting amiably together at a federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

In late July the federal government removed its income tax levy on private utility corporations and, with Brinco's role in the future of the project assured, Newfoundland no longer was under pressure to nationalize it. Elimination of the tax meant power could be offered to Hydro-Quebec at the same price as if it were nationalized.

During the next three months numerous meetings were held involving, in different combinations, the Newfoundland government, Hydro - Quebec, Brinco and Consolidated Edison. But no agreement was announced.

AFFECTED BY U.S. MOVE

Mr. Smallwood declined to say by early November what effect on the project could be expected from the United States government's move to discourage big borrowings in the U.S. money market until after the new year. Observers feel it may have been one of the reasons for failure to start construction in 1965.

The main obstacle now holding up agreement is thought by observers here to be price haggling between Hydro - Quebec and Brinco and between Quebec and Consolidated Edison. Agreement is thought to be near with Brinco but not with Consolidated Edison.

There was speculation that the long delay in the project and the prospect of nuclear power looming over the economic horizon may have caused Consolidated Edison to have second thoughts about the price it first considered paying.

Usually informed sources have indicated some concession of territory or water rights in the Labrador will have to be made to Quebec by Newfoundland in return for Quebec agreement.

It is also felt that the Newfoundland government may be waiting for an opportune moment to approach its people on the Labrador boundary issue which rubs salt in an old wound. Quebec has never acknowledged Newfoundland's claim to most of Labrador, which was ceded to Newfoundland by a British Privy Council decision in 1927.

Any move to give Quebec any part of Labrador is expected to meet with opposition by many Newfoundlanders.

Madoc

LEGION PARTY

MADOC — The Canadian Legion, Branch 363, Madoc, held the annual children's Christmas party in the Legion hall Friday night. Master of ceremonies was Mr. Harry Lovibond, assisted by Mr. Jas. Saider.

One hundred and fifteen children received a gift from Santa along with fruit and candies. President Don Ash welcomed everyone, while Padre J. H. Thompson spoke on the meaning of Christmas.

The Ladies' Auxiliary served lunch to both children and adults, catering arrangements were by the president, Mrs. William Norman.

SANTA PARADE

Through the efforts of Mr. John Weaver, a Santa Claus parade was held in the village Saturday afternoon. The parade was led by the north end kids band, leader, Master John Kincaid, followed by floats representing the Madoc Hunters and Anglers Club, Kiwanis Easter Seal Campaign, The Night Before Christmas for Kalsdar township, the Madoc Co-Op, Madoc Artificial Ice, the Cadet Band of Centre Hastings High School and Santa, driven in an open sports car.

After the parade, bags of candies were distributed to all the children from the public school grounds. Madoc Kiwanis Club sponsored a film in the high school with a showing in the morning and after the parade in the afternoon.

CANDELIGHT SERVICE

The annual Candelight Service was held Thursday evening at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church which was well attended. The choir direction and organist was under Mrs. Irene Crawford, assisted by Mr. Stanley Hawthorne at the piano. The choir sang several selections.

Soloist, Miss Barbara Armstrong sang "Come, See This Little Stranger," while Miss Lynne Armstrong sang "The Star of Bethlehem." The choir's anthem was "These Things She Pondered in Her Heart." The minister, Rev. Vernon Toerr, spoke on the Christmas Story.

The church was beautifully decorated with Christmas wreaths, spruce trees and other bright decorations by Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne Sr., and the members of the choir.

CGIT SERVICE

The CGIT members of Trinity United Church conferred at the Christmas Vesper Service to a large congregation of parents and friends on Sunday evening. The junior choir assisted in the Christmas music.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Mrs. Bella Marache, Mrs. Mae Keir and Miss Dorothy Watters were among the ladies who assisted at the Legion children's party last night in Deseronto.

Town Clerk Joseph Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds are looking forward to a well earned holiday in Florida in February. They will accompany Mrs. Reynold's sister, Mrs. John Hsin and her husband of Toronto, and hope to bask in the sun for at least a month.

Mia Violet Smith, who taught in Deseronto for many years, is now in the Belleville General Hospital recovering from eye surgery. She is now a guest at Hastings Manor.

Mrs. Russell Boyce of George Street is spending the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. William Wigmore and the Rev. Mr. Wigmore.

Mrs. Transey and her grandson Lee Stem are visiting relatives in her former home in East Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herrington and their children are spending Christmas and the weekend with Mr. Herrington's mother, Mrs. William Higgins and Mr. Higgins.

TV-Radio Column

Good TV Shows in Past Year Said Hard to Find

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Along with the end of the year comes the usual assortment of blind ballots from magazines and trade publications urging television reviewers to fill in their choices of the best of this or that category.

But this has been, on the whole, such a dismal year in terms of television entertainment that picking the best of this or that is about as easy as choosing the best loaf of bread in a commercial bakery.

One questionnaire asked, for instance, my candidate for "the best show of the year." The winner of the general election will probably be My Name is Barbra, the Streisand special of last May, or the Julie Andrews Hour of more recent date.

But as one looks back over 12 months and hundreds of hours of viewing, it is hard to recall a hand among specific programs during which one was really transported with delight. There was a fair sprinkling of merit, for instance, The Entertainers, an ambitious variety hour. The Cara Williams Show, or even the well-intentioned Fitlers Square, which tried but never got off the ground.

TV MEDICS TIRE

This was the year when the audience finally wearied of medical problems as a substitute for real drama. It was a year when TV turned to military stories in order to get a high quota of conflict into its plots.

Dick Van Dyke kept tripping over the family hassock once a week but his antics began to show signs of age and attrition.

The Man from U.N.C.L.E. got the oil pumping, he confessed his imitators, that it lost all touch with reality.

If one is picking "best shows, the votes this year must go to the news programs—the recovery of the astronauts, the coverage of Pope Paul's visit to New York, the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill and illuminating or revealing newsfilm shot in Viet Nam or in the south or in Los Angeles during the disturbances.

So this is the year when the ballot for entertainment shows remains blank. Maybe next year. . . .

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Bayside Guides held their Christmas party at Bayside School on Monday evening. Carol singing was enjoyed as part of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Waddworth of Belleville were Sunday callers of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Yateman.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Arthur of Whitby spent last weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur and Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice, Stephen and Cathy of Belleville were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

720 Persons In U.S. Killed Over Holiday

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed 720 persons in the U.S. during the three - day Christmas weekend, the highest number ever counted for any holiday period.

The National Safety Council termed the toll a national disaster.

The figure smashed the record of 706 for a 102-hour, four-day holiday weekend that had stood for nine years. The previous record also was for a Christmas observance—in 1956.

The council had estimated a death toll of between 560 and 700.

AT THE BELLE — The year's most talked about film, "Help", starring the comedy group with seven new song hits, is showing at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mr. and Mrs. Allen McComb, Wallbridge and Mr. and Mrs. George Sutherland, Stirling, attended the concert at the Union School and visited the Thomson and Anderson families later.

Fred Seager, student at the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, Toronto, arrived home Friday evening to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer.

Helen-Anne and Mr. Larry Thompson of Springbrook, were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mercer. Jim and Reed and attended the Ninth Line school concert on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Spencer and family spent Sunday evening guests of Rev. H. R. Beare and Mrs. Beare at the United Church manse in Roseneath for the christening of Roxanne Nadine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer, and Nancy Dawn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Spencer. Mrs. Clara Lisle who was a weekend guest of her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. Spencer and family, accompanied them.

Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn returned home on Sunday from Campbellford Memorial Hospital where she has been receiving treatment for several weeks.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS

All the annual Christmas entertainment at the Union School recently John D. Spencer was chairman for an entertaining program.

Mrs. Don Wood and her pupils of the Ninth Line school held their Christmas concert recently with a good crowd of parents and friends and also the school section in attendance.

Mrs. Faires of Stirling, music instructor, was in charge of all the piano accompaniments. At the end of the program the pupils formed in rows on the platform to receive their gifts from Santa, who arrived with his usual merry "Ho, Ho, Ho."

Both schools closed on Wednesday for the Christmas vacation; reopening Monday, January 3rd.

REJECTS DEMANDS

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says a conciliation board report to be released today rejects demands by five trucking locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and sets the stage for a strike by almost 10,000 workers early in the new year.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For December 29

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Best to take long-range, overall view. Don't rush. Realize certain precautions, restrictions are necessary. Key is being discreet. Wait and see . . . don't commit yourself just now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Not wise to get into money discussion at social affair. Keep conversation going along lighter vein. Stress understanding, diplomacy. Help those who help themselves.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Now you can share knowledge, learn by teaching. Opposition from higher up is but temporary. Study carefully any messages received. Surprise duo.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Think for yourself — anticipate unusual moves by others. Take special care during any journey. Many around you in traffic tend to forget basic rules. Maintain sense of balance.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Study Taurus message. Display versatility. Be diplomatic in dealing with male partner/associates. Money question requires informed answer. Dig deep for added information.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Cycle has been higher in past. Outside pressure may force you into quick decision. Once your mind is made up — then proceed with confidence. Be shrewd observant.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Strive for harmony . . . get sufficient rest. You may find some around you are irritable. This is direct result of fatigue. Don't compound error. Be cool, calm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Necessary to be unusually perceptive. Read between the lines — study fine print. One close to you is trying to get across subtle point. Utilize intuition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): If you are frank, you gain new allies. No day to attempt ducking basic issues. Show strength, admit areas of doubt. Then others come up with key answers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Plan sensible holiday routine. Means avoid extremes. Stay close to home, if practical. Finish major tasks. Give said where requested. If sympathetic you gain friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Now you are more independent in thought, action. Aid due from unusual source may be result of past efforts paying off. Income opportunity on horizon. Look!

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Be ready for quick change of plans. Need for awareness in public relations department now evident. Weigh words, actions. Be firm, but fair. Steer clear of legal disputes.

IF TODAY'S YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you possess ability to tell what others really feel, desire. You are extremely sensitive moods of others often color your own thoughts, feelings.

* * *

SUSPEND DIGGING

MONTREAL (CP) — Digging operations near Piedmont, Que., were temporarily suspended Thursday by Quebec police officers seeking two bodies they had been tipped might be buried there. Word of the suspension came from QPP headquarters in Montreal. Four officers had been digging at a Laurentian summer camp near Piedmont, about 30 miles north of Montreal.

The search for the remains of two persons said to be missing began two or three weeks ago.

Cracked Ribs
In Accident

PICTON — Christmas has passed with no major accidents reorted by O.P.P. or town police.

Sunday, a minor accident occured five miles south of Belleville on Highway 14. Noel McMasters whose tractor was towing a trailer, hit an icy spot on the road and his 10-year-old son David was thrown to the road and partly under the tractor He was taken to Prince Edward General Hospital with three cracked ribs.

Only three other minor accidents were reported by O.P.P., all due to slippery road conditions.

At Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital over the Christmas season there were special decorations and on Christmas day a dinner with all the trimmings.

A number of inmates at the county jail were given a special dinner while the Salvation Army conducted a carol service.

The residents at the County Home also had a turkey dinner, followed by the distribution of gifts and carol singing.

The hospital was visited by the stork only once on Christmas Day. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Sponagle, 8 Owen Street.

During the weekend many motorists toured the towns and villages to admire the Christmas decorations. In the village of Bloomfield, Mayor Henry Leavens had offered prizes for the best decorated homes. The judges were former trees Arthur Moore and councillors Alan Anderson, Lee Allison, Donald Baxter and Charles Howard. The prizes were won by Thomas A. Bevan, Robert Cummings, Harold Cahoon and Harry Marshall.

Father, Daughter Killed By Train West of Town

NAPANEE — For the third weekend in succession Napanee was shocked by a serious car accident in the area.

Sunday's was the most serious, resulting in the instant death of Gordon Faulkner, 49, and his daughter Patricia, 18, of 200 Thomas Street, Napanee. Shortly before 1 p.m. their small foreign car was demolished by an eastbound train, the Lakeshore Express, which was slowing down to pick up passengers at the Napanee station. The accident occurred at the level crossing on the outskirts of Napanee on Highway 401. The wig-wag was working and the gates were down. It is believed that the small car skidded on the snow-covered ice, crashed through the barrier and into the train.

Mr. Faulkner's body was thrown 40 feet from the car. His daughter's body was caught by the front left-hand engine and, wedged beneath it was carried to the Centre Street crossing, where the train was stopped. It was more than an hour before the body could be released by truckmen and volunteer helpers.

The car's transmission, seats and wheels were torn off at the impact. The body of the driver was carried for half a mile. It is believed that Mr. Faulkner was driving at the time of the accident.

Mr. Faulkner was well known in this area. He was a Prince Edward. He came from Toronto, when a youth and drove a bread route for his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Francis, whose business was then operated at the present Valley Bakeries. He was the manager of the Napanee branch for the time of his death.

His daughter, Miss Patricia, was a top student in the Napanee District Secondary School, with an average of 83 per cent in her Grade 13. Christmas examinations. She had joined the carol singers of the church making the rounds of homes to sing Christmas songs on Christmas Eve. Later that evening she assisted in building a creche outside the church.

TRAIN LOOMED DOWN

The Lakeshore Express stops for passengers in Napanee only, when it is flagged. Sunday was the train's first stop from the town, dispatcher Frederick Demers contacted the engineer by radio telephone to say that passengers were waiting at the station, and the train was coming down when the accident occurred. The train with its passengers, estimated at 600, was held up for more than 35 minutes. Engineer of the train was Joseph Boyle of Belleville, and the fireman was George McGee.

Gordon Faulkner is survived by his wife, the former Jean Stirling, who was too ill to accompany him and Patricia Sunday. They were making a hurried overnight visit to Toronto to see his parents, especially his mother, who is ill and will not be able to attend the funeral. He is survived, also by his brother Bruce, and a sister Mrs. Thomas Bell (Leona) both of Toronto.

The funeral service for father and daughter will be held Wednesday, December 29 at 2.30 p.m. in Trinity United Church. The service will be conducted by the Rev. E. Irvine Johnston, minister and Sunday school teacher of Patricia.

A Masonic service for Mr. Faulkner will be held Tuesday evening in the Tierney Funeral Home.

BACK REPUBLIC

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — A movement aimed at restoring the republic has been organized in the Netherlands because of dissatisfaction with the monarchy, one of its founders said Monday. Arend Dunnewind, a member of the new Republican party's executive group, said in a radio interview that branches will be established in western cities and candidates will be put up for the next municipal and provincial elections there.

Napanee Personals

NAPANEE — Murray Fowell of the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford is spending the holidays with his mother, Mrs. DeVerde Powell of the Newcastle Road, and is paying frequent visits to his father, who is still under treatment in the Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hogboom of the Deseronto Road, with Donald, Miriam, Susan and Tommy, spent the Christmas weekend with Mrs. Hogeboom's brother, Mrs. Albert Allen of Lucknow.

Dr. Margaret Burns of Ottawa was the holiday weekend guest of her brother, Dr. N. F. Burns of East Street, Mrs. Burns and their three boys.

Mrs. Jack Foulger of the Palace Road was admitted Sunday to the Kingston General Hospital.

The Rev. W. R. and Mrs. Thorndale, with David, Edward, John and Sheila of Weston called Tuesday on Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hutchison of West St., enroute to Lyon to visit friends until Thursday. David will remain with his friend David Hutchison for the rest of the Christmas school vacation. Mr. Thorndale was formerly a minister of Grace United Church, Napanee.

VISITS IN NEW YORK STATE

Mrs. James Robinson of Dundas Street left Thursday with her son, Gerald A. Robinson, of Cooperstown, N.Y., to spend Christmas with him and his family. Mrs. Robinson made their family. It is the first time in 11 years that she has been together for Christmas. She will also visit friends in Watertown and Syracuse before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Barnard of Dundas Street were Christmas weekend guests of Mr. Barnard's mother, Mrs. John Barnard, and of Mr. Barnard's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Folliott and Miss Ruth, all of Ameliasburg.

Mrs. C. A. Honey of London is the holiday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hutchison of West Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Neal of Dundas Street paid a pre-Christmas visit to their son, the Rev. John R. Neal, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church in Deseronto. They also visit their cousin, Mrs. F. E. Kimmerly on Centre Street.

Mr. Edwin File of Switzerville Road had his family with him for Christmas Sunday, his son Harold with Mrs. File, Denis and Miss Betty Jean of Toronto, Fred Jonathan and Jamie of Kingston, and daughter, Miss Jean of Toronto. His sister-in-law, Mrs. H. C. File of Napier Street was also a guest.

Mrs. Ross Lloyd of Picton visited is visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Denison of Centre Street, for the holiday week.

Mrs. Gordon Faulkner, whose husband and daughter Patricia were killed when their car skidded into a CNR passenger train has immediate members of her family with her: her father, Mr. Carmen Nix of the Stirling area; her mother, Mrs. Nix with the RCAF in St. Hubert, Quebec, and Charles, a member of the Peterborough city police.

FIVE CHILDREN DIE

SPARTA, Ill. (AP) — Five small children died Monday when fire destroyed their five-room frame house in rural Eden about two miles east of here. Their mother, Mrs. Melvina Bardo, and neighbors tried to get into the house to bring the children out, but were driven back by flames and smoke.

Bird Census Taken by Naturalists

NAPANEE — A census of birds within a seven mile radius of Napanee was taken by Napanee Nature Club Monday, with eight members of the Kingston Naturalists also training their binoculars on every bush along the way, and penetrating the woods that bordered the roads.

Five species of tired-nature lovers returned at four o'clock to the Superior Restaurant, where they regaled their findings of the eight-hour search, and then at a well-earned dinner, they reported identifying 34 species, among them a single song sparrow and three robins.

Among the members of the Napanee club was Miss Barbara Caldwell, now of Toronto, who was home on holidays. Others from this district included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dale, Bert Stinson, Manly Kimmett, Canon W. L. Simmons, Roy Hartman and Mrs. Florence Wilson.

Family Enjoys "Travelling" Yule Dinner

NAPANEE — The McConnell family had a most unusual kind of Christmas in a novel way, with a "travelling" evening dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richmond's Carolyn and Charles of Roblin provided the appetizers.

Then the family moved on to Napanee, where everybody was ready for the main course at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pringle, Cheryl and Frank, of Donald Street.

By the time the group reached the home of Stewart McConnell and his wife and boys, Jon and Jamie at 40 Dundas East everyone was ready for the variety of desserts which awaited them in the decoration room.

Other members of the travelling dinner party included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bottrell of Bonnie Rd., and Mrs. Glenn Hazelwood, of the Deseronto Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and daughter Mrs. David Wayte and Mack of Napanee; and Charles, Mrs. McConnell, Frederick and Cathy of Raglan Road.

The family believes it is the ideal way to really enjoy Christmas dinner, as they were always hungry for the next course. Besides, they had an opportunity to admire the Christmas trees and the decorations and the gifts in three homes.

Seeks Homes For Lost Pets

NAPANEE — Time is running out for two small dogs, wards of the Lenfloe and Addington Humane Society. Both are black, both are young, though past the puppy stage, and both are playful little fellows, hopefully making friendly overtures to everyone who comes near their pens. Perhaps this lady will take me home with her," each tail wag seems to say.

The little fellow to the spaniel type. He was brought to the humane society from a home on the Deseronto Road, where he had stayed the week before. The second, evidently of Labrador descent ancestry, was picked up on Thomas Street. Both are pets, and somewhere two homes are missing them. So far their owners have not been found, and, as the humane society is not a dog-pound, it will be forced to have them destroyed unless someone gives them a home.

They are at present in the kennels of a local veterinarian. Canon W. L. Simmons, vice-president of the society, was hopeful that they would be placed before Christmas, but was disappointed.

If you want a nice, friendly little black dog or dogs, telephone Canon Simmons 354-3405.

Stockings Last Just One Day, So Pravda Calls a Conference

MOSCOW (AP) — Pity the Russian working girl who spends a day's wages to buy a pair of stockings, wears them one day and finds a hole in a heel, all the toes out and lots of runs.

Where is the working conscience of those factory workers who produced this defective article?" angrily demands Miss Krylova.

She was mad about a pair of stockings from the Krasnaial factory in Russian Georgia that had cost 2.40 rubles ($2.64) — the average daily wage of a woman clerk here. So she wrote to Pravda.

The Communist party newspaper got together with a Moscow department store and summoned a meeting to put people on the spot.

To discuss stockings in the Communist system, it took people from five different government ministries, plus the factories, plus Moscow shops. They seemed to Pravda to have agreed that the stocking business has problems.

YARN'S POOR

Inadequate and poor quality yarn is supplied to factories. Machinery is old.

The Krymsk factory in Georgia was the main scapegoat.

Pravda said it sent 18,000 pairs of stockings to Moscow's central department store this year and all of them were defective. They are sitting in a warehouse while the factory refuses to accept responsibility.

Pravda concluded on the usual cheery note of such public admissions that problems have existed in the Soviet Union. In 1956 better yarn will be supplied, some factories will be re-equipped and production will increase 11 per cent.

Harvey Denison Dies of Injuries, Car Hits Tree

NAPANEE — Harvey Denison, 22, died Sunday morning in the Kingston General Hospital. A Napanee resident, he had been unconscious there since December 18, when his car struck a tree and came to rest on the hood of a station wagon belonging to Limery Scott. The accident occurred Saturday morning, on the highway 2, not far from the town limits.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Bonnie Yarrow, who is expecting a child; by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cregory Denison of Deseronto, a sister, Mrs. Jeanette French, and two brothers, Richard and Creegry.

Mr. Denison was a reserve member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He had recently completed a course at Camp Petawawa. He was a member of the Roman Catholic Construction Company of Kingston. He had expected to receive a promotion to sergeant at the Kingston Penitentiary on January. He and Mrs. Denison had recently moved into their own apartment on John Street to an apartment on the Belleville-Deseronto road, which has been with her parents on the Slash Road since the accident.

Two men were killed their lives while firemen, police and nearby construction workers fought to save them. Dead are Lloyd Dunleer fireman Jack Perry squeezed into the car from the top to support Dunleer from above, and Dr. Brant Bergstrome supported him from below through three hours of both legs, and a broken right arm.

The funeral service will be held in Trinity United Church at 1.30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 29. The Rev. E. Irvine Johnston will officiate. One hour later he will officiate in the same church for the service for Gordon Faulkner and his daughter Patricia, killed Sunday when their car skidded into a CNR train at the Elleford Road crossing.

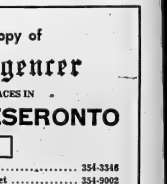
Melrose

MELROSE —The annual meeting of the U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Belburn on Thursday of last week. Mrs. John McLaren, accompanied by Mrs. Grant McLaren, spent the weekend with relatives in Ottawa and Carleton place. John, an employee of the Bell Telephone in Kingston, is enjoying a three-weeks' vacation.

Mr. Bernard O'Sullivan was elected to the Tyendinaga township council at the election held on December 9th.

Mrs. A. English is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Scarlett, Don Mills. Mrs. Scarlett recently returned home from the hospital with a baby boy.

Mrs. Lorne Lazier of the second line, is a patient in Belleville hospital.



Representatives of the Consumer Gas Company called a meeting of ratepayers of a section of Tyendinaga township on Monday evening for the purpose of gain the privilege of building an underground reservoir for the storage of natural gas. The meeting was well attended and further developments will follow.

A social committee of members of the W.I. met at the home of Mrs. J. Hasbrouck on Wednesday, with Mrs. Ross Lloyd as hostess. Plans have been with her parents on the Slash Road since the accident.

Two men were killed their lives while firemen, police and nearby construction workers fought to save them. Bicycling Diplomats In Zambia Facing 3 Months' Pedalling

LUSAKA (AP) — As Canada and the United States step up efforts to aid landlocked Zambia following the gasoline supply shutoff by the illegal Rhodesian government, stringent measures are being taken to ease the demand on oil stocks.

Government ministers are using smaller cars, diplomats have bought bicycles and many workers have cut out trips home for lunch.

Gasoline rationing, which currently limits motorists to one gallon a week, is expected to end within the next three months.

Meanwhile the government is appealing for further economies. Zambia's watchword has become "Is your journey really necessary?"

The situation is not helped by the temperamental telephone system, now being further overworked as the public tries to do business without personal contact. Most people are prepared to wait for nearly thirty minutes for local calls rather than use up gasoline.

Emergency measures have ensured sufficient supplies for most industrial users.

British Overseas Airways transports are bringing in more than 1,500 gallons a day, despite Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere's demand that military personnel at the Dar Es Salaam end of "the flying pipeline" be replaced by civilians. RAF personnel are operating in civilian clothes.

Nyerere's demand follows the breaking off by Tanzania of diplomatic relations with Britain in protest against "the failure" of British Prime Minister Wilson to overthrow Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian regime by force.

Within the next fortnight, 44,000 gallons daily are expected to be on the road route from Tanzania. More than 150 trucks are engaged on the 1,000-mile haul from the Tanzanian railhead.

The first of four Canadian planes will begin flying fuel to Lusaka Thursday. The RCAF C-130 Hercules transport arrived in Leopoldville Tuesday night.

Three other RCAF C-130s are due in Leopoldville by Jan. 2.

U.S. planes also are expected to fly fuel supplies on the Leopoldville-to-Lusaka route.

The Canadian planes will bring the total daily fuel lift—without U.S. aid—to about 76,000 gallons. This is just over half Zambia's needs.

Other routes also are being put into use: along Lake Tanganyika to the Zambian port of Mpulungu and by railway from the Portuguese Angolan port of Lobito. But these take time to organize.

Russia Sends Top Trouble-shooter To Hanoi; U.S. Hopes For Talks

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Shelepin, a top level Soviet troubleshooter, will visit North Viet Nam the official news agency Tass announced Tuesday night.

The scheduled trip of the Soviet Communist party's No. 2 leader comes as Moscow and Peking are fighting to influence the Communist regime in Hanoi with peace prospects possibly in the balance.

The brief announcement said Shelepin, 47-year-old former head of the Soviet secret police, will lead a delegation to Hanoi shortly.

The Chinese have been urging Hanoi to take a tough line, demanding the ouster of Americans from all of Viet Nam. Public statements here have indicated the Soviets would prefer a softer line that could lead to the end of the Vietnamese conflict.

FEUD WITH CHINESE

Since last month the Chinese and Soviets have been publicly feuding over whether Moscow is sending enough military aid to Hanoi.

(The selection of Shelepin for such a mission could mean that the Russians are approaching Ho Chi Minh's Communist re-

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington hopes the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets will produce a peace bid from Hanoi, but U.S. diplomatic sources said today they know of no response yet.

At the same time, as the bombing suspension neared the five-day mark, the Washington informants tended to rate the announced trip of a high-ranging Russian to Hanoi as having little immediate bearing on the fighting.

Rather, they speculated that with Communist Party Leader Alexander Shelepin's forthcoming visit to North Viet Nam, announced by Moscow late Tuesday, the Soviets are making a further bid for leadership in the face of their rivalry with Peking.

Of greater interest now was what reaction might come from the Communists to the halt in U.S.-South Vietnamese bombing of targets in the North which began with the Christmas truce. U.S. informants denied that Moscow had been promised no resumption of bombings while Shelepin is in Hanoi.

A Johnson administration source said that when it comes to peace feelers, Washington has made all the initiatives for a settlement of the Viet Nam conflict while Hanoi has offered nothing but a four-point program calling for a Communist takeover of the South.

Black Watch to Hold Exercise in Norway

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1st Battalion, the Black Watch, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., will fly to northern Norway—above the Arctic Circle—in February to participate in an exercise by the North Atlantic Alliance's airborne brigade.

Though the battalion comprises about one-fifth of the NATO brigade, this will be the first time it will have taken part in an exercise with the alliance formation in Europe.

Informants say the battalion, numbering between 900 and 1,000 men with its ancillary units such as signals, will be flown to Bardufoss, north of Narvik, in RCAF Yukon and Hercules transport planes. The exercise will last about a month into late March.

The NATO brigade is designed particularly to protect the alliance's flanks in Norway on the north and in Greece and Turkey on the southeast. Norway and Turkey are the only NATO countries which have a common frontier with Russia.

Countries represented in the brigade besides Canada are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands. Last summer units of the brigade held manoeuvres in Turkey.

Two RCAF planes carried 33 Canadian soldier equipment, mostly signals gear, to Bardufoss last winter for cold-weather trials of NATO weapons. This was a preliminary test to the full-scale exercise which begins in February.

Informants said NATO might not have tested the mobility of its airborne brigade this winter in Norway near the Russian border if the Soviet Union had been showing a more conciliatory attitude in international relations.

Authorities say Canada is prepared to make a bigger contribution in manpower and airlift to the mobile brigade if other NATO countries do.

Harriman On Mysterious Mission

WARSAW AP — W. Averell Harriman U.S. ambassador-at-large, arrived in Warsaw today on a mysterious mission.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronouski cut short a visit to the western Polish city of Poznan and left before dawn to meet Harriman. Shortly afterward, they went to the Polish foreign ministry.

Harriman's mission appeared to Poland by two U. S. foreign service officers, Daisy Dosa and Christopher Squires.

Dean is a Chinese language expert and Squires is an Chinese affairs who regularly takes part in the Warsaw meeting between the U. S. and Chinese Communist ambassadors. Squires is an expert on East European affairs.

Rebates Cannot Be Made

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue department officials are seeking a way to allow rebates to employers on overpayment of their shares of Canada Pension Plan contributions.

But a spokesman for the department indicated Tuesday there isn't much hope of success in the search. Social security administration officials in the United States have been trying without success for 30 years to work out such procedures.

The problem arises with employees who move from job to job or work for more than one employer. Under law, employers must start Jan. 1 to deduct 1.8 per cent of employee income between $600 and $5,000, and to match the deductions with their own contributions to the Canada Pension Plan.

If an employee is having de-

South Viet Nam Is Said Ready To Accept New Year's Truce

SAIGON (CP) — Truce talk pervaded the Vietnamese theatre of war tonight but the United States underscored its commitment to South Viet Nam by airlifting another brigade of U.S. troops into the jungle conflict.

The moratorium in the U.S. air war against North Viet went into its sixth day, but the halt in the air attack still drew no public peace feeler from Hanoi.

The south Vietnamese government was reported ready to halt the Viet Cong in proclaiming a ceasefire for the Vietnamese New Year next month. The United States entertained some doubts but was expected to concur in the truce.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong guerrillas went on a widespread offensive early today, overrunning a district town and a military outpost and harassing South Viet the total American combat namese government positions in force in Viet Nam to nearly many parts of the country. 185,000.

Neither Washington nor Saigon saw the Communist offer of a truce on Tet, the lunar New Year festival Jan. 29-23, as a significant breakthrough toward peace. In the long guerrilla war, a military lull during the national holiday has become an annual ritual.

Twenty - one Americans were killed in combat last week compared with 30 in the previous Sunday - to - Saturday reporting period, a U.S. spokesman announced there were 85 American wounded.

Government casualties were listed as 227 dead, 499 wounded and 104 either wounded or captured, while the Communist toll was given as 937 killed and 137 wounded or captured.

The U.S. airlift of some 4,000 jungle fighters from Hawaii to the central highlands increased

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cloudy skies are expected over all of Ontario and light snow will continue in the North. The moderating temperature trend will also continue. Afternoon temperatures are expected to climb above freezing in many southern locations while in the North most stations will report readings in the 20s. Ammunition Supply Threatened

WASHINGTON AP — The U.S. government steps up its pressure today to end a strike which the defence department says could virtually cut off the supply of rifle and machine gun ammunition for U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam.

"We want a settlement," said Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin after receiving local progress reward ending the 29-day strike of AFL - CIO Machinists at the Olin Mathieson Chemical Co. plant in East Alton, Ill.

While Simkin pressed for a voluntary settlement of the dispute over wages, fringe benefits and working conditions, the White House was reported ready to halt the strike with court action if necessary.

The announcement said the delegation would visit North Viet Nam at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Vietnamese Communist (Marxist) party and the North Vietnamese government.

Shelepin, described by most observers in Moscow as second to the Soviet party to First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, was relieved of his duties as a first deputy premier recently so that he could concentrate all his energies on party affairs. He also has been holds a government position.

The announcement by Tass gave no details about his visit.

Magazine Sends Man To Hanoi

NEW YORK (AP)—A staff-appointed three-man mission Hanoi bypassed the U.S. state department in hopes of getting first-hand information on the peace intentions of the North Viet Nam Communists, says a editor of the magazine which sponsored the trip.

"Quite frankly, government permission was not sought, said John McDermott associate editor of Viet-Report, at a press conference Tuesday.

"It is our duty to get the news and we're going after it, he said.

Federal law provides penalties of up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine for some unauthorized trips to foreign countries.

Those who went to Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, are Staughton Lynd, 36, an associate history professor at Yale University; Herbert Aptheker, a Communist party veteran and Thomas Hayden, 28, who has been active in student civil rights groups.

McDermott said only Lynd represents the magazine on the trip, and added: "I really cannot comment on the other two, although we'll certainly be interested in their stories."

McDermott said information received by Viet-Report "convinced us that the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) and the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam would willingly move to end the war if two fundamental principles were satisfied."

He said the principles were that a government of national reconciliation be constituted in South Viet Nam and that the process of eventual reunification of the severed nation be set in motion.

The Viet Cong, McDermott said, "has not demanded a monopoly of power in the south, but it has demanded that a new government be established in which will represent the actual balance of forces in South Viet Nam."

Canada Buys Red Arms

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 16,000 rifles, shotguns, pistols, revolvers and air rifles were imported from Communist countries during the first half of 1965 and local merchants report increasing sports interest in them.

One Ottawa sporting goods merchant said air pellet rifles, clearly labelled "Made in the People's Republic of China" in English and with Chinese characters presumably saying the same thing, are having good sales. They were also prominently displayed in four other Ottawa shops.

"They are remarkably accurate," a gun fancier said, "and they are being accepted by gun clubs for target practice."

Trade statistics showed imports of $38,158 worth of non-military firearms and parts, other than shotguns, rifles pistols and revolvers, brought into Canada in the first six months of this year from Czechoslovakia. Czechoslovakia had fourth place among the list of countries supplying them, after the United States, Britain, and Belgium.

Czechoslovakia also ranked fifth among suppliers of importer shotguns and prominently among suppliers of rifles. Imports also included 18 non-military pistols and revolvers from Russia worth $1,816.

Trade sources said many of these could be collector's items, possibly even antiques.

Though the trade figures give insufficient detail for complete analysis, it is believed that large numbers of the imported guns are air rifles using shaped lead pellets. These are reported by the merchants to be more powerful and more accurate than the standard American air rifle using solid round pellets.

The Chinese air rifles sold here are single-shot, pump-action models.

Fanfani Refuses to Stay

ROME (AP)—Amintore Fanfani rejected today a request shy Premier ... that he withdraw his resignation as foreign minister.

Fanfani submitted his resignation Tuesday in a dramatic move in which he repudiated any connection with anti-American remarks reported made by his friend, Giorgio La Pira.

In the resignation, Fanfani also denied any part in what he called the "imprudent initiative" of his wife in giving a party at his home during which La Pira, controversial former mayor of Florence, was reported to have made his statements.

Moro asked Fanfani to stay on after the foreign minister resigned Tuesday because the publication of remarks critical of U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk led Moro to think Fanfani's friend and Giorgio La Pira made at a party given by the foreign minister's wife.

Fanfani recently reported to Rusk on a conversation between La Pira and President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam which La Pira said contained a peace feeler. North Viet Nam later denied it, but La Pira stuck to his version.

Bicycling Diplomats In Zambia Facing 3 Months' Pedalling

LUSAKA (AP) — As Canada and the United States step up efforts to aid landlocked Zambia following the gasoline supply shutoff by the illegal Rhodesian government, stringent measures are being taken to ease the demand on oil stocks.

Government ministers are using smaller cars, diplomats have bought bicycles and many workers have cut out trips home for lunch.

Gasoline rationing, which currently limits motorists to one gallon a week, is expected to end within the next three months.

Meanwhile the government is appealing for further economies. Zambia's watchword has become "is your journey really necessary?"

The situation is not helped by the temperamental telephone system, now being further overworked as the public tries to do business without personal contact. Most people are prepared to wait for nearly thirty minutes for local calls rather than use up gasoline.

Emergency measures have ensured sufficient supplies for most industrial users.

British BAF Britannia transports are bringing in more than 1,000 gallons a day, despite Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere's demand that military personnel at the Dar Es Salaam end of "the flying pipeline" be replaced by civilians. RAF personnel are operating in civilian clothes.

Nyerere's demand follows the breaking off by Tanzania of diplomatic relations with Britain in protest against "the failure" of British Prime Minister Wilson to overthrow Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian regime by force.

Within the next fortnight, 44,000 gallons daily are expected to be on the road route from Tanzania. More than 150 trucks are engaged on the 1,000-mile haul from the Tanzanian railhead.

The first of four Canadian Hercules will begin flying fuel to Lusaka Thursday. The RCAF C-130 Hercules transport arrived in Leopoldville Tuesday night.

Three other RCAF C-130s are due in Leopoldville by Jan. 2.

U.S. planes also are expected to fly fuel supplies on the Leopoldville-to-Lusaka route.

The Canadian planes will bring the total daily fuel lift—without U.S. aid—to about 76,000 gallons. This is just over half Zambia's needs.

Other routes also are being pulled into use: along Lake Tanganyika to the Zambian port of Mpulungu and by railway from the Portuguese Angolan port of Lobito. But these take time to organize.

Russia Sends Top Trouble-shooter To Hanoi; U.S. Hopes For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington hopes the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets will produce a peace bid from Hanoi, but U.S. diplomatic sources said today they know of no response yet.

At the same time, as the bombing suspension neared the five-day mark, the Washington informants tended to rate the announced trip of a high-ranging Russian to Hanoi as having little immediate bearing on the fighting.

Rather, they speculated that Viet Communist Party Leader Alexander Shelepin's forthcoming visit to North Viet Nam, announced by Moscow late Tuesday, the Soviets are making a further bid for leadership in the face of their rivalry with Peking.

Of greater interest now was what reaction might come from the Communists to the halt in U.S.-South Vietnamese bombing of targets in the North which began with the Christmas truce.

U.S. informants denied that Moscow had been promised no resumption of bombings while Shelepin is in Hanoi.

A Johnson administration source said that when it comes to peace feelers, Washington has made all the initiatives for a settlement of the Viet Nam conflict while Hanoi has offered nothing but a four - point program calling for a Communist takeover of the South.

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Shelepin, a top level Soviet troubleshooter, will visit North Viet Nam the official news agency Tass announced Tuesday night.

The scheduled trip of the Soviet Communist party's No. 2 leader comes as Moscow and Peking are fighting to influence the Communist regime in Hanoi with peace prospects possibly in the balance.

The brief announcement said Shelepin, 47-year-old former head of the Soviet secret police, will lead a delegation to Hanoi shortly.

The Chinese have been urging Hanoi to take a tough line, demanding the ouster of Americans from all of Viet Nam. Public statements here have indicated the Soviets would prefer a softer line that could lead to an end of the Vietnamese conflict.

FEUD WITH CHINESE

Since last month the Chinese and Soviets have been publicly feuding over whether Moscow is sending enough military aid to Hanoi.

(The selection of Shelepin for such a mission could mean that the Russians are approaching Ho Chi Minh's Communist regime on a party-to-party basis in an effort to assert strong Soviet influence in Indochina in view of apparent Chinese efforts to shut the Russians out of South Asia.)

The announcement said the delegation would visit North Viet Nam at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Vietnamese Workers (Communist) party and the North Vietnamese government.

Shelepin, regarded by most observers in Moscow as second in the Soviet party to First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, was relieved of his duties as a first deputy premier recently so that he could concentrate all his energies on party affairs. He now no longer holds a government position.

The announcement by Tass gave no details about his visit.

Magazine Sends Man To Hanoi

NEW YORK (AP)—A self-appointed three-man mission to Hanoi bypassed the U.S. state department in hopes of getting first-hand information on the peace intentions of the North Viet Nam Communists, says a editor of the magazine which sponsored the trip.

"Quite frankly, government spokesmen are not candid," said John M. Dermott associate editor of Viet-Report, at a press conference Tuesday.

"It is our duty to get the news and we're going after it," he said.

Federal law provides penalties of up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine for some unauthorized trips to foreign countries.

Those who went, is Hanel, organist of North Viet Nam, of Staughton Lynd, 36, an associate history professor at Yale University; Herbert Aptheker, a Communist party veteran; and Thomas Hayden, 28, who has been active in student and civil rights groups.

McDermott said only Lynd represents the magazine on the trip, and added: "I really cannot comment on the other two, although we'll certainly be interested in their stories."

He said the principles were that a government of national reconciliation be established in South Viet Nam and that the process of eventual reunification of the severed nation be set in motion.

The Viet Cong, McDermott said, "has not demanded a monopoly of power in the south, but it has demanded that a new government take into account the fact that it will represent the actual balance of forces in South Viet Nam."

Black Watch to Hold Exercise in Norway

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1st Battalion, the Black Watch, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., will fly to northern Norway—above the Arctic circle—February 1 to participate in an exercise by the North Atlantic Alliance's airborne brigade.

Though the battalion comprises about one-fifth of the NATO brigade, this will be the first time it will have taken part in an exercise with the alliance formation in Europe.

Informants say the battalion, numbering between 900 and 1,000 men and its ancillary units such as signals, will be flown to Bardufoss, north of Narvik, in RCAF Yukon and Hercules transport planes. The exercise will last about a month into last March.

The NATO brigade is designed particularly to protect the alliance's flanks in Norway on the north and in Greece and Turkey on the southeast. Norway and Turkey are the only NATO countries which have a common frontier with Russia.

Countries represented in the brigade besides Canada are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands. Last summer units of the brigade held manoeuvres in Turkey.

Two RCAF planes carried 33 Canadian soldiers and equipment, mostly signals gear, to Bardufoss last winter for cold-weather test of NATO weapons. This was a preliminary test to the full-scale exercise which begins in February.

Informants said NATO might not have tested the mobility of its airborne brigade this winter in Norway near the Russian border if the Soviet Union had not been showing a more conciliatory attitude in international relations.

Authorities say Canada is prepared to make a bigger contribution in manpower and airlift to the mobile brigade if other NATO countries do.

Harriman On Mysterious Mission

WARSAW AP — W. Averell Harriman U.S. ambassador-at-large, arrived in Warsaw today on a mysterious mission.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronouski cut short a visit to the western Polish city of Poznan and left before dawn to meet Harriman. Shortly afterward, they went to the Polish foreign ministry.

Harriman was accompanied to Poland by two U. S. foreign service officers, Daniel Desa and Christopher Squires.

Desa is a Chinese language expert and has visited on Chinese affairs who regularly takes part in the Warsaw meeting between U. S. and Chinese Communist ambassadors. Squires is an expert on East European affairs.

Rebates Cannot Be Made

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue department officials are searching a way to allow rebates of employers on overpayment of their shares of Canada Pension Plan contributions.

But a spokesman for the department indicated Tuesday there isn't much hope of success in the search. Social security administration officials in the United States have been trying without success for 30 years to work out such procedures.

The problem arises with employees who move from job to job or work for more than one employer. Under law, employers must start Jan. 1 to deduct 1.8 per cent of employee income between $600 and $5,000, and to match the deductions with their own contributions to the Canada Pension Plan.

South Viet Nam Is Said Ready To Accept New Year's Truce

SAIGON (CP) — Truce talk pervaded the Vietnamese theatre of war tonight, but the United States underscored its commitment to South Viet Nam by airlifting another brigade of U.S. troops into the jungle conflict.

The moratorium in the U.S. air war against North Viet went into its sixth day, but the halt in the air attack still drew no public peace feeler from Hanoi.

The south Vietnamese government was reported ready to join the Viet Cong in proclaiming a ceasefire for the Vietnamese New Year next month. The United States entertained some doubts but was expected to concur in the truce.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong guerillas went on a widespread offensive early today, overrunning a district town and a military outpost and harassing South Vietnamese government positions in many parts of the country.

Neither Washington nor Saigon saw the Communist offer of a truce on Tet, the lunar New Year festival Jan. 20-23, as a significant breakthrough toward peace. In the long guerrilla war, a military lull during the national holiday has become an annual ritual.

Twenty - one Americans were killed in combat last week compared with 18 in the previous Sunday - to - Saturday reporting period, a U.S. spokesman announced there were 85 American wounded.

Government casualties were listed as 227 dead, 499 wounded and 104 either wounded or captured, while the Communist toll was given as 827 killed and 137 wounded or captured.

The U.S. airlift of some 4,000 jungle fighters from Hawaii to the central highlands increased the total American combat force in Viet Nam to nearly 185,000.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cloudy skies are expected over all of Ontario and light snow will continue in the North. The moderating temperature trend will also continue. Afternoon temperatures are expected to climb above freezing in many southern locations while in the North most stations will report readings in the 20s. A disturbance may move eastward and cause some intensification of the snowfall over Northern Ontario Thursday.

Govt. Accused of Bowing To 'Harness Race Interests'

More Realistic Approach Aim Of Labor Body

TORONTO (CP)—James H Allan, provincial treasurer, has denied that the dismissal of Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow as chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission was brought by pressure from harness racing interests.

Replying Tuesday night to a charge by Elmer Sopha, Liberal member of the legislature for Sudbury, Mr. Allan said there was no pressure from any source and the cabinet had been considering the move for some time.

Mr. Sopha said Tuesday protests applied pressure on the government to have the magistrate removed after 16 years as commission chairman.

Mr. Allan announced last Thursday that Magistrate Bigelow won't be renamed to the commission he has headed since it was formed following a 1950 race-fixing scandal.

Mr. Allan said new appointments will be considered as soon as the cabinet meets but "there won't be many changes" in the seven-member commission "although there will be a change in the chairmanship."

Magistrate Bigelow said Tuesday the dismissal came as a surprise.

"I won't tell what reason he's filed it," he said. "It's just one of those things. But it does seem rather strange."

Mr. Sopha said trotting promoters became disenchanted with Magistrate Bigelow because he wanted to apply the same standards to them that he brought to thoroughbred racing.

He said the commission has the majority of stewards assigned to supervise thoroughbred racing, and is able to enforce its will on them.

Mr. Sopha said trotting stewardship is appointed by the Canadian Trotting Association, one by The Jockey Club and one by the commission.

"That doesn't serve the public interest because those people have divided loyalties," Mr. Sopha said.

Wife's Visa Is Approved In Belgrade

The External Affairs Department is working speedily this week to arrive in Canada of Mrs. Jim Christos, so she can join her family in Belleville as soon as possible.

Mrs. Christos was detained in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, over visa difficulties last week, when the rest of her family left to join her husband here.

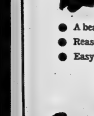
Mr. Christos had not seen his family since he left Yugoslavia in 1951.

Yesterday his wife's visa was approved in Belgrade clearing the way for her reunion.

Their case was taken up by Robert Temple, former Liberal MP for Hastings South who placed the matter before External Affairs officials.

"The department has cabled our embassy in Belgrade and we're trying to locate her and get her over here as fast as possible," Mr. Temple said today.

Awaiting her arrival with her husband in Belleville is her daughter, Mrs. Sophia Nestrovski, son-in-law Peko and the Nestrovski's five children.



Mr. Christos, who works at Pete's Lunch saved the money he earned from a previous concession and his restaurant work, to finance the family reunion.

MRS. FRANCES C. HODGE

TRENTON — On Thursday, Rev. James Anderson of St. George's Anglican Church conducted a service in the Rushnell Funeral Centre for Mrs. Frances Catherine Hodge of 20 Joseph Street, Trenton. Mrs. Hodge, 83, died at Trenton Memorial Hospital last Tuesday, following a year's illness.

Bearers were Carl Downs, Ronald MacDonald, Wm. Glaughlin, Carl Phillips, James Thompson and Gordon Thompson.

Interment was in Mount Evergreen Cemetery.

Born in Colborne, Mrs. Hodge was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick MacDonald. She had lived in Trenton for the past 40 years and was a member of St. George's congregation.

Mrs. Hodge is survived by her husband, Frank; a daughter, Mrs. Frank (Connie) Williams and two sons, Frederick and Frank Hodge, all of Trenton.

GERALD VALYEAR

TRENTON — On Tuesday, Rev. G. F. Sullivan celebrated Requiem Mass in Holy Angels' Church in Brighton for Gerald Valyear, 12, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Valyear, R.R. No. 4, Trenton. Vincent and in Kingston General Hospital on Dec. 24, following a three weeks' illness.

Bearers were Gary Baker, Robert Hutchinson, David Fraser, Frederick Hutchinson, Robert Vyse and Ronald Valyear. Interment was in Codrington Roman Catholic Cemetery and arrangements were under the direction of the Rushnell Funeral Centre.

Vincent was born in Trenton and had lived most of his life here, residing in Toronto for three years when he was younger. He attended York Public School and was a member of Holy Angels' Church at Brighton where he was an altar boy.

Surviving are his parents, his sister, Kathy and his brother, Victor.

MRS. ERNEST H. FINDALL

The funeral of Mrs. Doris Isabel Findall was held from the Gaetz Funeral Home to Christ Church for service on Tuesday afternoon. Canon R. B. O. Wright conducted the service and also the committal rites at Elmwood Cemetery.

The bearers were Robert Sherrer, Ross Thompson, Ted, Monty and Stephen Flindall and William Kelleher.

Following an illness of one week, Mrs. Doris Isabel Findall, R. R. 7, Belleville, died in the Kingston General Hospital on Saturday last. She was born in Belleville 42 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt and had been a resident of the district all of her life. She was highly respected in her community.

Mrs. Flindall was a member of Christ Church and is survived by her husband, Ernest H. Findall; two daughters, Mrs. William (Susan) Way of R. R. 3, Belleville, Shirley at home, 4 sons, Richard, Gerald, Tommy and Kevin at home; one grandchild, daughter, and one sister, Mrs. Harold (Helen) Tucker of Whitby.

Fire Destroys Landmark at W. Huntingdon

A well known residential landmark on the Foxboro-Madoc county road 16 miles north of Belleville at West Huntingdon was destroyed by fire early last evening following an explosion although to have originated in the kitchen.

Gordon Langstaff, 55, owner of the ornate two storey brick home, was asleep upstairs when he heard the explosion and was barely able to escape before the house was a mass of flames.

Nothing was saved from the home and Mr. Langstaff was forced to leave the burning house without his boots.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm but by the time the reels got on the scene the fire was completely out of control.

Mr. Langstaff, an employee of Northern Electric at Belleville, moved to West Huntingdon about five years ago. His wife died last June.

A small adopted boy has been living with Mr. Langstaff but the lad was fortunately staying with relatives at the time of the fire.

IT'S LONG HIKE

OTTAWA (CP) — Firemen took about 15 minutes to put out a blaze on top of the uncompleted 16-storey National Library building Tuesday. They had to walk all the way up. None of the three or four workmen on the roof was hurt after fire began in tar and tar paper. Two propane gas tanks blew up.

MARCH 31st COMPLETION DATE is expected for the new Belleville Public Utilities Sales warehouse and garage being built at the corner of College and Sidney streets by Eastwood Construction of Peterborough. Roof of the garage section is now being installed and the entire structure is expected to be enclosed ready for pouring of concrete floors by the middle of January.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDREWS — In cherished memory of Mary Ann Andrews (Minnie) Russell, who was called home December 29th, 1964. God bless you. God blessed the with a wonderful rest.
Sadly missed by Mother
For life is but the same to me,
For I have learned to live and part,
I've learned with patient effort,
To fight the battle bravely,
But cannot help the longing,
That comes to me each day,
To see you smile and speak kindly,
And everything goes wrong,
Never to hear your voice,
Cheer up and carry on.
Earth holds no other treasure,
You seem to smile and say,
Like those who've gone before you,
You must be brave and pray.
—Ever lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mother and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Special thanks to Dr. Wright, Dr. Curson and Dr. Lerby, members of Bridge St. United Church, Rev. Mr. Hespeler, Rev. Mr. Carruthers, U.C.W., Women's Association and Ladies' Aid Association. I deeply appreciate all the kindness and sympathy shown to me.
—Mrs. Charles Mills,
R.R. No. 1 Thurlow,
Belleville, Ont.

We would like to thank all our kind neighbors, friends and relatives for paying calls, sending flowers, gifts and helped in every way to make our golden anniversary such a memorable one.
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crook.

I would like to thank Dr. Gibson, Rev. Mary Hespeler, friends, relatives and nurses for their kindness, flowers and cards that I received when I was in Belleville General Hospital.—Lloyd Greaves.

Padre States Many People's Values Twisted

Sqdn. Ldr. E. Martin, Protestagi Padre of R.C.A.F. Station Trenton, told Kiwanians yesterday that the "most precious part of life is not what belongs to us, but what we belong to. What's inside us.

"It seems to me that in our society today, most people have their values twisted. They emphasize the wrong thing," said Sqdn. Ldr. Martin.

"We live in two worlds. Most Christian people are not aware of the fact that we belong to another world. An invisible world.

"There's the world around us we can see. The world of streets, or motor cars, of horses, of desks, of pulpits and chairs. The world of figures, measure, and weigh these things.

"But that's not the real world. There is a real world, and we as Christians dwell in it.

"Just because you can't see God with your eyes, or touch and shaking your hand, doesn't mean he isn't there. Ideas are unseen too. You can't handle them, but you don't doubt them.

GOD IS LOVE

"God is unseen, and besides, God is love. You can't see love or love? You have seen expressions of love, but love itself is unseen.

"Pilate asked, what is truth? We must all believe in truth. We all must have a faith in each other; if we did not believe each other, then life wouldn't be worth living. Yet truth can not be seen.

"The world within us is more important than the world about us.

"When you see people breaking down, throwing up their hands, it is the inner illusion that did it, not the outside life. If we subscribe to love, honor, goodness, and righteousness in our daily lives, then when we are tested they will not let us down.

"What happens to you is important," he said, "but not nearly as important as your picture. You seem to smile and say, 'Like those who've gone before you, you must be brave and pray.'

—Ever lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mother and Family.

Rivard Easily Tops Pearson For Newsiest Canadian Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lucien Rivard was an easy winner over Lester B. Pearson in the annual poll for the newsiest Canadian of the year.

The polite Montreal dope smuggler swept the board in voting for the country's top news-makers among news editors of Canadian Press member dailies and radio and TV stations served by Broadcast News, a CP subsidiary. He won in the category for those outside public affairs, and in the over-all class.

In addition, the activities of the 50-year-old Rivard — now serving a 20-year sentence in the United States for heroin smuggling—were voted the top Canadian story of the year.

Rivard's dramatic March 4 jailbreak in Montreal, his political entanglements and all the other trimmings of his amazing months in the public eye combined to catapult him from a 1964 nobody to the head of the list in front of Mr. Pearson and Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, who ran one-two last year.

Fourth place this year went to Quebec Premier Jean Lesage. There was no significant support for other Canadian individuals.

Among world figures, President Johnson of the United States led the list with Pope Paul second and third place going to Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia, who brought that country to independence.

In the voting for the newsiest Canadian outside public life, Il was Rivard all the way. He displaced Hal Banks, deported Canadian boss of the Seafarers' International Union who now is in the United States serving a fugitive from a five-year sentence for assault conspiracy in this country.

RATED NO VOTE

Banks did not rate any votes this year. Far behind Rivard were Pierre Berton, Toronto TV personality and writer, and impersonator Rich Little.

A scattering of single votes went to miscellaneous figures such as Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings' hockey star; Cyrus Eaton, Nova Scotia-born millionaire and crusader for international understanding; singer Robert Goulet; actor Lorne Green and writer Farley Mowat.

Mr. Pearson had led the overall poll for the previous two years, winning in 1963 after defeating Mr. Diefenbaker's government and staying as Man-in-the-News in 1964 largely because of his successful campaign for adoption of the new Canadian maple leaf flag.

This year, he failed for a second time to get a majority in a general election, the factor that may have allowed the headline - grabbing Rivard to stay out front after an early start. Mr. Diefenbaker's unexpectedly strong showing in the election was probably what gave him the narrow edge over Premier Lesage for the third spot.

Drama at Sea

Canada-bound From South Seas

By BARRY McCULLAGH

The ship was two days out of Tahiti, heading for Panama, when it received a signal from the Israeli freighter Tel Aviv that it had on board a seaman ill with appendicitis. He needed urgent medical attention.

Now we were speeding toward a dawn rendezvous with the freighter, 200 miles away. The doctor on board the 20,000-ton reefer ship was young, only 24, and it was his first voyage in a professional capacity.

Passengers lined the rails of the liner as the Tel Aviv came into sight and watched as the doctor and a sick bay attendant made their way to the freighter. There was a fairly heavy swell and the small boat took almost half an hour to cover the short gap between the two vessels.

The preliminary examination over, the seaman was brought aboard the larger vessel where a successful operation was performed. A few days later, the dark curly-haired young Israeli was well enough to attend a shipboard dance. It was the kind of incident one reads about, but never expect to see for oneself.

The delay meant cancellation of a scheduled visit to Panama City. There was time, however, for a quick round of the stores in the port of Cristobal, and a night club visit that evening before sailing at dawn the next day.

Strange, sinister - looking birds hovered over the surface of the water as we arrived at the entrance to the canal. Big black birds with swept-back wings they hovered around, as birds do when ships are in the vicinity.

The journey through the canal was made in perfect weather. Passengers looked out on lush terrain on both sides and scattered the clean, orderly aspects of the canal zone installations and the countryside amid what once had been material swamp land. Today, this is as clean and attractive a region as any in the world.

CRISTOBAL VISIT

Cristobal-bound passengers, already warned of the tight-fingered propensities of some of the citizens, walked in well conscious groups. They soon split up, however, as different stores caught the eye. There were no incidents, as it turned out, although one dark-haired young New Zealander was seen grunting toward the end of the day, apparently to catch up with her group.

Earlier, a group of Panamanian dancers had been invited to perform folk dances. These had none of the fiery dislike of the flamenco, but they were a gentle exposition of the grace of the Panamanian girl, to the four exquisitely-costumed young women.

The male members of the group, who also provided the musical accompaniment, were white cotton outfits like those seen in rural areas of Latin America. Their gay and rakish mien contrasted with the dignified bearing of the women.

Tired by their exertions, the group later flopped down in chairs in the lounge, while passengers circled around taking pictures. The women seemed shyly as people milled about and women passengers lingered the material of their costumes. The men however, joked and generally exposed themselves mock displeasure at the attentions of so many photographers.

CLASSIC BEAUTY

The women relaxed and joined in the laughter. Their beauty was classic in exotic patterns of blue, mauve, and pink and red and white. One of the girls, in blue, was a classic beauty. She had the looks and bearing of a daughter of some Spanish grandee. Another was of darker complexion indicating perhaps Indian blood.

For me the voyage was now drawing to a close. Although the vessel was bound for England, I would disembark at Bermuda. It had been one of those evenings which linger in the memory. I had seen the graceful dancers of Hawaii and New Zealand, heard the songs of the Maoris and the exciting rhythms of Tahiti. The folk dancers of Panama provided a fitting climax to this South Pacific odyssey.

Two days later the coast of Jamaica appeared on the horizon. It was a great mountainous hump rising from the floor of a blue ocean.

Jamaica seemed more commercialized than either Tahiti or Panama. Taxi drivers swarmed around while we docked, several miles from the centre of Kingston. For a mere sixpence, though I made the journey into town by bus. Later I heard a young couple arguing with a cab driver whom they accused of travelling further than they had desired.

At the Straw Market the persuasiveness of the native vendors resulted in many a sale. I watched some and listened as they deftly charmed many a passenger into making purchases.

"My name is David—you buy, come on quick sale, small price it. I do not steal—cost 25 shillings I ask 20 shillings. This is not a bargain, it is a profit."

Women passengers in particular found them difficult to resist. In another stall, a plump, jovial woman was saying: "Come on now honey, over here lady and buy something. Change my luck. How about a nice basket, a bag, some bongos, maraka? Now lady, I got four kids at home . . ."

A younger Jamaican girl, also skilled in the personal approach, was saying to another passenger: "Now Miss May, come back here, don't run away because for you I allow a special price . . ."

And so on.

In Kingston there were attractive little West Indian children dressed in their Sunday best, as it was indeed a Sunday. Still, there was an air of decay about the place and the smell of poverty even stronger, symbolized by starving dogs searching for scraps on sidewalks and alleys. They attested to some of the underlying problems of this fledgling nation in the Caribbean.

FLORIDA CALL

On to Fort Lauderdale, where a local service club supplied passengers with free Florida orange juice at the dockside. For some reason, the Florida variety was strangely quiet, business was slow in downtown stores and there was a listlessness about the place that was out of character with the impression Florida likes to give of club and other vacation centres.

Bermuda too was quiet following trouble earlier in the week when striking employees of the electric power utility had threatened to create a virtually Bermuda recovered quickly from these incidents, so out of clubs and other vacation centres.

Bermuda too was quiet following trouble earlier in the week when striking employees of the electric power utility had threatened to create a virtually Bermuda recovered quickly from these incidents, so out and prosperous island.

Bermuda sparkles. Hamilton, the capital, is a cosmopolitan community with beautiful stores on Front Street along the harbor front. I had always enjoyed a chance to leave three weeks of calm seas and tropical warmth and arrive on the desolate winter landscape that was New England and Quebec. But it was not to last long, for spring was just around the corner.

No Change in Soviet Policy Says Analyst

MOSCOW (AP)—A news analyst for the official Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday there will be no change in basic Soviet policy toward the West in 1966.

Analyst A. Sovetov characterized as "wishful thinking hopes for a radical reappraisal of the interpretation of peaceful coexistence by the Soviet Union."

Soviet leaders who took over from premier Nikita Khrushchev last year kept peaceful coexistence as the basis of their policy, but they have interpreted it to mean that relations with the United States had to freeze because of the Viet Nam war.

Sovetov, in an article for the January issue of the magazine International Affairs, summarized Monday by Tass, wrote: "The hopes for a possibility of peaceful coexistence with the Soviet Union are vain if the leaders of some imperialist power undertake aggressive steps against any other socialist country."

In Soviet terminology, the United States is an imperialist power and North Viet Nam is a socialist country.

Air Commodore G. G. Diamond "signs in" as Officer in Command of Air Transport Command, while his predecessor, A/C R. J. Lane looks on.

A/C Gerald G. Diamond Takes Over Command In Colorful Ceremony

TRENTON — In a colorful ceremony in Hangar 10 at RCAF Station Trenton yesterday, Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command for the past three years, relinquished his command to a former commanding officer of RCAF Station Trenton, Air Commodore Gerald G. Diamond.

Drawn up in the immense hangar to say farewell to their chief were the airmen and airwomen, who had served under Air Commodore R. J. Lane, who expressed his regrets that their relationship had drawn to a close. A/C Lane also expressed his deep regret at leaving his legion of friends in Trenton and the surrounding area. On hand to witness the handing over ceremony were Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South; Mayors Jack Ellis, James MacDonald and Harvey McFarland of Belleville, Trenton and Picton respectively and other area dignitaries. Also at the ceremony were Group Captain E. M. Butcher, Commanding Officer of RCAF Station Trenton and Group Captain C. R. Thompson, Commanding Officer of No. 6 Repair Depot.

"This is the first Christmas since I took over the command that all ATC aircraft were not at home base," said A/C Lane, "But it is appropriate that when the command changes, ATC is involved in another operation . . . and that's the way it should be."

Air Commodore Diamond paid tribute to the contribution A/C Lane had made to the command and said that he welcomed the opportunity to "come back home," and work with the members of the command.

MANITOBA NATIVE

Air Commodore Diamond was born May, 1915 at Gladstone, Man., and educated in Vancouver, B. C. He joined the RCAF Auxiliary in 1937, and the RCAF Regular in September, 1938.

He commanded the wartime RCAF Station at Annette, Alaska, from September 1942 to October 1943, when he was named Officer Commanding 12 Communications Squadron at Rockcliffe, Ont.

In July 1945 he left the squadron to join the operation staff of 9 Transport Group at Rockcliffe, which later became Air Transport Command. The following year he returned to Communications Squadron.

Air Commodore Diamond attended the RCAF Staff College in Toronto in 1947, was assigned to staff duties at Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa, and in 1948 he was chosen for exchange duties with the USAF. He returned to Canada in 1951 to be Senior Personnel Staff Officer at Materiel Command Headquarters, Ottawa.

In November 1951 he was appointed Director of Postings and Careers at AFHQ, and held that position until named Commanding Officer of RCAF Station Trenton, Ont., in August 1954.

Air Commodore Diamond was transferred to the 4th Allied Tactical Air Force Headquarters at Ramstein, Germany, in June 1957 and returned to Canada when appointed Chief of Personnel, Staff at AFHQ in July 1960.

During 1965, Air Commodore Diamond attended the Imperial Defence College, U.K.

LOBA Adopts Korean Boy

TRENTON — The members of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, Trenton lodge 604, received word this week that their plan to adopt an eight-year-old Korean boy, Sung Dong Wook, had been approved by the Christian Children's Fund for Canada.

The lodge ladies will contribute $10 a month towards the child's food, clothing and education. They will receive in return, news of the child and letters from him, which will be translated by authorities in Korea.

Sung Dong Wook is a grade one student and his favorite subject is sketching.

The lodge hopes to also adopt a little Korean girl in the near future.

While $10 a month seems little by our standards, in Korea, this money not only assists the child himself, but also helps out with the other members of the family. The child takes it upon himself in a great many cases to teach younger children at home, and after he receives his education, he quite often becomes the sole support of the family.

The address of the Christian Children's Fund of Canada is 1407 Yonge Street, Toronto.

NAMED BISHOP

OTTAWA (CP)—Rev. James Philip Mulvihill, 60, secretary of the Oblate fathers' commission on Indian and Eskimo affairs, has been named a bishop to succeed the late bishop J. L. Coudert as apostolic vicar of Whitehorse, Y.T.

Highway Deaths

Highway deaths continue — inevitably and like clockwork, defying the best-laid schemes of man to prevent them.

In Canada, 46 died in traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday weekend. Perhaps there is some consolation in the fact that this figure is considerably less than the 60 fatalities predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

In the United States, with a much greater number of population, no fewer that 717 died in traffic accidents. As a percentage of America's 200 million population, this might seem relatively slight. In terms of human and economic wastage it is otherwise. Looking at the problem another way, it is the equivalent of an air crash with 35 deaths every week for a period of five months.

Imagine the howl that would go up if commercial airplanes started falling out of the sky with such regularity.

The most urgent problem remaining for traffic enforcement authorities is to try or restrain the drivers who for one reason or another are likely to become statistics in future. For the truth of the matter is, there are countless drivers who have only a death wish. And that it is the kind of luck that sooner or later runs out.

On Highway 401 at the weekend car after car passed, travelling at speeds far in excess of what was safe having regard to the conditions. On the return journey, with the fringes of the highway still covered by patches of ice a bus hurtled past at high speed.

Truck and bus drivers seem to regard the size and weight of their vehicles as immunity against the worst of road conditions. Yet in yesterday's news was a report of a bus overturning on an icy highway in Oregon resulting in the death of 19 passengers and injuries to 26. The driver of the bus, of a type similar to those seen frequently on long-distance routes in this country, said he was driving at only 45 m.p.h when the bus began to skid without warning.

So long as cars are driven at excessive speed and without regard to conditions prevailing, and so long as drivers operate their vehicles while under the influence of alcohol (another major cause of accidents), so long will the highway fatality list mount.

Colonel Philip Wills

The death of Colonel Philip H. Wills has removed from the Quinte scene one of its best-known and respected citizens.

There was scarcely any phase of the life of Belleville and district that had not come under the firm and benign influence of "Phay" Wills.

As a young man he went to the Yukon, an experience that helped to inspire a business career which took him to various parts of Canada and overseas, and an interest in the outdoors and in young people.

Mr. Wills served with distinction in the first World War and was seriously wounded. During that period he was a company commander with the 21st Canadian Battalion. After the war he was closely identified with the militia, first with the Argyll Light Infantry Regiment, of which he was Honorary Colonel, and subsequently the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The Legion had Mr. Wills' active interest and support, and there is tangible recognition of this in the ex-servicewomen's branch named after him.

In a wide-ranging career, in which interest in his fellow man was his first thought, concern for the welfare of youth came naturally to Mr. Wills. He assisted the Sea Cadets of Belleville in many ways; and his interest and philantrophy were always practical, as when he provided the cadets with sailing boats.

Mr. Wills will be missed, but his work lives on after him.

Young Drug Addicts

The Yorkville district of Toronto is the haunt of long-haired young beatniks who have nowhere else to go and have a penchant for such decadent symbols of the beat generation as marijuana.

Smoking pot, as the saying goes, is "in" these days in places like Yorkville. So much so that a Toronto court was told recently that ten times as many charges involving marijuana have been laid in the city this year compared with last year.

Before Magistrate Peter Willch was a slim, neatly-dressed girl of 17 who pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana said to have been bought in the Yorkville district.

Yorkville may be an outlet for many of the young people of Toronto, but it cannot be described as a place where those of still tender years are subjected to wholesome influences.

Doubtless there is an element of "daring-do" among those who smoke marijuana out of sheer curiosity. It has been said that the drug is one people can take or leave. On the other hand, the fact that the 17-year-old girl in court was ordered to attend the Ontario Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation during a two-year probation period would suggest otherwise.

Pearson's Honeymoon With National Press Now Over

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — As honeymoons usually do with all but the luckiest people, Prime Minister Pearson's with the national Press has come to an end.

As those love affairs go, it was a warm one.

And it lasted an unusually long time, going on three years.

The reporters, press, radio and television, who from the outset treated the Prime Minister as a human being and not as a god, have now changed much.

They regarded him all along as the prime source of national news, found him always courteous, pleasant, usually co-operative and, surprisingly often, even helpful. It was that way for them back when he came to power in the Spring of 1963, and nothing really has changed.

But those who kept their heads — and hearts — and words were not overcome by the Prime Minister's uncommonly high-powered charm, were few.

In the main, they were those who had known him back through the years as Liberal Opposition Leader, as External Affairs Minister in Prime Minister St. Laurent's Government, and as the departmental deputy running the Canadian foreign service through much of Prime Minister King's regime. Perhaps old - fashioned, they spoke of and to him quite properly as Mr. Pearson.

And so they have no reason NOW to weep.

The heart-break has come for the many who swept off their feet by his talent for captivation all but deified him.

They knew him, some intimately, all affectionately as Mike.

They would do almost anything for him and often did.

When he was Liberal Opposition Leader they compared him to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and thought they saw, by contrast, what they regarded as the sheer wonder of him.

But somehow they forgot that Diefenbaker, too, once enjoyed a honeymoon with the same national Press.

Then, under the punishing lash of ministerial responsibility he had become "Mr. Mike," standing in the way of "the heir" "Mr. Wonderful."

And so, during the Conservative Cabinet crisis, when John Diefenbaker was being toppled as much, or perhaps more by the party's own palace revolutionaries as by the Opposition, some of them set up the cry: "To work, men! We have a government to destroy," as they turned to their typewriters.

Dief came to fear, dislike and finally despise them.

Now the full circle seems to have been turned.

And mellowed, Dief has become something of a lovable old curmudgeon, at least a "character," usually regarded as admirable.

And look what the Prime Minister has done.

Banned the newsmen from the East Block corridors when Cabinet's at work.

Not Mike, they cry, almost unbelievingly, and charge him with bobbing the freedom of the press.

TOUGH OLD WILLY

This, of course, is nonsense.

For the Prime Minister has been making himself available for questioning at press conferences after Cabinet.

That way, you get to hear what is said, understand it, ask for clarification if necessary, and have time and space to make legible notes.

The East Block corridor scrimmages began with former Prime Minister St. Laurent. He didn't like them, either, but was not tough enough to call a halt.

Mackenzie King was, he ordered them ended, and that was that.

Dief as Prime Minister at first enjoyed them, quickly found them troublesome and often trouble-causing, but able, in his blunt Prairie lawyer fashion, to more than hold his own, trade relentlessly shot with them.

To Prime Minister Pearson, they were an irritation, uncomfortable and embarrassing.

To the pushing and shoving and shouting, amid the crush of reporters, cameramen and the tangle of television cables, he could see, and sometimes was, misunderstood.

The corridor was blue with smoke and the floor a filth of cigarette butts.

The end came for him when he found himself in what he barked, his temper for once showing through, was "a football game."

So the corridor was closed, with the RCMP East Block guards instructed to keep it that way, and the question-and-answer post-Cabinet sessions with the Prime Minister switched from the noisy, dirty, overcrowded hall to a quiet, orderly, wired - for - sound conference room.

As a reportorial hand who must have wasted thousands of hours standing and waiting in that corridor, morning after morning, week through month down nearly 30 years, this correspondent dislikes it is great. And a plus, not a minus in press freedom.

Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury, was murdered in his own cathedral 795 years ago today—in 1170—by supporters of King Henry II. The son of a London merchant, Thomas became chancellor (prime minister) of England at 37, the first Englishman to occupy the post since the Norman Conquest. He proved an excellent politician and lived in splendor rivalling the king's. However, when appointed archbishop in 1162, he changed sides and used his personal popularity to defend the church's position against the king's. It is generally believed this murder was prompted by Henry's wild cry: "Who will rid me of this turbulent priest?"

Art Exhibit For Children

Montreal Gazette

At a time when Canada needs advancement in both the sciences and the arts there is something very timely about organized exhibitions, such as that which has just been held in the Mon Mart Building in Chomedey. This must have been one of the biggest exhibits of this kind ever held in the Montreal area. More than 1,000 students in and around Laval took part.

It is important that a child should, early in life, gain an impression of some of the things that is useful, understand it, and some of the fields where achievement is needed.

Nothing is so helpful to be done in the sciences and arts in Canada in the years ahead. An awareness of early significance in the scheme of things cannot be brought to a child too early. Three fascinating exhibits, the student participation in them, the scale and diversity, give one of the worth-while things the prestige and interest that they deserve.

Poor Timing

Oshawa Times

Five o'clock on a Friday afternoon is hardly the hour an experienced showman, would choose to stage a "really big show".

Yet it was the hour selected by the federal government and television stations to present the Canadian cabinet - appointment show. The event was billed as a first — the first time a prime minister announced his cabinet changes in a live television broadcast.

Under the circumstances there were probably correspondents of a greater number of people involved in producing the program on Parliament Hill than there were viewers crowded expectantly around their sets at home.

Stuttering Is Result Of Tensions in Child

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our granddaughter has a stuttering problem that started when she was four. It is becoming worse. Now she is eight and self-conscious about it, and I am afraid it will affect her schoolwork. She gets very good marks now. — Mrs. M. I. D.

* * *

About one child in 200 stutters — and for every girl who stutters, there are four boys. Why? We don't know. Many girls get over it, so that among adults the ratio is about 300 stutterers to one woman. Why? Again, we don't know.

Some sort of psychological stress is important in stuttering — it is psychological rather than physical. Most stutterers can stop easily. Most stuttering children talk to their dolls or toys or dogs, (or talk to themselves) without stuttering.

What does it mean? That the stutter is emotional! When a child is completely at ease, he doesn't stutter. But when he becomes tense and nervous, the stutter starts.

The more he stutters, the more tense he becomes and the more tense he is, the more he stutters. Sometimes this tenseness occurs in a naturally left-handed child who is forced to write right-handed. Or a child who is teased, scolded, frightened, pushed too hard, I feel sure that other cases come from tensions which are not that obvious.

Perhaps a child detects, but cannot describe, family friction. Or worried parents. Or the child is unduly sensitive to some small thing which seems very important to him, yet we don't recognize.

* * *

The best means of combatting stuttering, at the present stage of our understanding, is to help the child feel at ease. The more pressure we put on him to "stop stuttering," the harder it is to stop. Yet the same child, trying to do his best in some other endeavor such as running, drawing pictures, doing arithmetic, or anything he feels confident that he can do, may become so interested in what he is doing that he "forgets" to stutter.

It is important to establish self-confidence in a child. Don't insist that he "has to be best" at something. Just encourage him to know that he is as good as should be expected of him, in his various activities, and he'll gradually take it for granted that he can talk, too.

Most rehabilitation institutes or centres have speech therapists. Child guidance centres can help substantially — but don't expect results in a hurry. It takes time to figure out what subtle pressures weigh heavily on a child, and it takes tact and time to remove these pressures.

Remember this: Stuttering appears to be just one form of nervous tic or trait. Some tense children develop an eye twitch. Others are perpetually restless. Still others express tension by being arrogantly naughty, by being "too good to be true," by being obstreperously noisy, or in other ways.

Don't try to force a child to "stop stuttering." He doesn't enjoy stuttering. Just help him, quietly, to realize that he can do things. Don't make him nervous, because he can't.

And keep in mind that most stutterers are intelligent, sensitive children. The stutterer too often is the child who, for any of countless reasons, is "trying too hard".

Excess Vitamin is readily excreted. A little each day will neither create an overabund. ance nor hurt.

Strictly Personal

A Musician—But No Golfer

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Attending a concert the other night, or my first in a year or so, about the late Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in its "golden" era.

He used to spend his summers in Northern Wisconsin, and one year he decided to take up golf during his vacation. At the local golf course, he hired the club professional to teach him the basic elements of stroking the ball.

After a few singularly unfruitful lessons, Stock turned on the pro and demanded: "Tell me exactly what's wrong with my game — don't hold my arms right, or my feet incorrectly, or is my body badly balanced?"

The pro flushed and shrugged and muttered — and finally blurted out: "I'll tell you the truth, Dr. Stock — you just don't have any rhythm!"

I laughed when I first heard the story, many years ago; but the more I reflect on it, I begin reflecting on the moral beneath the humor. It was probably perfectly true that this superb conductor lacked the necessary "rhythm" for a good golf stroke.

Unfortunately for the human race, language developed before logic, and so we find ourselves using the same word to mean many different things, or different aspects of the same thing.

The "rhythm" of a symphony conductor is not the "rhythm" of an athlete, although we have no separate word to identify them, right, or my flair correctly, or is my body badly balanced?"

Even in dancing, which I think rhythm seems to be everything there are different times of rhythmic responses that seem almost incompatible.

It is a widely-known fact that a professional solo dancer of ballet or modern interpretation does not usually make a good partner for ordinary ballroom dancing. And a great singer of operas or oratorios usually does not have the right rhythm or "feel" for singing popular ballads.

To take a more important example, we speak of a person having "common sense", as if this covers a multitude of sins and omissions in life. But common sense in one area does not necessarily imply common sense in another. The ordinary man with common sense is competent in facing ordinary situations as they arise in extraordinary situation, and he cannot cope with it.

It is a false perversion of democracy to assume that "common sense" alone can solve our complex social problems, any more than Dr. Stock's sense of "rhythm" could turn him into a proficient golfer. It is worth remembering that the most decorous of men, the great Houdini, was not allowed by his wife to dry dishes after dinner — because he was "clumsy" and let too many fall from his hands.

Pilots Seek Pay Increase

Ottawa Journal

Air Canada pilots are asking for an increase in pay, with a claim that rates run about a third below those in the United States.

Admitted that a pilot has an extraordinary load of responsibility, that he must have skills and experience and dedication to his job, the pay doesn't look bad to the man earthbound.

A co - senior captain of a large jet, according to the pilots' submission in seeking a raise, can earn $27,075 a year. That's below the amount paid by six large U.S. airlines. This puts the senior captain in the $25,000 a year class along with the more prosperous Canadian architects, engineers, doctors and lawyers.

Health Services

Ottawa Citizen

At the provincial level, a need has long existed to coordinate all health activities under one agency. The Ontario Hospital Services Commission would seem to be the logical organization to serve as the parent body. The Ontario government's haphazard approach to the problem of providing adequate health and welfare services has brought some unwelcome results in recent years. Many hospitals are short-staffed because of a lack of nurses.

A farmer in the Hamiota district reports that his Clydesdale horse is one of the casualties of the current hunting season. Clydesdales are those king-size horses that in the days of the sodbuster broke ploughs through newly-cleared land, and in later years supplied motive power to brewery wagons.

How anyone could mistake a Clydesdale for a moose or any other antlered creatures is beyond understanding. There is justifiable suspicion that the Clydesdale was shot because it looked like an interesting target to allwit gunners.

U.S. Officials Refuse to Discuss Pause in North Viet Nam Bombing

By ARCH McKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—A deliberate United States decision is represented by the pause in bombing North Viet Nam, observers here agree after four days.

But the reason is hidden by official refusal to discuss the pause.

How long the pause will last is not known, but it is assumed it will be longer than the five-day cessation last May, which critics said was too short to gain diplomatic results.

The B-52 bombing raids on the south from Guam also have been halted.

The U.S., it is felt, has cranked up its antenna for another effort to detect from North Viet Nam any sign that the bombing pause advocated by many voices at home and abroad will create a more encouraging climate for negotiations.

Another theory is that the pause primarily is a political gesture designed more to convince critics the U.S. sincerely is searching for peace than with any real hope of success.

United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldberg said recently the U.S. has a credibility problem in this regard.

Probably the U.S. has both objectives in mind.

As for the refusal of high officials to discuss the pause, analysts say this is understandable if it had been officially announced, North Viet Nam could interpret the pause as a negotiate - or - else challenge rather than a concession.

The U.S. already received a negative response last May after the five-day pause which followed suggestions from Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, UN Secretary-General U Thant, and a number of U.S. figures.

International pressure for another cessation in the bombing rose again with the arrival of Christmas and included Thant as well as Pope Paul.

Some have suggested the only alternative is a final commitment to the long-term build-up for which both sides have been preparing all year.

EVENING TRUCE

In any event, the U.S. at the last moment decided to extend the 30-hour truce at Christmas to permit the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam, but the Viet Cong apparently ignored the gesture.

They also have announced the usual battle lull for the lunar new year, important in Asia, and specifying only that they won't fire at South Vietnamese troops in the three-day period Jan. 20-23.

This indicates to some observers the Viet Cong, unlike the U.S., are much less concerned about a good image outside North Viet Nam than they are about making a psychological impact on their southern adversaries and the people.

Pessimists who see little chance of anything developing from the current situation argue that nobody — the north, the south, the Viet Cong or the U.S. — is prepared for peace at this stage.

They say the Viet Cong still are too strong in more than half the south and the South Vietnamese government too weak to let the U.S. entertain hopes that it could negotiate and still get what it wants in the south.

Humphrey Asks Japan to Aid S. Viet Nam

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey asked Prime minister Eisaku Sato today for the help of Japan "or any other government" to achieve peace in Viet Nam.

If Japan could achieve this, all humanity would appreciate its efforts, Humphrey told the Japanese premier in a 1½-hour conference winding up his 18-hour visit to Japan.

American embassy spokesman J. Owen Zerbelien Jr. said Humphrey told Sato of American efforts in the last few months to bring the war to the conference table.

The vice-president said the U.S. desire for peace and for peace negotiations were not signs of American weakness but rather an indication of American strength.

BACKS U.S. EFFORT

The Japanese government supports the American effort in Viet Nam nominally, but many intellectuals and politicians, most newspapers and other quarters have been critical of the U.S. action.

Humphrey did not ask Japan for military help, which the Japanese constitution bars, but urged Japan to give economic and medical aid to refugees in Viet Nam. He said their situation is urgent and there was need for quick action.

Humphrey gave Sato a document outlining 190 separate conversations which it said U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk had held with diplomats and other persons in an effort to affect a peace conference. It also enumerated 14 other actions Rusk took in what he described as "the pursuit of peace."

Humphrey, on his first important overseas trip since becoming vice-president, stopped off here for talks en route to the inauguration in Manila of Philippine President-elect Ferdinand Marcos.

November Railroad Revenue Is Improved

MONTREAL — Railway operating revenues of Canadian National Railways for the month of November 1965 amounted to $70,110,000. Expenses, taxes and rents totalled $68,896,000 and the net railway operating income for the month was $1,214,000.

In November 1964, the railway operating revenues were $63,748,000; expenses, taxes and rents were $64,540,000 and the net railway operating loss was $801,000.

These figures do not include any provision for fixed charges.

Astronaut Will Take Stroll Around World

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—When Gemini 9 astronaut Charles Bassett takes a 90-minute stroll around the world next year, he will basically be a self-sustaining satellite—getting his propulsion power and oxygen from a back pack.

The air force and LTV Aerospace Corp. said Tuesday they have worked out steps necessary to don the 200-pound pack while outside a spaceship and ensure that it is working properly.

Bassett, who will make a two-day flight with Command Pilot Elliot M. See Jr. probably in mid-1966, will be the first astronaut to venture outside a spacecraft in orbit without a space gun for propulsion.

The air force-developed pack has a small rocket system of its own to manoeuvre the astronaut through space.

Space agency officials have said the Gemini compartment, the back pack will be carried into space in the adapter section at the rear of both Gemini 8 and 9.

The astronaut will be connected to the spacecraft during his space walk by a rope-like tether line.

Family Role Deteriorating Says Member

KINGSTON (CP)—The chairman of the Ontario legislature's committee on youth said Tuesday the influence of family and church on teen-agers has deteriorated.

Syl Apps, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston, said parents "just don't understand what is happening . . . they never had to face some issues confronting today's teen-agers."

The former Toronto National Hockey League star was speaking at a general caucus of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament during its week - long session here.

Mr. Apps said his opinion was based on 600 briefs submitted to his committee since its formation 19 months ago.

WANTS OPEN CHURCHES

Another speaker, Rev. Philip Karpetz of Alderwood Baptist Church in Toronto, said churches should be opened as drop-in centres for youth.

"We've got churches that are empty from Sunday to Sunday, many of them large, handsome edifices that could play a more vital role in the community's life with emphasis on youth," he said.

In other parliamentary business, Premier Tom Owen, 21, of Brantford, and his party, proposed a public subscription to raise $9,500 to cover parliamentary expenses and set up an education fund.

The parliament, sponsored by the Ontario Council of Christian Education, is comprised of youths from throughout the province.

Marsh Hill School Bell Is Stolen

Marsh Hill school at Chatterton, west of Foxboro, will have a silent re-opening after the Christmas holidays.

Today, the school bell was discovered missing.

The bell, a relic of the old country schoolhouse, replaced two years ago by the present building, was hanging over the front entrance when stolen.

Provincial police from Belleville are seeking its whereabouts in time, if possible, for the new year's term.

Eaton's 'Pugwash' Conference Meets in Ethiopian Capital

ADDIS ABABA (Reuters) — The 15th Pugwash conference of international scientists and thinkers was set to meet in this Ethiopian city today to study new science in aid of developing countries, but with Viet Nam and other issues certain to be injected into the agenda.

Emperor Haile Selassie will address the opening session of the Africa Hall, slated to be attended by 90 scientists from 32 countries.

This is the first time the conference, started in 1955 at Pugwash, N.S., by Canadian-born U.S. industrialist Cyrus Eaton, has met in Africa.

Among the influential scientists and thinkers whom Eaton, now 82, invited to his home to discuss problems in a country setting were physicist Albert Einstein and British philosopher Bertrand Russell. Since then the gatherings have been held in widely separated parts of the world.

AREN'T ON AGENDA

Viet Nam and Rhodesia were not on the agenda of the 15th conference, but Prof. Mikhail Millionshchikov, vice - president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said Tuesday these questions "must" be discussed

Conference sources said they were expected to be brought up first in a working group on world security. This group also was likely to discuss non-dissemination of nuclear weapons.

"Our conference cannot bypass so important a question in terms of world security as the Vietnamese problem or Rhodesia," Millionshchikov said.

"Our conference also cannot help discussing the important question of U.S. aggression against North Viet Nam. Although we are here as individuals—and not as government representatives—we must pay attention to public feeling in our countries."

U.S. delegate Prof. Bernard T. Feld said although the scientists came as individuals they were not chosen at random and were influential in their own government circles.

"The Pugwash conference helps to keep open very important channels of discussion and communication among scientists of different countries on subjects of vital importance in intellectual and policy-making spheres," Feld said.

The conference will last six days and all sessions will be private.

Tommy Munns Leaving Globe For Retirement

TORONTO (CP) — W. T. (Tommy) Munns, executive editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, retires at the year-end after 45 years of newspaper work. At 61, he plans to "take it easy for a while."

Mr. Munns joined The Globe in 1920, was its sports editor when it became The Globe and Mail in 1936 and continued as sports editor to the end of 1938. He was named city editor in 1951, managing editor in 1951 and executive editor in 1958.

He has represented The Globe and Mail in the membership of The Canadian Press since 1951 and has been a director since 1962.

Successful Living

To Love Life, People Is to Have Charm

DEAR DORIS: What makes people consider a person "charming!" Is the "Charm School" the thing? — TRYING BUT?

DEAR TRYING: Charm is an elusive, georgeous quality which comes of a warm, outgoing personality. It has hardly any thing to do with looks; but the good manners and grooming learned from mother or a charm school help in acquiring poise.

If knowing "how things are done" become second nature, a person is then free to concentrate on the other fellow.

DORIS CLARK

Sometimes charm means skill in drawing him out in conversation; sometimes how most charm is quiet understanding and the ability to listen.

A charming person loves life and people; never indulges in backbiting. Is ready with a welcoming smile when people come to her. And if she has a true, deep, inward charm, her particular world will beat a path to her door.

DEAR DORIS: My husband is a witty person, and can cause a laugh any time, anywhere. I guess this is a good quality and may be fun at a party, but as far as I'm concerned it wears mighty thin when you have to live with it. I am not a lazy person and surely did my share of the work on the farm, but it was, and is, my husband's liking for wisecracks and smutty stories that has finally broken me down.

Oh, I'll admit I haven't the kind of sense of humor he has, but we can't all be hilarious. I know now I should have married a serious thinking person who wasn't always cracking wisecracks, and who would have treated me with the respect I think any decent woman deserves. Nothing is sacred to him!

He shows no consideration of me, even when I am sick. He would rather kid me, or say nothing. — DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: You just aren't operating on the same wave length! The wonder is, how you ever got together in the first place.

Some people cannot express their deep feelings, and they cover up by cracking wise; then they get so they try to live right on that level. But has it occurred to you that you have never really given him a true picture of how you feel?

I'd urge the importance of unloading, to someone, before the inevitable explosion takes place.

(Are you in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your special occasion? Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her reply.)

Anne Ford Married to Stock Broker

NEW YORK (AP) — A big year for Ford family weddings came to a close Tuesday with the marriage of Anne Ford to stock broker Giancarlo Uzielli of New York.

The 22-year-old daughter of Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of the Ford Motor Co., was married in a civil ceremony at the Fifth Avenue apartment of her mother, Mrs. Anne McDonnell Ford.

The bride was given away by her father. Reporters were not permitted to witness the ceremony and the family declined to name the bride's attendants or the groom's best man.

Ford himself was married for the second time Feb. 20 to Italian divorcee Mrs. Maria Christiana Vettore Austin. She attended Tuesday's wedding.

Anne's older sister, Charlotte, missed the wedding. She is honeymooning in Switzerland after marrying shipping magnate Stavros Spyros Niarchos in a surprise ceremony in Juarez, Mexico, Dec. 16.

WORE GABARDINE

The bride, judged one of the United States' 10-best-dressed-women this year, wore a short dress of white silk gabardine.

The groom, wearing a dark gray business suit, posed for pictures with his bride after the wedding.

Uzielli grinned broadly throughout the picture-taking, but his new wife appeared nervous.

After the pictures the couple returned to the apartment for the wedding reception for about 100 guests.

Their honeymoon destination was a well-kept family secret, but two Ford station wagons waiting for them outside the apartment building were piled high with luggage, suggesting a long trip.

They will live in Uzielli's apartment.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

QUINTE W. I.

2nd THURLOW — The Christmas meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday afternoon when 35 members and a number of visitors were present.

Mrs. Charles Wood, the president was in charge and opened the meeting in the usual manner. She called on the conveners for a Christmas program, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell and Mrs. Jim Garbutt who took over.

Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. Jack Parrott at the piano. Mrs. Garbutt was in charge of the afternoon's entertainment and extended a welcome to all. She also thanked the lunch committee, Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, Mrs. W. D. Robertson and Mrs. Eric Leeming. Mrs. Harry Murphy gave the motto which dealt with the Christmas season. Mr. H. Insley sang an appropriate selection, accompanied by Mrs. Parrott.

Mrs. J. A. Dilts, wife of a former pastor of Holloway St. United Church, and now a resident of Belleville, was introduced by Mrs. Arnold Mitchell. She related the Christmas Story and dealt with the life of Christ from the birth in the crucifixion and resurrection. Mrs. Insley favored with another solo.

The president conducted the business portion of the meeting at which time the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Aikins, read the minutes and a number of thank-you notes. A report was read re theh Homemaking Club Girls from the county of Hastings; also a letter dealing with the convention to be held at Club Canara on February 22.

Lunch was served and a social time was enjoyed.

Nurses Will Test Right To Bargain Collectively

TORONTO (CP)—Two tests of the right of nurses in Ontario to bargain collectively are imminent: One in Ontario County another in Windsor. Both will deal with basic issues.

Officials of the 24,000-member Registered Nurses Association of Ontario said at a press conference Tuesday the fee groups of nurses who have tried to get certification under the Labor Relations Act as bargaining units have met stiff opposition. They said the two tests may be crucial.

In Ontario County, public health nurses have organized and asked for certification. Their hearing is set for Dec. 30. There is special interest in their case because the county is the riding of Health Minister Matthew Dymond who has said he supports the nurses' request for collective bargaining rights, RNAO officials said.

In Halton County, public health nurses were denied certification in August when the Halton County board of health passed a bylaw invoking Sec. 89 of the Labor Relations Act under which any municipality may deny employees benefits under the act.

SOUGHT STATUS

Laura Barr, RNAO executive secretary, said Halton County nurses then asked for voluntary recognition and were refused. She said the RNAO is waiting to see whether Ontario County will also invoke Sec. 89.

In Windsor's Riverview Hospital the issue is who should be included in a bargaining unit: Full-time staff nurses only or staff nurses plus part-time nurses and assistant head nurses, head nurses and supervisors.

The RNAO official position is that nurses are nurses first and supervisors second and that seniority should not keep them out of the bargaining unit.

At present all 49 of the Riverview nurses except the director and two assistant directors are in the unit asking for certification. At a hearing Jan. 11, the eligibility of senior and part-time nurses will be discussed.

WANT LEGISLATION

Miss Barr said the RNAO asked the Ontario government last February for special legislation covering collective bargaining for nurses. The association wants all nurses covered, regardless of their position. At present its membership includes about half Ontario's 47,000 registered nurses.

Miss Barr said the RNAO met with government representatives in August and were told the question of labor legislation for professional people is being considered. She said they are hoping for another meeting soon to find out when they might get action.

In the meantime, they are encouraging and advising autonomous local groups to organize. Even if they get favorable legislation, she explained, local groups will bargain with individual employers.

While public health nurses in Halton, Ontario and Peel Counties and Fort William have begun to organize, no group has yet been certified as a bargaining unit. Public health nurses number about 2,000 in Ontario.

The number of Canadian women directly involved in farming went from 1.7 per cent to 11.7 per cent between 1941 and 1961.

Research Unit For Newborn To Be Added

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The causes of disease in newborn and premature babies will be studied at a newborn treatment and research unit being added to the Kingston General hospital.

Body fluids, acitrity, respiration and heart beats will be measured with special equipment capable of dealing with infants who may weigh as little as two to five pounds.

A specialist in the field, Dr. R. Wesley Boston will head the unit, working with obstetric, psychology and pediatric departments from Kgill, Queen's University and Angada Children's Hospital.

A technician working with the Queen's study on the behavior patterns of the newborn has developed a device to help measure activities. It can be built into the mattresses of the bassinets with controlled temperature and humidity in which the children are kept.

It creates an electromagnetic field around an infant which makes it possible to record his activities without disturbing him.

LEFT MONEY TO COLLEGE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gikdys C. Schwensinger, a psychologist who graduated from the University of British Columbia 50 years ago, left the institution $117,775 when she died in 1964. She also bequeathed $20,000 to the city of Vancouver to be used in tracing and recording local history.

Ann Landers

College Student Says Mail From Home Dull

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every college student away from home will thank you if you print this letter.

Mail is very important to us, and we know it is important to our parents, too. But what do they write about?

ANN LANDERS

Here is a sample of a letter I received yesterday: "Aunt Edna had a pain in her side last night. She thought it was appendicitis but it passed over. Uncle Gordie brought us six dozen fresh eggs from his farm this morning. The eggs he brings us are very small and rather brownish in color. I like the white eggs best but he never brings us those. The bulb in the street light by our house burned out. I wonder how long it will take the city to notice it."

This is news! We appreciate any support you can give us.—TIRED OF READING NOTHING.

DEAR NOTHING: So what do you want? The inside word from the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House?

A letter from home lets you know your folks are thinking about you. If your mother happens to be a Willa Cather, you're lucky, but most mothers are just ordinary people who write as best they can. So be grateful and quit beefing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A neighbor had surgery six weeks ago. It was nothing serious but she made a big thing of it.

This woman's doctor is a family man and well thought of in the community. His car has been parked in front of her house about three times a week ever since the operation. I know that this sort of attention is necessary, but patients go to the doctor's office for post-operative check-ups, don't they?

I am not saying that anything is going on but I have discussed this with a few friends and it seems to us that these two are letting themselves in for a lot of unnecessary gossip. Should I talk to my neighbor and tell her she is injuring the doctor's reputation as well as her own?—PERSON WHO MEANS WELL.

DEAR PERSON: I'm all for cutting down on gossip and I suggest you start with yourself. Mind your own business and get your jollies some other way.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have not gone anywhere by ourselves since 1961. We were married seven years before our twin sons were born and of course we were thrilled. But when a mother stays home with two active boys, night and day for three years, she gets over the thrill. At least I did.

My husband will not allow me to hire a sitter. He says people who have children should stay home or take their children with them. He is forever showing me articles about kids who are delinquent because their parents didn't pay enough attention to them.

Please give me a hand before I wind up on the funny farm.—ON THE EDGE.

DEAR EDGE: Parents need an occasional evening away from their children and the kids need it, too. (Once every two weeks is not too often.)

If your boys don't learn to adjust to people outside the family they'll have difficulty when they start school.

Tell your husband for me that one extreme is as bad as the other.

Women Urged to Take Greater Part in Politics

By JIM NEAVES

SASKATOON (CP)—The old adage that a woman's place is in the home is still observed in far too many cases, particularly when it comes to politics, says Betty Klein.

The attractive 38-year-old brunette recently stepped into the political field after spending the last 16 years in the labor movement.

In 1964 she started working full time as an organizer for the Saskatchewan CCF section of the New Democratic Party.

"There are many women active in political organizations but I think I'm the only party provincial organizer in the country," Miss Klein says.

Her work takes her into federal and provincial constituencies where, with the consent of the constituency organization, she sets up machinery needed to establish paid and some groups. She advises the local group on financial matters.

On occasion she speaks to the women's organizations on organizing problems and methods by which they can improve their groups and undertake projects such as coffee and tea parties and fund-raising.

GET JOB DONE

"I wish more women would become interested in politics at the local level. Granted, more should be active at the federal level but women can do a much better job in a local constituency organization. We make far better canvassers than men in that they get the job done instead of putting it off. They remember they have a house and family to look after."

Miss Klein says get going they are hard to beat."

In the labor movement, as in politics, she says she believes women should play a larger role.

"The labor movement would be far better off to have more women in bargaining positions. A woman has a distinct advantage. It takes management some time to become accustomed to seeing a woman at the opposite side of a bargaining table but while there is some initial objection they become used to it."

HEADED UNION

Born on a farm near Lanigan, Sask., she was forced to leave school and take a job at the age of 14.

"I became a waitress and worked at several towns before I came here and started working for a laundry in 1954."

It was at the laundry that she became interested in unions and, five years later, had held every position in the plant's local.

Later she became the first woman president of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (CLC).

She was also appointed as a labor representative on Saskatchewan's minimum wage board, holding this post until 1964. Recently she was elected one of four women on the 10-member provincial council of the Saskatchewan CCF.

Still single, she works out of the Saskatoon office of the party and covers the northern section of Saskatchewan. Her job is easier when an election is in the offing.

"It's harder to get a fire under people during the in-between periods."

THE STRIPE: BIKE seems to be "in." And the look of feeders usually means lack of basket capacity for carrying schoolbooks. Don't you feel that riding a bike with one arm around a load of books is very hazardous? One answer to the problem is the new double basket that fastens to the seat and is supported by the rear wheel hub. It has deep carrying space on both sides —and Junior will say it "looks cool." Cocktail Pants Are Out at Royal York

TORONTO (CP) — The general manager of the Royal York Hotel says he would not permit the wearing of ladies' cocktail pants in the hotel's posh Imperial Room.

Angus MacKinnon was commenting on a ban of the new-fashion pants by the Chateau Laurier Hotel in Ottawa, where a woman was turned away from a hotel supper club after seeking entrance in the long, silk pants.

Mr. MacKinnon said he agreed with the action of Rudi Prinz, executive assistant manager at the Chateau Laurier.

"They might be all right in the drawing room, but we wouldn't let them in the Imperial dining room . . . not where people are dancing and wearing tuxedos and formal dresses."

CHICKEN FLORENTINE FOR SIX

My first glimpse of this chef's masterpiece was in the hands of the head chef himself, bearing it beaming but and standing direct from the kitchens to the reception buffet table. Guests stood and expectantly, awaiting their turn to be served from this beautiful overpan-full of Chicken Florentine.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Grilled Bacon, - Wrapped Ground Beef Cakes; Bread and Butter Pickles; Mashed Potatoes; Crumbed Eggplant and Green Pepper Casserole; Hot Deep Apple Pie with Hard Sauce or Cheddar Cheese; Tea.

SATURDAY
(Guests)

It created such a stir I vowed to coax the secret from the chef. I did not have to coax. He wrote the recipe out in his flowing European handwriting and graciously gave it to me.

The day that I made and served it at home turned out to be a birthday celebration in our family and our honored guest (and less honored ones) ate and praised it unstintingly.

CHICKEN FLORENTINE
(serves 6):

Cream Sauce Ingredients: ¼ cup butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¾ cups whole milk (or half milk and half 18% cream), ½ cup ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Cook whole chicken in water to barely cover with lid on, until it will nearly fall from bones. Cool in the broth. When cold lift from broth and with very sharp knife slice breast meat as perfectly as possible to use later for top slices. If liner breast meat resists slicing neatly, lift it off your fingers to keep pieces intact. Slice dark meat as well as you can. Cook cleaned spinach in water which clings in leaves until barely tender and still bright green. Drain thoroughly and chop and add salt and pepper. Arrange in bottom of shallow large baking dish. Cover with imperfect pieces of chicken, reserving best slices to cover top. Pour over Cream Sauce: Melt butter, blend in flour and salt, then stir in milk until thick. Pour evenly all over top. With your spoon gently push chicken aside without disturbing its finished appearance to let sauce flow through to bottom in several places. Sprinkle all over with Parmesan cheese and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 25 to 30 minutes or until attractive deep gold. Serve at once.

The chef recommended as an accompaniment small parsleyed potatoes and tangy tossed salad.

NOTE:

Chicken Florentine may be made in advance, chilled, but not more than 24 hours, and baked at party time.

Susanna's Family Fare

THERE'S NOTHING TO DO ...st dent year's bazaar! — Susanna.

Dear Readers: Be prepared the next time, mother, for that holiday cry from the small fry that goes exactly like this. "What can we do now?"

Everyone that ever sits down to write anything needs a pencil holder. Outlined below is a simple way of making some rather beautiful ones!

Using a white type of bond-fast glue, cover clean, empty, frozen juice cans with pieces of fancy macaroni. The macaroni comes in at least four different podgy shapes and swiggles and is available at most food markets.

You can finish off the pretty holder yourself with a few squirts of spray paint in gold or your favorite shade. Or better still, allow the children to complete the job by daubing the macaroni with an artist's paint brush dipped in a variety of colors.

If they turn out well, you can: Make half a dozen as gifts for your cousin, and put the rest out in the car to sell at a profit!

COIN HOLDER

Dear Susanna: One morning I almost left myself late for work while I searched in vain for a change purse. I had transferred my belongings to a new blue leather bag to match my suit, only to find there was no place for small change, as there had been in my other purse.

I finally used an empty plastic pill bottle with a snap-on top. Lined it so well I'd still be using it if my young son hadn't borrowed it to keep his lunch money from jumping out of his pocket.

Guess I'll have to get myself another one. — Mary Kotyk

SOFT AND SURE

Dear Susanna: Who would like to know how to devise a soft, comfortable, protective covering for that fresh hairdo, to wear while sleeping?

Split two discarded nylon stockings in half lengthwise. Cut off the feet. Sew the tops together right across at very end of each stocking. You will have one long piece with a seam in the middle of the back of your head. Wind both ends towards the front, carefully covering all the hair as you go. Cross the pieces loosely and softly, turban style, and bring them back again. Fasten with one small pin at the back of the head where you started. Doesn't that feel good? — Miss Dinny Smith.

Now I'll ask you a question, my self a student.

Dinny. How does it feel to be

Dangerous Practice to Take 'One Drink for the Road'

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Although "one drink for the road" is good for some drivers, taking it can be dangerous, says Dr. Marvin A. Block of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Block, chairman of the AMA committee on alcoholism, said Tuesday it is a scientific fact that a nervous motorist has better control of his vehicle after taking a sedative such as alcohol.

However, he warned sedatives to an annual youth conference on alcohol problems, "that one drink may relax a driver so much that he wants more and this could lead to impairment.

"This is why we never advise the tense driver to take a drink," he said. "It's a dangerous practice."

In his speech to about 600 teen-age delegates, Dr. Block said that one of the best ways to combat the increase in alcoholism is to ostracize drunkards and make the alcoholic stand out by his behavior.

On teen-age drinking, he said the average child today drinks at age 14.

Children make a farce of legal-age drinking because "despite all laws they're drinking anyway. . . . Parents should train their children by example," he said.

In a later session, a Toronto sociologist said teen-agers are being pushed into sexual activities at an earlier age than ever before by the adult generation and the advertising industry.

Margaret Norquay told the conference's panel on the Ontario Temperance Federation that young girls are constantly being conned to "snare a man" by society and the advertising world.

However, they never tell "the poor girl what to do with him when she gets him," Mrs. Norquay said.

Another speaker, Rev. Gordon Winch, a Unitarian minister from Toronto, said society encourages and allows people "to forget right" on a national scale.

He described Grey Cup weekend in Toronto last November as a "grand national drunk."

Mr. Winch said he expects that teen-agers drink because it's part of the adult world.

The four-day conference ends Thursday.

Rebate Cannot

ductions made by more than one employer he might easily find that by the end of the year he has contributed more than the $79.20 maximum for an individual. He can claim the excess as a rebate when he makes out his 1966 income tax form in the spring of 1967.

But the employer who has matched penny for penny the employee's contributions has no way of recovering his overpayment on an employee's behalf.

The Canadian Tourist Association protested, saying this amounted to discrimination against tourist operators. They have a larger turnover of employees and hire more seasonal and part-time workers than any other industry, the association said. It estimated that overpayments will run into millions of dollars which cannot be recovered.

The revenue department says rebates of employers' contributions to the pension fund are not provided for in the Canada Pension Plan Act.

Officials say they are aware of the problem, and the complaints it has aroused in the tourist and other industries, but they haven't been able to find a way yet to satisfy them.

One of the difficulties is the necessity to keep an individual's personal financial affairs secret. A worker may be moonlighting—holding down two full-time jobs—and this needs to be known only to himself and the income tax department.

The revenue department, which collects payroll tax deductions as well as contributions to the Canada Pension Plan, would be violating the secrecy of income tax returns if it tried to apportion between two employers the amounts they should rightfully contribute to the pension plan on behalf of one employee.

Teachers Press For "Stacking"

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates from the Ottawa area won a bid Tuesday to have the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation press for "stacking" of the Canada Pension Plan with existing pension schemes.

No sooner had the federation's superannuation committee reported that the national plan would be integrated with other pension schemes than the Ottawa delegates moved a resolution from the floor asking for stacking—a series of pension plans instead of one over-all scheme.

I. M. Robb, federation general secretary, said the federation should have no trouble with the provincial government to integrate the plans.

The first motion was passed and it will be presented Jan. 8 to the federation's board of governors.

TALK A LOT

"For a good many years this federation has operated as a very successful protective association," Mr. Robb said in his report about professionalism and professional development," he said.

"Yet the efforts in these areas have been sporadic and often have failed to come to grips with the problem of professionalism — the development of a positive program to provide for the betterment of teachers in a broad technical sense, but better teachers of mathematics, English or of shop work."

The assembly approved a report that proposed all teachers in community colleges should be members of the federation.

Leonard Smith of Collingwood said most of the teachers in the new provincial colleges of applied arts and technology probably come from high school jobs.

REPORTS ON SURVEY

A survey conducted by G. V. Gibson of Kingston warns that teachers leaving the job are threatening to create a professional shortage in Ontario schools.

Mr. Gibson, chairman of the committee on teacher training and supply, presented the survey at the meeting.

He said 3,000 of Ontario's secondary school teachers left the profession in 1964 compared with 3,000 who joined it. Results of the survey showed the majority of teachers quitting were unqualified.

Tempo of Viet Nam Fighting Likely to Increase Next Year

Stage a major combatant in the ground war.

Now U.S. prestige is on the line—and North Viet Nam has raised the stakes by confronting the United States in South Viet Nam with a growing number of Russian-built troops. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers number around 200,000.

Hard fighting is expected. Communists total about 700,000. This includes U.S. troops, more than 50,000 Australians and 18,000 South Koreans and contingents of Australians and New Zealand.

President Johnson's warning that "other hard steps" may be taken if the Communists spurn negotiations has been interpreted as laying the foundation for intensification of the war, particularly by air.

Repeated assaults on bridges, oil depots and similar targets have been notably unsuccessful in stemming the Communist infiltration into South Viet Nam.

The U.S. joint chiefs of staff and powerful members of the U.S. Congress have been urging that the air attacks be aimed at North Viet Nam's economic heart—her oil stocks, industry, and the port of Haiphong. Some for bombing dike and irrigation works, thus imperilling North Viet Nam's food supplies.

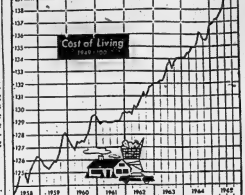
Civilian leaders in the U.S. government so far have resisted such demands as carrying the risk of bringing China directly into the fighting.

On the ground, the prospect is for more actions similar to the 1st Cavalry's "find-and-kill" operations and the marines' amphibious landing to trap a Communist force below Da Nang.

The toll of Americans killed is edging toward the 2,000 mark. About 1,000 have fallen in the last six months.

In the three-year Korean War, 33,629 Americans were killed in action. For the most part, that war was a conventional struggle between mass armies. Until now, actions in the Viet Nam war have mainly been fought out between forces of battalion or smaller.

The rate at which more U.S. forces can be introduced into Viet Nam depends directly on the speed with which new airfields, ports and supply bases are brought to completion.



Army engineers are creating a giant base at Cam Ranh Bay, the best anchorage in that part of the world, which may by itself be able to support a force as big as 600,000 men.

About 13,000 army engineers are at work on such construction projects.

Navy engineers and civilian contractors have finished more than $150,000,000 worth of military construction in Viet Nam and another $150,000,000 worth is on the way.

The pipeline has had to be operated all the way back to the United States—a pipeline not only of thousands of tons of arms, ammunition and supplies but of men as well.

The army has boosted its training output and expects to produce 408,000 new soldiers this year compared with 185,000 last year.

UP, UP AND UP — The threat of inflation accompanies Canada's sixth straight year of steady economic expansion. The consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, jumped to a high of 140.2 in November compared with 135.9 a year earlier. This increase was the largest of any of the past six years. Rapid Bilingualism Impossible But Views Changing--Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts of Ontario says it is impractical to conceive that bilingualism can be achieved in Canada with any degree of rapidity.

In a wide-ranging interview the televised Pierre Berton show, Mr. Robarts also said he felt he was confident enough and had the ability in the country if he were elected prime minister.

"I would hope to surround myself with competent people and take on the challenges and tasks," he said.

But he quickly assured Mr. Berton that he wasn't anxious to be drafted for nomination to the top federal office nor is he seeking a draft.

"I don't say that I don't want it . . ." he said. But the task of running Ontario is "quite sufficient to occupy me for the foreseeable future."

Mr. Robarts said his government isn't satisfied with the opportunities afforded Ontario's French-speaking minority to attend French schools and pursue their own culture.

But, he added, he isn't sure that all those people (French minority) necessarily want to do this either."

"I think there are a lot of words of intent put in people's mouths that may not necessarily be theirs," he said.

TIMES CHANGE

"Over the years, we have developed French schools . . . where instruction is done in French. Perhaps, we haven't gone as far as we might though I know that things have changed.

"I remember even in my own experience as a politician. I can remember being violently criticized . . . for some attitudes that I had taken towards the teaching of French in Ontario as such. Now, those attitudes in my mind are disappearing.

"They're disappearing in my lifetime and in my experience —at least they've diminished. I say this to illustrate the fact that I think there are a great many people in Ontario who would like their children to be bilingual. I want my children to speak French."

Mr. Robarts said his problem is similar to that of many people in Quebec, in that his people live in an English-speaking community where they have no opportunity to use their French outside of school. In Quebec, the reverse is true.

Mr. Robarts said he detects "an increasing desire" among Ontario residents to become bilingual and "this certainly is strong among English - speaking residents of this province."

Man Poses As Physician Over a Year

HONOLULU (AP)—A Honolulu man told the Star-Bulletin Tuesday he posed as a physician at the University of California medical centre in San Francisco and lectured there on anatomy more than a year before he was unmasked.

Thomas Miyawaki, blamed the "extreme pressure of the Japanese custom of obeying your parents' wishes; they so much wanted me to be a doctor and I could not let them down. I tried very hard to fulfill my parents' wishes, but I couldn't do it."

In San Francisco, Dr. L.L. Bennett, acting vice-chancellor of the medical centre, said Miyawaki did not treat any patients and was not connected with the hospital.

He was a graduate assistant, helping in undergraduate anatomy laboratories and classes.

After graduating from Maryknoll High School, Honolulu, in 1947, Miyawaki attended Loyola University, Los Angeles, majoring in zoology.

He dropped out because "I could see at that time I did not have the ability to become a doctor."

BECAME TECHNICIAN

Then he went to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, becoming a technician there and taking some courses. He told the Star-Bulletin he went to San Francisco with false credentials showing he had a doctor of medicine degree from Johns Hopkins.

Dean Harold Harper, of the graduate division of the medical centre, showed a letter to the San Francisco Examiner from Irene Davis, John Hopkins' registrar. It noted:

"Mr. Miyawaki does not hold a degree from Hopkins although on a number of occasions he has presented credentials to medical schools indicating he is indeed a Hopkins graduate."

Miyawaki said medical centre officials were so pleased with his work that they wanted him to become a faculty member. A resident examination for a doctor of philosophy decree led to his enrolling. Shocked at the results, investigators checked Miyawaki's credentials.

He came to Honolulu this month to be with his parents.

Church, Crown and State On Hand for Celebration

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Church, crown and state assembled in a dazzling symphony of color and music Tuesday to celebrate the 900th anniversary of one of England's most enduring symbols, Westminster Abbey.

The soaring gothic nave of the abbey, newly cleaned and sparkling in the glare of television lights, was the setting for an inaugural service opening a year-long round of birthday celebrations.

The Queen, Prince Philip and other members of the Royal Family headed a congregation of 2,200 that included representatives of international Christendom, peers, politicians and a cross-section of British and Commonwealth notables.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, robed in cloth of gold, presided as an abbey guest. The historic building where all England's sovereigns have been crowned is one of only two churches in the land under the jurisdiction of the Queen, not the primate.

For the first time since the 16th century, the Vatican sent an apostolic delegate to a purely religious ceremony of the Church of England. Prelates of a dozen different faiths in their churchmen's robes formed a tapestry of sky-blue, scarlet, gold and pink.

PLAY CLASSICS

During the service, an orchestra played music by Mozart, Purcell, and Elgar. The Queen listened to a commissioned hymn and prelude specially composed for the occasion by Sir Arthur Bliss, master of the Queen's music.

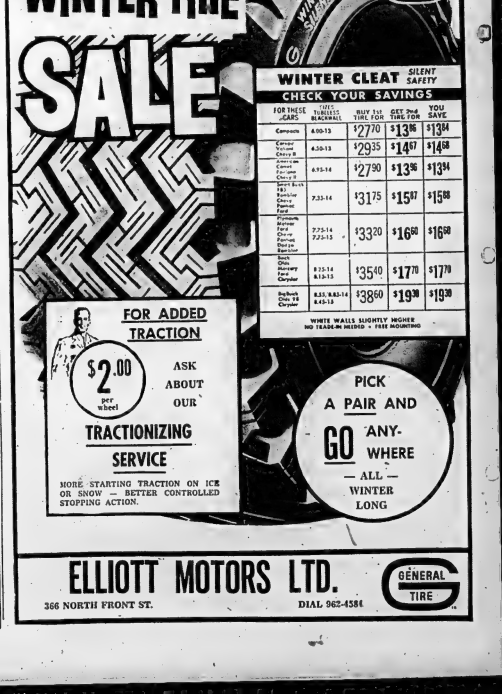
The Queen, dressed in a mink-trimmed, rust-colored coat and matching hat, chose a few minutes listening to the music with Prince Philip, who wore a cutaway morning coat. Then, followed by Prince Charles and Princess Anne, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and the rest of the family, they walked down the nave to the high altar where the Queen was married in 1947 and crowned in 1953.

The Queen placed a spray of red roses on a small altar in the nearby chapel of St. Edward the Confessor. The abbey, founded by King Edward I as the centre of a Benedictine monastery was consecrated Dec. 28, 1065, eight days before Edward died.

The Royal Family signed the first page of the pilgrims' book to which all visitors during the commemoration year will be asked to add their names.

Outside in the frosty sunlight, the waiting crowds cheered until high in the twin towers the abbey bells pealed out across Parliament Square, signalling the start of a year of special services, concerts and exhibitions aimed at bringing the world to England's historic heart.

Italian Cities Impose Taxes On Famous



ROME (AP) — Italian cities published the 1963 incomes of their most illustrious citizens Monday as compulsory municipal tax assessors, and the annual "family tax" game was on.

Rome said Oscar - winning actress Sophia Loren, for example, earned 350,000,000 lire ($200,000). The actress refused to have declared a smaller figure than that. Miss Loren may well end up paying taxes on an amount somewhere between her calculations and those of the tax men.

That's the way the game goes when it comes time to pay the "family tax," as the municipality levied personal income tax is called. The tax office sometimes sets a figure, the citizen insists it's ridiculously high, then both sides negotiate a middle figure, the tax rate runs from 18 to 15 per cent of income. There is no withholding system in Italy.

Marcello Mastroianni, frequent co-star of Sophia Loren, said he made 20,000,000 lire ($48,000) this year. His income was assessed in Rome at 12,000,000 lire ($800,000).

Director Federico Fellini was assessed at the same figure as Mastroianni, although Fellini claimed only 20,000,000 lire

MORE MONEY AVAILABLE — Canada's money supply, which had shown a moderate rate of growth for the last two years, took a big jump upwards in the last half of 1965. Money in circulation outside banks and bank deposits held by individuals, companies and governments reached almost $20,000,000,000. The increase was allowed by the Bank of Canada to restore financial confidence after the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. (CP Newsmap)

Money Supply Increased But Firms Wanting Funds Find Them Harder to Get

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The money supply increased more sharply than usual in Canada this year. But corporations wanting funds for expansion found them harder to get.

The total value of coin and banknotes in circulation outside the banks, and of chartered bank deposits held by individuals, corporations, trusts and all levels of government at mid-November was $19,953,000,000. This compared with $18,042,000,000 at the beginning of 1965.

Interest rates rose, making it more expensive to borrow money but yielding investors a better return on their funds. The yield on investment of Canada treasury bills rose to higher levels than in 1963 or 1964.

Early in December, the Bank of Canada increased its interest rate to 4¼ per cent from 4¼, the level at which it had been since November, 1964. This followed the action of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board in raising its rediscount rate to 4½ per cent from 4.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, said earlier it was right that lower interest rates should prevail during the early stages of the current expansionary cycle in the economy "when there was unemployment and unused plant capacity. The cycle now has run nearly five years on the upswing.

MANPOWER GROWS TIGHT

But over the year-end he told the Montreal Chamber of Commerce that plant capacity and available manpower were becoming hard-pressed. He hinted at dangers of inflation and at balance-of-payments difficulties and said monetary policy alone could not provide solutions.

During the last six weeks of the year the big borrowers of U.S. funds—principally provincial government agencies, municipalities and many corporations—had in delay their programs or look to the Canadian money market for funds.

A freeze was on in the movement of capital from the U.S. to Canada on new Canadian bond issues to pay out Canada's undertaking in July, 1963, that it would not use borrowings to increase its reserve of U.S. dollars.

Early in 1966 a new source of funds will become available for provincial governments when the Canada Pension Plan fund begins to grow. Premiums paid into the fund by employers and employees which run in excess of three years' needs and administration expense will be made available for investment in provincial government bonds.

The future of interest rates and the availability of funds, therefore, is made uncertain by these new factors.

GROWTH MODERATES

The money supply had shown a moderate rate of growth through 1963 and most of 1964. It started a more rapid climb late in 1964, and a big jump upwards last summer.

The jump was purposeful. When Atlantic Acceptance Corp was unable to meet interest payments on its borrowings and British Mortgage and Trust ran into difficulties the Bank of Canada permitted, and tacitly encouraged, an increase in the money supply as a step towards restoring confidence in the money-and chartered bank deposits held by the general public rose to $19,143,000,000 from $18,042,000,000.

Later in the year the central bank followed a policy described as tight money. Money was available for borrowers, but relatively high interest rates. Corporations still could expand if they were willing to pay the higher costs.

It is difficult for even the experts to say whether the money supply is too large or too small at any given time. The Bank of Canada, in 1965 is close to nine per cent, compared with six per cent in 1963 and about 7½ per cent in 1964.

GNP UP SHARPLY

Former finance minister Walter Gordon expected the gross national product—the value of all final goods and services produced in Canada in the year—to increase by nine per cent over 1964's $47,022,000,000. But two percentage points of this would be price inflation.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics index of industrial production, based on 1949 output equaling 100, is published monthly but about four months behind actual performance. It was showing healthy gains during the summer, reaching 224.7 in June and 221.9 in August compared with 200.3 and 207.9 in the same months in 1964.

The extent of interest-rate increases was shown in new government bond prices. In January investors could get only five per cent or less on long-term bonds. In November, they could get more than 5½ per cent. Commercial borrowers had to pay more, of course, and the cost of conventional mortgages was 6½ per cent or more at the year-end, compared with about seven per cent at the year's outset.

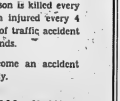
Road Spending Will Total $1,575,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Spending on Canadian roads will total a record $1,575,000,000, up from $1,472,000,000 this year, the Canadian Good Roads Association predicts.

Managing Director C. W. Gilchrist says in a year-end statement that despite increased expenditures, provinces will struggle to keep pace with the ever-growing number of motor vehicles.

The number of vehicle registrations is expected to reach 6,800,000 compared with 6,380,000 this year, while travel on Canadian roads will total 60,000,000,000 miles, he says.

Next year's road program will be characterized by larger and more complex construction jobs.



"With the Trans - Canada Highway essentially completed, the provinces are concentrating increasingly on upgrading and improving existing highway mileage," Mr. Gilchrist says.

The statement says time is a critical factor in Quebec's roadbuilding program because of Expo 67.

"The province is concentrating on autoroutes and expressways and currently has 33 projects under way, of which 20 are expected to completion in 1967 and 13 in 1968. Eight of these projects are in the Metropolitan Montreal area."

Of the highway's 4,800 miles, 3,993 have been completed. The total value of work approved by the federal government is just short of $31,000,000,000.

Income Tax Explained

DISAGREEMENT WITH ASSESSMENT

If a taxpayer on receipt of his assessment notice disagrees with the assessment, there is a routine procedure to follow. I would suggest that before he files notice of objection, he call at his local district income tax office and talk it over with the chief assessor.

If he fails to obtain satisfaction, he can obtain at that time "Notice of Objection" forms. He should complete two copies of this form and send them in the Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Taxation at Ottawa. They should be sent by registered mail. This should be done within 90 days of the date appearing on the Assessment Notice. This Notice of Objection should show the reasons for your objection and all the relevant facts.

On receipt of the notice of objection the minister will reconsider the assessment and vacate, confirm or vary the assessment or reassess. He will then notify the taxpayer by registered mail of his decision. If the Minister for Taxation has upheld the original assessment, the taxpayer can then take it to the Income Tax Appeal Board but this must be done within 90 days of the date on which the minister's decision was mailed to the taxpayer. The taxpayer also has the right to take his appeal direct to the Exchequer Court of Canada, rather than the Income Tax Appeal Board.

It is seldom necessary for an employee to carry his disagreement this far as the cost to him might in all probability exceed any tax reduction. There is no use appealing or objecting to any assessment when the point in question are expressly covered in the Income Tax Act.

For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

No Clear-cut Pattern Found For Meshing Pension Schemes

With the Canada Pension Plan coming into effect Jan. 1, the question is what will happen to existing pension schemes. This story tells how the problem is being tackled across the country.

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Canada Pension Plan is coming upon the country amid a hodge-podge of controversy, uncertainty, delayed action and widely-varying patterns for fitting it into existing retirement schemes.

As the Jan. 1 start of payments into the plan looms up, the arrangements for hundreds of thousands of workers remain unsettled. Official wrangling clouds some with confusion.

But for many others, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows, there will be a smooth meshing of the gears between the new creation and present arrangements for government and private employees. Much of this, however, will be temporary and subject to later adjustment.

Frank Bollert, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Federation of Labor, probably sums it up when he says:

"I thought there would be more confusion than there actually is."

The acrimony, and a good deal of the confusion, is centred in Ontario's provincial government has collided head-on with some of the major municipal bodies over whether the Canada Pension is to be "stacked" — added to existing municipal plans — or simply integrated with them without raising payments.

PROVINCE INSISTS

The cabinet has issued an edict that the municipalities must integrate, as it is doing for its own employees. The councils of Metropolitan Toronto, Hamilton and Oshawa have stated to stack. Premier Robarts has by we see that they integrate even if he has to get retroactive legislation at the next legislature session.

Even within Metro, the legislators are split. The police commission wanted to integrate. So did the Metro executive, but a poll overruled by the council. Toronto city's board of control has recommended stacking. Individual municipalities within Metro are going both ways.

In Ontario government schemes which contends employees and municipalities cannot afford the extra cost of double pensions, is the only provincial administration in have laid down the law to its junior governments in such firm tones.

Elsewhere, the general trend is to some form of integration or merger among provinces and municipalities, with the latter doing it from choice. However, not all the provinces have made up their minds. The federal government, father of the plan and the country's largest employer with 190,000 on the payroll, is giving a lead to integration and plans to keep an individual's total payments and benefits about unchanged.

SPLIT CONTRIBUTIONS

The Canada Pension Plan payments amount to 3.6 per cent of a worker's salary between $600 and $5,000, with each paying half. In stacking, the amount paid into a private plan is in addition to the payments to the government. For integration, the private plan payments are reduced by all or part of the CPP premiums. The combined benefits payments vary accordingly.

In private business and industry, there is a jigsaw of proposals, generally tending toward integration by the larger employers unless union contracts dictate otherwise. Small companies appear to favor stacking, according to a survey by the Canadian Life Insurance Association.

The Canadian Labor Congress says it sees no clear pattern in any of either system among its union affiliates. As an employer, the congress itself is stacking; the Canada Pension on its own private plan for its 100-odd employees.

Among the country's two largest employers of labor outside government, the two transcontinental railways have taken different tacks and spokesmen for railway brotherhoods say there is considerable confusion among their members over pension plans.

LINE TO STACK

The government-owned Canadian National has announced a stacked package for employees covered by union contracts and integration for non - contract workers. The Canadian Pacific has a "co - ordinated" plan, which appears to consist of partial stacking. Non-operating employees now are in negotiations for agreements that would include pensions.

The big automobile industry, in its contracts with the United Auto Workers (CLC), has a plan of stacking built into each basic contracts. Besides a basic benefit, there is a supplementary pension designed to fill in a social security gap, both non-contributory. Part of the supplementary section could be replaced by the CPP.

The same applies to automobile-industry feeder plants and such employers as Massey-Ferguson and de Havilland Aircraft, all adding up to about 85 per cent of the union's membership.

Canada's largest union, the 120,000 - member United Steelworkers of America which favors stacking in principle, has a similar arrangement with its international Harvester, whose contract with the biggest basic steel producer — Steel Co. of Canada — calls for temporary automatic stacking of the CPP until negotiations open next summer.

UP FOR NEGOTIATION

It recently negotiated an improved private plan plus stacking of the Canada Pension with Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., largest steel employer in the Maritimes. Pensions will be negotiated with Algoma Steel in the summer.

The United Packinghouse Workers negotiated a stacking deal with Swift, but Canada Packers, largest in the field, is integrating over the union's protest. The union says this will save the company $200,000 a year.

Montreal-based Air Canada is "co-ordinating" its private plan with the Canada Pension, and the Quebec Pension Plan, adopted inadvertently by quebec for all workers in that province but identical to the Canada plan. Air Canada's system amounts, in effect, to a modified form of stacking.

Large employers that have gone in for integration include International Nickel Co. of Canada, whose contract with the Steelworkers already calls for hefty non - contributory pensions; the Alberta Wheat Pool, Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Power Provincial in Quebec, the Royal Bank of Canada and MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., the big wood products concern on the West Coast.

Generally, it appears that the pensions question will be a live issue in union-company negotiations in 1966.

CAUSES FUSS

The debate has spilled over into the academic field and produced at least one rumpus. About 100 faculty members of the University of Western Ontario formed an ad-hoc committee meeting to protest the university's decision to integrate. It has been pensions stacked pending a review.

Around the provinces, six have reached firm decisions on dealing with their own employees. Quebec, with its own plan, has integrated its existing private system with it, with contributions staying at the same level. Ontario, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Alberta are integrating.

The Manitoba plan is geared to a formula which by 1976 will produce for a $6,000-a-year employee a pension of $3,120 including the CPP payments without increasing the civil servants' payments. Under the existing setup it would be $4,200.

Nova Scotia announced it is "co-ordinating" its pensions for civil servants and teachers with the Canada Pension and that benefits will be increased. On the non - federal part of the scheme, female employees will pay no less than males.

SEVERAL UNDECIDED

Newfoundland has not reached a decision. Neither has Prince Edward Island but Provincial Treasurer Alban Farmer says there is a strong possibility of integration. New Brunswick has disclosed only that, until a final decision is made, provincial employees will not contribute more than now.

In British Columbia, no decision has been announced but information is that the province and the municipalities probably will integrate, with employee contributions and benefits staying as at present. The B.C. government operates the municipalities' plans, so they automatically go along with it.

While more of an option is extended in other provinces—Ontario certainly—the great preponderance of municipalities that so far have reached decisions are opting for integration. Outstanding exception is Quebec City, which is going for straight stacking with employees contributing the new plan's 1.8 per cent of salary up to $5,000 on top of the five per cent they now pay. Montreal, however, is integrating.

Outside of the two major Ontario dissidents — Metro Toronto and Hamilton — Ontario municipalities generally are going along with integration. Mayor John Wheeler of Windsor says the city is not opposed to stacking but considers provincial pensions regulations do not allow it.

In the west, Moose Jaw, Sask., is negotiating with its civic employees' union and contributions and benefits may be boosted up slightly from straight integration.

Edmonton city employees have won a temporary nine-month delay from the city pending an actuarial study. Hector McDonald, a real estate of the Civic Employees Federation, said it then may ask the city to stack. Meanwhile, things will operate on an integrated basis.

Starting January 1st all farm employees join 2,000,000 other Ontario workers with complete protection under Workmen's Compensation

With the co-operation of farm employers throughout the Province, the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board is now able to provide full compensation protection starting January 1st.

Protected how? With benefits up to $86.54 a week if an employee is disabled for more than two calendar days by an on-the-job accident or related disease happening on or after January 1st.

What about permanent disability? He's covered. Benefits include all medical expenses and pensions for permanent disability.

How about the worker's family? In death cases there are allowances for funeral expenses and pensions for widows and children.

Is this the same Workmen's Compensation that 2,000,000 men and women in other lines of work have protecting them? Exactly the same.

What about the Farmer? He and his wife also can be covered by Workmen's Compensation, by making a special application to the Workmen's Compensation Board.

And his Family? If they work on the same farm and get a stated wage, they are automatically covered, as is the Farm Employee.

Is there a charge to the Farm Employee for this? No. Farm employers provide this protection through assessments based on their 1966 payroll, payable in August.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Like the wheat in early autumn in his native Saskatchewan Gordie Howe is ripening and mellowing but the sturdy "stalks" that have weathered 19 seasons of rugged professional hockey are not yet ready for the "combine."

Some years ago I sat with Howe, Marty Pavelich, Johnny Wilson and Jack Adams in the Larry Eggert cottage at Rossmore with Marty and Jolly John the guest speakers of the afternoon with Gordie taking top honors as the dispenser of groceries.

Someone fired the question, now hoary with age and writhed through repetition at Howe, "How long do you intend to stay as a player?"

GORDIE HOWE

The former prairie public school goalie-turned-marksman didn't falter in his nibbling on a chicken drumstick. (He afterwards polished off a dozen tarts for dessert).

"Until I'm 46," he quipped without disturbing an eyelash. Then more seriously, "I'm going to stick with hockey as long as I can breathe. It's the only business I know. It's my life. I'd be lost in anything else."

He is in his 39th season now. He will be 33 on March 31st. This year he will join the charmed circle of "29" players with Bill Gadsby, former Bruin star, and the late Hooly Smith.

Like the traditional turkey the thighs and sinews of the Howe structure are apparently improving with age. The New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens can vouch for that.

Some of their younger fry are discovering what veteran team-mates found out years ago. You just don't push the Floral, Saskatchewan native around.

Down Gotham way, Howe is as popular with the Broadway Blues and fans as a Viet Cong in a Marines' chow house.

Through a New York sportswriter, one Ranger says "Howe is one of the dirtiest players in the league." This Blue had been blindgeoned, he claimed, by the Howe elbows and has stitch scars to prove the efficiency of the Howe stick.

The writer says, "Howe who unanimously has been acclaimed hockey's most accomplished player, long has been accused by Rangers of tactics that go above and beyond the rules of warfare set down by the Geneva Convention."

"A few years ago," the story says, "Howe performed some unrequested surgery on the ear of Lou Fontinato before some 15,000 aghast viewers in Madison Square Garden. But Howe doesn't play any favorites."

When Howe scored his 600th goal at Montreal recently he was hailed with a standing ovation. "Apparently unimpressed by northern hospitality," the writer charges, "Howe responded by rapping Hab defenceman J. C. Tremblay in the mouth with an elbow." (The records say it was a stick gival.)

The cheers turned to boos. A hero to a hockey habe in minutes. But the great Detroit star philosophized, "Hockey is a man's game."

It is stated that the Rangers have "nothing but awe, admiration and occasional fear for Howe."

"Even when you leave him alone he's still mean," says the Blues' assistant coach Don Marshall. . . "He'll hit you for no reason at all (the guffaws you hear are coming from Detroit fans). "There's no doubt about it, Howe is dirty."

"This great deeo not believe Howe is deliberately "violent and dirty." I go along with one Ranger's opinion that "Howe's the best and everybody's taking a run at him. So by being tough he keeps them away. It's the only way for him to operate under the circumstances."

"Other superstars like Bobby Hull have been less rough than Howe," he said. "Hull will put you into the boards but Howe tries to put you through them."

Jets edged the Aces 5-4 in the lone juvenile game while Leafs topped the Elk Hawks 6-3 and Wings and maidenen played a 4-4 tie in midget B.M.H.A. action last night.

In the juvenile tilt, B. Tomaso, B. Moon, R. Rosebush, D. Muir and D. Akey netted a goal apiece. Moon also scored three assists. C. McFarland, Muir and M. Fahey one each for the Jets.

P. Ford fired a pair of goals as R. Ellis and K. Lang one each for Aces. T. Herrington, J. Lang, D. Muldoon and Lang got an assist each.

The winners took three of five penalties assessed. Total ice-included majors fo Akey of the Jets and T. MacDonald of the Aces, plus a match penalty to the winners' J. Shakell.

Ray Allen scored twice, Mulvihill and D. Hayes one each for the midget Canadiens, all unassisted. Mark Acquafredo paced the Wings with one and two assists. B. Romain, A. Jones and Ted Waite also scored and N. Goyer and Jones got helpers.

B. Janitch sparked the Leaf win with two goals. L. Rupert, T. Boutier, S. Lee and B. Gibbons also scored. Mallory, R. Hunter, D. Thompson and Gibbons each got an assist. W. Hay scored two and Ted Ford one for the Hawks. Dominic drew an assist.

No results were sent in for the three scheduled novice games.

Woodstock Trims Oaks, Regals Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Woodstock Athletics defeated Oakville Oaks 5-1 Tuesday night to move into a second-place tie with the Oaks in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings.

First-place Guelph clobbered last-place Galt Hornets 6-2.

Highlight of the Woodstock-Oakville game was a vicious third-period stick-swinging duel that ended is match penalties to the Oaks' Norm Sibbick and Athletics' Tommy Wilson.

Woodstock Captain Gerry Stringle, Vances Millar, Wilson, Bobby Robinson and Pat Sester each scored once. Carl Hymerz scored for Oakville.

At Guelph, Walt Bradley scored four goals to pace the winners while the other Regals goals were scored by Ray Rosa and Butch Martin. Earl Balfour and John Rendall scored for Galt.

Roger Crozier, Detroit netminder who registered a National Hockey League - leading six shutouts last season, posted his second consecutive shutout and fourth of the season Tuesday night as the Red Wings blanked Boston Bruins 1-0 in the only scheduled NHL game.

ROGER CROZIER

★ ★ ★

Crozier, who shut out Montreal Canadiens 4-0 Sunday night, was shaken up in a collision with Boston's Tom Williams after 12 minutes of play. Backup netminder Hank Bassen finished off—the period, making two saves.

Crozier, 23, a native of Bracebridge, Ont., who was last year's Rookie of the Year, returned at the start of the second period and kicked out 10 shots.

He had an easier time in the final 20 minutes as the Bruins managed only three shots, including two while Norm Ullman was serving a major penalty for slashing Boston defenceman Al Langlois.

Paul Henderson, taking a pass from Jimmy Peters early in the second period, provided the Wings' victory with his sixth goal of the season.

Boston netminder Ed Johnston turned in a spectacular performance by blocking 28 of 29 shots directed at him.

CHASING CHICAGO

The victory moved the Red Wings to within one point of second-place Chicago Black Hawks and two points away from first-place Montreal. However, Detroit has played three more games than Montreal and two more than Chicago.

Tonight the Canadiens will play the Leafs in Toronto and Chicago visits the fifth-place Bruins.

Centre Henri Richard and netminder Lorne (Gump) Worsley are doubtful starters for Montreal tonight. Richard suffered a shoulder injury against the Red Wings Sunday and while Worsley damaged a knee in a collision in the same game.

The Leafs have picked up 14 of a possible 16 points in their last eight games, on six victories and two ties.

The Rangers will be looking for their third consecutive home-ice victory tonight.

New York will be without veteran centre Phil Goyette, sidelined with internal injuries since being sneared by Boston's Ted Green Sunday.

Chicago has sent Dennis Hull, younger brother of Bobby Hull, and Fred Stanfield to their St. Louis farm club of the Central League.

At the same time, the Black Hawks called up forward Dave Richardson from St. Louis. Richardson's arrival puts Chicago, one man over the player limit, but a general manager Tommy Ivan is expected to cut a defenceman.

Hawks Send Dennis Hull To St. Louis

CHICAGO — Chicago Black Hawks yesterday sent wings Dennis Hull and Fred Stanfield to their St. Louis farm team subject to immediate recall and recalled wing Dave Richardson.

Richardson, who has two goals and three assists for St. Louis, will join the Hawks for tonight's game in New York Hull has one goal and five assists and Stanfield two goals and two assists this season.

'Stop Jim Brown'—Nitschke Job

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)— Ray Nitschke draws the short straw Sunday. As middle line backer of Green Bay Packers, stop Jim Brown of Cleveland Browns line, Cleveland at the ends My when he charges up the middle a minister and a teacher, is a in the National Football League bit on the skimpy side by title game. national Football League standards.

Vince Lombardi, the Packer coach, says Nitschke won't be laying on Brown all the way in the kind of defence Green Bay uses. All well and good, but it will still be Nitschke who will be trying to block the middle.

"We know we have to stop Jim Brown," said the six-foot-three, 230-pound former Illinois fullback. "We all know it.

"They have built their offence around him. If we can stop their running, may be we can make them throw the ball up for grabs.

"In most four-man line sets, the middle linebacker is in on most running plays," Nitschke added. "He lays off the fullback. I'll be going where Jim Brown goes. At least I hope I'll be there. That's my job. When he goes wide, I'll be in pursuit.

"We know they'll try to go up the middle right from the start. It's the safest thing to do, especially if the field should be slip-

Skorich has Paul Wiggin, a six-foot-three 245-pounder, at one end and Bill Glass, 6-5, 255 pounds, on the other side.

In between are tackles Dick Modzelewski, 245 pounds, and Jim Kanicki, heaviest of the four at 270. Skorich says most NFL defensive lines average 265 to 275 pounds.

Skorich didn't have his present defence set until last year, when Modzelewski and Kanicki became regulars.

Brown's coach Blanton Collier has given Modzelewski much of the credit for helping mold the defense. The former Giant was a steadying influence during Kanicki's sophomore year.

Chuvalo Meets Italian

TORONTO (CP)—Irving Ungerman, manager of Canadian heavyweight champ George Chuvalo, said Tuesday his fighter's next bout will be in London, Jan. 25, against Eduardo Corletti of Italy.

Chuvalo, outpointed in a 12-round November title match against Ernie Terrell, World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, recently returned from England where he defeated Joe Bygraves of Jamaica in 10 rounds.

He said British Empire title-holder Henry Cooper of London turned down several offers to meet Chuvalo in a champion-ship match.

"We'll take on anyone over there to get at Cooper," said Ungerman. "The only way to get it is by staying in England and fighting guys like Bygraves, Billy Walker, Johnny Prescott and Colletti."

Ungerman said he has been assured by boxing officials in England that if Cooper doesn't defend his title by March the fight will be taken away from him.

Chuvalo is No. 1 contender to Cooper's title.

The 25-year-old Colletti is a former Argentine heavyweight champion, who now resides in Italy. In two fights with Walker, Colletti scored a 10-round decision and a knockout.

Barons Nip Clippers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cleveland Barons jammed all their scoring into the second period for a 3-2 American Hockey League victory over Baltimore Clippers Tuesday night.

Tom McCarthy, Gordon Wilkie and Bob Plager scored in the middle period to wipe out a 1-0 Clipper edge and the Barons held on to get the second victory in four starts against Baltimore.

Ray Cullen scored for Baltimore us the first period.

The loss, third straight for Baltimore, left the Clippers in the cellar of the league's Eastern Division.

Cleveland's victory moved the Barons seven points ahead of last-place Buffalo in the Western Division.

Clipper defenceman Mike Corbett drew the home team in within one goal of the Barons after only eight seconds of the third period, but Baltimore was unable to get the tying goal.

Syndicate Will Back Fighter

TORONTO (CP)—Vince Bagnato of Toronto announced Tuesday that a group of Toronto businessmen have formed a syndicate to guide the professional boxing career of Toronto heavyweight Bob (Pretty Boy) Felstein.

Bagnato, who managed Felstein as an amateur and recently turned him pro, said three Toronto businessmen are involved.

Felstein, a six-foot-two, 200-pounder, will make his first start under the syndicate against James McClean of Philadelphia Jan. 7 at Madison Square Garden in New York in a preliminary bout to the Harold Johnson-Johnny Fersol main event.

Russians Win 6-2 Over Nationals

Penalties Big Factor

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP-AP) —The Soviet Union, taking advantage of Canadian penalties for more four of its goals, defeated Canada's national team 6-2 Tuesday night and now loom as heavy favorites to win an international hockey tournament here.

The victory over the Canadians—the Russians 11th in 12 games with Canadian national teams since 1963—brought the U.S.S.R. won-lost record here to 2-0. It was the Canadians first game in the round-robin tournament.

Canada was handed eight of 13 penalties in the game played before a capacity crowd of 5,100.

The world champion Russians edged Sweden 4-3 Monday and now only have to defeat Czechoslovakia Thursday night to wrap up the tournament.

Czechoslovakia defeated Sweden 8-3 in the tournament opener Sunday night.

McLEOD SCORES BOTH

Jackie McLeod, coach-manager who came out of retirement as a player earlier this year, scored both of Canada's goals. The 35-year-old native of Swift Current, Sask., scored unassisted at 7:56 of the second period and notched the game's last goal at the 15-minute mark of the third period on a 40-foot slapshot that bounced off the stick of Russian goalie Victor Konovalenko.

But McLeod, a veteran of 10 years of rough-and-ready pro hockey, also contributed to his team's defeat. He was in the penalty box when Vyacheslav Starshinov scored Russia's first goal at the 5:16 mark of the first period.

Alexander Almetov scored two second-period goals for the Soviet Union. Vladimir Yurzinov, Alexander Strigunov and Victor Yakushev also scored for the Russians.

Almetov's two goals both came with Canada a man short. His first shot sailed past defenceman Gary Begg, a 24-year-old native of Moosomin, Sask., who was on his knees, and then skidded past goalie Ken Broderick.

Almetov's second goal came while Broderick, who had just blocked one shot, was lying flat on his stomach and unable to reach the puck. Almetov flicked the puck over the prone 23-year-old Toronto native.

LEAD 4-1

Yurzinov scored with Canada again shorthanded at 18:39 to give the winners a commanding 4-1 lead at the end of the second period. He knocked the puck in from eight feet out on the left side.

McLeod got his first goal with Russia shorthanded. He slapped the puck out of a rebound scramble in front of the net and shot it across four Russians who were prone on the ice.

Canada had two excellent chances to score on breakaways in the first period but both misfired. On the first try a shot by Roger Bourbonnais, 23-year-old Edmonton native and member of the original Canadian national team formed in 1963, bounced off a post. The second, by Fran Huck, the Saskatchewan Junior League's most Valuable Player in 1963-64, just missed the top of the net.

Although there were many scuffles and some vicious checking there were no fist-swinging incidents. Several players were shaken up by the vigorous play but there were no serious injuries.

'Stupid Hockey', Bauer

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—"I've never been associated with a team that played such stupid hockey."

Rev. David Bauer, who brought together Canada's first national hockey team in 1963, was fuming in the dressing room after Canada's 6-2 defeat by Russia Tuesday night.

"All the penalties we got were foolish," said Father Bauer, now social adviser to the team.

Four of the Russians' six goals were scored with Canada a man short.

Father Bauer said the situation was particularly disappointing since a pre-game meeting had stressed avoiding penalties and staying on the ice.

He also said he had never seen the Canadian defence play worse, including an 8-0 loss to Czechoslovakia in the 1965 world hockey championships last March in Tampere, Finland.

Asked if his team quit, Father Bauer said:

"Broderick (goalie Ken) was the only one we had tonight with what I consider the proper attitude."

'HAVE TO LEARN'

Jackie McLeod, playing coach and manager who scored both Canada's goals, said:

"You can't score from the penalty box. This is the thing we have to learn. Until we do we're going to be in trouble."

Three Canadian players were in nursing minor injuries in the dressing room after the game.

Centre Dick McCann, a Hamilton, Ont., native studying at the University of Manitoba, had a split nose that required a couple of stitches to close.

Left wing Billy MacMillan, 22-year-old Charlottetown native also studying at the University of Manitoba, had a bruised shoulder which is to be x - rayed today. Defenceman Terry O'Malley of Toronto was suffering from a charley-horse.

The team held a meeting immediately after the game.

Fourth Year In Row

Nick Weslock OGA Top

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Weslock of Toronto, 18-year-old Ontario amateur golf champion, has retained his first-place ranking in the Ontario Golf Association for the fourth consecutive year.

Weslock, former Canadian amateur champion and six-time Ontario winner, won a berth on the Willingdon Cup team—for the Canada, interprovincial team championship — for the 16th time this year.

He was defeated in the semi-final of the Canadian amateur championship this season, trying for his third straight victory...

Tom McAllister, 28, of Toronto, unranked in 1964, earned second place in the list. He tied for second in the Willingdon Cup trials, was second low amateur in the Ontario Open, and reached the semi-finals in the Ontario amateur.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, former world amateur champion who has been ranked second for the last three years, was listed third.

Stewart Hamilton of Brampton was listed fourth, followed by Martin Mason, Toronto; Bill Morland, North Bay; Gordon Ball, Toronto; Bob Jamieson, Peterborough; David Lee, Hamilton and Paul Williams, Burlington.

City Midgets Shaded In Tournament

Belleville Western Tire bowled out of the Orillia Midget Invitational Hockey Tournament yesterday by dropping a hard-fought 3-2 decision to Kingston.

The tournament is scheduled to wind up today. Belleville team officials paid tribute to the fine play of the local club, which earlier beat Whitby 4-3, and to the tournament as a whole.

Each club scored once in the opening frame yesterday Wayne Storms potted the goal for Lou Sarkie's squad, assisted by Cal Wilson, at 2.05, but Kingston tied it at the three-minute mark.

Kingston scored the only goal of the middle heat, at 2.30 and Wilson made it 2-2, aided by Storms and Mike Healey, at 8.00 of the third period. Kingston netted the deciding marker at 11.00.

Healey grabbed a loose puck near the centre ice line and scored for Belleville in the final minute of play but the referee ruled it offside and the contest ended 3-2.

Take Double Honors

Canadiens Named Top Team Of Year

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The return of Montreal Canadiens to the heights of professional hockey after a five-year absence has won the Habitants double recognition in the Star annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll.

In both categories, the Canadiens finished ahead of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the 1965 Grey Cup champions.

Finishing second in the National Hockey League standings, the Montrealers eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs, who had won the Stanley Cup three years in a row, in a six-game semi-final that saw two of the games decided in overtime.

HOME TEAM WON

Montreal's success of the Montreal-Chicago final were won by the home team with the Canadiens shutting out the Black Hawks 4-0 victory in the seventh game, sparked by their veteran centre and captain, Jean Beliveau who was named the outstanding player of the series and first winner of the Conn Smythe Trophy.

It was the 15th cup victory in the Canadiens' history, their sixth in 17 seasons and a record - breaking sixth for Toe Blake as a coach. Blake's name also appears on the cup three times as a player, twice with the Canadiens and once with the old Montreal Maroons.

In the voting for the year's outstanding thrill, the Canadiens' Stanley Cup victory had a narrow 19-15 margin over Hamilton Tiger-Cats' 22-16 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the wind-blown Grey Cup final at Toronto's Exhibition Stadium Nov. 27.

The Ticats held second place by only one vote over another hockey achievement, the 600th goal in the tremendous career of Gordie Howe with Detroit Red Wings.

Nine voters recognized the world figure-skating title won by Petra Burka of Toronto and eight tabbed the emergence of Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont. as the world's outstanding halfmiler.

Despite their Grey Cup defeat by Hamilton, the Blue Bombers won their share of recognition in the thrill category. Six voters remember their comeback against Calgary Stampeders after losing the first game of the best-of-three series. Five others singled out the 109-yard touchdown pass play by Cookie Nielsen in the deciding game against Calgary.

A variety of other sports offered thrills to the panel, including the 800 victories by harness driver Roo Feagan, the victories by Canadian thoroughbreds George Royal and Whistling Sea and international triumphs by Canada's bobsled team and skiier Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C.

The Canadiens had a more decisive margin for team-of-the-year honors, in which points were awarded on a 3-2-1 basis for the first three choices of each panelist.

The Habs had 276 points and 58 first-place ballots to 223 points and 40 first choices for the Ticats. A distant third were Canada's world champion bobsled four with 101 points and 17 first-place votes.

The Blue Bombers were fourth with 74 points, followed by Niagara Falls Flyers, the Canadian junior hockey champions, with 37 and Sherbrooke Beavers, their senior counterparts, with 33.

Rounding out the top 10 were Oshawa Green Gaels, three-time Canadian junior lacrosse champions; Terry Braunstein's Canadian curling championship rink from Manitoba and two national champion football clubs, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' East York Argonauts and junior Notre Dame de Grace Maple Leafs.

Swedish Team Nips Beavers

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Leksand of Sweden Tuesday night defeated Sodertalje of Sweden 5-4 to Ahearne Cup hockey tournament play and took the lead in the over-all standing, two points ahead of the second-place Canadian team, Sherbrooke Beavers.

Sodertalej of Sweden defeated the Beavers 6-5 in tournament play earlier Tuesday, evening the Canadian Allan Cup champions' tournament record at 1-1.

All the goals for Leksand were scored by veteran player Nils Nilsson, a hero of uncount able international matches for the Swedish national team.

The Canadian team defeated Djurgaarden of Sweden 8-3 Sunday.

The Swedes outscored the Beavers 3-2 in the first period and 3-1 in the second. The Canadians had the edge in the final period and outscored the Swedes 2-0.

Scoring for Sherbrooke were Real Rousseau with two goals, Bill Dupre, Rene Pepin and George Guilbault.

Seven penalties were handed out in the game, four in Sherbrooke. Soedertalje outshot the Canadian team 33-29.

Kingston Defeats Seaboards

PICTON — The Kingston - Ganaqoque entry in the Lakeshore Intermediate hockey league upended the first - place Picton Seaboards 8-4 here last night.

Kingston turned the trick the hard way, too, spotting Seaboards a 3-0 lead in the first period. Picton made it 4-0 early in the second before the winners took over, scoring four in the second and another four some in the third.

Beggs and Nicholls sparked the winners' attack with two goals apiece. Single markers were scored by Gary Lavallee, Hall, Watt and Stewart. O'Donnell drew three assists and one, two, Hall, Nicholls, Laddell, Lavallee and Murphy one apiece.

Picton goal - getters were Moe Hunter, Beatty, Jim Goerney and Ron Weese in that order. Barry had two helpers, James, Hiennerl and Hunter one each.

Penalties hurt the losers as they took nine of the total of 15, eight of them coming in the final two periods.

The Seaboards visit Trenton troquois, in Trenton, tonight.

Wellington Squirts Shade Trenton

WELLINGTON — Wellington squirts defeated a Trenton team 2-1 in an exhibition game here last night.

Approve Addition To "Hall"

TORONTO (CP)—The Metropolitan Toronto executive committee Tuesday recommended the financing for a $400,000-addition to the building which houses the Hockey Hall of Fame at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds here.

The addition, forming an east wing, would become a Sports Hall of Fame and leave the existing section of the building as the display area for professional hockey. The NHL finances the present building.

Additional space for general sports was promised by the City of Toronto in an agreement with the NHL and must be completed by 1967.

Architects have said construction on the new wing must be started by May, 1966, for completion by then.

Golf Loot Upped

PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP)— The Professional Golfers Association predicted Tuesday that total prize money to be paid in its 1966 spring and summer tournaments would exceed the record $2,000,000 set this year. The schedule opens April 14 with the $100,000 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas and winds up Sept. 10-11 with the World Series of Golf.

The $200,000 World Open goes overseas for the first time and will be played at the Royal Birkdale Golf Club at Southport, England, Aug. 31-Sept. 3.

In another change, the $100,000 Canadian Open will be played Sept. 29-Oct. 2 at Vancouver, B.C., as part of the fall schedule. It previously was part of the spring-summer tour.

The Schedule Goofed!

A schedule mixup was cleared away yesterday when it was discovered that Belleville Rollins do not play an OHA Junior-Junior "B" game in Trenton tonight.

Picton visits Trenton Iroquois in Trenton tonight at 8.30 in a Lakeshore intermediate game but the Intelligencer's copy of the junior schedule also had Belleville playing the Apple Kings there, at 8.00. This information was published in the Sports Calendar and in recent stories concerning Rollins.

Belleville's next game is in Kingston one week from tonight, January 5, and the next home game is against Oshawa here on January 7.

Nationals Upset Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Nationals, winners of only six games in 28 starts this season in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, upset Peterborough Petes 5-4 Tuesday night.

The loss was only the second in the last 18 games for the second-place Petes while the victory moved the Nats within three points of vacating the cellar.

Montreal Junior Canadiens, meanwhile, moved into a fourth-place tie with Hamilton Red Wings by trouncing St. Catharines Black Hawks 12-2. The loss was one of the worst suffered by a St. Catharines team since that city joined the OHA Junior A circuit in 1943.

CLARK SCORES WINNER

A power-play goal by team captain Neil Clark gave London its first victory in five meetings this season with the Petes. With Joe Johnston of the Petes serving a tripping penalty, Clark whacked a backhander past Peterborough goaltender Ken Cawley. It was Clark's second goal of the game.

Neil Clairmont also scored twice for the Nats while Cliff Turner, acquired in a trade two weeks ago with Kitchener Rangers, scored his first goal in Junior A ranks. Peterborough coach Mickey Redmond with two each.

Norm Ferguson scored four goals for Montreal while Jacques Lemaire added three and Larry Pleau, Richard Pumple, Bernard Cad, Lucien Grenier and Robin Burns had one each. Barry Salsavara and Ken Laidlaw scored for St. Catharines goals.

In the third period Kerry Bond of the Hawks and Lemaire fought on the ice and in the penalty box and received 10-minute misconducts.

Trimble May Join U.S. Team

MONTREAL (CP)—Jim Trimble, former head coach of the Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference, reports he may join a non-capacity with a United States team next season.

Trimble left Montreal Tuesday for meetings with football executives in several U.S. cities, declining to disclose where any firm offers had been received. He would not confirm reports he may join a National Football League club as an adviser and troubleshooter.

Man And Wife

Blind Training Team

GEORGETOWN, Del. (AP) — Everett and Beulah Brown are a husband-wife harness horse training team. Both are blind.

They go from track to track in the minor league of trotting and pacing with two horses—Highland Pat and Swift Song.

As far as they know, they are the only blind persons actively engaged in harness racing.

Everett is legally blind, which means he can see the grandstand. His wife is totally blind.

Brown, 51, is one of eight children. Seven were stricken with a disease and were legally blind by the time they were 14.

Brown says he and his wife like the racing business, although it has been very rewarding financially.

Hugh O'Brian Finds Self Victim of Type-casting

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh O'Brian as "Wyatt Earp" was for six years a fast gun and a high Nielsen rating in television's Old West. O'Brian and the series quit while both were ahead and the actor looks back on the experience with mixed emotions.

"Television offers a young, unknown actor three things," he said. "Exposure to the public, money and aggravation."

His aggravation was real enough when the western series went into syndicated reruns and he was free to take his career elsewhere.

He found, as others before him, that he was a victim of type-casting. Today he is more sensitive, partly because he has finally succeeded in breaking the mould.

"My problem was—and still is, in some quarters—that producers of motion pictures may still think of me as a western actor."

FILMS STILL AIM

Moving from television into a film career is still the ambition of most young performers.

O'Brian, currently in New York rehearsing his part for next Sunday as host of NBC's Telephone Hour, has found a niche in films. He recently returned from making an adventure movie in The Philippines, and a mystery shot in Ireland will be seen in movie houses soon.

"I think it is terribly important for an actor to keep working even when it isn't necessary financially," he said.

"My ideal of the right balance of activity, and I'm getting close to it, is to make two pictures a year, take on four or five guest shots on television and do six or eight weeks of stock."

Great Variety of News Created in Past Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This was the year when Hollywood's royalty met Britain's, when two films named Harlow were playing the theatres, and when Lana Turner married for the sixth time.

It was quite a year.

Few years in Hollywood's recent history have brought such a variety of news as has 1965. The events and trends t h a t seemed most important to this reporter were:

1. The death of Nat King Cole. His death Feb. 15 from cancer shocked millions who enjoyed his mellow style.

2. Patricia Neal's struggle for life. The Academy Award actress (Hud, 1963) suffered three massive strokes as she starred a movie here, and her chances seemed paper-thin. Incredibly, she recovered and predicted a return to her career.

3. Julie Andrews' Oscar. Her triumph in Mary Poppins had a delicious flavor because she was after being overlooked for My Fair Lady. The appearance at the Academy awards of Audrey Hepburn, who wasn't nominated for her Eliza Doolittle, gave her honors for sportsmanship of the year.

4. Dorothy Malone's illness. The star of TV's Peyton Place held onto life after getting lapsed cloth in her lungs. Five weeks later, she was sufficiently recovered to return to work.

5. Marriages and falsehood for Cary Grant. The suave actor, married to actress Dyan Cannon, denied fact as a newsfather.

6. Passing of the old guard. The year brought another toll of movie pioneers, including Jeanette MacDonald, Stan Laurel, Clara Bow, David O. Selznick and Mac Murray.

7. The Frank Sinatra-Mia Farrow romance. As the legendary singer passed the 50-year mark, his steady date was the waif-like star of Peyton Place, 20 years his junior.

8. Elsa Lanchester-Novak's marriage. Hollywood's most noted bachelor girl married Richard Johnson, her co-star in The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders.

9. The death of Marie McDonald. Her name recalled her madcap adventures, particularly the kidnapping she reported in 1957.

10. Bondomania. In 1964 it was the Beatles. The dominating affliction of the entertainment world in 1965 was James Bond. The jet-age sleuth made millions with two new films and a pair of reissues, causing endless fads and a flood of imitators in films and television.

Deseronto News

DESERONTO — Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Aylesworth of the Deseronto Road were their daughter, Mrs. Leslie Estey, with Mr. Estey, Marilyn, Brian and Barbara of Oakville.

Ronald Detlor of Edmund Street has been appointed deputy in the Bawden Wing of the Kingston General Hospital since the week before Christmas.

Mrs. Ernest Berley, with Elaine, Kenneth and Stephen of Evans Street, Deseronto, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fraser of Oshawa, formerly of Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Elliott, Gordon and Robert of Welland were Christmas Sunday guests of Mr. Elliott's brother Borden and Mrs. Elliott of R.R. 1, Deseronto.

Weekend into membership of the Deseronto United Church Christmas communion Sunday by the minister, the Rev. Russell Finley, were: Mr. Percy Hamilton, Miss Gladys Hall, Robert Fingland, Mr. Louie Hird, Mr. Ralph Lawlor, Mrs. Ralph Lawlor, Miss Francis Marcone, Miss Sharon Pringle, and Miss Elaine Thompson.

Christmas day weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dimmell of St. George Street were their son Norman and family, Dinnell, with Chris, Shirley and Roger of Camp Borden, and Peter, home for the holidays with his parents during his vacation from the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton. Mr. and Mrs. Dimmell left on Monday for Ottawa to visit their daughter, Mrs. Russell Finley, acted as master of ceremonies. A goodly crowd filled the brightly decorated hall, with its lighted tree.

The program was varied, opening with the singing of a carol by everyone. Then the beginners, taught by Susan Webster and Carolyn Woods, and the primary pupils, whose teachers are Margaret Kelk and Diane Sharpe, sang three songs. All by themselves, the primary pupils presented "The Little Ones' Gift to the King," and all alone Mary Hird spoke of "The Friendly Beast."

The junior boys and girls together presented three numbers, two playlets and a numberous pantomime. Their teachers are Jim Stuart and Mrs. Lawlor.

Mrs. Ralph Aylsworth's interesting boys and girls did remarkably well in their one-act play, in which Suzanne Barclay, Valerie Trumpour, Barry Weaver and Don Moon had speaking parts. A skit was well received, with Anna Jackson taking the leading part, and Wayne Jackson playing "Silent Night" on his electric guitar.

No Christmas concert would be complete without recitations, and there were three this time: by Jay Hawley, Donald Hird and Wayne Kellar.

Finally the big night of the year for the kiddies was over, and each received his bag of treats as he left the hall.

DESERONTO UNITED CHURCH

DESERONTO — Santa Claus was too busy to visit the Deseronto United Church Sunday School concert shortly before Christmas, but he had delegated his helpers to have a treat ready for each child. The minister, Rev. Russell Finley, acted as master of ceremonies. A goodly crowd filled the brightly decorated hall, with its lighted tree.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—This province is alive its car licence plates to publicize "Come Home Year" in 1966. The front will carry no numbers and read "Newfoundland and Labrador Come Home Year 1966." Provincial Premier Smallwood hopes that Newfoundland cars elsewhere in Canada will thus remind former islanders to visit their native province.

Candlelight Service Held At Church

DESERONTO — The candlelight service in the Deseronto United Church Christmas Sunday was beautiful in its simplicity. Each bowing a lighted candle, members of both senior and junior choirs sang the processional hymns as they entered and took their places.

Anthems sung by the senior choir included Caleb Simper's "Peace on Earth," with Mrs. Marjorie Wood taking the soprano solo; "The Birthday of a King," with Mrs. Jeanette Higgins as the soloist, and "Behold I Bring Your Good Tidings."

The junior choir sang a special arrangement of S. L. Cushman's Christmas carol, "Come Softly to the Manger."

The guest soloist, Miss Judith Empson of Napanee, gave an impressive rendering of Adam's "Cantique de Noel." Sandra Vas Dias sang singing "Christmas Lullaby" by Gabriel was equally pleasing. Miss Judy Crisp was heard in the popular "How Great Thou Art."

Rail Unions Want to Talk On Pensions

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of 17 railway unions, saying Canadian Pacific Railway employees would be hurt, have asked the CPR Tuesday to negotiate changes in the railway pension arrangements announced earlier this month.

The union officials protested after talks called the decision by CPR Chairman N. R. Crump that the pension matters they raised "are not open to discussion."

Representatives are members of the General Chairmen's Association, which consists of chairmen of 40 locals of the international unions at the CPR.

Association Chairman J. H. Hall said:

"If the CPR does not agree to negotiate, then the employees have no within their rights to contemplate some sort of strike action.

The CPR announced to its employees Dec. 14 that in view of the impending Canada and Quebec pension plans it intended to integrate rather than add its own private plan to the government schemes.

The union made a formal submission to Mr. Crump and CPR President N. R. Emerson on Tuesday "to set a date within the next two weeks when the negotiations might commence."

Co-operation between Northern Electric scientists and the Montreal Rehabilitation Institute will result in miniaturized electronic components that may make possible the introduction of a new artificial hand for children. Model of such a hand is compared with the Russian-designed hand now in use by the

Northern Electric's 'Lab' at Ottawa To Improve Soviet Artificial Hand

MONTREAL — Handicapped children may soon benefit from the use of new artificial hands, thanks to development work currently under way at Canada's largest privately - owned research centre.

The Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal says Northern Electric has offered to contribute the know - how and technical ability of the scientists in its Ottawa Research and Development Laboratories to the Institute's program of prostheses. (Many former Belleville residents are employed there). Particular attention is being devoted to the development of a hand for children, especially the thalidomide babies who are now approaching four years of age.

Officials of the Institute point out that there is an urgent need for an improved artificial hand for handicapped children in the 3-5 years age group, where early training in the use of artificial hands is essential for use of these devices in later life.

USE RUSSIAN DESIGN

A Russian - designed artificial hand recently introduced to Canada by the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal has many advantages over the artificial limbs most frequently used today.

This hand was developed for male adults only, however, and is not suitable for females or children, in addition to being in the early stages of development.

Many of the artificial limbs in use today use a splithook instead of a life-like hand and operate from mechanical signals or changes in the body shape, such as rounding or straightening the shoulders.

Advantages of the Russian-designed artificial hand include the psychological effects of a life-like hand, more natural motions, the potential addition of extra functions such as elbow bending and wrist rotation and the ease with which the unit can be packaged.

MUSCLE-POWERED

This new artificial hand is connected in a sleeve-like socket which fits over the stump. Inside this socket are tiny electrodes which fit against the user's own muscles. As muscles are contracted a small electrical signal is given off, picked up by the electrodes and transmitted to a built-in amplifier. Electric power is switched in a motor within the artificial hand and this in turn operates the opening and closing. The system is powered by rechargeable nickel-cadmium batteries suspended in a belt around the waist, or in other convenient locations.

Medical-engineering co-operation between Northern Electric scientists, free of charge, and the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal will result in the development of externally powered devices capable of restoring lost functions of the human extremities. These include prehension (operating a hook or an artificial hand for grasp); wrist rotation; elbow and upper arm movements.

MUST REDUCE SIZE

Reducing the size and weight of the artificial arm is an essential consideration. Microelectronic techniques will be applied by the company's researchers to build a tiny amplifier which could be incorporated into the electrodes and applied directly over the control muscles. This will also tend to lessen the effects of electrical interference which could cause unwanted operation at times.

Clinical and technological research is badly needed, the Institute says, to determine the most useful configuration of upper extremity prostheses. Interchangeable terminal devices and other standard components will be developed to provide the versatility required by the handicapped. Restoring the ability of a disabled person to perform essential functions independently in daily living is the first step towards restoring the confidence, psychological balance and physical capacities temporarily overshadowed by disability. The handicapped, the Institute says, must resume their role as useful, productive members of society.

U.S. Spaceship Off on Cruise Around Sun

WASHINGTON (AP) — After five days in space Monday, the U.S. National Space and Aeronautic Association's Pioneer VI satellite has completed shakedown operations and is encountering fair space weather as it begins a long cruise around the sun.

NASA scientists at Ames Research Centre in California say early data shows a solar wind velocity of about 670,000 miles an hour in space. Velocities of 2,000,000 m.p.h. have been registered in periods of high solar activity.

In addition, Pioneer VI data shows that the magnetic fields are fairly unfluctuating. It has encountered comparatively few charged particles.

Pioneer VI was launched Dec. 16 from Cape Kennedy, Fla. It completed the initial phase of its mission the next day, acting on 175 commands from earth to focus a high-gain, narrow-beam antenna on earth.

LBJ Sends Goldberg To Pope In Effort To Start Peace Talks

By Thomas A. Reedy

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes gave North Viet Nam a seventh day of relief from bombardment today, but the Viet Cong fought on in the south with attacks in and around Saigon and in the shadow of the 14th U.S. marine base at Da Nang.

Before dawn 500 Viet Cong drove a South Vietnamese military company from a government stronghold known as Hill 60 only four miles from the outer defences of the Da Nang encampment. The Communists still occupied the hill after daybreak.

In Saigon, a Vietnamese journalist whose pro-American articles brought him threats from the Viet Cong, was shot to death this afternoon as he rode home by bicycle. Police attributed the slaying of Tu Chong, 35, a writer for the daily newspaper Chich Dao, to Viet Cong agents. The assailants escaped.

Authorities said it was the 20th civilian or government official assassinated a, Saigon newspaper man.

The Viet Cong renewed their mortar and infantry attacks in Quang Ngai province, 60 miles south of Da Nang after overrunning the district town of Minh Long Wednesday.

A U.S. military spokesman disclosed the Communists executed three U.S. marines and eight South Vietnamese soldiers in Quang Ngai province earlier this month. The bodies were found in shallow graves and they appeared to have been shot many times in the face at close range.

LOCATE BOMBS

A serious terrorist incident was narrowly averted when police discovered four mines planted in a basket of fruit in a crowded bus depot in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter.

The air moratorium began early on Christmas Eve and now exceeds the suspension of air raids in Mad Hanoi broadcasts today did not acknowledge the bombing lull but instead emphasized reports of the unabated U.S. and South Vietnamese air action against the guerrillas in the south. These attacks "daily contrast with U.S. authorities' allegations of peace and negotiations," one broadcast said.

U.S. sources in Washington said that American Air Force and naval reconnaissance jets are continuing to range over North Vietnamese territory as they look for targets for bombing. They are trying to learn, among other things, how much protection the Viet Cong are receiving damage from earlier U.S. attacks as well as the extent of traffic moving south to the south. The sources also reported that U.S. Navy planes are checking on Haiphong harbor for Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port. Some 40 a month were reported unloading cargo, including deckloads of trucks and other military gear.

"THE WEATHER"

Synopsis: Colder air should arrive in southern Ontario overnight, a sharp drop in temperatures into the 10s is forecast for southern areas tonight and in the north some localities will report below zero readings.

Financiers' Coup in Rhodesia Forecast by Ousted Bishop

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Bishop James Pike, the Episcopalian bishop of California who was barred Wednesday from Rhodesia, today forecast a bloodless coup in Britain's breakaway white-ruled colony.

On arrival in Kenya after being turned away from Salisbury as a "prohibited immigrant," Pike told a press conference the coup would be backed by financiers whom he said were already feeling the effects of economic sanctions.

"Prissy Attitudes" Handicap Church

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — "Prissy attitudes" are preventing the Christian church from making a worthwhile contribution toward creating a better world, says the founder and executive director of Operation: Crossroads Africa.

Dr. James H. Robinson of New York said Wednesday at a youth conference on alcohol problems that some Christians practise their religion in such a way as to give the impression it could "freeze ice cream in the church."

Every local congregation should try something new each year, "something really bold, adventurous and courageous," he said.

And no student should be allowed to graduate from university "until they spend one year in service in an underdeveloped country."

Earlier, Donald Parsons, a 22-year-old first-year student at Queen's Theological College, Kingston, told the 600 delegates said teen-agers should blame themselves if they feel bored.

"There is so much to do that we don't know where to start," he said.

"We can't make up our minds to go bowling, to a party or to a show, so we stay at home and say, 'What is there to do?' "We prefer to remain rebels without a cause. We prefer to have a cliff and watch raving maniacs than scramble down and get our clothes dirty. So we remain where we think we can be secure and happy and keep our clothes clean."

Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer, accused brewers and distillers of having a "strangle hold" in official quarters.

"Apparently no political party can afford to enter the fight against this fearful waste," he said, noting Canadians spent 12 times more on alcohol and tobacco last year than was spent on pensions for Canadian veterans of both world wars.

Toronto's police chief, James Mackey, said the legislature should stretch penalties for tests compulsory in Ontario for drivers suspected of being impaired.

Smith Says British Bungling May Be Cause of Blood-letting

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith said Wednesday night the British government's "bungling" over the Rhodesian issue could be the direct cause of the shedding of blood and loss of life.

In a statement issued here he said it appeared the British people had been deceived over the Rhodesian crisis and had been misled into thinking that the gasoline shortage in neighboring Zambia, a Commonwealth member, had been caused by Rhodesia.

Smith added: "If the British block up the entrance to a pipeline they should not express surprise when nothing comes out the other end."

The Rhodesian breakaway white-minority regime imposed a ban on the supply of oil products for Zambia Dec. 18—the day after Britain announced an oil embargo on Rhodesia.

Landlocked Zambia, which depends on the Rhodesian railways system for its gasoline has been supplied through an expensive airlift by Britain, Another by Canada is about to go into operation.

Smith said sanctions were having a much more serious effect on Zambia's economy than on Rhodesia.

He said he had been told the position in Zambia was deteriorating rapidly and "most disturbing of all, I am reliably informed that the British government's policy is to stand idly by and condone this . . ."

Big Year Seen By Pearson

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Looking toward a busy 1966, Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday he has proposed a federal-provincial conference on securities legislation and that the parliamentary program indicates "we could easily be here all year."

Mr. Pearson, in probably his final press conference of 1965, released a copy of the letter he wrote to provincial premiers suggesting a meeting of officials to look into "all areas of securities and exchange legislation." He hoped such a meeting could be held before spring.

The prime minister held the conference during the noon hour to indicate a long session. he hoped it would be possible to have Easter and summer recesses. This would be achieved with "good parliamentary business on our side and constructive co-operation on the opposition."

QUEBEC PLANS STUDY

His letter to the premiers on the proposed securities study comes after Quebec Premier Lesage has announced a provincial study of "near banks"—finance companies—which he says are under provincial jurisdiction.

United Appeal Fund Tops . . . $100,000 Mark

Belleville United Appeal officials announced at noon today that the 1965 appeal has topped the $100,000 mark. This is the highest total in the appeal's eight-year history.

John McFlynn, campaign chairman, said "We have counted substantially on local industry and they have come through again with flying colors. We want to thank all citizens for their fine support".

Auto Wage Parity Demand May Be Enforced by Strike

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the leaders of the United Auto Workers Union (CLC) are prepared to shut down the North American auto industry, if necessary, to gain wages for its Canadian members equal to those paid auto workers in the United States.

The newspaper says this was the essence of decisions taken Wednesday by top UAW officers from both Canada and the U.S.

The wage gap ranges from 40 to 50 cents an hour for production workers and up to $1 an hour for skilled tradesmen.

UAW president, Walter Reuther, today called for spreading the cost of parity for Canadian wages in the industry under the combined Canadian-U.S. work force by introducing it as part of a company-wide wage-packet settlement.

This, the newspaper says, may entail bargaining with each company on an international basis with a specified sum per employee per hour set aside to take care of inequities.

The Globe also says that Jerry Hartford, public relations director for the union's Canadian section, was asked what would happen if the auto industry in the United States refused to bargain on an international basis for wage parity.

"They would have to be prepared to take a strike at their peril," it quotes him as saying.

Air Canada Achieves Traffic Record in '65

MONTREAL (CP)— G. R. McGregor, president of Air Canada, said today in his yearend message the airline achieved record traffic and revenues in 1965. He anticipates it will record another profit, its 12th in 13 years.

Increases in all segments of the operation increased 1965 revenues to $250,000,000, a 17-per-cent increase over 1964.

Passengers carried on scheduled flights in 1965 increased 11 per cent and air freight earned increased 37 per cent over the 1964 figures.

There were 4,686,400 passengers carried in 1965 and 56,586,000 ton-miles of air freight.

Air express rose 22 per cent to 5,368,000 and air mail rose eight per cent to 17,065,000 tonmiles.

The introduction of additional jet aircraft and "increased fleet utilization" boosted available seat miles on scheduled flights by 17 per cent for a 1965 total of 5,454,000.

By 1967 the company will have 40 jet aircraft in operation.

In 1966, two 129 - passenger DC-8s and six 72 - passenger DC-9 twin jets are to be delivered. In 1967, four 196-passenger DC-8s and 12 94-passenger DC-9s will join the fleet.

In 1968, the company will move into a $20,000,000 passenger terminal at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport, in conjunction with British Overseas Airways Corp., builder of the project.

Key to Peace Bids Rests In Hands of Ho Chi Minh

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

The key to success or failure of Viet Nam peace bids may rest in the fragile hands of an old revolutionary caught in a struggle for power between the world's two Communist giants.

Ho Chi Minh, 75, has worked half a century for international communism as a tactician of revolution. Today, as president of North Viet Nam, he confronts a situation that may seem insoluble.

As an internationalist, Ho probably is inclined to follow Moscow's lead.

But he has a huge neighbor on his northern frontier: China. He seems captive of a majority faction of his own politburo which follows Peking's lead.

This faction—headed by Truong Chinh, chairman of the North Viet Nam National Assembly—evidently took over in Hanoi last week in a sudden shakeup of the North Vietnamese hierarchy. It evidently subscribes to the Chinese formula of violent "people's war" as the only effective road to world communism.

From time to time there had been evidence that Ho was willing to listen to some sort of formula to end the bloodletting.

Viet Nam lives the dubious choice of progressive destruction from U.S. bombing or massive influx of Chinese who could forever kill off any trace of Vietnamese independence.

But Ho does not appear to be a free agent. His current statements reflect the granite - hard line. They also reflect the Soviet-Chinese struggle.

Moscow is sending its Communist party leader, Alexander N. Shelepin, to Hanoi. His mission undoubtedly is to make Soviet influence paramount. If he succeeds it could lead eventually to some sort of accommodation with the United States.

Bundy Sees Pearson

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The White House announced today another presidential peace mission—this one to Canada — and indicated others would be forthcoming as part of an effort to emphasize the United States quest for peace in Viet Nam.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, announced that McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, flew to Ottawa Wednesday night for a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Pearson.

Johnson himself planned to confer by telephone with Pearson later today, Moyers said, Canada, along with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

U.S. willingness to do all it can for peace," and said he would report the Pope's views only to the president.

Goldberg was to leave Rome tonight after talks with Premier Aldo Moro and other Italian officials.

He would not disclose his next destination.

Roving ambassador Harriman arrived unannounced in Warsaw aboard a Polish Air Force jet and promptly met with Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The White House said Harriman, at Johnson's request,

New Pension Costs Should Add Little To Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue department officials say the additional payroll expense of the Canada Pension Plan starting next week should add only fractionally to consumer prices.

One official estimated that the additional wage cost on a restaurant meal, for instance, should only be about one cent on a $3 tab.

Starting Jan. 1, employers required to deduct 1.8 per cent of each employee's wages between $600 and $5,000 and send it along with payroll deductions for income taxes to the revenue department. In addition, the employer must match the pension plan deduction with the same amount of his own funds.

But these employer contributions to the pension fund are counted as a business expense, and the amount is not taxable for corporation profits. For the tax-paying firm—especially one showing profits of more than $35,000 a year and paying taxes at the rate of 50 per cent—this means an additional payroll expense of a lot less than 1.8 per cent.

Acting Finance Minister Benson said in reply to questions about possible price hikes resulting from introduction of the pension fund collections that the costs would form a very small part of an employer's whole business expense.

"One of the major purposes of the Canada Pension Plan is to provide a basic pension for people who are not adequately covered by private pension plans," he said

"Where there are private plans in existence, it is possible to integrate the CPP into these existing pensions schemes at no extra cost—either to the employee or to the employer—and this is being done in many cases."

Where the Canada Pension Plan is being "stacked" on top of an existing pension plan, the contribution will be extra for both the employer and the employee, but the employee's benefits on retirement will be greater.

Arnold Somerville of Guelph, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, said the 2,100 members of his organization would have to raise prices by a small amount on all items in their menus to cover the CPP costs. He said food and other supply costs would go up with the CPP and recent hikes in trucking rates, as well as their own payrolls.

But a revenue department source said that a waitress being paid $60 a week would contribute only 17 cents a day from her pay cheque, and her employer's expense would be only 17 cents.

Old 1965 to Ride Out Amid Entertainment, Funfare, Music, Dancing

The world-weary 1965 chere-ups with wings drooping and soiled will go down into the chives of memory as the latest of celebrative glory tomorrow night.

Biding the midnight crest of a wave of convivial glory his hooped-winged successor will ishes over as the welkins re-sound and the wassails held igh.

The city and district have set he stage for what appears to be one of the noisiest "welcome ingal" receptions seen and heard here in years.

Clubs, motels and organiza- backgrounded by private parties have readied a whoop-do-do that should be a delight for the bleabonnaise manufacturers.

Fanfare, funfare, music, dancing, entertainment, dinners and buffets round out a celebration meant that will be deserted by the conventional circulatory ex-perts.

The "rahs" run from a tops of $18.00 package deal to two dollars a person.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will combine the usual officers' and sergeants' messes party into a col-lective whole.

The joint celebration will be held on a colorfully decorated armories floor with dancing and a buffet at a package "rah" of $18.00 per couple. Special beat-ing arrangements have been in-stalled.

On New Year's Day Lieut. Col. H. J. K. Willcocks and his officers will hold the traditional morning levee.

The Belleville Club for the first time in its history will salute the new year with a party.

The Sun Valley Motel has a midnight buffet, dancing and entertainment tabbed at $17.50 the couple.

MANY "SOLD OUT"

The Tops Motel has "tops" entertainment, buffet, horns and dancing and the wallet is depleted by $10.00 the couple.

The Club Cedars, a popular district New Year rendezvous is "sold out." The Stone Mill or Hotel near there is expect-ing a large crowd.

Islam Caravan Knights of Co-lumbus has a turkey buffet and dancing at $15.00 the couple. Patrons have been limited to 60 tickets.

The Masonic Temple will be the scene of a celebrative party with tickets at $3.00 per person.

The Red Lion, Highway 33, Trenton, has fine entertain-ment, hats, "hot music," and a buffet at $14.00 the couple.

The Club Canara will be the scene of a Local 683 party with all the trimmings price, $8.00 the couple.

The Belleville Shrine Club's party will be limited to mem-bers and guests with a mid-night buffet and dancing.

The Royal Canadian Legion branch will celebrate with a $18.00 per couple package deal dinner and dance. ANAF Branch is holding a dinner-dance at $10.00 per couple. All tickets are sold.

The Belleville Bowl is hold-ing a bowling party with the bragging starting at 10 p.m. Prices are $2.00 the couple, $3.00 for singles.

Park Dale Community hall will be the scene of the "Club 300" party with prices set at $2.00 per person.

Many city residents are planning private dinners and parties.

The Belle Theatre is holding a gala New Year's Eve pic-ture party. The Park Theatre will not.

The Wayside Inn, Shannon-ville is having a swing-a-long, dance-long party while later it was learned there is a second party at the Club Cedars fea-turing the "Vandells." Buf-fet lunch and dancing at $5.00 the couple.

C. G. Walker Named B-A Marketing Head

Charles Walker has been appointed to the position of manager, marketing, at the British American Oil Co. Ltd. Mr. Walker was an instruc-tor at the Trenton air base during the war and is married to a Belleville girl, the former Doris Andrews. They and their three children moved last April from Calgary to Toronto, which will be Mr. Walker's headquart-ers in his new position, effec-tive Jan. 1.

Mr. Walker joined B-A Oil in Regina in 1939 and held marketing posts in Saskatche-wan and Alberta and at head office before being named man-ager of marketing co-ordina-tion early this year.

FREDERICK LLOYD SCHAEFER

The funeral of Frederick Lloyd Schaefer was held Wed-nesday evening at the John R. Bush Funeral Home chapel where service was conducted by Rev. Eric Quirk, assisted by Rev. Robert Black of Picton Baptist Church.

Interment was made Thurs-day morning in Pine Hill Ceme-tery where committal rites were said by Mr. Quirk.

MRS. HOWARD JUBY

The funeral of Mrs. Howard Juby was held Wednesday from the Grant Funeral Home on North Front Street where ser-vice in the chapel was conduct-ed by Rev. T. F. Townsend. In-terment was in Frankford Ceme-tery.

The bearers were Willmott Rose, Frank Roblin, Harold Rikley, Carman Rikley, Charles Devolin and Harold Juby.

MRS. CARRIE SPENCER (Rochester, N.Y.)

The funeral of Mrs. Carrie Spencer, 1648 Ridge Road, West, Rochester, N.Y., was held Tues-day from the Farrell Brothers Colonial Funeral Home with interment in Riverside Ceme-tery.

The bearers, all grandsons of the deceased, were Cecil Knott, Eugene, Carl, John and Mc-Kenzie Spencer and John Knight.

A native of the Quinte dist-rict, Mrs. Spencer was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Reid and had lived at Hal-loway and Belleville before moving to Rochester 45 years ago. She died at her home in Rochester on Christmas day.

Pre-deceased by her husband, McKenzie Spencer, she is sur-vived by one daughter, Mrs. An-drew (Pearl) Scott of Rochester and a son A. Bertram Spencer of Rochester, eight grandchild-ren and 17 great grandchildren. A brother Andrew Reid lives in Niagara Falls.

Construction May Set New Record

The year 1965 could see an all-time record for construction in Belleville.

Totals for the year have not yet been tabulated at city hall, but two structures alone — the new addition to Belleville Gen-eral Hospital and the new Bay of Quinte District High School in West Belleville — will account for approximately $10,000,000.

The building permit for the new high school is included in the December building list and is for $2,285,200. The total building list so far this month is $3,488,986.

The month's list also includes construction of three double tri-plex apartment houses by T. T. Barkley at 115 Dundas Street, East, costing $100,000 and a new building for Culligan Water Conditioning of Ontario on College Street at $50,000.

City Youth Is Fatally Injured Near Bancroft

A 20-year-old Belleville man died in hospital last night after the wholesale delivery truck he was driving smashed into a rock cut near Bancroft.

Fatally injured was David Phillip Price, 227 MacDonald Avenue, a driver for Cook's Wholesale, of Belleville.

Price was rushed to Peter-borough Civic Hospital with a fractured skull and crushed chest after his truck was found all smashed against the rock cut on Highway 62, five miles north of Bancroft.

Provincial police said they had no indication what caused the accident and are still in-vestigating.

He died shortly after being admitted to hospital.

Price, employed by the wholesale firm for the past five months, had completed deliver-ies in Bancroft and was en route to Maynooth when the fatal mishap occurred.

Born in Belleville, he at-tended St. Quinte Avenue Alexandria Public School and Moira Secondary School. He was a member of Bridge Street Uni-ted Church.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Raymond (Marilyn) Allen, R.R. 3 Belleville.

Funeral services will be held at the John R. Bush Funeral Home Saturday with burial in Elmwood Cemetery.

Many Pay Final Tribute To Col. P. H. Wills' Memory

Final tribute to Colonel Philip H. "Phay" Wills, former industrial executive, ex-soldier and friend was paid Wednesday afternoon at the funeral ser-vice held from St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Former members of the 21st Battalion with which unit Col. Wills saw service overseas in World War I, commanding of-ficers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from the past and present, along with veterans of two world wars, were joined with family members and friends.

Officers of the H. and P. E. Regiment and the former officers of the 21st Battalion formed a guard of honor as the flag drap-ed casket was moved into the Church to the final resting place in Belleville Cemetery.

Colonel Edward Ponton, vice-chairman of the Pinkston and Lus-combe Funeral Home, was con-ductor of the service. Rev. J. McConnell, assisted by Rev. Martin Walsh.

Last Post and Reveille were sounded at the graveside by Bugler Lance Corporal in a brief eulogy to the well-known World War I soldier, Archdeacon A. S. McConnell referred to Col. Wills as a Can-adian patriot, whose sacrifice in the war years helped others make today's freedom possible.

"Today we have our patriots, our Canadian youth and the go-getters and if by their action they can bring peace, we salute them," said Archdeacon Mc-Connell.

"But one thing they have for-gotten — that the Canadian boys enjoy today was made possible by men like Col. Wills."

Col. Wills' last sailing that Col. Wills could be honored by veterans of the old 21st Bat-talion, the Light Infantry and by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in which he had taken a personal in-terest in the military.

Fittingly the service at St. Thomas such criticism is based on knowledge and is construc-tive those engaged in teaching are professional persons and the complaints are based on ig-norance. Open House at Quinte Secondary School is invited to visit, teacher and student. Res-ults in the past have been good. They can be better still. Par-ents alone can guarantee success of this year's Open House by visiting them on January 4 and January 10.

May Hold Inquest Into Youth's Death

TRENTON — Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Church in Trenton this Thursday morning by the Very Rev. J. G. Clancy for David Warren Johnson, 19, who died Tuesday night of injuries suf-fered in a Christmas Eve acci-dent.

Bearers were James, John and George Bonn, Gerald Bib-by, Bart Garrett and John Mc-Donald.

The service was under the direction of the Weaver Funer-al Home.

Police Chief R. J. Rutherford said yesterday an inquest would probably be called to enquire into the circumstances surround-ing the death of the local youth, who suffered severe head in-juries and burns when his car plunged through a barrier into a storm sewer trench on Mar-morra Street.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ro-bert Johnson of Onderdonk Street and a sister, Karen, 20, a nurse in-training at Belleville General Hospital.

Town to End Year on Sound Financial Basis

TRENTON — Town treasurer Peter Degroot said yesterday the town would end the year on a sound financial basis, al-though there may be small de-fits in one or two depart-ments.

For instance, Mr. Degroot said, the welfare department and the public works' depart-ment have overspent their bud-get estimates, but these deficits may be made up from surpluses in other departments, such as police department.

Taxes have been coming in on a par with last year and there has not been too much overexpenditure on capital works' items, Mr. Degroot said.

One item of extra expense this year was wages paid to municipal election workers. So much was budgeted for this at budget time last year; then the minimum wage became effec-tive in the province, and the workers had to be paid accord-ing.

In all events, the whole pic-ture won't be clear until after the auditors go over the town books some time after the first of the year.

One good piece of news is that the town is still within the 20 per cent debenture debt comparison with total assess-ment, as recommended (and sometimes insisted upon) by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Curling to Start

TRENTON — The ice is in at the Trenton Curling Rink, and regular scheduled play will start this week with a mixed club bonspiel. Industrial play will start on Thursday, Jan. 6.

The 1965-66 schedule called for curling to start on Nov. 1 at the local club but a break-down in the refrigerating plant forced a postponement.

Quinte Plans Two Nights For Parents

Students and teachers of Quinte Secondary School will close classes next Monday, January 3. The return to rou-tine marks the beginning of a second term which is of great importance to the students' suc-cess in the year's work. In or-der to stimulate study habits and teachers gain the most from this coming term Quinte will hold its previous year's Pa-rents' Nights. On Tuesday, January 4, parents of students in Grades 12 and 13 are invited to meet the teachers beginning at 7:00 p.m. On Monday, Janu-ary 10 parents of students in Grades 10, 11, and 13 are invi-ted to a similar Open House.

Practical arrangements are made to permit the parents to interview as many teachers as possible. Interview schedules will be made up in the gymna-torium on arrival.

In an age when education is becoming increasingly import-ant, too many parents do not realise what the school is doing or how they can help the teach-er to do his job more efficiently. Often a word between teacher and parent can make it possible for one of them to be of more help in the child.

HAPPY TO MEET

Teachers are always happy to meet the parents of the good stu-dent. They share a common pride and joy. Teachers always welcome parents when the pa-problem child fail to attend Open House. A valuable oppor-tunity has been lost.

Parents often criticize the school system and the teacher. Un-

Senior Citizens' Club Members Entertained

TRENTON — Around 90 members of the Trenton Senior Citizens' Club were entertain-ed last night by the Trenton Oddfellows and members of the Rebekah lodge. They were tak-en in a tour of Trenton and the surrounding area to view the colorful Christmas lights and returned to the I.O.O.F. Hall on Elgin Street for lunch. Santa Claus made a belated visit and each club member was presented with a gift. Mrs. E. D. Topping was convener of the event.

Mayor Will Outline Plans For Council

TRENTON — Trenton town council's inaugural meeting on Monday, Jan. 3 will be a small different this year from other years.

Following a swearing in cere-mony for Mayor James Mac-Donald and councillors Donald R. Fraser, Jr. V. Graham and Douglas Kinsey, in the town hall over the police station, (start-ing at 11:30 a.m.) the council will adjourn to the Gilbert Hotel for luncheon. Invited to the luncheon are members of the public utility commission and the board of education, whose inaugural meetings will be held on Thursday, Jan. 6, (at 4 p.m.) and Wednesday, Jan. 12, (at 8 p.m.) respectively.

At the end of the luncheon the mayor will outline council's plans for 1966.

Minor Hockey Tournament Was Success

TRENTON — Trenton's Box-ing Day minor hockey tourna-ment this year was a success-ful event, according to Ronald Thornton, community gardens manager.

Mr. Thornton said close to 200 persons were in and out of the gardens during the day, watching home league games in the morning, all-star games in the afternoon and, (the icing on the cake) two evening games, featuring juveniles and juniors. Trenton juveniles defeated a team from Bowmanville and the juniors won out over the Toron-to Dixie Bee Hives.

During the day, Robert Haker from the fire department ran a educational hockey film in the upstairs auditorium for the benefit of the boys, who were not engaged in playing hockey at the time.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Trenton's 4,500 public, separ-ate and high school students will start back for the spring term on Monday, Jan. 3.

At the high school, two new teachers have been hired to re-place two who resigned last term; there are three new teachers in the public school and one new teacher each at St. Peter's and St. Mary's.

IN MEMORIAM

CROSS — In loving memory of a dear mother, Sarah Jane, who passed away Dec. 31, 1959. Lovingly remembered by her son, Irving, giving the whole of the way,

A cherished smile, a heart of gold, To the dearest mother the world could hold.

Happy memories, dear mother and son, Have brought the world of joy.

—Remembered by daughter Jen-nie, Robert and Grandchildren.

PASCOE — In loving memory of Father and grandfather, Ernest Pascoe, who passed away, December 29th, 1964.

—Ever remembered by Morley, Pascoe, Ruth and Family.

PASCOE — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away Dec. 30, 1964, Ernest Pascoe, (Ernie) Gal-pay (Dorothy) who passed away Dec. 30, 1964.

On happy hours we once enjoyed, Dear memories are kept,

Of death had set it's seal,

The world can never fill

The vacancy you've left behind by the family.

LEWIS — In loving memory of my dear mother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1958.

In our hearts your memory lingers, Sweetly tender, fond and true, Tho' we do not see your footsteps, Tho' we do not hear your voice,

Lovingly remembered by son Carl and daughter-in-law Alice.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to Rev. N. Hutchinson and Dr. E. MacDonald, also to friends and neighbors for floral tributes, cards and gifts received during the loss of our beloved father, Mr. E. Mahood of Peterborough.

Muriel and Noble Mahood.

Woman Injured When Her Car Hits Culvert

A Belleville woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, of 185 Foster Ave., in Belleville General Hospital with multiple facial lacerations and possible rib fractures, suffered when her car left the road west of Red-berrville and struck a culvert.

Provincial Police at Picton this morning were unable to give details of the mishap other than that only one vehicle was involved. She was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

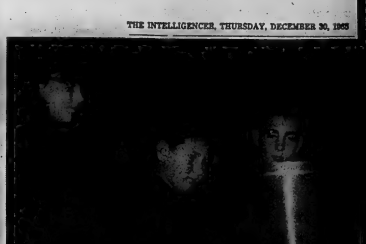
Recount Did Not Change First Result



BRIGHTON — Results of the December 6 Cramahe Township election for Reeve remained essentially the same, with J. F. Cochrane, retaining a one-vote win over incumbent J. G. Honey, following an official recount in Cobourg Wednesday.

Judge J.C. Anderson of Belleville, presided at the recount, due to the illness of United Counties Judge John Curelly. After the counting and examination of all ballots cast in the election, the election night total credited to each candidate was reduced by one — the final official count being 303 for Cochrane to 302 for Honey.

Both candidates were accompanied by their solicitors at the recount in the United Counties Judge's Chambers. An interested observer as the close count continued, during the official count was Township clerk-treasurer Gordon Beavis. A veteran of 42 years as the township's chief administrative officer, Mr. Beavis, as returning officer, would have been required to cast the deciding ballot if the official recount had resulted in a tie vote.

A group of 42 Intelligencer carriers listen to their guide explain the virtues of the council chamber in Toronto's new City Hall yesterday. The Intelligencer treated the group to an all-day jaunt to Toronto and Oshawa as part of the paper's Fall Promotion Contest for carriers.

Mary McNeil, Alan Tebworth and Eric Reid, all Intelligencer carriers, admire the plaque commemorating the laying of the capsule in the cornerstone of the new Toronto City Hall. The carriers, 42 in all, from Belleville, Picton, Brighton, Frankford, Wellington, Trenton, Tweed and Madoc, visited the General Motors plant in Oshawa and the antique car museum there before visiting the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto City Hall.

31 Head of Cattle Perish In Smithfield Barn Fire

BRIGHTON — Loss estimated unofficially at $25,000 resulted Wednesday evening when fire destroyed a large L-shaped basement barn at Smithfield, together with contents including 31 head of Hereford cattle trapped in their stanchions.

Owner of the barn, Henry Winklehorse, was at Colborne attending a livestock auction when an unidentified passing motorist spotted the fire and turned in the alarm.

Two of Mr. Winklehorse's sons, Alex 20 and Bill 18, were able to save three steers and three heifers from the blaze. The six cattle were loose in the barn and escaped the blaze through the only barn door which could be opened.

Besides the 31 cattle, 3,000 bales of hay, 700 bales of straw and 600 bales of shavings, were lost in the blaze.

The Brighton volunteer fire department under Chief Ed. Boes, and one pumper from Trenton, answered the alarm shortly after eight thirty and were able to save a nearby drive shed containing farm machinery and also two double storied hen houses holding 7,000 chickens.

Wind, blowing from the west away from the drive shed and hen houses, assisted firemen in saving these buildings.

Firemen remained at the scene until about midnight.

No cause for the fire outbreak could be given today, while neither was there any official estimate of the total lost.

Mr. Winklehorse moved to Canada from Holland about 15 years ago and only recently had completely remodelled his cattle barn installing new steel stanchions and a water pressure system.

42 Intelligencer Carriers Tour Oshawa Motor Plant, Visit Toronto City Hall

The carriers, all winners in the Fall Promotion Contest for Intelligencer carriers, left Belleville at 7.30 a.m., and returned, tired, but happy, at 9 p.m.

The carriers came from Belleville, Picton, Brighton, Trenton, Tweed, Madoc, Frankford and Wellington. Many of them were making their first trip to Toronto.

All the carriers 14 and over took the 90-minute tour of the mammoth General Motors plant in the morning. A long train picked them up at the plant office and whisked them along the miles and miles of corridors in the plant. The carriers were awe-stricken not only by the vastness of the plant, but by the speed at which new cars are manufactured.

While the carriers were touring General Motors, those under 14 toured the Antique Car Museum in Oshawa.

After a hearty lunch in Toronto, the carriers visited the Toronto Telegram building and watched the giant presses turning out the 210,000 Telegrams for delivery.

The new Toronto City Hall was next on the agenda. A private tour of the City Hall had been arranged by The Intelligencer for the carriers. The group toured the public hall and the hall of memory, went by the executive offices, took the elevator to the 25th floor and sat in the beautiful curved council chambers of the City Hall.

Soon it was back to Belleville again. But first, of course, the carriers were hungry and stopped to eat again.

The tour was arranged by Dick Doherty, Intelligencer Circulation Manager. Mrs. Gloria McNeil of the circulation department also accompanied the carriers on the trip.

Earlier the boys had watched the giant presses of The Toronto Telegram roll and had taken a 90-minute tour through the mammoth General Motors plant in Oshawa. All 42 carriers on the trip were winners in the Fall Promotion Contest for Intelligencer carriers.

Cost Accountants Told of Purchasing

Members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants held their monthly meeting December 20th, at the Quinte Hotel.

Guest speaker of the evening, Mr. W. S. Templeton, purchasing officer for Pyrotenex of Canada Ltd. at Trenton, gave an informative talk on "Purchasing — The Cinderella Profession", outlining the importance of the purchasing officer as a member of the management team.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Marg Bosiak, of Elaine Footwear, Stirling, and was thanked by Stan Lucas, of Miller Equipment Co. of Canada Ltd.

Big Year

diction. Mr. Pearson declined to comment on this question, but he said his government plans to proceed "as quickly as possible" with its Bank Act revisions.

He said the administration of securities is a "pretty complicated matter" and "I think that federal and provincial authorities should co - operate very closely if the administration is going to be effective."

In his letter to the premiers he said that a planned federal-provincial conference on organized crime may indirectly assist the securities meeting. It may provide "useful background through its discussions of some criminal aspects of the subject."

Looking ahead to a "most interesting, stimulating and challenging year," the prime minister said "some very important legislative programs will be put forward," but he said details would have to await the throne speech opening Parliament Jan. 18.

Asked to comment on a suggestion by Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner that a national referendum be held on the abolition of capital punishment, Mr. Pearson said he would carry through with his commitment to let Parliament debate the question. He boned this could be done early in the session, probably through a private member's bill.

Mr. Pearson said he is still basing his own plans on the assumption that a Commonwealth conference on Rhodesia will be held in Lagos Jan. 10, although no final decision has yet been reached.

The conference, proposed by the Nigerian prime minister, has been approved by most Commonwealth government heads—the exceptions are Prime Minister Menzies of Australia and President Nkhruma of Ghana.

Mr. Pearson also told the reporters that he expects the report of the royal commission on taxation in the next two or three months; that Robert H. Winters will be sworn in as minister of trade and commerce "early next week," and that no Senate appointments will be made until the government undergoes a confidence test in the throne speech debate.

FLOODS CAUSE DAMAGE

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona's floods last week caused more than $7,000,000 damage, the state civil defence director says, of which $4,000,000 was in public property. Governor Sam Goddard has asked President Johnson to declare portions of Arizona eligible for federal disaster funds.

The Power Struggle

An American group called the National Committee for an Effective Congress says the Vietnam war is merely a ripple on the tidal wave of a change sweeping the world.

"The overriding factor in world politics today," it adds, "is the growing gap between population and productivity."

Thanks to an enormous food production, the United States will be relied on more and more by a hungry world and can use its productive power to promote peace, the NCEC said in its annual review of international and domestic developments.

As for Vietnam, the NCEC said the real issues will not be settled—and both sides know it. They are fighting instead for leverage in more decisive areas and toward more fundamental objectives.

"Holding the line against Ho Chi Minh or Mao tze-tung can only be justified to the extent that we mean to do something worth while behind the line."

The NCEC brief is an unusual one. And if its analysis is accurate, it may help to place the Viet Nam conflict in its true perspective. It is important to realize for example that U.S. military policy in Viet Nam includes assistance to the population in areas it has freed from the Viet Cong. Such aid is in the medical and economic spheres, and involves also the training of the Vietnamese to work toward a better future for themselves.

The great enigma of course is China. Does China really regard the Viet Nam war as only an incidental eruption on the revolutionary scene and is the great power struggle still continuing between east and west? At the moment the answer would seem to be in the affirmative. Otherwise China long ago would have become directly involved in the conflict.

Peking however has no wish to become involved in a war with the United States. Certainly not at this point when the U.S. has such a preponderance of power, particularly in the nuclear sphere.

The U.S., for its part, has good reason to avoid a war with China, which has such enormous reserves of manpower. The U.S. would be committing a monumental blunder if it ever became involved in a land war in the Chinese mainland. But that is another story.

The main hope now is that the Vietnamese conflict will not escalate further, and that the NCEC peaceful pursuits as envisaged by the NCEC will become more apparent, not only in Vietnam but throughout the world.

The Mounties

Canadians are only too well aware of the gaps in American knowledge of this country. Now and again, though, we find ourselves indebted to our neighbors for some fresh information on the Canadian scene.

The current issue of the U.S. magazine Pace, for example, supplies some interesting facts on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police which may not be generally known.

The old standby of the force where transportation is concerned—the horse—is in much less demand today. There are just 228 horses, while the number of cars in use now totals 1,867.

The horses which are left, however, have an important job in RCMP training. Apart from ceremonial work, every rookie must spend 140 hours in the saddle and 70 hours on barn duty.

The recruit's day begins early—at 5.45 a.m. It is filled not only with training in the handling of rope—in the saddle—but with parade ground drills and classroom sessions. And there is plenty of spit and polish, with three hours spent daily polishing boots, buckles, belts and other equipment.

The U.S. magazine quotes Corps Sgt. Maj. William McRae, who gives recruits the parade ground treatment at the force's training barracks at Regina.

"After three months you can see a change in them," says Sgt.-Maj. McRae. He pointed out that candidates must be between the ages of 18 and 30, physically fit, stand not less than 5 ft. 8 ins. and not more than 6 ft. 5 ins. Only about one-third of the applicants are accepted for training.

He says the training the recruits receive reveals whether a man can adapt under pressure.

Comments of the young recruits make interesting reading for the rest of us, accustomed in upbringing to much less rigorous discipline. Said one constable: "I joined because the training represented a challenge. The standards were strict. Soon you were proud of your uniform, boots and all. When you come out of training a lot of your friends seem childish and aimless."

Another said: "I felt like quitting every time my feet touched the floor in the morning. I stuck it out because I saw the others stick and because I figured the training was part of what I had gone in for in the first place."

There then is a portrait of a Mountie. It is from an American source, but it rings true. It gives us fresh insight into a great police force and one of the country's great institutions.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 30th, 1945

Local entertainment enthusiasts have gone all out to make this, Canada's first peace time New Year's Eve since 1939, the gayest ever. Special programs have been lined up for every entertainment "spot" in the city and indications are that record crowds will be in attendance to greet the New Year. Managers of the three local theatres have announced special midnight stags and screen shows with fun and favors for all.

Member of the club for the past eight years, Newton Wilbur, was installed as president of the Kinsmen Club for 1946 at the clubs final meeting of the current year held at the Hotel Quinte. He succeeds Harry Rollins as president of the club. Pres. Wilbur's first duty upon accepting the gavel was to present to Mr. Rollins a Kinsmen past-presidents pin.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. John Coon will spend New Year's Day with friends in Peterborough.

Small Cars For Elderly

Windsor Star

An observant citizen has remarked on the number of older people seen driving about in smaller cars. He deduces that most of these are retired persons who have to cut back their expenditures to conform to their reduced incomes. And we know of several who have done just that in buying cars.

Only a very small percentage of people can maintain the same standards of spending after they retire, as they enjoyed at the height of their earning power. One place they seek to economize is in cars. It isn't only the original cost of the vehicle. Those who have to drive their own cars must think terms of gasoline usage, repair and insurance costs, etc.

Indeed a small car is perhaps all some elderly folk need. Their families are grown up and on their own. They perhaps take few long motoring trips. They find the smaller cars suffice for dodging about town, going shopping, etc.

To Your Good Health

Cannot Equate Smog To Cigarette Smoking

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read that one health authority says that "the air pollution we breathe daily is equivalent to smoking two packs of cigarettes a day." Even a common, menial dishwasher like myself knows better than that. Years back when I used to smoke two packs a day I had a chronic cough and chest pains, and even coughed up blood at times.

After banishing the habit, my cough and chest pains ceased entirely, yet I'm still breathing that so-called air pollution.

I also have two nieces who have experienced bronchial troubles. When they broke the habit, they felt better, too. — T. C.

* * *

I don't know what "health authority" you are quoting, but I think he's quite a mathematician if he thinks that he can translate "air pollution" into so many cigarettes or so many packs.

No two people smoke cigarettes just the same way. Some inhale deeply, some don't. Some light a cigarette and wave it around and throw it away half smoked. Some smoke it down to the last half inch. "Two packs a day" means different things.

Does "air pollution" All day in Madison Avenue isn't necessarily the same as all day in Brooklyn Heights. Smog on a smoggy day in Los Angeles may be unbearable, but a clear day in L.A. is surely less polluted than a foggy day in Denver or Chicago experienced without a smelly day in Bayonne, N.J. Or Hammond, Ind., or passing the town dump in Kalamazoo before they installed incinerators.

Maybe in 1620 the Pilgrims could have smoked two packs a day (but they didn't have cigarettes then!) and have had no more noseworkers than would result from six cigarettes a day when the wind is from the wrong direction in Philadelphia or the clouds hang low over Akron. And you choose your own examples for cities where you've been but I haven't. (And I've seen a few London fogs and San Francisco sneezers.)

There's one thing for sure, and only one: No matter how much or how little air pollution there is, it's a lot worse for the fellow who adds his own personal pollution from a smoking.

Two bad things are worse than one. Let's not waste too much time trying to decide which kind of air pollution is "worse." If either is harmful, let's try to reduce it.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband had a heart attack two months ago. X-rays now have revealed an enlarged heart. Does a heart ever return to normal size with proper medication, etc? — Mrs. N. G.

A heart enlarges as part of nature's endeavor to compensate for a defect or weakness in the heart. Sometimes there may be some reduction in size if, in one manner or another, the defect is corrected, but it is not to be expected that the heart will revert to its original size.

That, however, is not very important. The important question is the degree to which the heart can return to normal ability to function. Enlargement, you see, is not in itself harmful. Rather, it is a sign of something that has happened to the heart previously.

* * *

Note to R.C.B.: Yes, chest pains occasionally are born with cataracts, but from what you tell me, it is obvious that the poor eye still has the capability of seeing to some extent. The method of placing a patch over the good eye for a certain period each day is often used to make the poorer eye do such capability as it has. Otherwise the better eye does all the work and the poorer eye does not work at all — and hence becomes still weaker.

More Women For Services

Peterborough Examiner

A report from Ottawa informs us that the department of defence is considering a large-scale recruiting drive to find female recruits for the armed services. The reason for this is an increasing shortage of manpower at a time when a booming economy is drying up the labor pool.

There are reasons against relying heavily on women in the services — one of them being that if married as soon as they are trained and to fill up all the slots and boxes based jobs — but it is conceded that women can do many of the jobs as well as men.

Canada is clearly very backward in this respect. Other countries — China and Israel come to mind — rely heavily on women for their militia and reports are that they make formidable soldiers. It is probable that Canadian women would not stand for a combat role and we cannot imagine any Canadian government initiating a female draft. But it is absurd that there are only 194 women in the Canadian Army. How can men be expected to join on these odds?

The present dependence of defence has in fact been approaching the problem from the wrong end round. It has become mean the policy to take on only the plainest women in order to reduce the risk of loss of labor by marriage. Instead they should be concerned about getting the prettiest ones. This, together with a suitable promotional program — e.g. join the army and get a girl — would greatly increase the supplies of manpower and remove the root cause of the problem.

Queen's Xmas Day Message

Montreal Gazette

The Queen, in her Christmas Day message, had a striking phrase about the importance of goodwill in the world. It may sound oldfashioned, she said, and a hard thing to carry out in a world distracted by so many conflicts and troubles. But, she asked, if you give up the practice of goodwill, what will you put in its place?

It is a profound question. And it is a question that may be applied widely to all those who would try to tear down the good and decent standards of the world. It is very easy to be cynical, and to find fault, and to point out how often the old virtues have failed. But what is to be put in their place?

As the Queen said in her Christmas message, no matter how many the failures may be, the world has always to be ready to start again. It may never be able to achieve goodwill everywhere. But this is no reason for not trying to spread it as far as possible. The world has examples enough at this time of what happens when goodwill does not exist. It should not engage in breaking down goodwill itself.

What would you put in its place? It's a good question to ask the cynics, while appealing to all to take up the tasks of goodwill, unending as they may be.

Duke Richard of York was ambushed and killed 508 years ago today—in 1460 —while marching with troops to unseat the French-born Queen Margaret from England. His son Edward took up the leadership of the Yorkist cause and expelled King Henry VI and the Lancastrians, ending the crown for himself as Edward IV and thus ending the first phase of the Wars of the Roses. By the time a third force, the Tudors, overthrew the Yorkist Richard III in 1487, most of the medieval nobility of England had been killed or killed in battle.

Ottawa Offbeat

'Life With Lester' Lets Loose On National Television

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson goes into the New Year and the fast-approaching first Session of the new Parliament with his press relations suddenly and drastically changed.

Gone overnight are the old free and easy days of informal prime ministerial accessibility.

Almost any reporter he knew, liked and trusted — and he disliked and mistrusted scarcely anybody — usually could get to see him if the need was urgent enough.

If he couldn't spare the time for a personal word, and few men are compelled to write more actual working seconds out of every waking hour than a prime minister, he could be reached by phone.

But if all else failed, the Prime Minister could be questioned in the crowded second floor "corridor outside his East Block office on his way to and from Cabinet meetings in the Privy Council chamber 30 feet down the hall.

But those got so out of hand—with overcrowding, pushing, shoving and shouting, the correspondents themselves, for dear sake of their turned into a tangle of television camera cables — that the Prime Minister, quite possibly in self-defence, banned them.

To older hands in the Parliamentary press corps who over the years have wasted what must, in the accumulation, be months of time waiting for various ministers to file in the agreeable-looking corridor, the ban was a great time - saver, made solid sense.

MOB SCENE

Some others saw it as an infringement of their "rights," and marched over to the East Block in a body to protest. The RCMP in the face of this show of force diplomatically stood aside. So did the Prime Minister's own press staff.

The incident was a stand-off for the Prime Minister, a matter's ban, but they didn't get to see him.

Now the Prime Minister's press relations have swung, wildly, from one extreme to the other — from shy, often disorderly informality of the East Block "scramble," to the stiff and elaborately staged format press conference.

And that seems to have been taken over completely by television which has in the past used the Prime Minister into an unpaid performer, and the cooker itself into a TV world calls a "show."

It could be called "The Lester Pearson Hour," going "live" on both TV and radio, with its "star" once the easiest, most relaxed and affable man in Canadian public life, suddenly freezing and becoming so nervous he can't even bring the rostrum to steady his trembling hands.

It is sort of tragic even to look back at how other Prime Ministers handled the problem.

Prime Minister Meighen managed to quiet down the East Block mob scene simply by refusing to answer questions.

The reporters would wait for him outside his office, and he would walk by with no more than a frosty "Good day, gentlemen," and nobody dared to get in his way to stop him.

EVASIVE TACTICS

When he got tired of the polite, less press period, he simply ordered the corridor cleared and, instead, whenever he felt he had anything he wanted to announce he'd call a press conference in his office.

There, while the late afternoon sun streamed through the windows, he'd take his tiny seat on a petit point footstool and drone away in his monotone for an hour or more, and his audience fought off the temptation to nap.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, a gently gracious man, was more tolerant of the annoyance of being asked such silly and often catty, sticky and sometimes politically embarrassing questions. He would bow and bemuse irritated and tear strips off individuals who particularly bothered him, field rumour with a foolball field, he employed evasive tactics, swivel-hipping easily by the reporterial blocks.

Now Prime Minister Pearson has a new and different switch, the TV spectacular, or "I'll Walk With Lester."

Driving Age

Lethbridge Herald

An Ontario magistrate maintains that drivers' licences should not be issued until drivers reach 21 years of age. Let us all stand up and give the man — a Daniel come to judgment — three hearty cheers! This makes far better sense than the prevailing tendency to have the driving age lower and lower. Such permissiveness is kind neither to the child nor to the person who may be killed or maimed.

Strictly Personal

Why an Eagle for a Symbol?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The only conceivable answer to the question, "Why doesn't the gambler quit when he's ahead?" is that he gambles not to win, but to lose; just as the moderate drinks not to live, but to die.

It is worth remembering that boys who are members of Y gangs are highly moral creatures — within the gang; they practice the cardinal virtues, but only with each other; it is not that their morals are too "low," but that they are too narrow, and their area of loyalty does not extend to the rest of society.

Anyone who knows birds must regret the careless choice of the bald eagle as symbol of America — for it is a lazy, treacherous and cowardly creature, despite its superficially noble appearance.

The difference between a "treat" and a "present" is about $150 in feminine — and that is the difference between "going to the store" and "marketing" is about $50.

Surveys which show that, say 90 per cent of Americans "believe in God" are pointless and misleading; for nothing is easier than to say you believe in it, and nothing is harder than acting in consonance with such a belief.

What begins as an "impossibility," turns into a "luxury," then into a "convenience," then into a "necessity," then into an "impossibility" to do without; this circularity is what most people mean by "progress."

Many people know how to work hard; many others know how to play well; but the rarest talent in the world is the ability to introduce elements of playfulness into work, and to put some constructive labor into our leisure.

Glancing at the best-seller list of recent years, it is not difficult to agree with Nicholas Chamfort, the 18th century writer: "The success of many books is due to the affinity between the mediocrity of the author's ideas and those of the public."

One vocational fact to ponder: as an employer shrugs off a complaint from a customer with, "I just work here," the employee is working somewhere else, if at all.

Styles in faces change as much as styles in clothes: gaze at the faces in a college yearbook of the 1920's and the very expressions seem to date the subjects.

Add to our list of redundant for the word "telepathy" alone means extrasensory one sense at a distance."

West Left Out

Edmonton Journal

It's sad the western Prairie provinces are unrepresented. But the prime minister could scarcely argue with the election results. For the moment, the west's hope may rest with Mr. Harry Hays, who is still willing to serve in some capacity. The new agriculture minister, Mr. J. J. Greene, is known in the west; we'll want to see a lot of him. On the whole though, it's an impressive group.

Stock Markets Differ

Toronto Dull, Montreal Lively While Vancouver Is Flamboyant

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto was dull and stuffy, Vancouver bright and flamboyant, Montreal intermittently lively. That's the way the year was, not for the cities themselves, but for their stock markets.

Toronto, traditionally the pace-setter for Canadian stock exchanges, got caught in a mid-year slump and never fully recovered. While it wallowed, some little-known mining companies made the Vancouver Stock Exchange the focus of interest.

Montreal, which is closely tied to Toronto because many industrial issues are inter-listed, had a few brief flurries of activity, mainly in speculative issues not on the Toronto board.

Some analysts think 1966 will return the Toronto Stock Exchange to its No. 1 ranking but they agree Vancouver will have to be watched carefully because it has achieved the status of a first-line exchange.

Their reasoning is that while the Vancouver market gained prominence, it was on the strength of speculative activity. Industrials provided little to get excited about.

In Toronto, there was only sporadic speculative activity and industrials wandered aimlessly. The odd issue moved spectacularly, but by and large interest was lacking.

STAYED DULL

The industrial market reached its high point in May and then, following the New York market, sold off. However, when New York rallied, Toronto continued in the doldrums, plagued by its own problems.

And 1966 isn't expected to be much different—at least in the first half.

Roy Nose, analyst of A. E. Osler, said:

"It may seem trite, but I see a very selective market for a while. Investors will have to be careful and attempt to ferret out growth situations.

"I think we are going to wander about for a while with little to make the market go higher or lower. There won't be much action until May or June when we will have a clearer indication of what the economy is going to do."

One of the problems in Canadian markets has been that much of the money normally put into industrials has been going to the U.S. where markets have been booming.

As one broker put it: "That's where the horses were running, so that's where the money went."

The Toronto industrial index, a measure of the market's strength, reached a high of 178.32 in May and then sold off, more as a natural consequence to an overbought market than because of any bad news.

HIT BY TWO BLOWS

But two stiff jolts in June sent industrials reeling and they never recovered.

First, William McChesney Martin, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, noted what he described as "disquieting similarities" between the market of 1965 and 1929. Second, Atlantic Acceptance Corp., a large and apparently well-based finance company, went into receivership after being unable to pay off some of its debts.

Immediately, Canada's financial institutions lost favor and rumours ran rampant that first one company, then another, was in trouble. British Mortgage and Trust, an old-established company, ran into financial difficulty and had to be bailed out through a government-arranged merger with Victoria and Grey Trust.

The impact of these troubles, however, wasn't confined to finance companies. Canadians simply lost confidence and it hasn't been regained.

Later in the year, with the market still under the weather, a federal election was called and this didn't help the market. The inconclusive result didn't do much to bolster confidence, either.

Nevertheless, an old Canadian stock market pastime—gambling—brought some life to the vestors, especially in Vancouver.

THREE STAND OUT

The trading boom on the West Coast was spectacular, not only in volume but also in price changes.

Volume for the year is about 385,000,000 shares, compared with 263,288,883 in 1964. Dollar value is about $586,600,000, more than double the record $218,794,043 of the previous year.

The market was running slightly behind 1964's pace to the end of October, then—boom!

Shares of an obscure mining company, Pyramid, soared to $9.25 from its September low of $1.50 after issuing assay results from its property in the lead-zinc-rich Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories. With later results the shares rose to $20 and now are selling for about $12.

Other companies with property in the Pine Point area rode the coattails of Pyramid's popularity and volumes went in record levels. Favorites included Dynasty, Silver Standard, Tropics and Ace.

A handful of Toronto stocks had a flurry because of their ties with Pine Point stocks, but the market lacked the vigor which in 1964 had sent volume in a single day past 19,000,000 shares.

THREE STAND OUT

Three issues stood out on the Canadian Stock Exchange, the mining section of Montreal. Equity Explorations climbed to $1.94 from 25 cents in March after pulling a good core on its property in the Joutel area of Quebec. It sold off later and now is in the 80-cent range.

Patricia Silver, which acquired a property in the Pine Point area, rose to 68 from 14 cents and Porcupine Prime moved to 48 from 8½ cents. Both now are below their best of the year.

On index in Toronto for the year, industrials gained .27 to 180.18, base metals 8.94 to 82.24, western oils 10.14 to 102.54 and the TSE index 1.12 to 158.45. Golds lagged 18.42 to 157.58.

Volume declined to about 310,700,000 shares compared with 1964's 1,314,658,131. Dollar value was up to $3,100,000,000 against $3,050,378,349 in 1964.

In Montreal, volume for the year is about 464,000,000 shares compared with 322,000,000 the previous year. Dollar value is about $1,240,000,000 compared with last year's $1,122,800,000.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Stocks climbed on the Toronto stock Exchange in moderate morning trading today, carrying on a trend started Wednesday.

In the industrial list, Rothmans was ahead 1 to 24 while Avco Arts, which was asked to be delisted, continued to trade actively and gained ½ to 22¼. Banks were firm as Toronto-Dominion advanced ¼ to 66, Imperial Commerce ¼ to 67½ and Nova Scotia ¼ to 75¾. Massey - Ferguson and Aluminium were ahead , each to 24¼ and 32¾.

Falconbridge erased an early ¼ loss and climbed ¼ to 106¼ in a stronger base metals group. Cominco was up ⅛ to 46¼ and Pine Point, which Cominco controls, tacked on 1 to 72. Hudson Bay gained ¼ to 77¼.

Argosy jumped 13 to 82 cents as the standout of the speculative mining list. Satellite continued as the heaviest trader, turning over more than 145,000 shares, but gaining only 2¼ to 20 cents.

Among golds, Cochenour-Willans was up five cents to 1965 high of 4.30.

Oils were quiet and generally easier.

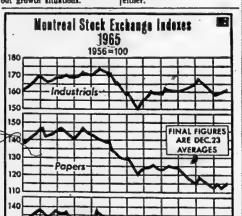
On index, industrials were up .19 to 167.06, golds .21 to 156.94, base metals .11 to 82.59 and the TSE index .13 to 157.28. Western oils dipped .31 to 102.42. Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,146,000 shares compared with 789,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Buyin is all groups except golds gave the exchange one of its biliest days in months Wednesday.

Senior base metals were the most popular stocks. Falconbridge moved ahead 2 to 106¼, leading the index to a gain of 1.24 at 83.39. Denison was up 1½ to 36½. Gains of 1 went to Cominco at 47¾ and Hudson Bay at 77. Noranda tacked on ⅝ at 52½.

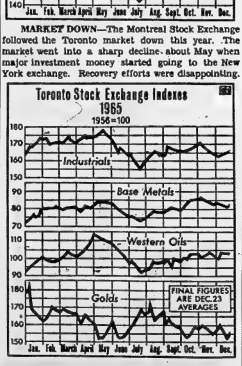
Oil'ers continued to gyrate, gaining 21 cents to 1.79. The company is in the middle of a fight for control and has sold as high as 2.50 and as low as 80 cents this year.

In the industrial list, Bank of Montreal advanced 1 to 65, Massey - Ferguson ¼ to 23¾, BA Oil ¼ to 29¾, Dofasco ⅛ to 26¼ and Bell Telephone ¼ to 37.



Canadian Marconi dipped ⅛ to 6¼ after announcing it will no longer make home entertainment products such as radios and televisions.

Golds were rolling ahead on the plus side until Dome was slashed for 1¼ to 38¼ just before the close. Cochenour - Willans gained 15 to 4.25, a 1965 high.



On index, golds were down 1.12 to 156.73. Industrials were ahead .76 to 166.87 and the TSE index .78 to 157.13. Volume was 2,357,000 shares compared with 3,540,000 Tuesday.

GETS CURB SERVICE

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Firemen in Engine Company 20 didn't have to go to a fire Wednesday—it came to them. Off-duty firemen John Peters Jr. drove his automobile to the firehouse because the front seat was burning, and fellow firefighters quickly extinguished the blaze.

MARKET DOWN—The Montreal Stock Exchange followed the Toronto market down this year. The market went into a sharp decline about May when major investment money started going to the New York exchange. Recovery efforts were disappointing.

DISAPPOINTING YEAR — The Toronto Stock Exchange started off briskly this year but peaked out about May. All indexes went into a sharp slump and failed to recover in the last half of the year. Lack of major investment money, most of which went to the New York Exchange, was blamed for the poor performance.

EMPLOYERS
Canada Pension Plan Deductions Begin Jan. 1st 1966

Employers must deduct contributions from employees who are aged 18 to 70 and paid at a rate equivalent to more than $600 a year.

Contributions of 1.8% are payable on earnings of between $600 and $5,000 a year as set out in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables.

Employers must match contributions deducted from their employees and remit the combined amount. Instructions for remitting are contained in The Canada Pension Plan Contribution Tables, sent to employers in November. If you did not receive these Tables, or if you have any enquiries regarding the Plan, contact your nearest District Taxation Office.

Long Pregnancies Double Death Rates for Babies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Prolonged pregnancies double the risk for babies a specialist told the American Association for the Advancement of Science Wednesday.

Reporting on a study of 30,000 births that came three or more weeks past the expected term, Dr. Michael A. Zweifler of the University of California said:

"The most striking findings is a doubling of both the fetal death rate and the neonatal (within 28 days after birth) death rate in prolonged pregnancies."

Although very large babies might be expected to be injured in delivery, he said, "actually our findings indicate that babies over nine pounds have the lowest mortality rate, and that the greatest risk in prolonged pregnancy is among those of less than 5½ pounds."

The risk for infants of prolonged pregnancies continues to be worse than normal pregnancies for at least the first two years of life, Dr. Zwerdling said. Congenital anomalies and complications such as fetal distress were noted more frequently in the prolonged pregnancy group.

Did Not Know About Baby Prior to Labor

EASINGTON, England (AP) — Mrs. John Coates, 41, says she didn't know she was having a baby until a few hours before the baby arrived.

"I thought you believe this," she said, "but I didn't even know I was pregnant. I had put on weight, but during the weather, but I put it down to an old illness. I didn't even suspect."

Her baby was born Christmas Day, not long after Mrs. Coates attended the wedding of her 19-year-old daughter, Pauline.

After own mother called a doctor when she felt ill.

"I had taken two sleeping tablets, and I was half asleep. Then I heard him say, 'Why, she's going to have a baby.' I said 'never,' but he was right. They got me to the hospital and there a baby girl was born."

Said Mrs. Coates' husband: "She says she was surprised. That's nothing to what I was."

COL. PHAY WILLS BRANCH

The December meeting of the Col. Phay Wills Branch, No. 387 (Ex-Servicewomen) was held at Comrade Billie Kirby's home, Herchimer Ave., last Sunday evening.

This is the branch's annual Christmas potluck supper and election of officers.

The girls held a raffle at every meeting and the money received from this is used in the purchase of a turkey. A special thanks was extended to Comrade Barrage who looked after dressing the turkey. Husbands and escorts attended and the male section did the dishes while the branch members held their meeting. Guests included Zone Commander Rashotte and Mrs. Rashotte.

NEW OFFICERS

The following officers were elected for the year 1966: president, Janet MacDonald; past president, Billie Kirby; vice-president, Ina Rollins; treasurer, Dorothy Barriage; secretary, Kathy Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Doreen Bursey; executive, Ila Dalley, Betty Dumphy, Clara Jamieson.

Comrade Kirby reported that a number of Christmas baskets had been sent to needy families.

Again this year the branch has been invited to hold its installation of officers at the Branch 99 and its Ladies' Auxiliary to be held on January 7th.

After the meeting an exchange of gifts was held with Ina Rollins being Santa Claus. The evening concluded with a social hour.

The Branch attended the funeral of Colonel Phay Wills in a body on Wednesday afternoon as a tribute of respect to the man whose name is proudly carried by the branch.

Children's Christmas Party

Films were shown while the children eagerly awaited Santa Claus. Soft drinks and cookies were served. He arrived in due time and gave each child a gift and a bag of candy and nuts.

Donates $300 To Mission In India

The pupils and teachers of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School have completed a very long project to supply Christian literature to a mission in India.

About a year ago they learned of a shortage of Christian teaching material at the Presbyterian Mission in Jhansi, India. Through Rev. Russell Seitz, a Presbyterian missionary in Jhansi, they learned of the need for funds to translate Christian literature into the Indian language, St. Andrew's Sunday School pledged $300. This was to be in addition to their regular church mission givings.

All departments in the Sunday School joined in, some classes made and sold candy, others saved stamps and collections at Christmas plays helped.

Ten days ago the final installment was sent airmail to India. Two days before Christmas a cablegram arrived from Rev. Russell Seit which read: "Please convey Christmas greetings to Sunday School, hearty congratulations for completed literature project."

Church Groups

ST. THOMAS W.A.

MINTO — The Christmas meeting of St. Thomas Women's Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed Colden with a good attendance of members and visitors. The president opened the meeting with a carol and Rev. Stewart took the Devotional. He also gave a short address on St. Thomas the Apostle.

Mrs. Preston then extended a welcome to all and thanked the hostess.

Miss Edna Tanner, on behalf of the W.A., presented Mrs. Lindsay Tanner with a gift. Rev. R. Stewart invited W.A. to hold its annual meeting at the rectory the third Tuesday in January.

The program followed with each member contributing a Christmas reading.

A carol was sung and Rev Stewart closed the meeting. The hostess served refreshments.

TAKE OVER OFFICES

Women now fill 66.4 per cent of office jobs in Canada, compared with 22.1 per cent in 1961.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR — Madame Georges Vanier, (top left), wife of the Governor-General was chosen Canada's woman of the year for 1965. State Secretary Judy Lamarsh (bottom, centre) was runnerup. Chosen in other categories were: sport, Petra Burka, (top centre), world champion figure skater; music, Teresa Stratas (top right), Metropolitan Opera singer; literature and art, Dorothy Cameron (bottom left), Toronto art dealer; and stage, radio and TV (CP Photo)

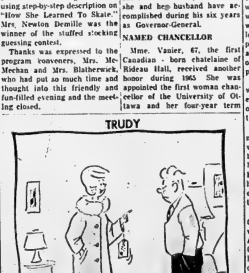
Women's Institutes

MELROSE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

MELROSE — Gaiety and merriment prevailed when the Melrose Women's Institute held the December meeting in the form of a social evening at Jim's Place.

The tables were festively decorated with novel placemats and centrepieces and as the ladies were seated to enjoy a bountiful turkey supper each was adorned with a Christmas crown which had been fashioned by the conveners for this occasion—Mrs. George Blatherwick and Mrs. Kenneth McMechan.

The president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, conducted a short business period when plans were made to serve refreshments at a Consumer's Gas meeting in December, also to cater to a New Year's Eve party. Mrs. Arthur Lont read the minutes of the last meeting and gave the financial report. Highlights of the Centennial Bulletin were brought to members attention and the Korean girl, Sun Yon Soon, sent her best wishes for the holiday season.



Mrs. Roy Bagley and Mrs. John McFarlane volunteered to be in charge of the first euchre party of the new year at Melrose Hall. Mrs. Malcolm Lasier and Mrs. Kenneth McMechan will be conveners for the second euchre party.

Mrs. J. McFarlane, Mrs. Donald McLaren and Mrs. Grant McLaren gave interesting reports of the recent Trent Valley area conventions. The roll call created laughter as 33 ladies answered with an amusing incident or a joke. Mrs. Sherry Demille led in community singing of favorite Christmas songs. Mrs. K. McMechan auctioned a number of wrapped conundrums to the enthusiastic buyers.

Mrs. George Blatherwick favored with a solo accompanied and Mrs. E. Pascoe gave an amusing step-by-step description on "How She Learned To Skate". Mrs. Newton Demille was the winner of the stuffed stocking guessing contest.

Thanks was expressed to the program conveners, Mrs. McMechan and Mrs. Blatherwick, who had put so much time and thought into this friendly and jolliest evening and the meeting closed.

Name Mme. Vanier Woman of the Year

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor - General and a moving force behind the Vanier Institute of the Family, is Canada's woman of the year for 1965.

Women's editors of Canadian newspapers, radio and television stations, voting in the annual Canadian Press year-end poll, picked Mme. Vanier as most newsworthy woman despite her efforts to shun publicity for her social service work.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, the 1964 woman of the year, is runnerup to Mme. Vanier and once again picked as most newsworthy woman in Canadian public affairs.

Winners in other categories:

Sport — Petra Burka, world champion figure skater.

Literature and Art—Dorothy Cameron, Toronto art dealer.

Music—Teresa Stratas, Metropolitan Opera singer.

Stage, Radio and TV — Actress Kate Reid.

WORKS BEHIND SCENES

Much of Mme. Vanier's work is done behind the scenes and beyond the call of public duty, notably her interest in women's prisons and in welfare institutions which is a little-publicized open secret.

The Vanier Institute is one public manifestation of her interest. A research body set up in 1961 at a conference organized by the Vaniers, its job is to co-ordinate studies of family problems and the changing role of families.

The Vaniers have both maintained their interest but Pauline Vanier is considered the prime mover. She once told a reporter she believes the institute to be one of the most important tasks she and her husband have accomplished during his six years as Governor-General.

NAMED CHANCELLOR

Mme. Vanier, 67, the first Canadian - born chatelaine of Rideau Hall, received another honor during 1965 She was appointed the first woman chancellor of the University of Ottawa and her four-year term will begin in mid-February.

This was the third successive year in which Mrs. LaMarsh, Liberal MP for Niagara Falls, has headed the public affairs list. She was minister of national health and welfare before becoming state secretary, she piloted the Canada Pension Plan legislation through Parliament.

Second to Miss LaMarsh in public affairs is Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, Quebec's minister of transportation and communications and leader in the campaign for equal rights for women in French Canada.

Toronto actress Kate Reid is back for the fifth year in a row as No. 1 in the stage-radio-TV poll. During the year she appeared in The Cherry Orchard at the Stratford Festival, then headed for Hollywood to make a film. Early in 1966 she will appear on Broadway in a Tennessee Williams play.

Miss Stratas, 27-year-old native of Oshawa, Ont., started in such operas as Queen of Spades, La Boheme and La Perichole at the Met during 1965, taking time out for European tours and an appearance at the opening of the New York Philharmonic's promenade concerts. She is engaged to Zubin Mehta, conductor of the Montreal and Los Angeles Symphonies.

SINGERS SELECTED

Two young singers received votes in both stage and music categories—Monique Leyrac of Montreal and Catherine McKinnon of Halifax.

Dorothy Cameron's art and literature category is not an artist. Dorothy Cameron made headlines when she opened a shop called Eros '65 at her gallery were judged obscene and she was fined $100. Miss Cameron, who has since closed her gallery because she says it wasn't paying, has announced she will appeal the conviction because of what she calls the important principle involved.

In sports, women's editors were in agreement with sports editors. Both have chosen Toronto skater Petra Burka for two years running.

Miss Burka, who won the Canadian, North American and world titles, is aiming at the 1968 Olympic gold medal, but her mother and coach, Ellen Burka, has said Petra may have to turn professional because it costs so much money to keep her skating.

Sports runnerup is Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., who won the U.S. national combined Alpine skiing title in Aspen, Colo., last winter and scored impressive victories in several other international meets.

PLAN MEETING

TORONTO (CP)—A consultation on physical fitness for women will be held by the YWCA of Canada at Geneva Park, Ont., Jan. 4-8. Experts in several fields will discuss the changing social structure and the concept of fitness and mental health.

Retarded Adults Enjoy Sheltered Workshops

DEAR DORIS: Our Association might be helpful to the retarded adult described in your column. We sponsor Trudging School for mentally retarded children with I.Q.'s of 50 and below. Academic subjects are geared to pupils' individual needs. Weekly swimming, dancing, skating and bowling aid the physical and social development.

DORIS CLARK

At 18, our pupils graduate to our Sheltered Workshop. At present, with 22 trainees ranging in age from 18 to the late 30's, it fur thee trains the adult retarded.

The retarded adult whom Sis-In-Law describes would be welcome to apply for admittance to the Sheltered Workshop or to take part in the training program which the trainees enjoy after work hours: bowling, swimming and supervised outings.

If Sis-In-Law lives in our district we want to help with the problem she is so bravely tackling. — Public Relations Chairman, Peterborough Association for Retarded Children.

DEAR CHAIRMAN: She doesn't. She lives many miles west of you, and I have given her the address of her local association for retarded children, but your school and workshop are thrilling to hear about. Others somewhat similar are developing in a number of centres across Canada.

In some cases, the school gets going first. Then, as pupils reach 18, teachers panic about turning them out into a world which has little room for them. The sheltered workshop may then come into being for the adult retarded, if enough people care enough!

I don't know of any recent welfare movement which has taken such rapid strides as the work for retarded children and adults.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Now that my four children are grown up and married I find myself lonely and life pointless. We are both 60 and have practically no social life.

I know I've got to get into something before I deteriorate entirely. My husband laughs at me when I talk about studying again. — ANY HOPE ?

DEAR ANY HOPE: I'm sending you the leaflet "Learning for Living," suitable for 18 to 80. All you need is a little get-up-and-go to stay in the swim.

The leaflet outlines courses, clubs, discussion groups, hobby journals. You might even organize a Friendship Club in your area.

Tackle something and you'll have your husband laughing on the other side of his face — if he doesn't join you.

(Note to readers: The leaflet "Learning for Living" is available to anyone writing in and enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am an avid reader of your column, and usually agree with your replies, but I cannot agree with your answer to "Typical Teen-Ager." You seem to think that girls dislike long hair on boys and prefer brush cuts, but most girls I know, me inclusive, hate brush cuts worse than any other kind of haircut, and think Beatle cuts are sharp!

I think if he feels more comfortable with long hair that he should have it, and if a girl abhirs herself out of a date, there'd have to be deeper reasons than his haircut!

In my opinion you take a very old-fashioned outlook on the subject, and his father is quite unjust. — TYPICAL 16-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

DEAR TYPICAL: It was a teen-ager just a little older than you who told me that some girls simply would not date Typical Teen-Ager because of the Beatle haircut. But there is no reason why you shouldn't have a chance to express your opinion — and that is just why I have printed it.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am a high school student, 17 years of age. I used to be somewhat heavy but last summer I managed to lose some weight and now have a reasonably good figure.

However, I am still easily depressed and whenever I do I begin eating. I am fully aware of this problem but I don't seem to be able to do anything about it myself. — DEPRESSABLE.

DEAR DEPRESSABLE: You and countless others. Food becomes a compensation. But has it occurred to you that a good figure and some of the attention that go with it are a nice way to make sure of a brighter future? It's a vicious circle when you eat to cheer yourself up.

For better or worse, business is exploring the grocery shelves for the low-calorie foods and making a plan to stick with them. Then "when the dog barks, or the bee stings, or you're feeling low, you reach for one of your favorite diet-right things" — a piece of fresh fruit or an artificially sweetened cookie!

* * *

(We now have some understanding of why people act as they do. Write to Doris about your particular human problem, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

CHEESE BUNS, VARIATIONS

Kneading a big batch of yeast dough symbolizes the' best in baking fun to me. As I knead and knead I sing a short of sea chanty until the dough is satin smooth.

One afternoon I shoved aside all other holiday baking and made Cheese Buns. I hope my friends enjoy the process and results as much as I.

CHEESE BUNS (3 variations):

This is a 1950 and 1962 recipe which I have speeded up.

1 package granular yeast, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 6 tablespoons flour (1st amount), 2 tablespoons sugar (2nd amount), 4 teaspoons salt, 2 cups hot milk, 1 cup boiling water, one 8-oz. jar cheese whiz, ½ cup grated old Cheddar cheese, 8 cups unsifted all-purpose flour (divided).

In a large mixing bowl soak the yeast in the ½ cup luke-warm water with the ½ teaspoon sugar 10 minutes. Meanwhile measure into a largish saucepan the butter and 6 tablespoonsfuls sugar and salt and blend over heat. Stir in hot milk and boiling water until thick. Remove from heat and stir in cheese whiz and grated cheese. Cool to lukewarm. Add to risen yeast liquid. Stir in 6½ cups of the flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise 1½ hours. Sprinkle your kneading board with 1 cup of the remaining flour, turn dough out on it and knead until all flour on board is smoothly incorporated — this takes about 5 minutes steady kneading time. Divide dough into 3 equal portions.

Jam Swirls: Sprinkle board with remaining ½ cup flour. Shape 1-3 of dough into long roll under your palms and cut into 12 equal pieces. Roll each piece under your palms into a long thin roll, cross each in form a roll and place 3-inches apart on pan. Top each with 1 teaspoon red jam or jelly. Let rise 1 hour.

Sesame Seed Buns: Cut another 1-3 dough into 12 even pieces, shape into balls, dip top in milk then into sesame seeds. Place seed side up on buttered baking sheet 2" apart and let rise 1'hour.

Cheese Loaf: Shape remaining 1-3 dough into loaf and put in medium-sized buttered loaf pan. Brush top with milk or beaten egg and let rise 1 hour. Bake buns and bread at 400 deg. Fahr. — Swirls and Buns require 20 to 25 minutes and should be rearranged in oven at halftime. Loaf of bread takes longer — about 40 minutes. Marvellous served hot as a late snack with coffee for guests. The bread is delicious sliced and toasted.

Ann Landers

This Psychiatrist Sounds Maladjusted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been seeing a psychiatrist who is supposed to be tops in this city. He has helped me a lot and the treatments are worth every cent I have spent.

ANN LANDERS

It will be two years next month since I began to see this doctor. He talks to me endlessly about his house which he dislikes because it is too small. He is mortified that his children are maladjusted because he over-reacts to them. (He says psychiatrists' children suffer because their parents are forever searching for signs of abnormal behavior.) I know, too, that his wife has an unhealthy attachment to her father.

Yesterday all I did was listen. At the end of the session, I felt like saying, "That will be $25 please."

As I said, this psychiatrist has done me a world of good and I have no intention of discontinuing treatment until he tells me I should, but I'm beginning to think I am the therapist and he is the patient. What is your opinion? — TABLES TURNED.

DEAR TABLES: This man's behavior is so unprofessional that I wonder if he really is a psychiatrist.- But if the therapy has worked for you, who am I to pull the plug?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did a rotten thing to my best friend and now I don't know how to patch it up. Please help me before I crack up.

Eloise and I have been like sisters since we were in the fifth grade. Now we are both 16. Eloise was going with Sid and I would try to get him away from her just to see if I could. I made a play for him and it worked. In fact it worked so good that he won't leave me alone.

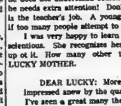
Sid calls me every night and I am so bored with his dumb ways that I want to hang up when I hear his voice. He has bought me two record albums and a box of candy. Last week he wrote a couple of poems for me. Both are crap.

Eloise used to be sweet but I can see the hurt look in her eyes and I hate myself. Please tell me what to do about this ugly mess. — SELF-MADE TROUBLE.

DEAR TROUBLE: Give Urpy the word and right away. Just tell him he is not for you and that's that.

People who break all the rules to get what they want usually find it really wasn't worth the trouble. Right?

* * *



DEAR ANN LANDERS: There seems to be a lot of fighting back and forth in your column over whether the parents should attempt to help their children with their homework if the teacher fails to get something across in school. This letter should settle it.

Last night was visiting night at my child's school. This is what the fourth grade teacher said:

"If your child comes home and asks you to help him because he does not understand something, please send us a note saying he needs extra attention! Don't try to teach him yourself. This is the teacher's job. A parent's attempt often becomes confused if too many people attempt to instruct him."

I was very happy to learn that my child's teacher is conscientious. She recognizes her responsibility and wants to live up ot it. How many other teachers are in her league? — A LUCKY MOTHER.

DEAR LUCKY: More than you think. I keep being impressed anew by the qualities of the teachers I meet. And I've seen a great many these past 10 years.

TEA WAGON RELIABLE AID

Dear Susanna: Others, like us, who live in ranch bungalows in the suburbs, will find it a good, old-fashioned tea wagon is the perfect conveyance for serving meals to a bed patient.

I load our lovely, burnished walnut one deftly in the kitchen, then wheel it carefully right through to the bedroom with small plastic cloth in place and everything on board.

Another advantage is that when either leaf is raised, so that it extends over the bed, this acts as an elevated bed tray with little danger of liquids being spilled.

I find innumerable other uses for it in the sick room, and can't tell you how much it has minimized my work. — Home Nurse

NEEDLE HOLDER

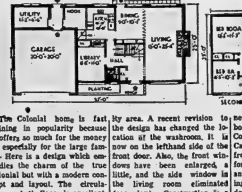
Dear Susanna: When roasting turkeys, many folks buy the wide 18" foil wrap for completely covering the big bird.

By about this time of year, the box the roll of foil came in is about empty. If you are a knitter, don't discard this handy container. It is ideal for holding long knitting needles. Keeps them all in one place, out of harm's way. — Frances F.

NO MORE TUG AND SHRUG

Dear Susanna: Dresses with fairly deep collars suit me but it was almost impossible to put on a coat or jacket and still keep the collar flat without someone else's help.

Being an independent type, I discovered how to do it alone. (Even three-cornered scarves that extend down the back sometimes require my special method.)



Lay your coat carefully over the collar and your shoulders like a cape. Now, slither first one arm and then the other into the sleeves. Adjust everything slightly, and you're on your way! — Mrs. G. N.

This method is a wee bit severe on those of us who'll admit to a touch of rheumatism in our shoulder joints, but otherwise it's a pretty fair solution. — SUSANNA

THE HOME OF THE WEEK

DESIGN No. 1079

Blueprints also available in FRENCH

The Colonial home is fast gaining in popularity because it offers so much for the money — especially for the large family. Here is a design which embodies the charm of the true colonial but with a modern concept and layout. The circulation on both floors is excellent. If you want a huge living room with fireplace, this design has it. But that is not all — on the lower floor you have a spacious kitchen with nook, a large dining area, and a library which could be used as a family room or an additional bedroom. Behind the garage there is a utility area. A recent revision to the design has changed the location of the washroom, it is now on the lefthand side of the front door. Also, the front windows have been enlarged, a little, and the side window in the living room eliminated (see plan). Construction is a combination of veneer and frame.

Standard blueprints for this design No- 1079 cost $15.00 for the first set and $5.00 for additional sets. They are available in Canada by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 3% sales tax). Now available at this newspaper office is our design book entitled "Suburban and Country Homes designed for Canadians," price $1.00 tax free. This edition includes information on cost, building and financing in Canada, heating, insulation, constructional details, etc., plus many outstanding new designs — Ranch, one and half storey, split level, two storey colonial and duplex homes. Also included in this book are full details on how to order blueprints. Apply Ontario Intelligencer Ltd., Box 190, Belleville, Ont., giving design number and enclosing $1.00.

Romance of Blind Persons Started at Summer Camp

This is the story of three blind persons. Two are planning to marry and the third is Clifford S. Wallace, author of the story and former publisher of the Elmira Fair Dealer weekly newspaper.

By CLIFFORD S. WALLACE

ELMIRA, Ont. (CP) — A happy, excited couple will leave here Jan. 8 for a two-month Florida honeymoon, the result of a whirlwind four-month courtship.

Both are totally blind.

The bride - to - be is Mrs. Hazel Hubbell, 58 - year - old resident of this town near Kitchener, and the groom is James Jackson, 76, a retired merchant from Owen Sound.

The romance began in September at a summer resort for blind persons.

"We strolled around the grounds arm in arm for two weeks," explained Mr. Jackson happily, "then I proposed and Hazel accepted."

Mr. Jackson, who lost his sight in 1946, was a resident of Owen Sound for 56 years. He was chairman of the board of education, active in city affairs and a member of the Orange Lodge.

Mrs. Hubbell was also active in the town's affairs there on a dairy farm. She was widowed with two young sons in 1922 and returned to Elmira a year later to open a beauty salon.

LEARNED CRAFTS

She learned her sight in 1960, she started learning crafts from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, adding in previous hobbies of painting, ceramics and woodworking.

Mr. Jackson said he was despondent when he lost his sight and resisted any efforts or suggestions from the institute.

"I didn't want anyone's help," he said, "but the institute suggested I might be able to help them."

"I was really in the dumps when they came, but I started with Braille, leatherwork, trying and woodworking. I didn't even intend to go to the camp, but they urged me and I met Hazel."

Friends and relatives consider their unescorted honeymoon a daring project, but the happy couple are not worried. "No problem," says Mr. Jackson. "I have everything worked out and we have many friends in Florida who will help."

"It will be fun," added Mrs. Hubbell.

And how will two perhaps, both completely blind, live together in their new home here?

UNDERSTAND PROBLEMS

"We'll organize," they said. "We understand each other's problems. It's like we have radar."

"The main problem will be dress," said Mr. Jackson. "We like to think of ourselves as well-dressed persons, but we won't be able to check each other."

Their disability also provides a few other minor problems.

"We had one the other night," says Mrs. Hubbell. "I heated up a can of peas and during the meat course said these are the funniest peas I'd ever eaten."

"The first one tasted like a cherry and the second like a like a pie or a piece of pineapple," she laughed. "Later we learned I had heated up a can of fruit cocktail."

Massive Peace Offensives Now Going on in Various Capitals to Stop War

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A faint light appeared in the dark tunnel of the Vietnamese war, bringing hope the enemies may be persuaded to shift their struggle from the trenches to the conference table.

But this hope flickered somewhat with disclosure North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh sent a reply to Pope Paul's peace efforts containing a declaration that "U.S. leaders want war not peace" in Viet Nam.

However, the current optimism about the possibility of peace negotiations is based mainly on the massive peace offensive which the United States has launched quietly and secretly, accompanied by the halt in bombing of North Viet Nam.

The speed with which the Viet Cong has offered a four-day truce Jan. 30-24 and the encouraging response from the Saigon administration pointed to what may have been an underground peace feeler between Hanoi and Washington which preceded the halt of American air strikes.

LAUNCHES PEACE DRIVE

In any case, Washington now has launched a concerted peace drive with Vice-President Hubert Humphrey pressing his case in the Japanese government while U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler met Soviet Premier Nikolai Podgorny and ambassador-at-large, Averell Harriman, talked with Polish foreign minister, Adam Rapacki.

And in Vatican City, Pope Paul received Arthur Goldberg, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, in private audience and was told President Johnson has accepted the Pontiff's efforts to bring about the Christmas truce in Viet Nam.

Perhaps the Harriman-Rapacki meeting is the most intriguing, for Warsaw is the site of the latest U.S.-Chinese diplomatic talks and Harriman brought a Chinese affairs specialist with him.

But events may prove Moscow is not within its influence, for Peking commented on the new agreement with North Viet Nam, the Soviet Union has described as a new aid agreement headed by the Communist party secretary, Alexander Shelepin, and Russian aid signs the Soviets are attempting to reassert their influence in Asia and curb the Chinese.

MAY BE ANXIOUS

The Soviet Union and Britain are co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina and the view in London is the Russians are anxious to assume as the West to bring the Vietnamese war to a halt.

There also is the danger of a world holocaust. The U.S. now is preparing to boost its military strength in south East Asia to 200,000 from the current 175,000. More American troops are being moved in each day.

Protection of these troops will require heavier aerial and sea support. The point is another major involvement undoubtedly will bring new U.S. military deescalation that goals must be achieved, no matter what the cost may be.

But the opportunity is ripe for negotiations. Perhaps the Soviet agreement to invite Prime Minister Wilson to Moscow in February is an indication it wants East-West tensions reduced.

There is no doubt an agreement on South Viet Nam can clear the road for other agreements to strengthen East-West relations.

LBJ Sends

gave the Polish government Washington's views on the Viet Nam situation.

Today, he spent two hours with Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka but told reporters only that their session included talk of the past.

"We are old," he said. "We know each other during the war."

The U.S. embassy announced that Harriman would leave Warsaw today but again there was no disclosure of a destination.

The ambassadors were backed by the halt since Christmas in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets and by behind-the-scenes Washington efforts to discover any peace feelers from Hanoi.

But North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh denounced "U.S. imperialist aggressors" and, in a reply to a message from Pope Paul, declared "the U.S. leaders want war and not peace."

The talks about unconditional negotiations made by the U.S. president, Ho charged to "are merely a manoeuvre to cover up his plan for war intensification and extension in Viet Nam."

U.S. diplomats rated Ho's statement, as broadcast by Radio Hanoi Wednesday, as harsh, uncompromising and unchanged from his stand in the past.

IS IT FINAL?

Nevertheless they refused to accept the public North Vietnamese utterance as a final response to U.S. diplomatic efforts now under way. Some U.S. sources figure that in private soundings, Hanoi might be more likely to come through with a reply which could lead to negotiations.

Johnson promised in a December 9 speech to exhaust every peace effort "before other hard steps are taken."

Under the strict secrecy imposed from the White House since the peace campaign began, the administration has refused to say why the lull in air attacks on North Viet Nam has extended into a record seventh straight day. Critics in the past — particularly in Europe — of Communist capitals — have called for a halt in the bombings to pave the way for negotiations.

Nor were those U.S. officials who knew allowed to tell why Harriman and Goldberg showed up suddenly in Europe — where they were picked up.

Harriman arrived unannounced in Warsaw, Poland has had relations with North Viet Nam and is on the three-nation international commission dealing with Viet Nam. Canada and India are the other members.

Informed sources here expected that Harriman might go on to Hanoi after another party channel to Hanoi, and perhaps to Yugoslavia, leader of a group of non-aligned countries favoring Viet Nam negotiations, before returning to Washington.

It was anticipated that Goldberg too might do some further travelling.

In Moscow, U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler paid what was described as a courtesy call on the new Soviet president, Nikolai V. Podgorny, Russian Party Leader Alexander N. Shelepin is slated to visit Hanoi shortly. However, Washington sources declined to relate this directly to the current manoeuvring over negotiations to end the war.

MAY COME

According to U.S. authorities, the Soviets might come to a peace conference on Viet Nam because they are less interested in pushing the conflict than their Communist rival, China. But they would not attend unless North Viet Nam does.

These U.S. authorities stated that while parts of Hanoi's four-point proposal for a settlement, reaffirmed by Ho Wednesday, would be negotiable, the overall effect would be to turn over South Viet Nam to the Communists. They said the United States will not accept this and nothing can be done about negotiating the individual points until North Viet Nam agrees to negotiations.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mallory spent the Christmas weekend with their daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. William Baird of Weston and Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Hilsden of Hamilton.

Miss Debbie Jones is holidaying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stoneburg of Bancroft.

Mrs. Samuel Reid and Margo spent Christmas Eve with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Reid and children of Belleville. Other visitors were his brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harriet Reid, and Ruth of Port Credit.

Christmas day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jones were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Farrar, Randy and Shane of Belleville; Mr. Ronald Stoneburg, Miss Irene Johnson of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Yeagate of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Westfall were guests on Christmas day of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Westfall and Miss Betty Westfall.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yatman entertained on Christmas day their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Fyrs and Susan, Julie and Cherry of Belleville and their sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yateman and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Yateman, Bill, Linda, Donna, Roy and Tammy, all of Bayside.

GUESTS IN TRENTON

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barr, Nancy, Cheryl, Patricia, Ricky and Brenda were Christmas guests of his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sweetland of Pine Acres, Trenton.

Mrs. Samuel Reid and Margo spent the Christmas weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Orser of Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, Robert, Barry and Jana Lynn of Belleville were guests on Christmas Sunday of Mrs. Hunter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Bowers, Brian, Bryan and Carol of Fonthill spent the Christmas weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers. Mrs. John Thomson of Belleville was also a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones were guests for evening dinner on Christmas day with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter and children of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice, Stephen and Cathy of Belleville and Mrs. Robert Pearson, Linda, Karen, David and Janet of Trenton spent Christmas day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock, George, Lee and Jimmie were guests for dinner on Christmas day of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cunningham of Hillier.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones on Monday were the Misses Nancy and Shirley Jones and the Misses Cynthia and Wendy Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reid and Ruth of Port Credit were guests of his mother, Mrs. Samuel Reid and, Margo on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock entertained on Christmas day for evening dinner his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock and his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar, Gary, Douglas, Carolyn and John.

Christmas Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones were Miss Mabel Brown and Miss Mears. Harold, Gerald and Charlie Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and girls of Bethany entertained on Christmas Sunday and for a few days, her mother, Mrs. Wilham Jeffery of Bayside.

H. Bonter Is Likely Choice As Prince Edward Warden

PICTON (Staff) — The inaugural session of Prince Edward County Council will begin at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The first duties of the council will be to swear in the new members and elect a new warden. Harold Bonter has been named the man mainly likely to succeed. Mr. Bonter, veteran reeve of Ameliasburg, is one of the county's leading fruit farmers. Also a tradition with the opening of county council is a few remarks from special guests who may be present, such as Norris Whitney, MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox, and a former warden of Prince Edward.

Another of the council's first jobs will be to appoint a new county engineer to replace Ron Thompson, whose resignation is effective Dec. 31.

Also this coming week, on Monday night, Picton town council begins work for the new year. Since Picton council is elected for a two-year term, and this is the half-way mark, there will be no ceremonies. A new face in town council this year will be that of the new clerk-treasurer, Douglas Perry. Mr. Perry, former clerk for Lennox and Addington counties, starts his duties on Monday. He will use office space in the new town garage on Church St.

The Rural Scene

A course on weed control has been arranged for Thursday, Jan. 6 and will be held at the Agricultural Services Building in Brighton.

The course is designed primarily for those engaged in using herbicides and making use of spray equipment.

This course which will start at 9 a.m. will cover such important topics as: calibration of sprayers, different herbicide formulations, hazards of spraying, weed control in crops and weed control along roadsides.

An average of 97.4 bushels per acre was obtained on 10 contestants in the Prince Edward High Yield Corn Competition in 1965, Robert Stanton, Longstaffe Farms, Carrying Place, was first with a yield of 134 bushels per acre. He will compete with entries from the Counties of Northumberland, Hastings and Lennox and Addington for the title of the Quigie District Corn King which will be announced at the Quinte Crop Conference to be held at Club Canaan in Belleville on Thursday, March 17th. Second place in the competition was won by Robert Wenger, Carrying Place with a yield of 128.4 bushels with Col. Sherman Young and Son, Picton, a close third with a yield of 127.4 bushels per acre. Wilhome Farms, R.R. No. 1, Picton was fourth with 115 bushels; Bert Eggleton, Hillier, fifth with 112.4 and Doug Black, R.R. No. 7, Belleville, sixth with 89.5. Prizes in the competition were donated by the Plant Food Council of Ontario and by seed corn companies and dealers.

Prince Edward County farmers are reminded of the annual two day conference of the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Associations which will be held at the Kemptville Agricultural School, Kemptville, on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 4th and 5th.

The first days' theme, "Soil and Crops", will include talks on suggested crop and fertilizer recommendations.

On Wednesday, the theme will be "Marketing."

Gary Lovett and Rink Wins Junior Bonspiel

The junior curlers of the Quinte Curling Club and the district club had a "ball" on Tuesday and Wednesday, when Fred Maund, vice-president of the club and chairman of junior curling staged a bonspiel. The two-day spiel was handled by Corky McCorquodale and Tom Tagram, who supply instruction to the juniors twice a week in the regular season. Jim Stewart, Bob Smith and David Livingston assisted while Mrs. Dave Smith and a group of girls looked after the noon day meals and the many baskets that were consumed during the play. Bill Spinelli, who always is on hand with something novel supplied the soft drinks for the crowd.

There were rinks granted from the RCAF at Trenton, Napanee and Picton and some excellent curling was witnessed by the large gallery that followed the play. A great many of those participating showed exceptional promise to become competitive curlers and a great many of them showed the adult curlers just how a stone should be swept.

A local rink of Margaret Lewis, Mac Ward, Shirley Campbell with Gary Lovett as skip had the highest point score in the two-days of curling and were heartily congratulated by Mr. Maund. He thanked the juniors for their decorum and hoped that the spiel would be an annual affair in the Christmas holiday.

Before dispersing the curlers thanked the Quinte Club for their hospitality and the many acts that added to their comfort. The results are as follows.

THE DRAW WINNERS

Tuesday, the high two-game winner first draw went to Bill Hoge, an RCAF rink, with Dianne Lonie, Brian Donmy, Christine MacDonald.

Two game runner-up—John Donelan of Napanee with Barb Shelton, Raymond Moore and Nancy Lester.

One high game went to Neil Duffy of Quinte with Sandra Gemmell, Ken Monteith and Kenny Clarke.

Second draw of the day high two-game winner, Mac Ward of Quinte with Joan McConnell, Alan Young and Ron Hunt.

Two-game runner-up, Doug Wilson of Quinte, June Howe, Gloria Oliver and Susan Burns.

One-high game, Linda Charlton of Quinte with Paul Black, Linda Piperni and Mike O'Brien

First draw on Wednesday, the high two-game winner, John Murphy of Picton with John Smith, Rick Jones and Jane Pratt.

One-game high—Fred Shortts of Napanee with Pat Borland, Dave Buttle and Jackie Pearson.

One-game second high—Terry Geeow of Quinte with Vicky Hopwood-Jones, Denis Dowling and Vianne Waterman.

Two-game runner up—L. Godin with Ken Laing, Ruth Wright and Chuck Meagher.

One-game high—Lynda Charlton, Quinte, with Paul Black, Linda Piperni and Mike O'Brien.

Well Over Half English Exams Appeals Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — Of 5,253 students originally given failing marks on their 1965 Grade 13 E n g l i s h examinations, 3,317 passed after appealing to the department of education for a re-marking of their papers.

The number of appeals of English failures was more than double that for any other paper, except for French. There were 3,501 French appeals resulting in an additional 1,844 passes.

Statistics released by the department of education Tuesday showed of the 26,388 students who wrote the English examination, criticized across the province as too difficult, 73 per cent passed.

But this figure was raised to 81 per cent after the appeals were allowed.

The total number of Grade 13 papers written in all subjects was 221,205, and the passing average was 75 per cent. There were 22,202 appeals, of which almost half were sustained, raising the passing average to 81 per cent.

A BIG BABY — Investment in Saskatchewan's infant potash industry may reach $1,000,000,000 by 1970 says Industry Minister Gordon Grant. Infant Potash Industry Providing Saskatchewan With Economic Boost

By JIM NEAVES

REGINA (CP) — The infant potash industry, spurred by a growing world demand for fertilizer, is giving agricultural Saskatchewan an unprecedented economic boost.

Capital investment of more than $200,000,000 in new potash mines and refineries announced in 1965 bolstered predictions by economists that within a few years the mineral will rank second only to wheat in terms of production value in the province.

Industry Minister Gordon Grant says potash is "without doubt one of the greatest resource development programs in hit the Canadian scene."

Ironically, Saskatchewan, with perhaps the most extensive potash deposits in the world, doesn't need potash fertilizer to maintain its position as Canada's greatest wheat-producing province because the soil has a natural supply. Most of the potash is exported, with the United States taking the bulk.

So far, capital investment in the potash industry, actual and committed, exceeds $500,000,000 and could reach $1,000,000,000 by 1970, says Mr. Grant.

The value of wheat production this year was about $260,000,000, with oil next at $135,000,000, up $9,000,000 from 1964 but only expected to increase much in the near future.

NEARLY DOUBLED

Potash production in 1964 was $30,000,000, rose to $55,000,000 this year and is expected to grow quickly to some $45,000,000 worth was exported.

Potash was discovered in the province by Imperial Oil Ltd. while drilling for oil in 1943 but it wasn't until the mid-1950s that the extent and exploitation possibilities were realized.

Estimates of recoverable reserves vary but generally they are believed to be in the billions of tons. Annual production now is about 2,200,000 tons but is expected to hit almost 11,000,000 tons a year.

Exceeding all other known deposits in both size and quality potash deposits extend through an area 450 miles long and up to 60 miles wide in the southern half of Saskatchewan, extending into Manitoba and Alberta. The mineral is from 3,000 to 8,000 feet underground.

Relatively little effort is being made to develop deposits in Saskatchewan's neighboring provinces. Only a few exploration permits were issued in Alberta in 1965. The Manitoba government recently issued an expanded permit to Prairie Potash Mines Ltd. which more than doubles—to 57,412 acres—its exploration area near St. Lazare in the western end of the province.

While the bulk of Saskatchewan's production is used in manufacture of fertilizers, about 10 per cent goes into a variety of manufactured products including matches, some explosives, television tubes, detergents, glass and chinaware, insecticides and meat-curing agents.

The vast resource resulted from evaporation of an ancient sea 360,000,000 years ago. Above the potash lie levels of water-saturated shale and limestone that have interfered with efforts to free the mineral.

It was during the 1951-1954 period that the Potash Co. of America found most of the rich surface levels was of a treach-erous nature. Named the Blairmore, it was a 300-foot-thick layer of quicksand with water pressures as high as 475 pounds to the square inch. This posed a problem is sinking a mine shaft.

The company used a technique in which the ground was frozen to a depth of 3,000 feet and as a shaft was sunk a reinforced concrete lining was installed. Success came in 1958 when the first potash was mined and treated.

But the Blairmore was the initial round- and mining was halted about a year later when the shaft became unsafe because of water seepage.

The task of rehabilitating the shaft was completed in the fall of 1962 at a cost of $1,500,000, the plant was modernized and production resumed operation in April this year.

The Potash Co. of America is one of three companies now producing potash. Another five have started new and refinery developments and another 30 companies are making exploration and feasibility studies.

In the three operations alone there now are about 1,500 employees with an annual payroll of $8,000,000.

PLANT EXPANDS

The International Minerals and Chemicals Corp. (Canada) Ltd. mine and refinery at Esterhazy is said to be the largest in the world. It now has a capacity of 2,000,000 tons of potash annually and is expected to increase to 3,500,000 tons by 1967.

This firm entered Saskatchewan in 1953 and started its project in 1957. It also used a freezing technique to thwart the Blairmore but used cast iron instead of tile in shaft. The mine started producing in 1962 and a second shaft and refiner are under construction and expected to be in production by 1967. The total capital investment at Esterhazy is expected to reach $120,000,000 by that year.

A significant event occurred in September, 1964, when two carloads of potash were shipped from the Kalium Chemicals plant at Belle Plain, 22 miles west of Regina.

It marked the success of solution-mining process which meant a larger portion of the potash reserves would be recoverable. A large amount of the ore, which in its natural form is large pieces of translucent crystal of a color ranging from pale pink to deep orange, lies at depths too far below the surface to make shaft mining profitable.

PUMP IN WATER

Kalium perfected a process in which water, forced down by pipe into the potash bed, dissolves the ore and then is pumped to the surface where the potash and other salts are recovered by a secret process of crystallization and drying. Investment in this project is estimated at about $40,000,000 and annual production now is about 600,000 tons.

Last year, Alwinsal Potash of Canada Ltd. started sinking a shaft at Langan, 70 miles east of Saskatoon, and construction of a refinery is scheduled to start in 1967. Total investment will be about $50,000,000 and initial production capacity is estimated at 1,000,000 tons annually.

A $60,000,000 shaft mine and surface plant is being constructed at Allan, 35 miles southeast of Saskatoon. Started last year by United States Borax and Chemical Corp., the mine will have two shafts and is expected to have annual production of 1,000,000 tons when operation starts in 1968.

Three large companies announced plans for potash development during the year.

In January, Consolidated Mining and Smelting announced it would bring into production its property at Destinie, 20 miles southwest of Saskatoon. Shaft sinking has started and the $65,000,000 project will also produce about 1,000,000 tons annually on completion in 1968.

PLANS BIG MINE

Noranda Mines Ltd. announced in February it would proceed with a $73,000,000 mine and refinery in the Vanscoy-Colonsay area 40 miles east of Saskatoon. It will have two shafts with annual production estimated at 3,200,000 tons in 1968.

Duval Corp. of Houston, Tex., announced a $63,000,000 two-shaft and refinery project near Saskatoon in July. Production is expected to be 3,000,000 tons annually from deposits about 3,500 feet deep.

In addition to the direct benefit of employment provided by these operations, provincial officials say secondary industry will provide many millions more dollars in wages. Salaries in the potash industry alone should reach $30,000,000 annually by 1975, they say.

It has been estimated that for every new job created directly in mining potash five more will be created in service industries and secondary industry.

It is anticipated that by 1970 potash mines will require 40 per cent of the total electrical power consumption and will need an estimated 15,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas each year. Each mine uses about 1,000,000 gallons of water daily.

The question of water supply is a problem.

Premier Thatcher's announcement that the province will introduce legislation next spring to provide a $25,000,000 water supply system for domestic and industrial use in the potash mining area caused concern in the Saskatchewan Mining Association.

The association objected to the compulsory participation feature of the plan but Mr. Thatcher insisted that the government has a responsibility to provide water to communities likely to spring up around mine and refinery developments in addition to existing communities.

Also arousing the association's displeasure was the application this year of a production tax of about 40 cents a ton on potash produced from Crown lands. The association contends the tax on freehold land is unfair in some respects and wants a royalty formula based on the grades of potash.

SEEK TAX RELIEF

One aspect of taxation that almost resulted in open war between the province and the federal government was Premier Thatcher's attempt to have the federal government provide tax concessions in the solution—potash mines similar to those enjoyed by the conventional shaft-type mines.

Shaft mines of all types, such as coal, copper and potash, receive a three-year tax holiday when actual operation starts, but the solution mines have no shafts.

Mr. Thatcher contends solution mines should receive the same consideration and while the question still has not been resolved, provincial officials are confident Ottawa will provide the concession in the near future.

Potash company and provincial officials don't seem concerned about markets.

C. Cameron, resources minister, says demand increases about five or six per cent annually and a rising world population will create markets. One potash company official said there will be problems initially when four or five substantial mines come into production almost simultaneously.

"You can't create a tremendous new supply without some marketing problems. But the long term outlook is good."

"SITTING ON A FORTUNE — The world's largest deposit of potash lies under southern Saskatchewan and northern Alberta. The deposit extends into North Dakota and Manitoba. Estimates of the recoverable reserves vary but are believed to be in the billions of tons. Several companies are at work in southern Saskatchewan but relatively little is being done elsewhere in the area. (CP Newsmap)

High-steel Construction Men Reaching Period of Dizziness

TORONTO (CP)—The 50th-floor beginner is nearing for high-steel construction men who walk the narrow pathways in the sky of the new Toronto-Dominion Centre.

The skeleton of what will be the tallest building in the Commonwealth at 56 storeys is rising week by week at downtown King and Bay streets.

Construction has reached the 44th floor. When it gets to the 50th there's expected to be an intensification of the nightmare of vertigo, the dizziness that sometimes besets men on the narrow girders hundreds of feet above street level.

It can make a man freeze to the framework, with an iron grip, once loosened by breaking the knuckles with a rubber hammer, said Wally Barlow, the project's safety engineer. Now, a toughener is used.

Generally it's a visitor who loses his nerve and clings to the nearest steel beam or safety wire, incapable of moving.

SEES PROBLEM AHEAD

"This will become a problem in a few weeks when we reach the 50th floor," said Mr. Barlow. "Then the steel men will be working 620 feet above King and even some of them will become afflicted."

Wally Barlow, a veteran high-steel man, has worked the 86-storey Chrysler Building in New York and on Montreal's Place Ville Marie, should know.

"We took them down three and four a day, then down the Chrysler, especially after we decked on 50," he said.

Bringing a "freezing" victim down can be ticklish, even today. But in years gone by it was a crude operation.

The helpless man would be tied to the beam, then his clenched hand thumped with a rubber hammer until the pain from broken knuckles forced him to let go.

USE TRANQUILIZER

"Now we're humane," said Mr. Barlow. "After rescue men, wearing safety belts, get the freezer roped down as we hit him with a tranquilizer. That leaves him happy and relaxed enough for the men to strap him into a stretcher and lower him down to safety."

The tranquilizer is supplied by a pellet shot from a pistol or given by hypodermic needle, depending how far out on the beam the man happens to be.

"If he's a high-steel man we shoot him back up as soon as he's got himself under control," said Mr. Barlow. "If he's a visitor, we suggest he forget about heights and stay on the ground."

Photographers form the largest percentage of "freezers" among visitors.

"Most of them are okay until they start shooting," said the safety engineer. "Then the trouble begins. And don't ask me why. He just suddenly forgets all about taking pictures and we have to tranquilize him for his own good.

TIGHTLY HOLDS CAMERA

"And down he goes, strapped up like an Indian papoose, his expensive camera in his white-knuckled hands."

The famed high-steel Mohawk Indians are not among the men on the Toronto project.

"The pay scale in New York, $8.30 an hour, is too attractive," said Grey Dopf, a safety steward. Wages here are $3.50 an hour.

"There's a cross - section here of Cape Bretoners, New foundlanders, Ontario, Quebec and the Prairies," he said.

Nine Miners Killed in Gas Blast

REDSTONE, Colo. (AP)—A coal mine explosion deep in the snowbound wilderness of western Colorado Tuesday night killed nine miners, all working overtime in order to get some extra time off for New Year's Eve.

Colorado's chief coal mine inspector, Don Haske, said Wednesday "a small pocket of methane gas" set off the blast, shortly before midnight, in a tunnel of the No. 1 Dutch Creek mine.

The nine-man crew ordinarily would have gone off shift at 11 p.m. Twenty-one miners in the area escaped the fatal blast.

Haske said the mine is regarded as the most gaseous coal working in the state and had been inspected 10 times this year by state and federal mine inspectors. It produces a high-quality coking coal used in making steel.

The nine bodies were brought out Wednesday morning.

Republicans Plan to Boost Political Stock Over Viet Nam

Next year is an election year and the Viet Nam war is bound to loom large in the political consciousness. Already there are sounds of issues being hammered together. This last of four articles on America's role in Viet Nam reports on its impact on the political front.

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans return to Washington from Christmas holidays with Johnson faces decisions on their Viet Nam and the economy likely to boost their party's political stock.

As Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan see it, Johnson must make the difficult choice between inflation or a slowdown in his Great Society programs if he is to provide the substantial increase in Viet Nam spending even his administration regards as inevitable.

There have been estimates the rising costs of the Southeast Asia conflict will hold $10,000,000,000 to the military budget in a year.

Curiously, that is exactly the amount the politically powerful AFL-CIO wants the president to put into education from elementary school to college, in the same period. This represents only one of the tremendous pressures that will be put on Johnson to keep various groups happy.

"As I see it," Ford said, "the president has the alternative of cutting back on his domestic programs, raising taxes or rolling up a big inflationary budget."

DON'T RECOMMEND HIKE

"He certainly isn't going to recommend raising taxes. If he knocks down on the programs he pushed so hard to get in the last session, he is going to undercut a lot of Democratic candidates who are depending on them for election. If he yields to inflation, he is going to hear from the country in no uncertain terms."

Dirksen said in a separate interview he looks for an administration effort to crowd into this fiscal year, which ends June 30, as much supplemental spending as possible. This would tend to hold down the total of the new budget to be submitted in January.

Administration officials already have estimated current-year spending will run between $105,000,000,000 and $107,000,000,000 instead of the $99,700,000,000 estimated last January. Because revenues are up, they figure the June 30 deficit will range between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000.

Republicans believe the psychological impact of a new January budget, perhaps running more than $100,000,000,000 in spending will dramatize their contention Democrats have put the country into an era of inflation.

If this is followed by increases in the prices of clothing, appliances, automobiles, services and all of the things the average family buys, they believe the difficult choice between inflation or a slowdown in his Great Society program will be made by the substantial increase in Viet Nam spending even his administration regards as inevitable.

If this is followed by increases in the prices of clothing, appliances, automobiles, services and all of the things the average family buys, they believe the difficult choice consumers will take it out on the Democrats at the polls in the congressional races next November.

EXPECTS REPORT

To emphasize any cut-backs Johnson might make in domestic aid programs, the Republican policy co-ordinating committee expects to have soon a report on the impact on such programs of increased Viet Nam expenditures. This presumably will spell out for the beneficiaries just what they are going to get if Johnson clamps down to make way for war expenditures.

Republicans didn't want to be accused of displaying American disunity abroad, the Republicans on the whole have been restrained in criticizing Johnson's course in Viet Nam. Now they apparently have developed a technique of urging him on to greater military effort while at the same time criticizing him for getting involved in an endless war. While they have backed down on the programs he pushed so hard to get in the last session, he is going to undercut a lot of Democratic candidates who are depending on them for election. If he yields to inflation, he is going to hear from the country in no uncertain terms."

Dirksen said in a separate interview he looks for an administration effort to crowd into this fiscal year, which ends June 30, as much supplemental spending as possible. This would tend to hold down the total of the new budget to be submitted in January.

Administration officials already have estimated current-year spending will run between $105,000,000,000 and $107,000,000,000 instead of the $99,700,000,000 estimated last January. Because revenues are up, they figure the June 30 deficit will range between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000.

Republicans believe the psychological impact of a new January budget, perhaps running more than $100,000,000,000 in spending will dramatize their contention Democrats have put the country into an era of inflation.

If this is followed by increases in the prices of clothing, appliances, automobiles, services and all of the things the average family buys, they believe the difficult choice consumers will take it out on the Democrats at the polls in the congressional races next November.

Society Wants Author's Home Preserved

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The Guelph Historical Society has asked that the home of Col. John McCrae, author of the poem In Flanders Fields, be preserved as a national historic site.

Col. McCrae, a surgeon with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the First World War, scribbled the poem while awaiting the arrival of wounded at a dressing station near Ypres, France, in 1915.

The stone cottage next to the public gardens here now is being offered for sale by the owner, J. E. Aldon Jr.

The historical society last week asked city council to pass a resolution requesting the federal government to take over the property.

Barclay Holmes, the society's secretary said:

"If my measures are to be effectively taken to preserve this building as closely related to Guelph's most famous soldier-poet they must be taken at once."

In May, 1943, the John McCrae Memorial Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion set up a garden and stone memorial next to the cottage in honor of Col. McCrae.

The Aldon family preserved the house and lived there for 10 years until last August when they moved to Toronto.

Col. McCrae was born in the house. He died in France Jan. 28, 1918, of pneumonia and a massive cerebral infection. A year earlier he had been appointed a consulting physician to British forces in France.

The poem first was printed in Punch magazine Dec. 8, 1915, and it became one of the most widely known pieces of literature to come out of the war.

Hydro Will Integrate Pension Scheme

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial government order - in - council has given the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission the right to integrate its employee pension scheme with the Canada Pension Plan.

The order, granted last week, permits whatever changes in the pension structure the commission chooses to make. The Canada Pension Plan goes into effect Saturday.

The commission will integrate the pension plans of its 11,000 employees in the federal plan, with the guarantee there will be no cost increase to employees or any loss of pension benefits.

The Ontario Hydro Employees' Union, representing about 7,400 of these employees, earlier had pulled the commission preventing the commission from imposing any changes in the pension scheme.

Last week Chief Justice G. A. Gale of the High Court of Justice dismissed the application.

The pension issue is expected to be a key point in contract negotiations between the commission and the employees.

The present contract expires March 31.

The thud of hoofs and the rustle of "green lettuce" passing through pari-mutuel windows factored another highly successful season for the Quinte Driving and Riding Club in 1965.

The favorables and the pari-mutuels set new season records, the attendance for the afternoon and evening totalling 10,886. The mutuel handle was approximately $168,518, with a slightly average of $8,782, an increase of $3,000 over a year ago.

Furnighted directors, headed by president Gerald Vance, improved track conditions with the laying of 4,000 tons of rock dust in the spring. Another 200 tons was added this month. Benefits were noted in the production of faster track times.

This was evidenced in the time of 2.09.4-5 paced by List and the fastest mile in 29 years set by Early Lakes John when he was timed in 2.05.4-5, to break his own record of 2.06.1-5.

Veteran horsemen hereabouts say that the track record here is 2.04, set by the late Lastic Grattan.

Photo finish cameras were installed by government officials two years ago and have been in fairly constant use. Last year the urine test was introduced and found successful.

A club spokesman said the track here has been a fine proving ground for colts and at least six of every ten go on to greener fields and bigger purses. Belleville owner-trained horses are racing at such tracks are Garden City, Batavia Downs, Yonkers, Connaught Park, Richelieu Park, Mohawk Raceway, and Windsor Raceway.

Scotch Maple colts and older horses have chimed here and gone on to the big circuits. Jazz Maple and Star Maple owned by Jack Jeffrey of this city have reached the winner's circle at Mohawk and Greenwood. Magic Millie, owned by Irvine Ness of Belleville, has made several trips to the coveted ring.

Frosty Magic and Rapid Sue owned by Bernard Hunt and Morley Fleet of Tweed were trained and raced here and are now racing in the invitation meets at Connaught Park and Windsor Raceway. April Magic owned by Phil Stewart of Woodbridge and formerly of Belleville was schooled here and has made good on the big tracks.

The seasonal meets produced excellent racing with the top drivers of the city and district vieing for top with what few thrilling efforts. Competition was keen especially between Reg Baily of Consecon, Don Graham of Brighton and Don Heath of Belleville. Mr. Chatterson was named the driver of the year, nosing out Mr. Heath by one point. He won the Temple and Kenny Memorial Trophies.

As was noted, List captured the fastest time for the mile. The horse is owned by Lawrence Hoovy of Orono who retired the 16-year-old horse this year. Direct Dillard owned by Emery and Kay Huff of Kingston was named the horse of the year with a standing of 35 (3-7-9).

Harness racing is vying with golf as the fastest-growing sport popularity-wise in the district. Driving club directors are putting their shoulders to the wheel [illegible] are looking forward to 1966 as an record breaker. Vance ui... [illegible] ...tremendous job in 1965, aided by a willing directorate.

Public and competitive interest in the sport is running at a high level and winter indications point to a banner season next year.

Among those who will be racing in 1966 are Norm Edwards will Red Gan, Sandy MacDuff, Little Joe Grattan and Little Murray. Don Heath, Big Joe Grattan and Little Murray. Don Heath, Big Joe Grattan and Alonzo Sitha and Chuck's Delivery in the post while Lloyd Kellett will race Bradcliff and Perchance.

Jack Jeffrey will start Cocos Who, Miss Star Magic, Jazz Magic, Ben Carey and a good looking colt by Phillip Frost.

Irvine Ness will have Magic Millie, Magic Lady Lou, Alice Frost and Scotch Laird ready with Doreen and Harry training Diviland Herbie.

Allen Vance will start Don Comet, Ed's Son, Johnny Amber, a good-looking yearling. Mrs. Gloria Vance will pin her win hopes on Hida Dillard.

John and Ken Weeks will look for victories from Double Star, Jacken, Dolemite, Belfire, Daily Double and a good-looking stallion Nibble Scotty... Mrs. and Evelyn Zebedee will send Deputy Chief Ore and June Lyn Frost to the harrier with Larry Zebedee-rylling on Tollgate, Peggy Blacklock and Susan Vale."

Don Mills Wins Tourney

ORILLIA (CP)—Toronto Don Mills completed a clean sweep with a 13-11 victory over Bradford in the grand championship of the annual Orillia midget hockey tournament Wednesday.

Don Mills scored five consecutive wins to capture the George Styles Memorial Trophy.

On their way to the championship, Don Mills defeated Acton 5-3 Monday, Dixie 5-3 and Kingston 3-2 Tuesday and Brampton 8-6 Wednesday prior to the final game.

Leafs' Rally Nips Habs; Hawks Win

★★★★★ Blank Blues 3-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Recently Montreal Canadiens seemed to toy with the opposition by first spotting them two-or three-goal leads then coming from behind to either win or tie the game.

Dec. 4, for example, New York Rangers visited Montreal and looked like winning as they led 3-0 after the first period. But the Canadiens roared back to win 4-3.

Next night in Boston, Montreal gave up three goals to the Bruins but came back to tie it 4-4.

★ ★ ★

GEORGE ARMSTRONG

★ ★ ★

However, the tables were turned Wednesday night when Toronto Maple Leafs overcame a 2-0 deficit to defeat the Canadiens 3-2, in one of two National Hockey League games.

Chicago Black Hawks moved into first place in the standings by blanking New York 3-0 in the other game.

Power play goals by Bob Pulford and Frank Mahovlich and a dramatic effort by veteran George Armstrong—all in the third period—gave the Leafs their victory before a crowd of 14,986.

★ ★ ★

GLENN HALL

★ ★ ★

It had appeared the Canadiens would ride to victory on their pair of first-period goals by centre Jean Beliveau and former Leaf Dick Duff but the Leafs rallied to take the lead in the last 20 minutes.

Armstrong's goal, his fourth of the season, came with the Leafs a man short. Toronto netminder Terry Sawchuk was assisted with an assist.

KICKS OUT 36

Sawchuk had a shaky first period in goal for Toronto, but settled down in the second period and shunted the Canadiens the rest of the way. He kicked out 27 Montreal drives.

The win enabled the Leafs to stretch their unbeaten string to nine games and remain one point behind third-place Detroit Red Wings and moved to within three points of second-place Montreal.

Veteran goalie Glenn Hall turned in his fourth shutout of the season with a brilliant show Wednesday night as the Black Hawks blanked the Rangers.

Hall, 34, in his 11th NHL season, stopped 27 shots as the Hawks won their third game in the last five.

The Chicago netminder was particularly strong while the Black Hawks were shorthanded, stopping four power play smashes.

New York netminder Ed Giacomin had 13 saves throughout the game.

No games are scheduled tonight. Chicago visits Detroit for a game against the Red Wings New Year's Eve.

Two Clubs Angle For Rice

CHICAGO (AP) — Two National Football League clubs have accepted Chicago coach George Halas' invitation to negotiate with the Bears' now-unwanted top draft choice, tackle George Rice of Louisiana State.

"I can't disclose which clubs expressed interest in Rice because that would be putting them on the spot," Bear president George Halas Jr. said Wednesday.

The Bears dropped Rice as a prospect because coach George Halas Sr. refused to compete in a money derby with Houston Oilers of the American Football League for the services of the 260-pounder.

Seals Trim Victoria

VICTORIA (CP)—San Francisco Seals defeated Victoria Maple Leafs for the third straight time Wednesday with a 5-3 Western Hockey League win before 2,848 fans.

Michael Harvey led the Seals with three goals.

The win moved the Seals into fourth place, one point ahead of Seattle Totems. The Maple Leafs are in first place, four points ahead of Portland Buckaroos.

Green Bay Prayer

'Twinkle, Twinkle Mister Starr'

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr expects to play Sunday and that is bad news for Cleveland Browns. It isn't official yet, but Green Bay is optimistic about its hometown Packers with their No. 1 quarterback back at the helm.

Starr tuned up Wednesday for the first time since Sunday's injury and found he could throw the ball. His damaged back is not entirely healthy but it is beginning to come around.

Although Zeke Bratkowski, his understudy, did a fine job Sunday after Starr was hurt on the first play of the National Football League playoff game with Baltimore Colts, the Packers are a more effective unit with Starr at the controls.

The Packers feel Starr's pinpoint passing will be more effective against the defending champions' deep defense than Bratkowski's.

Cleveland is vulnerable to the pass. The Browns have given up 18 touchdowns, 12 on running plays and 31 on passes. In contrast, Green Bay has been scored on 22 times, 11 by runs and 11 by passes.

THERE'S THREAT

Although the most recent forecast calls for mild temperatures and possible showers or snowflurries during the game, there is no imminent threat of rain or snow for Sunday.

The field, recovered with hay immediately after the Baltimore game, is in prime condition.

Paul Hornung ran with his old spirit in Wednesday's workout and he still is nursing a bruised right leg.

Jim Taylor came up with a muscle pull that nobody knew he had, but coach Vince Lombardi or Green Bay's quarterback Starr will work itself out before game time.

In Cleveland, quarterback Frank Ryan turned green and Browns' coaching staff turned worried.

HAS PAINS

Ryan developed a stomach pains Wednesday while the Browns were in a morning film session in preparation for Sunday's game.

"He feels pretty sick," said team physician Dr. Vic Ippolito, "but I think he'll be much better Thursday. It's an internal upset."

Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' high-scoring left winger, was held off the scoresheet by New York Rangers Wednesday night but still maintained a comfortable lead over teammate Stan Mikita in the National Hockey League individual scoring parade.

Mikita gained an assist against the Rangers, giving him 29 points for the season, six less than Hull, who leads the league in goals with 37.

Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens assisted on one Montreal goal against Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night, giving him a league-leading 22 assists. He also has 15 goals and holds down third spot in the scoring.

Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings are fourth and fifth in the scoring with 35 and 34 points respectively.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal scored a goal and assisted on another in Canadiens' 3-2 loss to Toronto and remained in sixth spot with 33 points.

Bob Pulford of Toronto scored his 13th goal of the season and moved into a three-way tie for seventh place with Bob Nevin of New York and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit. Each has 30 points.

Chuvalo Rated Sixth

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mexico's Vicente Saldivar has been rated sixth heavier of the year by the World Boxing Association.

Saldivar, the world featherweight champion, defended his title twice in 1965, defeating Raul Rojas and Howard Winstone.

Emile Griffith was named boxer of the month for December for his welterweight title defense against Manuel Gonzalez. Here are the final WBA ratings for the year:

Heavyweight — Champion, Ernie Terrell, Chicago. 1. Cassius Clay, Louisville. 2. Zora Folley, Chandler, Ariz. 3. Amos Lincoln, Los Angeles. 4. Floyd Patterson, New York. 5. Karl Mildenberger, West Germany. 6. George Chuvalo, Toronto.

Memphis Defeats Rangers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Great goaltending by Joe Daley led Memphis Wings to a 7-1 victory in Tuesday night's Central Professional Hockey League game in Memphis, Tenn. It was the only other league game, Oklahoma City Blazers beat the Wings 7-2 in Tulsa.

Daley, making one of his best efforts in the nets, lost his shutout in the final minutes. He was credited with 38 saves, but Minnesota's Trevor Fahey scored with less than two minutes left to spoil the shutout.

In St. Louis, the triumph boosted the Blazers into a tie for second place with St. Louis, each with 26 points.

$750 To Italo-Canadians

Govt. Gifts Hockey Team

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree of Ontario Wednesday presented a cheque for $750 to Los Janetta, president of the Canada-Italian Amateur Hockey League of Toronto, which is sending an all-star team on a good-will tour of Italy in January.

The team's tour was in doubt until last week because the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association voted against sanctioning the trip. But a storm of protests caused the CAHA to change its mind after another vote of delegates.

The money given Wednesday was a grant from the Ontario athletic commissioner, whose office comes under the labor department's jurisdiction.

It was the second - largest grant to the team, which will spend about $15,000 to send 15 players and three coaches on the nine-day tour. A brewery earlier donated $1,000.

Head coach of the tour will be Lou Fontinato, a native of Guelph who started for New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League before a severe knee injury ended his career.

The Italian - Canadian team will leave Canada Jan. 3, play in Milan Jan. 4, Cortina Jan. 5, Milan Jan. 7 and Bolzano Jan. 17.

Bears Win Over Aces, Reds Lose

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was the law of averages Wednesday night in the American Hockey League — Quebec Aces, first in the Eastern Division, lost and Buffalo Bisons, last in the Western Division, won.

The Aces, who had lost only six games, bowed 4-2 to Hershey Bears while the Bisons, winners on only nine occasions before Wednesday night, dumped Providence Reds 4-2.

In other action, Springfield Indians maintained a share of second place in the East by downing Pittsburgh Hornets 4-2 while Rochester Americans, Western Division leaders, edged Cleveland Barons 3-2.

Norris Cline, who had scored only one goal this season, fired two against the Aces, winners on Jean-Guy Gendron and Gord Labossiere scored for Quebec.

Marlies Get Boss Blast

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros, without a victory in their last six games in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, came under fire Wednesday from their general manager, Jim Gregory.

But Gregory said that coach Gus Bodnar is in no danger of losing his job.

He placed the blame for the team's dismal showing — four losses and two ties in six games — on the players.

"Officials of the team, including Gus, are doing their jobs," Gregory said, "but the players we relied on are not doing theirs."

The Marlboros are in sixth place in the nine-team series in which the top eight clubs at the end of the schedule qualify for the playoffs.

NFL Signs Huge TV Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System has purchased the rights to televise National Football League games for at least two more years, signing a contract which calls for more money than ever and which will enable more people than ever to see professional football on television.

CBS and the NFL agreed Wednesday to a $37,600,000 contract for two years. CBS also has an option for a third year.

The annual money, of course.

The new agreement is a healthy increase over the $28,000,000 paid for the past two seasons. Each club in the NFL will receive an additional $200,000 a year, or $1,200,000.

DISMISSES BID

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Carl Stewart of the Ontario Supreme Court dismissed Wednesday an application to delay integration of the Hospitals of Ontario pension plan with the Canada Pension Plan. The application was made by Patrick Flynn Murphy, a stationary engineer, on behalf of the 25,000 employees in the pension plan.

Nationals Tie Swedes; Out Of Race

Too Little, Too Late

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP-AP) — Canada's national hockey team fought back with three goals in the third period Wednesday night to tie Sweden 5-5 but still was eliminated from the race for the Walter Brown Memorial Trophy.

The Soviet Union, world amateur hockey champions, could wrap up the trophy tonight by defeating Czechoslovakia.

Roger Bourbonnais, 23-year-old Edmonton native, scored two goals in the last half of the third period as the Canadians outscored the Swedes 3-1 in that period to overcome a 4-2 deficit.

Ray Cadieux, 25-year - old right winger and top scorer for Canada in the 1964 olympic tournament, also scored in the third period.

Billy MacMillan, 22-year-old Charlottetown native now studying at the University of Manitoba, and coach-manager Jackie McLeod scored for Canada in the first period. McLeod, 25-year-old native of Swift Current, Sask., scored on a rebound by a player earlier this year.

Scoring for Sweden were Hakan Nygren, with two goals, Bjorn Palmqvist, Folke Bengtsson and Hans Lindberg.

Canada lost 8-3 to the Soviet Union Tuesday night in its first game. It now must play Czechoslovakia to round out its schedule in the single round-robin tournament.

Sweden wound up its schedule with two losses and a tie. It lost 13 to Czechoslovakia and 4-3 to Russia.

Bourbonnais' tying goal came on a pass from behind the net by Gary Dineen, 22-year-old Montreal native. Bourbonnais shot the puck from four feet out past the outstretched glove of Swedish goalie Leif Holmqvist.

Both teams missed close-in shots in the closing minutes.

A 30-foot wrist shot, after a pass from Dineen, gave Bourbonnais his other goal earlier in the third period.

Peter Palmquist scored to give Sweden a 1-0 lead in the first period. MacMillan tied it with an unassisted shot at the mouth of the cage. Bengtsson scored again to give Sweden the lead but McLeod countered on an eight-footer at 14:03 to tie the score 2-2 at the end of the second period.

Pulled Up Socks; Bauer

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Dr. David Bauer, who brought together Canada's first national team in 1963, said Wednesday night Canada's 5-5 comeback tie with Sweden "represents our first step back to respectability."

"It's really something to come back, not only in this game but in the whole tour, compared against the Russians," said Father Bauer, now special adviser to the team.

The Canadian national team lost 6-2 to Russia Tuesday night in a round - robin tournament for the Walter Brown Memorial Trophy.

"They had us down 5-3 tonight," Father Bauer said, "but instead of crying or walking into stupid penalties that killed us against the Russians we went back to centre for the faceoff and pulled up our socks."

Four of the Soviet Union's six goals Tuesday came with a Canadian in the penalty box.

UNDER PRESSURE

Father Bauer said Sweden went ahead because the Canadian defence was "really under pressure. It was jumpy," he said, because of what happened in the Russian game.

Coach - manager Jackie McLeod said "we didn't quit like we did against the Russians."

"The third period was terrific," McLeod said. "In fact it was one of the finest we've played all year."

Tournament Standings

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Standings after Wednesday's game in round-robin play for the Walter Brown Memorial Trophy. (If a tie exists when the tournament is over, the team with the most goals scored will be the winner. If that category is tied, then the team with the least goals allowed will be the winner):

Midget Schedule Revised

Due to the increase in midget - age hockey players registering after the original schedule was drawn up, a new revised one has been drafted.

The number of teams has been increased from four to six and the revised schedule will start on Tuesday, January 4. Two games will be played each Tuesday and one each Friday from now on.

The teams are: Canadiens, Hawks, Wings, Bruins, Leafs and Rangers. The schedule will end February 25 and playoffs will start March 2.

One Of Three TV Fans Is A Girl

CHICAGO (AP) — Husbands, you say your wives complain you're glued to the TV set every football weekend?

Forget it—so are your spouses.

Of every three adults viewing professional football on TV in the U.S. is a woman, a marketing research firm, A. C. Nielsen Co., reported Wednesday.

Feminine football interest is even greater for bowling and golf. The survey showed the female percentage of adult audiences at 48 per cent for bowling and 46 per cent for golf.

The survey did not indicate if the little woman had any other choice.

Qu'n'e Reaches Semi-Finals

BCIVS Wins Queen's Cage Tourney

By DAVID TEMPLER

Belleville Collegiate Institute defeated defending champion Oshawa Cen.ral collegiate 37-33 Wednesday night to win the annual Queen's University high school basketball tournament at Kingston.

Belleville advanced to the final round by winning over Frontenac secondary school of Kingston, Brockville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary School.

In the semifinal, Belleville took a 39-32 decision from Quinte.

In the final game BCI and Oshawa Central fought the most exciting game of the day. In the first quarter BCI felt out the shifting zone defence of Oshawa and both teams played for ball control. McCreary began the scoring for BCI with a field goal and two free throws and Terry Wellsley scored two tip-ins. Larry Lloyd of Oshawa scored twice to leave the score 8-4 at the quarter.

In the second quarter the game opened up with both teams scoring well. The half ended with the score of 20-16 for Belleville.

In the third quarter BCI's defence tightened to hold Oshawa to five while the Collegiate's scored 12. Going into the last quarter BCI had a lead of 11 points with the score 32-21.

In the last quarter Oshawa rallied scoring 12 points in unanswered field goals. Two free throws by Walsh during the quarter gave the margin of one point with twenty seconds remaining in the game. Tom Lornie was fouled by Oshawa and, as a silence fell over the gym, sunshed the two foul shots to give the collegiate a three-point margin. With five seconds remaining Walsh drew an Oshawa foul and added one to make BCI's total 37 to Oshawa's 33.

Walsh led the scoring in the tournament with a total of 61 points. Larry Lloyd of Oshawa was second with a total of 55 points, Tony Meddings of Quinte scored 41 points in three games and Jim McCreary scored 35 for Belleville.

Mr. Frank Tindall, coach of the Queen's Golden Gales basketball team, presented the impressive trophy to Ron Walsh and Tom Lornie, co-captains of the squad.

Crests and pen sets were presented to the Collegian play-ers by Dr. Donald Macintosh, head of the Physical Education and Health department at Queen's, who was captain of the 1936 Canadian Olympic basketball team.

Two Canadians

Harness Drivers Feted

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP) — Two Canadians were among harness racing's best drivers, all members of the exclusive society of drivers with 200 or more wins in a single season, honored Wednesday at a special luncheon at Roosevelt Raceway.

Honored along with such American drivers as Bob Farrington of Richwood, Ohio, who had 310 wins this year, and Bill Haughton of Oyster Bay Cove, N.Y., with 222 victories, were Ron Feagan, 23, of Goderich, Ont., and Gilles Lachance, 27, of St. Andrews East, Que.

Feagan, the Canadian champion with 213 victories, and Lachance, who had 206 wins, were the youngest and second-youngest to scale the 200 - victory mark in harness racing history. They were also the first Canadians ever to reach the 200 mark.

The luncheon was held prior to the earliest opening of the harness racing season in this part of the United States. All drivers honored—with watches engraved with the number of wins—will be on hand opening night for the start of Roosevelt's 52-night meeting.

Lachance plans a brief campaign here with a six - horse stable while Feagan, after opening night action, returns to Saturday matinee racing in London, Ont. He will later race 15 horses when Windsor Raceway opens Jan. 4.

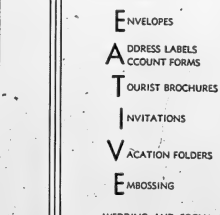
Seaboards Win Over Trenton

Three unanswered goals in the third period sewed up a 5-4 Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League victory for Picton Seaboards over Trenton Iroquois, in Trenton, last night.



Picton led 4-1 in the first beat but Trenton cut the margin to 4-4 by the end of the second. Schroder, Stacey and Slaven rapped it up for the winners in the third.

A line of Claude Schroder, Carl Stacey and James spearheaded Picton's attack by gathering 14 scoring points. Schroder led the way with three goals and two assists. James scored three and helped on three while Stacey had a goal and three assists.

Gary Haennel added two goals Slaven a goal and two assists BPitts two helpers, Ron Weese, Lionel Bolty and Kennedy one each.

Don Wilman netted two Iroquois goals while Roger Drake had one and two assists and Frank Lewis also scored. Dickson, with two, Burleigh, Smith, Ed Marineau and Scott were the playmakers.

The winners drew five penalties, the losers two.

Bowl-O-Drome Tournament Tonight!

A year ago, an experimental five - pin tournament was held at the Bowl-O-Drome here and proved so successful and popular with the participants and spectators, it was immediately decided to make it an annual event. Tonight will see the second annual edition of the Holiday Classic Double Knock - out Match Play Tournament.

Scheduled to begin at 7.00 p.m. entrants will first take part in a four game roll - off to decide the top sixteen bowlers, who will then go into head - on match play, which will continue until just two bowlers remain. The all important final match will take place around ten o'clock.

Last years winner, Master Bowler Jim Begley, is entered and will attempt to defend his title. First, like all other entrants, he must win his way into the match play and this will be difficult, judging by some of the top notch bowlers on the entry list.

A late starting companion tournament to the annual Mr. Bowling Tournament, which will hold it's 14th edition in May, the Holiday Classic Tournament should add much excitement to the local bowling scene this week.

Letter to the Sports Editor

The Quinte Skating Club is faced with a critical financial problem and as a result a club that has been successful for many years could come to an end this year. The present members are determined this won't happen and currently working hard to save the club. The most obvious solution is an increase in membership, since this would take additional them out of their current crisis, but would also assure them of success next year as well.

The problem has been created by a decrease in the numbers of members, which seems strange because the population of Belleville is steadily increasing. Membership has dwindled from a high of 130 members to a low this year of only 80. These 80 members represent about 50 Belleville families. This seems incredible in a city this size.

Last year's members voted to lower the fees by $10.00 per year in hopes of attracting new members, but currently there are 10 fewer members than last year at this time.

Figure skating clubs have been associated in many people's minds with a club for the children of the wealthy, but this cannot be said of the Quinte Skating Club. Current fees are $35.00 per year slightly less for additional family members and may be paid in instalments of $8.00 per month. No activity offers the children of Belleville any more for less than $1.50 per week. Each member may attend the public skating sessions at the Quinte Skating Club, Current fees are $35.00 per year slightly less for additional family members and may be paid in instalments of $8.00 per month. The progress a skater makes in just one season is remarkable and this ability to skate properly will make skating more enjoyable for them whether they skate in competition, hockey or just play.

There are still three months of skating left this season and the members hope that their efforts to obtain new members at $6.00 per month for the balance of the season will be successful and that it will solve the current problem.

Rollins Thump Gananoque

Scoring almost at will, Belleville Rollins Construction announced Gananoque 14-0 here last night in an OMHA peewee division game.

The high-flying Rollins boys potted three in the first, increased the tempo to bag four in the second, then doubled the count with seven in the third.

Danny Lapenestre, with four goals and one assist, and Rick Meagher, also with four goals, sparked the Belleville attack.

In an exhibition, the Riverway novices blanked the peewee Maroons 4-0 by scoring a goal per period.

Andy Ricketts, Grant Goegan and Dave Taylor potted the goals. John Edwards and Goegan had an assist apiece.

Lakehead Seniors Whip Finns

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Lakehead senior all-stars fired off a concerted drive by the Finland national team Wednesday for a 4-3 exhibition hockey victory before 2,500 fans.

The loss was the second suffered by the Finns on their current tour. The Finns, defeated 9-4 by Canada's national team Dec. 19, have won five and tied one.

The teams played to a 1-1 tie in the first period and the all-stars, made up of players from the Thunder Bay Senior Hockey League, went ahead 3-2 in the second.

Dave Wolf, Roger Sawicki, Barry Hogue and Henry Akervall scored for the all-stars. Juhani Jylha answered with a goal for Finland and Lasse Oksanen got the other.

The Finns outshot the all-stars 43-22.

DISTRESS SIGN ABUSED

ROME (AP)—Drivers pulled to the side in dense Roman traffic or a car used by, blasted the horn and with a handkerchief fluttering at the window, the standard Italian hospital emergency signal. Then came the police—chasing two thugs who were making off with a jewelry salesman's sample case, worth $50,000.

Viewer's Complaints About Loud Commercials Probed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Some action is being taken to answer viewers' complaints about loud commercials.

For a long time complaints were brushed off with explanations the commercials weren't really loud and, besides, it couldn't be helped.

Recently, however, the U.S. Federal Communications Commission expressed unhappy concern and suggested three specific ways to reduce the noise-content.

These included getting the cooperation of those who make the commercials, pre-screening them before broadcast and, if necessary, reducing the sound levels of offenders in the broadcasting control rooms.

The FCC is, among other things, a licensing agency with power to punish offenders.

Television seems to be receiving more attention in connection with loud commercials than radio, too, often offends.

Another area of improvement involves controlling the quantity and quality of color in both TV programs and commercials. Since the big increase in color programs on all networks, many set owners are spending much time readjusting their sets.

Sometimes the set is properly adjusted to normal skin tones but the actors' faces in the program but the commercial comes on with the salesman looking as if he were suffering from apoplexy.

Differences are also marked when the picture originates from two different points—or even from different cameras on the same program.

The Society of Motion Picture Technical Engineers is making an "instruction film" on the use of color which will be sent as a guide to all producers of color film and tape.

William Travarthen, NBC's vice-president in charge of operations and engineering, calls the film "the first big step in standardization."

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association's "little guys", the tykes, played three scheduled games last night.

Leafs dumped the Bruins by a 5-1 score. Scoring a goal each for the Leafs were Jeffery Belanger, Paul Bunnett, Laurence Lougheed, Steven Vesterfelt and Michael Turner. Michael Meeker was the lone Bruin marksman.

Hawks and Wings battled to a 2-2 deadlock. Danny Armstrong and Mark Foster fired Hawk goals while Peter Donovan and Larry Waite did the same for the Wings.

Rangers slipped the Canadiens in 5-4 contest. Michael Crawford and Eric Powell each scored twice for the Rangers and Gordon Male got the other. Rick Mofina was a two - goal man for Canadiens with Patrick Mulvihill and Dan Yates notching the others.

AT THE PARK — Space Pilot Nurtle Turtle (the space hero from the planet Twurtle Dum Twurtle Dee who accidentally lands on Earth and, like Jacchino and invades the little puppet in his control, is forced to help a Terrestrial space girl) in Universal release of a full length Technicolor feature starring at the Park Theatre. On the same program is Technicolor "Dog Of Flanders" starring Donald Crisp, Theodore Bikel, Claire Wilcox and Richard Dix. Times are at 1.30-7.00 and 8.45 p.m.

At the Park

NEW 'PINOCCHIO' FILM

That enarming puppet, known by children around the world, Pinocchio, has a brand new adventure in "Pinocchio in Outer Space". Universal release of a full length, wide screen color cartoon now at the Park theatre. Based on an original idea by Norm Prescott with the screenplay by Fred Lederman, it is not a remake. The classic character is involved in a fairy tale of the future.

What makes it even more interesting is that Pinocchio's adventures take place in Space, where probably is the number one interest of people around the world today. Everyone looks forward to the landing of men on the moon, and is curious as to whether there is life on the other planets.

Pinocchio gets first hand knowledge of this when he meets Nurtle the Turtle. An ace space pilot from the Planet Twurtle Dee Twurtle Dum, Nurtle has landed on Earth while on a scouting mission. Pinocchio joins him for the rest of his trip, and they take off on many exciting incidents in outer space, including a visit to Mars.

On the same program the hilarious comedy "40 Pounds of Trouble" starring Tony Curtis, Suzanne Pleshette, Claire Wilcox and Phil Silvers. Also showing at the matinees 4 Disney Cartoons. Show times are at 1.30 - 7.00 and 8.45 p.m.

Football On TV 8 Hours

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The national championship, the country's longest winning string and enormous amounts of prestige go on the line this weekend in the U.S. college football's annual wind - up extravaganza — the major bowl game.

The television line-up is such that arm chair quarterbacks can watch at least portions of all four of the big ones New Year's Day—the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowls.

It starts at 2 p.m. EST, and goes continuously until about 10 p.m.

And if that isn't enough, viewers can start working on their red eyes New Year's Eve with the Gator Bowl and the East-West all-star game. The Sun Bowl, also scheduled New Year's Eve, is not televised nationally.

Most of the top-ranked teams—Michigan State, Arkansas, Nebraska and Alabama—are in action and the national championship will be determined by a poll following the games.

TV RIGHTS TO CBS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System announced Wednesday it has signed a $37,500,000 contract to continue televising National Football League games for two years.

REBUILD OLD FORT

COTEAU LANDING, Que. (CP)—The remains of an old British fort, uncovered this summer at Coteau du Lac historic site, are to be preserved. Resources Minister Arthur Laing said the foundations will be repaired by masons. The fort was built about 1775 to guard a river route and was garrisoned in the War of 1812.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For December 31

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Cycle high. You can shine at party, social affair. Satisfying time indicated if you are diplomatic. Don't engage in debates. Refuse to mix business with pleasure. Turn on charm!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Emphasize humor, adaptability. If you can make new contacts . . . very good. Come out of shell. Express feelings. Take firm stand on issues to gain admirers.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Many around you appear stodgy. This is bad temporary . . . and may be encouraged by your patience. See various points of view. Stress mature approach. Don't heed rumors.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Difficulty could result from argument with mate, partner. Check references if you are wrong . . . admit it. Try to smooth relations with those close to you. Don't fight.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Your charm, warmth flow to forefront. Fine for sharing creative hobbies. You can make family members happy. Tune in on one with special message. Means read, gain knowledge.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Now is time to make resolution, you intend to keep. Important users should deal with money, saving accounts, marriage. Give thought to intensified self-analysis.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Avoid making promises you cannot fulfill. Realize there may be legal restrictions. Check with expert. Plan holiday celebrations with care. Emphasize moderation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your ability to reason comes in handy during evening hours. Many look to you as example, moderator. Be fair. Realize some around you are not used to holiday spirit. Highlight calm attitude.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Take initiative. Be original in party planning. Good lunar aspect highlights romance, creative activity. Give credence to advice offered by younger individual.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Fine for testing new theories . . . helping others to become friendly. Be the wonderful host and perfect guest. Start off New Year with resolution to be happy.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): You could have great time at party. Obtain hint from Taurus message. Realize many who appear cool are merely shy. Give of yourself . . . others follow your example.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Check details. Study Gemini message. Avoid extravagance. Friends apt to consult you on budget, money questions. Be fair and honest. Plant seeds for future trust. Stand tall!

If today is your birthday . . . you are a determined individual, capable of overcoming odds to obtain success. Would be a good financier.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Aries, Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Capricorn: Your future may depend upon your expressed view regarding family, home.

Red Cross Packs Boxes For Christmas

This year with Mrs. Michael Ryan as chairman of the committee which looks after the senior citizens, it added to its list of older people the names of all Deseronto people old or young who are in hospitals and sent out not only 85 baskets or boxes of Christmas treats but also 60 cards, each with a bookmark. In addition, the committee headed by Mrs. Harold Transue and Mrs. George Robinson saw to it that gifts reached children who might not otherwise have received much. These were sent through the parents.

Preparations began a month ago, with the making out of lists and shopping. Much publicity was Christmas approached. Every active member spent several days in the kitchen making cakes and cookies and making candy and jam for the boxes and baskets. Everything went even the children. The Ian Deseronto cubs collected baskets, which were delivered by their leaders, Mrs. Grace Martin and Mrs. James Caron, and packed baskets were then escorted in the homes. In one case a mother and her children did 32 baskets.

The teen agers helped, too, especially with the packing. Packing was done the Sunday afternoon before Christmas in the Sunday school room of the United Church. The Red Cross members were assisted in the work by Carolyn Caron and Judith Caron who is the general handyman.

By Wednesday the last basket and box had reached its destination, with an army of helpers speeding the work. All Red Cross members, junior and senior, had a hand in this endeavor. Junior members included Wendy Joyce, Barbara Nancy Loney, Edith Law, Gladys Thompson, Wanda Wade, Joyce Sly and Sandra Caron. Among the senior members were Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Cole, Don Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walker, Mrs. Transue, Mrs. Stafford Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ryan.

Those who did not take an active part in the project contributed by donating. Practically every merchant in town contributed to the fund.

At least 28 of the gifts went to Deseronto citizens who were shut-ins. Hastings shut-ins in Belleville was the destination for nine, and three went to the Belleville General Hospital. Kingston went a round dozen, seven to the Ontario Hospital, three to St. Mary's-of-the-Lake Hospital, and two to the House of Providence. Five went to a home for the aged and Napanee is home for five out-patients of the Ontario Hospital and two of them, with no relatives nearby, received gifts in addition.

The oldest Deseronto resident to receive a gift was Mrs. Amy Cole, who at 93 lives alone and cares for herself. However, in St. Mary's-of-the-Lake Hospital, and two to the House Napanee, Dr. St. Louis' decision went a remembrance to Mrs. Martin Hart, a niece 99 at Christmas time. She is a former Deseronto resident.

STARS CAN BE COUNTED

Napanee News

Police Charge Parking Violators

NAPANEE — Twenty - six Napanee car owners now realize that the town bylaw forbidding night parking on the streets will be strictly enforced. Monday night 81 cars were towed away, and the owners must pay the towing charges, in addition, each will receive a summons and must pay a penalty. Tuesday night five more cars were towed away.

"We mean business", Chief Harry Benn stated. "The town passed a bylaw and it must be enforced."

From December 1 to March 31 cars must not be parked on the streets between the hours of 1.07 a.m., and 7.00 a.m., according to the bylaw. The local paper carried this information for four weeks, and over 400 warning tickets were placed on cars before the police finally cracked down on the law breakers.

Napanee Personals

NAPANEE — Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bateman of Dundas St. had as their guests for Christmas dinner Mrs. Bateman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Moore, her brother Lieut. Moore sister, Mrs. Angus MacKillican, and their daughter and son, Miss Jeanne and Lieut. Bill of Belleville. That evening, together with their daughters Elaine and Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Bateman enjoyed a second Christmas dinner with Mr. Bateman's parents, Mrs. W. E. Bateman of Tweed.

Miss Lily Jean Rombough of the staff of the Napanee Separate School Secondary School is spending the vacation with her parents in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. David Roffey of Piety Hill were Christmas weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill of Bale d'Urfe, Quebec, and David, jr., of Cavanaville, Quebec, and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gardiner of East Street were Christmas holiday guests of Mr. Gardiner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gardiner of Fort Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taffs of Piety Hill were entertained by family gathering at Christmas dinner when Mrs. Taff's sister, Mrs. David Hunter and Mr. Hunter, in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bolton of Sydney, N.S., were recent visitors of cousins in Napanee, including Mr. and Mrs. John Benn of Mill Street.

Mr. Singh of the staff of the Napanee District Secondary School is in India visiting his ailing father. He hopes to return to his duties by mid-January.

The team skipped by Bruce MacLean of Morven was the winner of the Kingston Curling Club annual Christian Junior Bonspiel on Thursday, December 29, winning over last year's victors, skipped by Doug Jones. Other members of this year's winning team were Bellejean Mills, Jackie Pearson and John Donelan.

CRITICIZES PAPERS

QUEBEC (CP)—Judge Marcel Lelourneau Wednesday criticized newspapers in general for fostering the "unhealthy" attitude of the public which he said, makes heros of the worst bandits. Speaking at the swearing-in ceremony of four new Quebec City municipal police officers, the municipal court judge made specific reference to the case of Lucien Rivard, convicted narcotics conspirator.

School Closing Marked With Yule Parties

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — All four of the schools on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve had happy school parties on the closing day before Christmas. In each case the local school committee had provided Christmas treats for the children; ice cream, candy canes, oranges and apples. Each school was beautifully decorated by the children for the festive occasion. And in all four schools the children sat down to a potluck buffet luncheon.

Grades 1, 2 and 3 are taught in the Central school by Mrs. Borden Elliott, in the Western school by Miss Emily Merritt and in the Eastern school by Mrs. Hazard. The four-roomed Quinte Mohawk school has pupils for the other grades brought by bus from all parts of the Reserve. The principal is Mr. Howard Allen, teaching grades 7 and 8. Grades 5 and 6 are taught by Mrs. Leslie Claus, who was born and educated on the Six Nations Reserve near Brantford. Her husband, a graduate of the Central school, completed his high school work in Deseronto and in Belleville, and then taught for a while. Mrs. H. M. Rathbun, with many previous years of experience in the Eastern school, teaches the opportunity class.

119 PUPILS IN ATTENDANCE

This is her first experience in seeing the children all in one room in the Quinte Mohawk school. They range from the aged, and all 119 pupils are together, with grapes and fruit juices provided for the teachers as additional treats. Movies followed and finally gifts were exchanged.

Activities following the luncheon in the Eastern and Western schools were much alike, with games preceding the entrance of Santa Claus to supervise the gift exchange, which included a bag of candy for each child from the teacher.

The party in the Central school followed the pattern set by Mrs. Elliott, who has had many years of experience in teaching on the Reserve. Following the usual program following the luncheon and are served refreshments before the gifts were given there was a short entertainment given by the little folk for the enjoyment of the guests and then Mr. Elliott showed movies he had taken of last year's party, and of the annual parade at the Mohawk Fall Fair. The teacher provided candy to supplement the treats given by the School Committee.

PRIZES AWARDED

Gifts were exchanged, and the teacher presented awards for the year's work. Norman Claus got the prize winner for mathematics in grade 1, Harold Hill in grade 2, and Manson Brant in grade 3. Prizes for the highest marks for marks went to Bonny Maracle in grade 1, to Debbie Maracle in grade 2 and to Ellen Maracle in grade 3.

As everywhere, education is on the move on the Reserve. Most of the school children are overcrowded, especially the Quinte Mohawk, and something must be done before long to remedy the situation. Should the Reserve join the rest of the province in building a new school, or should it greatly enlarge the Quinte Mohawk school? In the meantime, Chief John R. Brant has stated that he is opposed to integration with the white children in Belleville and many of the residents share his views.

TIMES ARE CHANGING

GUILDFORD, England (CP) — Jane Hunting isn't what it used to be, say members of the Surrey Union Hunt. The annual report of the hunt's Benefit Fund of 1965: "There were many foot followers—mostly in cast."

"That guy can drag out a joke longer than anybody I ever saw."

Tyendinaga Reserve

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Mr. S. S. Elliott of Shannonville who has been in Belleville General Hospital, returned ed home for Christmas eve.

Mrs. Gladys Maracle of Deseronto visited her daughter, Mrs. William Lewis, and her husband and family in Syracuse for the Christmas week end.

Jack Bell of Boucherville, visited his sister, Mrs. Borden Elliott and her husband, of RR 1, Deseronto. He and Mrs. Bell are guests of Mrs. Bell's parents in Colborne for the holidays.

The Slash Hill of the Ridges Road has received word that his sister-in-law, Mrs. Stuart Hill of Belleville, has returned to the Belleville General Hospital for further treatment.

Christmas weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Maracle of the Slash Road were their sons Dale and Elwood and Mrs. Maracle, all of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Maracle of Mill Street, are patients in Belleville hospitals. Mrs. Maracle was taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston on Sunday night. Her husband has been in Belleville General Hospital for over a year as the result of a stroke. Garnet Maracle of R.R. 1, is their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clement and Karen of Napanee spent Christmas with Mrs. Clement's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Maracle of the Slash Road.

CONDITION EXCELLENT

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)— U.S. astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell told members of the Association for the Advancement of Science Wednesday night. Dr. Charles Berry said the two men adjusted so well to the stresses and confinement of space flight that officials may believe trips of up to 30 days can be attempted.

Canada's Boom Endangered Says Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday inflation and the mounting deficit in international payments are endangering Canada's four-year boom.

He accused the government of a year-end statement of doing nothing to face the "mounting danger" of rising costs and the outflow of capital, particularly to the United States.

"There must be an end to economic and fiscal experimentation. . . . There must continue to be a free flow of American investment into Canada."

It was imperative for the government to ensure Canadian shareholders of U.S. firms active in the best interests of the Canadian economy.

"The recent announcement that undistributed profits of American subsidiaries will be repatriated to the U.S. needs to be critically examined by Parliament with regard to the potentially detrimental effect of this measure on Canadian economic expansion."

WANTS INCREASE

The Conservative leader said the government should act in 1966 to increase federal aid to universities as recommended by the Bladen commission.

Revision of the Bank Act should be completed at the next session of Parliament, legislation was needed to increase the exploitation of resources in remote areas and to combat the problems of eastern farmers and cities.

Mr. Diefenbaker also renewed his call for a national constitutional conference to advance nationhood.

Social security measures to distribute the benefits of prosperity were necessary, but taxes should not be "inflicted beyond a point required to produce necessary benefits," he added.

BATES PROFIT IN DEATH

Doctor Found Bleeding Badly In Motel Room

TORONTO (CP) — Constable Wayne Carter of provincial police testified Wednesday that Dr. Aaron N. Norwitz, 39, of Toronto was found bleeding badly with an arm wound in a motel near Parry Sound three days after a suburban Etobicoke woman was assaulted.

Dr. Norwitz is charged with indecently assaulting the woman, an attractive brunette in her early 20s. The doctor has pleaded not guilty.

The woman said the alleged assault took place in the doctor's office.

Constable Carter told Magistrate James Resnicka that on Dec. 5 he found Dr. Norwitz on a bed at a motel at Britt near Parry Sound. He was bleeding badly from a gash near his elbow and was taken to hospital.

The case was adjourned to Jan. 14.

Canada Backs Words With Money To Increase Her Stature in UN

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— Canada enlarged her stature in the United Nations in 1965 as peacemaker in a conflict-plagued world.

The pushing through the UN General Assembly of a proposal to give financial stability to the UN emergency force in the Middle East and the blocking of another proposal that would have widened the split on the peacekeeping question were among her major achievements.

Backing words with money, Canada made an important voluntary contribution in answer to an appeal by UN Secretary-General U Thant to help rescue the 117-nation organization from financial disaster.

Replying to Thant's appeal to solve the $100,000,000 debt arising from peacekeeping operations, Canada pledged in June that she would contribute $4,000,000. About 20 countries joined Canada with pledges totalling about $21,000,000.

Ambassador Paul Tremblay, Canada's permanent representative to the UN, turned over the bulk of the Canadian pledge to Thant on the eve of the adjournment of the 20th session of the General Assembly.

Besides strictly financial contributions, Canada provided the UN with the nucleus of the new observer mission, under the command of Maj.-Gen. Bruce Macdonald of Edmonton, to supervise the Sept. 22 ceasefire along the Indian-Pakistani border.

The mission was the only new UN peacekeeping operation set up in 1965 and came at a time when Canada already was involved in peacekeeping duties in the Middle East, Cyprus, Korea and Kashmir.

The most immediate and perhaps important contribution to the UN by Canada occurred near the closing of the session during a debate in the assembly's budgetary committee on the UN emergency force in the Middle East.

The force was set up during the 1956 Suez crisis when British and France invaded Egypt. About 950 Canadians make up the 4,500-member force from seven nations, now used as a buffer between the hostile armies of Israel and the United Arab Republic.

During the debate, when the committee lacked a satisfactory resolution to extend the life of the emergency force, Canada came up with a proposal that was approval and assured the financial footing of the operation for 1965 and 1966.

But the cost of the operation contributed to the $100,000,000 UN deficit because the Soviet Union and a number of other countries refused to pay their share for peacekeeping. The Soviet Union argues that peacekeeping is a matter for the 11-nation Security Council to decide, and not the assembly.

Under the Canadian formula the developed nations, who will continue to carry the major portion of the cost of the operation, will be assessed an additional amount to make up for the deficit should the Soviet Union and other countries continue to refuse to pay.

Another important Canadian proposal to win assembly approval called for voluntary contributions to rescue the UN from its peacekeeping debt pending the completion of a study by the UN's 33-member special committee on peacekeeping operations.

The Canadian proposal came as the assembly's main political committee was deadlocked on an Irish resolution calling on the UN to affirm the authority of the assembly over international peace and security.

The Irish proposal, supported by the United States, was met with heated criticism from both the Soviet and French delegations, and would have injured the chances of getting a reconciliation on the peacekeeping question.

The Canadian suggestion, when the matter came to a vote, won the overwhelming support of the member nations, including all the major powers, and its acceptance gave the assembly a chance to side-step the more controversial Irish resolution.

The assembly adopted a resolution extending the World Food Program, and Canada said she was prepared to provide up to $27,500,000 in commodities and cash between 1966 and 1968 for the program.

Other Canadian financial contributions included $9,200,000 to the new UN development program, $1,250,000 to the UN relief and works agency for Palestine refugees and $350,000 to the UN high commissioner's office for refugees.

Scouting activities

DISTRICT COUNCIL SCOUTING

The final meeting of District Council Scouting for Belleville District reviewed with considerable satisfaction another active year on the part of Belleville District cubs and scouts. There seemed to be however a lack of knowledge on the part of cubs and scouts at large of activities on a broad scale. It was therefore decided to use the final report 1965 as a means of reviewing world wide activities planned for 1966 and of Centennial (Canada's Centennial Year 1967.

While registration for many of the '66 events are already in or due before the end of '65 all the major events have been included. Cubs and Scouts attention as well as that of their leaders is directed to their own publications.

1. The Canada-U.K. Scout exchange planned for Aug. 8-28, 1966 is well under way. Regional selections will all be made by 15-12-65 and boys advised before the end of the year. We understand the requests for consideration by Belleville Scouts were at an all time low.

2. The National Sailing Regatta is planned for the summer vacation period in Calgary. Each province will send a two-man crew as its representative. Belleville made a creditable showing in the Provincial Regatta. Don't forget in '67 it will be in Montreal to tie in with Expo '67.

3. The first Swimming and Canoeing Regatta held this year at Camp Anderson, Quebec will probably be repeated in '66 and definitely (in Montreal) in '67. This is for troop scouts and venturers.

4. The Lake Winisk Adventure sponsored by the Department of Lands and Forests will be held again this summer if enough interest is shown. If interested ask your leader.

5. Crew Scouters watch your mail. The 5th Canadian Rover Moot is planned for B.C. on Aug. 24-31. And then again in '67 at a location yet to be decided.

6. Registrations for the Icelandic Jamboree scheduled for July 24-31 at Reykjavik must definitely be in by Jan. 15th next. Minimum age for this event is 14 years.

7. How about a 7 day tour of Japan after a 5 day Jamboree. The 4th Nippon Jamboree is open to Scouts 14 years or over but decisions must be made by the end of the year (1965). Dates are Aug. 5 to 9.

8. Not to overlook the Cubs. Have you heard of the new "5 star scheme" to replace the present "2 star scheme". Next year (1966) is your special year, 50 years of cubbing. What is your pack doing about this special occasion?

9. Additional plans for 1967 will include (a) 12th World Jamboree with 40 troops permitted from Canada at Farragut National Park, Idaho Aug. 1-9. (b) Provincial Jamboree Aug. 9-17. (c) Inter-Provincial Scout Exchange (d) Centennial Sea Scout Rendezvous in Ottawa.

Group Committee Chairmen, Scoutmasters and Cubmasters are referred to the recent letter forwarded to them over the signature of the President of District Council regarding "Control of Badges." Please read this letter carefully. It will have considerable bearing on your activities in the new year. Keep the letter on file as your reminder of the steps required for the various badges. Keep your ears wide open for news of the "Scouters Get-Together" planned for February.

Some Postal Rates Increased

OTTAWA (CP) — Surface postal rates to some overseas countries will be increased Jan. 1. The increases, originally announced last August, are in line with a new rate structure being adopted by the universal postal convention.

The move does not affect letters and postcards to the United States, Britain, Ireland, France, the Commonwealth, Spain, the West Indies or Central and South America.

Letter rates to other countries will jump to 10 cents from six on the first ounce and to six cents from four on each additional ounce. Postcards will be six cents instead of four.

Ask More Care Marking Exams For Grade 13

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation will ask the department of education to be more careful in setting and marking grade 12 exam papers.

A resolution requesting this was passed Thursday at the federation's annual assembly. It follows the department's announcement this week that it had granted passes on reviews to more than 11,000 students who had originally received failing grades in June exams.

The federation also approved a resolution asking the department to permit appeals on any grade 13 papers regardless of the marks obtained.

The approval came after delegate D. L. Kettle of Pickering said students who fail a grade 13 subject sometimes have a better chance of getting into university than those who don't.

He said if a student passes all his exams but gets an average of only 59.5 per cent he can't be admitted to a university which requires a 60-per-cent average for admission.

"But if a pupil fails one paper and has the same sort of average, he can appeal the failed paper and usually is actually granted so the student . . . goes on to university. . . ."

SHE DISAGREES

But vi least one delegate felt too many appeals are being allowed. Margaret Fallona of London, a teacher for 26 years, said a ridiculously large number of students passed grade 13 exams on appeals this year.

She said standards have been going down for years due to pressure from the public "who feel that a certain number must pass whether they have the ability or not."

The assembly also asked that grade 13 papers be set by an examining board of teachers who are either teaching the subject concerned or have taught it within a year or two.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Temperatures will drop sharply into the twenties over Southern Ontario Saturday and a few northerlies are likely in the colder air. A heavy snowfall warning has been issued for regions north of Lake Superior. Strong winds will accompany the snow and likely produce heavy drifting.

Bank Car Hijacked By Bandits

QUEBEC (CP)—A bank employee who was knocked unconscious during the during daylight hijacking of a bank delivery car Thursday says one of the two bandits, who got away with an estimated $100,000, spoke to him by name.

The employee, Raymond Trudel, was taken hostage by the revolver-carrying gunmen, who knocked him out and dumped him into the street after driving a short distance in the bank car.

The robbery occurred shortly after the car drove up to a branch of La Banque d'Economie de Quebec. Four bank messengers were on a routine round for distributing currency to various branches.

At a branch in Upper Town, two of the messengers got out of the car and went into the bank. The other two, including Mr. Trudel, stayed behind and waited.

Mr. Trudel told police later the two gunmen came up to the car, told one of the messengers to get out of the car, then drove him away at high speed.

CAR FOUND

About 1,000 feet away, the car slowed down to about five miles an hour, Mr. Trudel said. The bandits knocked him out and dumped him on the street where police found him a few minutes later.

The abandoned car was nearby.

Quebec newspaper, L'Evenement says a young Quebec provincial police officer witnessed the start of a robbery and rushed to QPP headquarters to alert the force instead of acting alone.

The French - language daily says the unnamed policeman, wearing his uniform and carrying his revolver, saw the two gunmen hold-up and the officer thought a robbery was about to start inside the bank and thinking that there would be enough time, drove to QPP headquarters nearby to get help.

A squad of provincial policemen arrived in time to see a squad of municipal policemen. But the bandits and the car, and the money inside the car, were gone.

Provincial police declined to comment on the newspaper story.

Skilled Labor Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's economic boom may be retarded in 1966 by a shortage of skilled labor, economists in the provincial department of economics and development said Thursday.

In a year-end statement, they forecast another boom year for the province, but said the rate of growth likely will not be as high as in 1965 because of the developing shortage of skilled workers.

Meanwhile, William Crawston, chairman of the Ontario Economic Council, and David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, issued a joint statement calling on employers not to retire skilled workers at age 65.

They said there could be no quicker, more effective way of upgrading and expanding the provincial work force than to retain the experience and skills of older workers.

IMPORT WORKERS

The department of economics and development is assisting some Ontario manufacturers, at their request, import skilled workers. The first of these immigrants are expected to arrive early in the new year.

The economists say the provincial government's establishment of institutes of technology and worker - retraining programs will not meet the demand for shortages of professional, technical and skilled workers by themselves.

But their projected figures for this year give no reason for gloom. Output is expected to be about nine per cent higher than in 1964. Employment and income levels reached record highs during the year.

Employment in construction and durables manufacturing in the province's two primary expansion leaders—was up 10.4 and 8.6 per cent respectively.

FEW IDLE

For the province as a whole unemployment during 1965 was 2.8 per cent of the labor force—the lowest since 1956.

At the year's end construction activity was running about 20 per cent higher than in value than in 1964. And signs of expansion were still visible.

The economists expect to be able to report a growth in exports of 12 per cent in 1965, much of it due to the Canada-U.S. automotive free - trade agreement.

Business spending on plant and equipment is expected to increase by about 10 per cent.

The unprecedented prosperity of 1965 will be surpassed in 1966," the government economists said, "as the Canadian economy goes through its sixth straight year of economic expansion."

Viet Nam Peace Drive Widens To Include de Gaulle And Tito

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — The Viet Cong blasted a U.S. enlisted men's barracks at Dalat early today and followed up with a New Year's offensive against government outposts.

Pressing their northern offensive under cover of the moonsoon, they overran three South Vietnamese government outposts, according to latest reports reaching here today.

After one heavy attack which started before dawn early today and lasted through the morning, all the local militia defenders of a district headquarters in the province reported either killed or captured, a U.S. military spokesman said here.

The guerrillas gave this new demonstration of their determination in fight on the eighth day of the suspension of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam and in the face of intensive U.S. peace manoeuvres abroad.

One American was killed, another was missing and 10 Americans and one Vietnamese were wounded in the guerrilla raid at the military compound of Dalat, a mountain resort 145 miles northeast of Saigon. The area had been relatively free from terrorist activity.

Only about 15 miles to the southeast, two government outposts of Minh Long district headquarters, overran two days ago finally fell to the guerrillas during the night.

KILL 30

Flying over Communist positions north of Minh Long, a spotter reported "a fantastic number of enemy troops in real deep ditches shoulder to shoulder, with camouflage over their heads." U.S. planes pounded the area and pilots estimated they killed 30 enemy soldiers but reported no evidence of a Communist withdrawal.

North Viet Nam Is Unmoved

LONDON (AP) — President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam today demanded the withdrawal of U.S. troops as his terms for peace in South Viet Nam.

In a New Year's message Hanoi said: "United States ruling circles speak of peace, but actually step up war."

His message was broadcast by Moscow Radio in a Tass dispatch from Hanoi.

"The Vietnamese people are striving persistently for peace, but peace cannot be real with out real independence," he said.

"The imperialists are committing aggression in Viet Nam, and the Vietnamese people are defending their independence and preserve peace. U.S. ruling circles speak of peace, but actually step up war.

"Let the U.S. imperialists cease aggression, end all military operations against the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam (North Viet Nam) and withdraw the U.S. troops from South Viet Nam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their affairs as laid down in the 1954 Geneva agreement, and peace will at once be established in Viet Nam."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Viet Nam peace offensive spread today to France, Yugoslavia and a hastily called session of the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Council.

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was in Paris to begin a series of meetings with President Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Four hours later, he was to report on President Johnson's peace moves to the permanent council of NATO in Paris. The meeting was announced early today.

Averell Harriman, ambassador-at-large and the other presidential envoy in Europe, meanwhile was to have a scheduled talk to President Tito of Yugoslavia. He was scheduled to meet Tito in Belgrade near Ljubljana, but fog forced his plane back to Belgrade. Harriman met Wednesday with Polish Foreign Minister Adam Pajacki and Thursday with Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka.

U.S. Ambassador Bunker Elbrick said Paris still possible Harriman would meet the Yugoslav leader. He said the Yugoslav Foreign Secretary was making plans for a meeting.

The campaign Thursday also included Ottawa, where Mr. George Bundy, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, went to talk with the situation with Prime Minister Pearson.

ISSUE STATEMENT

Bundy's secret visit to Ottawa was followed by a telephone conversation between Pearson and Johnson. The prime minister's office issued a statement saying Pearson "expressed appreciation and support for the latest American efforts to find a peaceful solution to the conflict in Viet Nam."

Canada is a member of the 18-year-old international truce supervisory commission in Viet Nam, along with India and Poland.

The NATO meeting was arranged Thursday night after a request by 10 other representatives. An American official said that despite the short notice and the New Year's holiday, a majority of the 15 council members was expected to attend. Others would be represented by deputies, the official said.

Goldberg arrived in Paris came after Rome visits with Pope Paul Wednesday and Italian officials Thursday.

In Washington, Vu Van Thai, South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States, described the peace moves as a test to see if North Viet Nam is ready for "a true peace settlement."

URGES NEUTRALITY

De Gaulle has been critical of U.S. policy, and has urged a neutrality plan for the Indochinese peninsula (North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia), which he said, however, that his neutrality should be restored, nor has he defined China's role.

See Escalation If Peace Drive Proves Failure

SAIGON (AP) — High military and diplomatic officials in Saigon predicted today that if the Viet Nam conflict goes on, military activity will be intensified in 1966.

They expressed this view on the last day of the old year as the continuing U.S. diplomatic peace offensive gave rise to more optimistic outlooks in other parts of the world.

MOSCOW (AP) — Professor Staughton Lynd of Yale University said in Hanoi today there had been no significant reaction there to the current halt in U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam.

Lynd was asked in a telephone interview what reaction there had been in Hanoi to the lull which began at Christmas.

"Nothing of any significance," he replied.

Lynd and two other Americans, Thomas Hayden and Herbert Aptheker, arrived in Hanoi Tuesday on a private mission seeking to clarify the position of the North Vietnamese government and the Viet Cong on peace negotiations.

Lynd writes for the magazine Viet-Report, a voice of the so-called "new left." His wife said in New Haven, Conn., that he had gone "because of his concern for peace."

In the telephone interview, Lynd declined comment on the results so far of their visit to Hanoi.

"We have been here only a few days," he said. "We feel it would be better to wait until our return to report on what we have found while here."

'Copter Saves 24 From Ship

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The 95-foot sailing vessel Mandalay smashed into a coral reef 20 miles southeast of Miami today, but U.S. Coast Guard helicopters buzzing swiftly into action saved all 24 passengers and 11 crew from watery seas.

The vessel, operated by Windjammer Cruises, and the fourth of its fleet to strike trouble in five years, was on a 50-mile run from Bimini Island in the Bahamas to Miami when she hit the reef about 3 a.m.

Rafts were hastily inflated, passengers leaped three feet from the deck, and the helicopters receiving out, three Miami lifted the east-aways up one at a time.

Twenty - four were flown to Homestead Air Force base south of here. Eleven others were taken in a patrol boat to the coast guard base at Miami Beach. All appeared in good condition.

The Mandalay was the fourth of the Windjammer Cruises boats to run into trouble in five years. The line's owner, Capt. Michael Burke, is tied up in several lawsuits resulting from troubles at sea.

Book Says Boy Reverses Story About Horsburgh

TORONTO (CP) — A key Crown witness at the trial of Russell Horsburgh has reversed his story, according to a book to be published next week.

Horsburgh, former minister of Park Street United Church in Chatham, Ont., was convicted last April on two charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency by encouraging sexual activities among teenagers at his church. He was sentenced in one year in prison.

The book, C. Smedson, A United Church minister at Sharbot Lake, Ont., argues in his book that Horsburgh was taken in a patrol boat by the coast guard base at Miami Beach. All appeared in good condition.

The book will be published here Jan. 7 by Baxter Publishing.

The book includes an affidavit from a 19-year-old Crown witness at the trial which says he gave erroneous evidence and that Horsburgh "on no occasion gave me permission to use any part of the church premises for the purpose of having sexual intercourse nor has he on any occasion arranged, encouraged or condoned any improper activity on my part."

The boy's name is deleted from the affidavit in the book.

The affidavit is one of two by teen-age Crown witnesses which were referred to but not introduced at an appeal before the Ontario Court of Appeal here in November.

The appeal was rejected, but one of the three appeal court justices dissented and voted to quash the conviction.

Counsel for Horsburgh plan to launch a further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada Jan. 25.

The book quotes the boy whose affidavit is printed as saying he was encouraged to testify against Mr. Horsburgh by a Chatham woman who "had a knife into Rev. Horsburgh."

W. Germans Get Ready For $15 Million Bang

NEW YORK (AP)—The world welcomes the new year tonight with joyous celebration and a prayer for peace.

The West Germans will see in with a bang. They are as set to blow up $15,000,000 worth of fireworks, almost 50 per cent more than last year.

According to German folklore, the bangs and flashes of Sylvester (New Year's Eve) are supposed to frighten off demons and evil spirits.

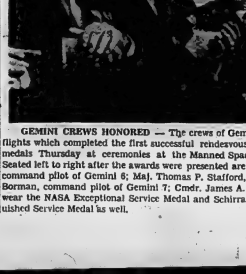
In the Moslem nations the observance of the new year may be somewhat subdued. It comes this year on the sixth day of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month 'of fasting.'

The Islamic faithful have been warned that kissing and drinking are forbidden.

Roman Catholics are looking forward to the new year as the start of a special Jubilee proclaimed by Pope Paul to mark the closing of the Vatican ecumenical council.

In New York's Times Square —a traditional New Year's Eve gathering place—a new $10,000 illuminated digital clock controlled by signals from the U.S. Naval Observatory will time the arrival of 1966.

Along some U.S. turnpikes, highway patrols prepared returns of coffee in hope of seeing weary celebrators home safely.



And everywhere the nearly awaited word on President Johnson's efforts to bring the war in Viet Nam to the negotiating table.

Chinese Nationalists troops defending the Quemoy Islands are under orders not to reply to the routine Communist Chinese shelling for their first meeting today. The ceasefire is designed to celebrate the new year and the anniversary Jan. 1 of the founding of the Republic of China in 1912.

In Canada, most hotels and other night spots were sold out several weeks ago for traditional New Year's Eve parties. The airlines and railways had on extra facilities to handle holiday travellers.

In most Canadian cities, police planned spot checks of motorists to help cut down on pistilated drivers.

As for the weather, it was expected to be mild in the Maritimes tonight, with a cold snap in Ontario and Quebec and plunging temperatures on the Prairies. It was cloudy with snow and rain in British Columbia.

GEMINI CREWS HONORED — The crews of Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 spaceflights which completed the first successful rendevous in space were awarded medals Thursday at ceremonies at the Manned Spacecraft Centre in Houston. Seated left to right after the awards were presented are: Capt. Walter M. Schirra, command pilot of Gemini 6; Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, pilot of 6; Lt.-Col. Excellent Curling Seen To Start Club Playoffs

Having the last rock in a curling end may mean the difference between winning and losing and that is exactly what happened in one game of the club playoffs for the right to enter the district playdowns for the British Consols trophy held at the local rink last night. There are eight teams entered and a win played a double knock out draw and each game is of twelve ends. When a rink loses two games they are eliminated from the competition. The district playdowns will take place at the RCAF rink at Trenton Station the latter part of next month and it is expected that at least eight rinks from the district from Cornwall to Trenton will be represented.

Some excellent curling was witnessed last night by the largest gallery that has turned out this year. Three of the games were quite close and one set decided until the last rock was delivered. Rinks skipped by Murray Judson and Charlie Cox were in a battle royal and Mr. Cox was one up coming home but Johnson was lying shot and Cox had only one stone left. He was narrow for a takeout and Ross Brown, curling last rock for Johnson, calmly drew to the house for the one-shot win.

Bill Riley and Lloyd Sheppard had a real tussle. This game was close up to the ninth end with Sheppard enjoying a one-shot lead but the Foxboro farmer, with his three counters! men from Point Anne, pulled off a couple of fancy draw shots and although Riley showed one in the eleventh, Sheppard put the game on ice with another draw shot, that Riley failed to disdodge.

Up to the sixth end "Skit" Shore and Jack Robson were all tied up but Robson forged ahead in the later ends to pile up a commanding lead although Shore scored a big "three" on the 11th end to put him two down coming home but again last rock counted and Robson went off the ice with the win.

In the other game of the first round Mac White and his rink, favored by the experts to take the series, won an easy victory from Ernie Wilkinson but it was one of those nights when nothing worked for Ernie. He scored 1 on the 1st end but did not touch the chalk again until the tenth - with another counter and called it a night. The next round will be played on Sunday under the supervision of Bill Gank, OAC representative, for the district.

Not all the curling was done on the ice for the "Behind-the-Glass" skips had a big night figuring out the proper play. The results:

Carl Charlton, Al McCollam, Ron Benn, Mac White - sk. 11.
Murray Judson, Fred Hall, Ed Wilkinson 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 - 1-2
Al Sheppard, Bill Gilbert, Ross Brown, M. Johnston sk. 2

Naturalists Hold Bird Count in Area

The Quinte Field Naturalists held their Christmas Bird Count on Wednesday, Dec. 28. Seventeen members covered the surrounding area seven miles in every direction from Belleville.

A total of 1,002 birds were listed, broken down into 29 species.

Irwin Knight planned the routes and did the listing.

The rarest birds seen were the Arctic three-toed woodpecker, mourning dove, meadow lark, Bohemian waxwing, broad winged hawk and sharp-shinned hawk. The most prevalent sparrows were the most prevalent.

In the late afternoon all gathered at the Mac Wallbridge farm for checking. The only business transacted was the decision to hold the January meeting on the fifth Monday.

A delightful potluck supper and social chat closed a most enjoyable day.

Christmas bird counts are held by nature clubs all over North America. The results are included and forwarded to the National Audubon Society and Federation of Ontario Naturalists.

Council to Hold Its Inaugural Meet Monday

The inaugural meeting of the new streamlined 10-member council for the city of Belleville will be held Monday, January 3rd - the first of several inaugurals for elected bodies in the city.

The meeting will be held in the city hall council chambers starting at 11:00 a.m. and will see council members take the oath of office, the naming of committee heads and the inaugural address from Mayor-elect J. R. Ellis as he outlines the city program for the coming year.

School boards in the city will follow right along with their inaugural sessions, with the Bay of Quinte District High School Board to hold its first meeting of the year on January 5th.

The public school board will hold its caucus meeting the same night, with the board inaugural to be held on Wednesday, January 12th.

For Belleville city council and the city public and separate school boards, it will be the first year for reduced membership.

Council will have but 10 aldermen and mayor, instead of the 14 aldermen while the two public school boards have been reduced to eight members each.

In the future both council and separate school board members will be serving two - year terms.

The Belleville Public Utilities will hold its inaugural meeting on Thursday, January 6th.

Hastings county council will not hold its inaugural session until January 17th, when the new warden will be named.

ON LICENCES

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian drivers abroad will be able to get international licences next year under a United Nations convention, the external affairs department announced Thursday. The UN convention on road traffic will enter into force for Canada Jan. 22. It has been ratified or acceded to by 75 countries already.

United Appeal Fund Over $100,000 Mark First Time in 8 Years

A pledge of $4500 from the employees of Wilson Concrete Limited put the Belleville United Appeal total over the $100,000 mark for the first time in its eight-year history.

United Appeal officials reported yesterday the total collected in the campaign was $100,286.87, approximately $2,000 more than was ever collected before.

Mr. O'Flynn said, "The Wilson gift was tremendous. Due to circumstances beyond their control, they were unable to conduct their in-plant campaign until last week. We never expected such returns.

"Their employee participation was $51 per cent and the average gift per employee was $20.86. The company exceeded its own objective by 25 per cent and far outstripped our fondest hopes. Their corporate gift was also outstanding and we are grateful to them in the campaign total.

ALL TOTALS HIGHER

"An appeal of this nature depends heavily upon the support of local industry". Mr. O'Flynn said, "Our local industries did a real bang-up job for the campaign this year, one to be proud of.

"The United Appeal however is not simply a project for our industries; it is a community project, and every organization in the community should be playing its part in making it a success.

"To our delight, many community organizations have seen their responsibilities in this area and have joined in. The scope of the United Appeal organization has increased considerably over the last few years with a larger portion of the community playing an active role in the fund drive. As a result, the totals have skyrocketed.

"In the past two years, the totals have gone from $68,710 in 1963 to $100,286.87. This is an increase of over $33,000 in two years. I'd like to see another community match that record".

Another highlight of the 1965 campaign was the showing of Belleville's R.C.A.F. personnel in 1964, when the appeal itself collected from this group, only $132 was raised. The 1965 total was $2,200.

HAD OWN CAMPAIGN

Mr. O'Flynn explained, "The R.C.A.F. organized its own campaign this year under Sid Olsen. They were the first division in the history of the appeal to reach its budget, an outstanding achievement when you consider their small 1964 total.

"Personally, I would like to thank all those who helped me in the 1965 campaign and in particular, the executive secretary, Les Gnaedinger, and publicity chairman, Bill Killough. Without their hours of hard work the appeal would not have been near the success that it was."

After such a good showing in 1965, are things going to fall back in 1966?

"No. Definitely not," says Mr. O'Flynn. "The prospects look even better for 1966 than they did in 1965, mainly because of the formation of the Social Services Planning Council of Belleville.

"The executive director of the Council, Bob Porter, brings a great deal of experience and know-how to Belleville with him. Right now, Mr. Porter and Les Gnaedinger are working on the organization of the 1966 campaign.

"Next year, there are sure to be even more people actively participating in the campaign than there were in 1965 and we seem assured of a great campaign.

"The citizens of Belleville have endorsed the campaign. It is now up to us to see that their interests are served."

Witnesses To Meet Here

Over five hundred Jehovah's Witnesses are arriving in Belleville today and tomorrow from points as far as Peterborough and Emerson to attend their semi - annual circuit assembly.

The three - day program of Bible talks in the Moira Secondary School auditorium features the subject "What Does the Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?" Mr. Clare Statton of Toronto is the principal speaker.

STOLE A WHEELCHAIR

VALENCIA, Spain (AP)—Police Friday sought their candidate as the meanest thief of 1965. He stole a wheelchair owned by a 17-year-old Valencia youth, legless since age 3 when he was struck by a train. The youth used the chair to get to work.

Sports By-law for Games On Sundays Is Approved

TRENTON — Trenton council, meeting in rare end session last night to pass accounts and deal with other routine business, passed a by law by the terms of which public games and sports for gain may be held after 1.30 p.m. on Sundays.

A list of specific sports was prepared by town solicitor Roderick Campbell and these were; aquatic sports, (boat racing, swimming events, fishing derbies etc.), archery, pato racing, bowling, billiards, baseball, basketball, tennis, bridge, badminton, curling, chess, cribbage, checkers, darts, euchre, football, fishing, hockey, judo, rugby, soccer, tennis and wrestling.

Mr. Campbell explained that the by-law passed last night would cover the sports named and if others in town wished to have their particular sport included another by law could be passed.

In other business, council acted to pay the McCaskey-Dodds Facific Railway that short arm gates be installed either at Bridge or Dundas Street or Street. The CPR officials said there had been many "near misses" there and they felt that the warning system now in use was no longer adequate. Cost of installation will be $13,455, of which the town will pay $1,870 and the cost of maintenance will be shared by the CPR.

ASKS REBATE

A letter from the town will be sent to the Board of Transport, asking for a rebate on the town's original investment in the present warning system.

Councillor Ross Burtt proposed that a letter be written to ex-councillor Joseph Gould for the job he had done while chairman of public works. This was seconded by Councillor C. V. Graham and met the approval of the other councillors.

Councillor Burtt said that as far as he knew, no other official had ever spent so much of his own time, money and the use of his car on town business as had Councillor Gould.

Mayor Julian MacDonald spoke of a plan to present retiring councillors with an official plaque from the town. He said that a designer is now working to simplify the town's rather ornate coat of arms to include on the plaque and that when this was completed, the council would arrange for manufacture of the plaques.

Councillor Burtt then proposed that when the plaques were a reality, ex-councillor Duncan McDonald, chairman of finance for the past two years, be given one of the first.

Mayor MacDonald thanked the members of 1965 council and the town office staff for their co-operation in the past year and clerk comptroller O. W. Lasby responded on behalf of the town employees.

Following the shortest council meeting in the history of the town, councillors, town officials and reporters were entertained at the home of Mayor and Mrs. MacDonald.

ISLANDS LACK SNAKES

Ireland, Iceland and New Zealand have no wild snakes and Hawaii and Alaska are virtually free of snakes.

Warm Welcome Is Prepared For New Year

TRENTON — A check of local churches reveals that none are holding services Friday evening to welcome in the New Year; others will hold services on New Year's Day and still others will wait until Sunday for the minister to take as his theme the beginning of a new year and a hope for world-wide peace in 1966.

Meanwhile, night spots in town will hold special gala celebrations tonight, ending at 1.00 a.m. New Year's Day.

On Saturday, a New Year's levee for military personnel in the area and civic dignitaries will be held in the officers' mess at RCAF Station Trenton. Military men from Belleville, Picton, Kingston and Cobourg will attend the event.

Trenton hospital dieticians and kitchen staff will prepare a special New Year's dinner for those who must remain in hospital over the holiday week-end.

Police Chief R. J. Rutherford of Trenton and Sgt. John McKendry of the OPP detachment here have reiterated their warning they issued at Christmas that drinking drivers will literally "have the book thrown at them." If you plan to attend a party where you will be drinking, it's best to leave your car at home and arrange for other transportation, say both policemen.

4-block Area In Darkness

TRENTON — A freak accident Friday Street around 4 p.m. last night plunged a four-block area in the vicinity in Trenton.

A dump truck, driven by a public works' employee, backed around the street corner, not knowing how the back end of the truck caught a Bell Telephone cable, which was hooked to hydro poles in the area. Three poles, literally uprooted, fell across the street with a resulting "burning up" of the resulting wires. Hydro workmen repaired the damage rather quickly the night and were back at it early today, working to replace the poles and wiring.

IN MEMORIAM

CROSS — In loving memory of a dear sister, Ida Irene Hollowell who passed away December 30, 1961.

She held a place in our hearts,
And God gathered to mine.
Sweet memories are all we have left,
A loving voice said "Come",
I often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say,
Memories are sweet dear sister,
But I wish you were here today.
Though out of sight, you're ever,
In the hearts of those who love you,
You will live with me in memory,
Until I meet you above.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Clara and brother-in-law Bessie.

DUNCOX — In loving memory of dear, kind Dorothy.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Years in silence often flow,
Loving memories will keep you near us,
Though you died one year ago.
—Ever remembered by Pete and Ted, Bev, Jim and Julie.

MURPHY — In loving memory of a dear son, Leo Murphy, who passed away December 31, 1963.
—Sadly remembered by Morley, Peggy, Buck and Ruth.

MORGAN — In loving memory of Annie Elizabeth Morgan, a dear wife and mother, who passed away January 1, 1962.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her life's work nobly done,
Her tired eyes closed in slumber,
Her race is run.
In silent memory I gaze upon her,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

DAFOE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away January 2nd, 1949. Those whom we love are not lost to sight,
But remain out of mind.
They are always in the hearts,
Of those they leave behind.
—Sincerely remembered by daughter, Myrtle and family.

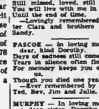
HENDERSON — In memory of our beloved parents and Mrs. Annie Jane Henderson.
Looking back with memories,
Upon the days gone by,
We bless the hours, we had with you,
Dear ones.
Loved you were and true,
—Remembered by daughter, Hazel, Sandra and family.

HARRINGTON — In loving memory of dear husband and father, Lionel Harrington who passed away January 1st, 1965. He had a smile, a pleasant way,
A loving heart, we all knew,
He was so kind, so generous and true.
—Sadly missed.

On earth he nobly did his best,
Now in heaven he takes his rest.
Always remembered by his wife Lillian and family.

CARLETON — In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Harry M. Carleton, who passed away December 31, 1963.
Beautiful memories are treasured, ever,
Of happy days when we were together,
Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Evelyn, children and their families.

CARDS OR THANKS



We would like to thank our family and friends, nieces and nephews, all of the Foxboro and district for their many kindnesses that helped to make our 60th anniversary the happy event.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials moved well ahead on the Toronto Stock Exchange 16day as buyers bid for blue-chip issues for the third session in a row. Trading eased as speculative activity subsided.

In the main list, steels paced the gain. Steleo was ahead ¼ to 26¾, Algoma ⅛ to 63¼ and Dofasco ⅛ to 27. Aluminium, strong recently and recommended by a number of investment dealers, advanced ½ to 62¼.

Trading in the shares of Asamera Oil was delayed pending an announcement by the company on its operations. Yesterday the shares gained 42 cents to 2.80 in a late spurt. The company owns properties in Indonesia which Thursday paid $110,000,000 for the oil interest of Royal Dutch Shell Oil.

Other oil stocks were quiet and easier with losses restricted to a cent or two.

Among base metals, Noranda was up ¼ to 53¼, Falconbridge ⅛ to 108¾ and Bethlehem Copper 10 cents to 6.35. Hudson Bay fell ¼ to 77¼ in profit taking.

Prices were slightly higher in the speculative section, but some of Thursday's interest was missing. Ryanor tacked on 2 to 19 cents, Norlac 2½ to 21 cents and North Rankin 3 to 37 cents.

Cochenour Willans eased 10 cents to 4.40 among golds.

On index, industrials were ahead .63 to 168.31, golds .08 to 157.72, base metals .12 to 83.76 and the TSE index .54 to 158.40. Western oils eased .42 to 102.37. Volume at 11 a.m. was 930,000 shares compared with 1,146,000 at the same time Thursday.

It was a day for buyers Thursday as the market showed strength on the exchange.

Among industrials, Distillers Seagram was ahead 1¼ at 38¼, Bell Telephone ¼ at 57½, Aluminium 1 to 33¼, Massey-Ferguson ¼ at 34½, Moore Corp. ¼ at 81⅝ and Consumers' Gas ¼ at 35⅞.

Rothmans was ahead 1¼ to 24¼, Steinbergs A ¼ to 51, Canada Iron ¼ to 64¼ and Canada Cement 1½ to 43¼.

Satellite churned through $21,175 shares to gaining 4½ to 22 cents in the speculative mining section.

Senior base metals rallied after an early bout of profit taking and gained .25 to 83.64 on index. Volatile Pine Point was up 2 to 74 and its parent company, Cominco, 1 to 48¼. Hudson Bay gained ¼ to 77¼, Rio Algom ¼ to 19 and Campbell Chibougamau 20 to 6.70. Denison lost ¾ to 35¾ and Roman Corp., whose chief asset is shares of Denison, was off 20 to 7.30.

McIntyre Porcupine was up 2¼ to 90½ and Cochenour-Willans 20 to 4.45 as golds moved sharply ahead.

On index, industrials were up .81 to 167.68, golds .31 to 157.64 and the TSE index .72 to 157.86. Western oils were unchanged at 102.79. Volume was 4,284,000 shares compared with 3,827,000 Wednesday.

Postal Clerk, Involved in Spy Case, Fired

OTTAWA (CP) — Vancouver postal clerk Victor G. Spencer has been dismissed from his job, Postmaster - General Cote said Thursday.

Spencer, 57, on sick leave since last April 1, identified himself last month as the Canadian civil servant involved in an RCMP investigation into a Russian spy case.

Two Russian diplomats were expelled from Canada last May 7 for activities incompatible with their official status," the external affairs department said at the time.

The department also said a Canadin civil servant was paid thousands of dollars to gather information for the Russians . . . "the purpose of which was to assist in the establishment of espionage activities in Canada and other countries."

Spencer told a Vancouver reporter that he was the public servant being investigated in the affair.

GOT ADVICE

Mr. Cote recommended Spencer's firing after the civil service commission advised him on the matter.

A second Canadian involved in the May spy case went to the RCMP after he was first contacted by the Russians. On police instructions, he went along with the plot and helped snare the spies.

Government spokesmen said the civil servant involved helped only when confronted by the RCMP.

Justice Minister Cardin said on a November television program that there was not enough proof to bring the civil servant to trial, but he would be under police surveillance "as long as he's in Canada."

Spencer also was stripped of any pension benefits. Mr. Cote said he would get back only his own contributions to the pension fund.

$21,000 Taken From Bank In Russell

RUSSELL, Ont. (CP)—Police threw up roadblocks around this Ottawa Valley community Thursday night as they searched for four armed bandits who held up a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia here and made off with $21,000 in cash and an amount in securities.

Six employees and one customer were in the bank when the bandits entered carrying revolvers and sawed-off shotguns.

They wore ski hoods to conceal their faces.

No shots were fired and there was no violence, police said.

Russell is 15 miles southeast of Ottawa.

CHRISTMAS WAS BANNED

Puritan settlers in Massachusetts banned Christmas celebrations between 1659 and 1681.

Retail Prices Of Cigarettes May Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Journal says in a newspaper report that retail prices of cigarettes will increase two cents a pack as the result of changes effective Jan. 1 in provincial tobacco taxes.

The Journal says packs of 20 cigarettes will go to 39 cents from 37, and packs of 25 to 49 cents from 47. It says cartons of 200 cigarettes, which have ranged in price from $3.18 to $3.39 depending on competition among local outlets, will go to $3.39.

The Journal attributed the quotations to an unnamed leading wholesaler and retailer.

The new Ontario tax is one-twelfth of a cent a cigarette to be paid by wholesalers and in some cases, manufacturers. Previously the tax was three per cent of the value of packages, collected by the retailers.

Earlier reports from Toronto said the change in the tobacco tax application would make little or no change in retail prices.

DRINKERS GET BREAK

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — For those hard-core souls looking to celebrate a retended New Year's Eve, Hoboken is the spot. The city's alcoholic beverage commission announced it has given permission to the 200 taverns here to say open for 62 hours straight from 6 a.m. Friday to 2 a.m. Monday. The taverns usually close at 2 a.m.

New York City Braces Itself For Bus Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Public officials and private citizens scrambled today for everything on wheels that could help keep this city on the move if the vast municipal subway and bus systems are shut down by a strike Saturday morning.

Car pools were being hastily formed and businesses began booking hotel rooms for employees.

Auto rental and charter bus companies were swamped with reservations for business companies and groups of commuters while commuter railways prepared for extra traffic.

John V. Lindsay, who will take office as mayor at midnight tonight, announced that group-riding in taxicabs would be permitted.

The full impact on the metropolitan area's 15,000,000 residents would not be felt until Monday morning when the work week starts.

Club Will Celebrate New Year's Day

The Belleville Club will mark the New Year on New Year's Day this year instead of New Year's Eve as before.

This is the first time in the long history of the club that the celebration is not being held on December 31st.

It will be held during the afternoon of the first day of the year.

Four Arrests Made by Traffic Police

As the deadline approaches for New Year's Eve festivities city police are hoping last night was no dress rehearsal for tonight's Happy Time.

As Bellevillians go partying extra officers will be policing the city — with crossed fingers.

In one of their busiest nights of the year traffic police last night made four different arrests of allegedly impaired drivers, charged another with careless driving and arrested a man for driving under suspension.

There were two accidents that might have serious consequences.

In addition, officers also picked up several persons on drinking charges, one of them under age.

On Station Street near Stanley police said they were just about to pursue an automobile which passed their cruiser at a high rate of speed when the vehicle spun out of control and rolled over. Two persons in the car escaped serious injury.

Constable Albert Clapp, 19, R. R. 6 Belleville, has been charged with careless driving.

On Victoria Avenue near Foster, Ambrose Vincent Kelleher, 46, of 117 Victoria, escaped with minor injuries when his car crashed into a hydro pole. Total damage was $325.

Christmas Lighting Contest Winners Are Announced

Winners of the Belleville Public Utilities Christmas lighting contest were announced today by Utilities Chairman Gerald Hyde.

The contest was divided into two section, East and West Belleville, with first and second prizes being given in two categories in each section. In addition there was an honorable mention in each category.

The winners were as follows: West of the River — Spectacular, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Snider, 134 Dundas St., West; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Link, 14 Weadon Circle, Glen Arden, Subdivision. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKibbon, corner of Lemoine and Maple received honorable mention.

Original, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beeby, 40 Hilchie Ave.; and Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Pratt, 156 Newman Street.

EAST HILL WINNERS

Winners in the spectacular category in East Belleville were Mr. and Mrs. Don Foster, 30 Emily Street and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Downs, 94A South Foster Ave. Mr. and Mrs. E. Dickey, 4 Russell Street received honorable mention.

East Hill original category winners were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Horlock, 58 Stanley Park Ave. and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Lennox, 150 Bleecker Ave., with honorable mention going to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Breitingham, 30 Crestview Ave.

First prize winners will receive an electric blanket. Each second place winners to receive an electric knife. Those receiving an honorable mention will get an electric knife sharpener.

The various winners of the Christmas lighting contest will be notified by letter.

Utilities Chairman Hyde had one request. He asked that the winners leave their Christmas lights on for another three or four days to give residents the opportunity of "doing the town" and seeing the winning display.

But in the case of one display there will be a change.

The big outdoor Christmas card at the Ritchie Ave. home of Mr. and Mrs. Beeby has been changed to a New Year greeting.

Cheese Exchange

The Belleville Cheese Exchange held its final meeting of the year on Wednesday with 11,887 square cheese, 8,610 large regular cheese and 5,351 specials offered.

The average price for first grade white cheese was 41.8 cents and for first grade colored 41.8 cents. Second grade cheese sold at 32.5 cents and sediments seconds at 30.5 cents per lb.

Forward Into 1966

Tomorrow another year dawns. What form the future will take no one knows for sure; and yet, in the long and often harrowing history of the world mankind has always had hope and faith in the evolution of a better life.

What is certain is that the future everywhere will bear the hand of man, as well as the stamp of things unseen and the divinity that shapes our ends. Man, with his strange make-up of good and evil, has the power to control his own destiny.

In family life, as amid the affairs of nations, natural evolution and circumstance will carry us inexorably forward. Napoleon said, "What man imagines, he can do." In such fashion will the future be wrought, under the hand not only of forces outside our control—the unknown —but of man.

The past at least is known, and it can guide us in our judgments of how best to meet the future. A Russian philosopher called Yakovnin once said: "But sometimes the problem is more difficult of solution, when the voice of duty seems to speak in opposite directions, and sympathy and inclination themselves are divided. In such cases it is well to consider the claims of the past, for that at least is known, like an old friend, whereas the present is still untried, and the future an illusion."

In an increasingly materialist and automated age, man should not lose sight of his own individual worth. An English clergyman, Rev. W. H. Elliott once wrote: "I protest against the modern declaration of man, that reckons him merely as an economic unit. I protest against anything and everything that de-humanizes him and makes him out to be less than he is."

The answer to such a trend lies in our own sense of individual worth, in the exercise of critical faculties and in a refusal to accept anything and everything at face value. We need not necessarily be victims of the "the system" or of circumstances. Not if we face the future with confidence and the best that is in us.

The New Morality

Cottage weekends by young people of both sexes on the winter ski trails are a symbol of the new morality that has taken hold in the western world in recent years. It is happening in Canada and the United States, just as it is in Sweden and other parts of Europe.

It is bound up with other symptoms of permissiveness in the modern world—with easier access to alcohol and with other revolutionary concepts in human relations that bear little or no relation to the old Puritanism.

At a recent Niagara Falls conference sponsored by the Ontario Temperance Federation there was more than 600 teenage delegates from all over the province, Thomas Knott, director of youth work for the OTF, gave other instances of the new trends.

He criticized universities where a blase attitude is taken toward drinking. He referred to the November 8 issue of Varsity, the University of Toronto student paper, which published a picture of a boy and a girl stumped together on a train seat and the caption saying: Bedroll Weekend—Wilder Than Ever.

He quoted the following passage from the Varsity article: "University of Toronto students invaded Montreal again this weekend on the annual McGill weekend, drinking, wenching and yelling all the way."

But Mr. Knott did not reserve all his criticism for the young people. Their elders, he suggested, did not always set a good example. A great many people of mature age, he said, still maintain a somewhat immature attitude toward drinking, and the result is the development of some dangerous customs in society.

Few would quarrel with Mr Knott's analysis. There is something of the spirit and customs of Ancient Rome abroad today, of an era when lovemaking, for example, was "cheerfully lecherous and expertly sensuous," as one observer has put it.

It may be that in the social revolution now under way we are witnessing a return to the undisciplined customs of an earlier time. As in the days of Rome, family life will suffer, and decades may elapse before there is a natural swing back to more restrained behavior.

Christmas Golf!

The Niagara peninsula had a white Christmas, just the same as other parts of Canada from coast-to-coast. Just before the holiday, however, the area enjoyed the kind of weather that makes it ideal for fruit growing and the location of the country's major wine industries.

And it was the kind of weather that is the envy of summer sportsmen enduring their annual winter hibernation. In St. Catharines for example, on Christmas Eve, the temperature rose to 51 degrees. Warm enough in fact for golf, so that quite a number of area swingers took to the fairways.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 31st, 1945

Following eight years of efficient service with the company, E. F. Clarke Kinnear, has been appointed assistant manager of the Toronto office of the W. C. Pitfield Co. Ltd. investment dealers.

Several of the city churches are holding special "watchnight" services this evening. The services will begin at various times in the evening and continue until shortly after the beginning of the New Year.

The great event of 1945 was the ending of World War II. A great event of 1946 will be the start at harnessing atomic energy to bring about a new industrial era. 1946 will see more religious interest. People gradually are realizing that without Spiritual Awakening no peace or other plans will be much good.

30 YEARS AGO

December 31st, 1935

Mr. W. T. R. Lewers, who is succeeding Mr. G. A. C. Weir as manager of the Bank of Montreal here, Mrs. Lewers and their daughter, have arrived here from Chatham, where Mr. Lewers was manager of the bank's branch for some years.

Mrs. F. Allore and Mr. and Mr. W. F. Allore of this city are spending a few days in Rochester.

Miss Olive Hamilton of Detroit, is visiting her former home in Roslin.

Miss Bertha Gilbert, R.N., a graduate of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. Young, Pine St.

Building permits issued by the city engineer's office during the year amounted to an estimated value of $145,602. Forty truck permits were issued.

40 YEARS AGO

December 31st, 1925

Miss Florence Nelson of Trenton is a guest for New Year's of Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Dupreu, Hillside St.

Mr. E. Stacey of this city will spend New Year's with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clarke of Hamilton are here to spend New Year's with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Clarke, Foster Ave.

Mr. W. Hart has returned to Detroit, after spending the vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hart, Murney St.

Mr. Charles Hanna, has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce for the year.

50 YEARS AGO

December 31st, 1915

Mr. Harold McCoy is home from St. Catherines to spend the New Year's Day.

Mr. Reginald Geen, Owen Sound, is here to spend New Year's with his parents, the Rev. A. L. Geen and Mrs. Geen, West Bridge St.

Mr. Victor Mackie is visiting friends in Toronto.

Continued P. S. Spence of Toronto, will speak in Bridge St. Church next Sunday night.

The following were elected members of the Separate School Board by acclamation: J. M. Fenaish, M. R. Doyle, J. Finnegan, Walter N. Belair, L. P. Hughes, Gerald Fitzgerald and the Rev. Father Killeen.

He Triumphed Against Odds

Montreal Gazette

Anyone who surmounts a particularly cruel adversity with courage and wit does much the inner reward, of his own achievement; he confers something heartening on all who know him. Such was Mr. Tom Stewart. His death "shocs a career that was possible only to one who could accept the tragedy of sudden blindness, and the irony of its circumstance, and could, set out determined to have a new life under the hard conditions that he had given him.

He went forward with his legal profession, achieved his distinction in it, enjoyed the blessings of a happy married life, and played his important part in helping others who were blind. His work for the blind was helpful in many ways (notably by his service as the general co-chairman of the annual campaign of the Quebec division of the Canadian Institute for the Blind); and his life was helpful also to others with the advantages of sight, who which he had overcome his saw the amazing extent to handicap, the confidence of his manner, and his interest in the life and action of the world.

To Your Good Health

Hepatitis Is Common, Caught Various Ways

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have recently had hepatitis and would appreciate knowing what it is in lay terms. I have had so many explanations that I don't know what to believe.

My children all had gamma globulin shots and my doctor said the children would not get the disease, but other people say they can get a mild case of it. — Mrs. G. L. C.

Hepatitis is a disease of the liver. It comes from the Greek word hepatikos; or the Latin word Hepaticus.

It is the "in" on the end and it means inflammation of the liver. A particular type of virus (or rather, more than one type) gets into the body and it has a particular fondness for attacking the liver instead of some other part of us. Germs are like that.

Since the liver performs several important functions, among them the production of bile, the destruction of red blood cells that have passed their stage of usefulness to us, and storage of glycogen (or "blood sugar") in a form which can be readily released into the bloodstream when needed, you can see why we suffer in various ways if the liver "gets sick."

I wouldn't say we know all about hepatitis. We don't. But we know a lot about it, and one big fact is that hepatitis is transmitted in more than one way. Polluted water, virus-infected foods, and probably personal contact are some ways. Likewise a somewhat different type of the virus can enter through the bloodstream. If it gets a chance. This we call "serum hepatitis," as dialogued in the following.

* * *

Hepatitis, and this may not be generally realized, is a common ailment. There's no doubt in my mind that a great many mild cases are not even recognized because the patient does not feel sick enough to go to the doctor. In addition, other people encounter the virus but don't get hepatitis at all. Still, the gamma globulin particles in the blood (the particles devoted to seek out and combatting disease germs or other harmful elements) are alerted by such contacts, and become a vital watchdogs.

Therefore when "pooled blood" or blood from various sources is gathered and the gamma globulin is extracted, the gamma globulin contains some particles already prepared to fight the hepatitis virus.

If a person gets gamma globulin, he has, temporarily, a stronger protection.

If such a person is exposed strongly to the hepatitis virus, he may still contract the disease, but not as severely. Or if he is exposed only lightly, he may not get it at all.

There isn't any way, as of now, which lets us say absolutely that gamma globulin will prevent hepatitis, but it certainly helps, and if it doesn't prevent, it makes an attack mild.

Remember when gamma globulin was used as a protective measure when polio outbreaks threatened? Or don't you remember? Anyway, this method was employed before polio vaccine was available. It had its value then.

It has its value now for hepatitis, because we do not have a hepatitis vaccine, but it is being worked on and will be a reality some day.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person is a heavy drinker, will it make emphysema worse? — R. B. H.

Alcohol won't affect the emphysema — but usually a heavy drinker also is a heavy smoker, and any smoking is bad for emphysema.

Mrs. S. T.: No. Climate is not likely to have any particular effect on osteroporosis. It is not fatal.

Thomas Alva Edison first demonstrated the incandescent electric lamp 86 years ago today—in 1879—when he was 32 years old. It was one of 1,000 inventions he patented before his death in 1931. They range from conceptions as simple as the megaphone to those as complex as the teleprinter. Edison invented the phonograph and experimented with talking and silent movies. The thermionic tube, without which radio would be impractical, was developed from an observation by Edison.

1394—John Wycliffe, the English religious reformer, died.

1896 — The Ellis Island U.S. immigration depot was opened.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Sir John Simon resigned from the British cabinet on the conscription issue; Russians crossed the Styr River near Czartorysk and attacked Austrian units.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Hitler forecast victory in 1941; the RAF bombed numerous targets in the Rhineland and the Mediterranean theatre; the RAF announced 1,050 fighters and 650 pilots lost over Britain in 1940 and claimed 2,050 German aircraft shot down, an overestimate of about 50 per cent.

CF-5 Makes The Grade

Hamilton Spectator

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer and his supporters must be chortling at the reports on the CF-5 (Freedom Fighter) coming from Viet Nam.

Americans flying the F-5 (CF is the Canadian designation) in combat are delighted with it though they refer to the bird as the "kiddie-car among jets".

When Hellyer bought the aircraft last summer many senior RCAF officers argued it was small, slow and poorly equipped. The combat workout is demonstrating the Freedom Fighters assets.

Because it is small and slow it has an agility its big brother the F-105 (Thunderchief) has not. The Freedom Fighter cannot carry the Thunderchief's bomb load, but the two 20mm cannon in the nose, the rockets and the bombs add up to three tons of destructive power.

Best of all has been its durability. On five occasions, in 700 missions, F-5's have been chopped with Vietcong ground fire but, though nearly shredded, each aircraft has made it back to base. One reason is its twin - jet engine.

The aircraft was designed for support and interception and is doing its job; this is what Mr. Hellyer wants for the RCAF.

The Abbey's 900 Years

Ottawa Journal

Was there ever a Canadian who went to London who did not visit Westminster Abbey?

There it is across the road from the Parliament buildings and the dour statue of Oliver Cromwell. The house outside past bound for Victoria Station and the limitless world of travel that Ernest Bevin used to speak of beginning at Victoria.

Englishmen prayed in Westminster Abbey before starting an exploration of North America and Canadians of every racial background in two wars saw the Abbey and remarked that in a stained glass window there was cheerful recollection of Dick Whittington and his cat in contrast to the pompous marble monements to the great and some less than great.

Today marks the Abbey's 900th birthday and is another column on this page the Surveyor of the Fabric of the old edifice discusses the building and its history. Interesting is the building is, no one needs to see it to be aware of its significance. The Abbey has a spirit that reaches far beyond the stone and sturdy oak. It is an amiable spirit which honors the memories of old kings and queens who knew the church, of saints and rogues and poets who were reverent within its walls and of a great company of men of affairs, some in armor and some in morning coats, who have prayed in the Abbey for strength, mercy and wisdom.

Westminster Abbey is a shrine of Commonwealth and freedom. People like Argus Britain's shores regard it as part of their heritage, a reminder of endurance and faith that, God willing, will stand another 900 years.

Bankruptcy on Increase

Brantford Expositor

This year will end as one of Canada's most prosperous, but it is also well on the way to being a peak year for business bankruptcies.

Canadian failures have been climbing steadily since 1961. The 1953 total, for instance, was 3,078, up by 15 percents on 1962 and the highest failure rate in 30 years. Last year the rise continued. Heading the list were retail stores. This probably reflects in part, changing shopping habits, population shifts and new merchandising techniques which shopkeepers will ignore at their peril.

Incompetence is the cause of most bankruptcies and it shows no very marked trend but 60 per cent of the concerns that failed last year had been in business five years or less. In an improving economic climate more people get the idea of going into business, and if they have the ability and management instinct, their chances of surviving the first hazardous years are good.

Because it is small and slow it has an agility its big brother the F-105 (Thunderchief) has not. The Freedom Fighter cannot carry the Thunderchief's bomb load, but the two 20mm cannon in the nose, the rockets and the bombs add up to three tons of destructive power.

Best of all has been its durability. On five occasions, in 700 missions, F-5's have been chopped with Vietcong ground fire but, though nearly shredded, each aircraft has made it back to base. One reason is its twin - jet engine.

The aircraft was designed for support and interception and is doing its job; this is what Mr. Hellyer wants for the RCAF.

Too many would-be enterprisers, however, underrate the difficulties of running a business, just as a lot of people on payrolls think the boss always has an easy time. Yet on his judgment and capacity depend success and the making of a profit without which both business and labor will disappear.

The basic difference between the enterprisor and worker is the same competitive economy is management leadership. All the factors of production—manpower, production facilities and equipment, raw materials, available capital as well as markets and their potential are, generally speaking, equally available to all. Where one enterprise succeeds and another fails, the significant ultimate difference is in the quality of management.

Bankruptcy, fraudulent cases apart, has been called the great invention of private enterprise because it eventually puts a stop to costly failure. It at least has the virtue of curbing waste. Unfortunately the discipline of bankruptcy falls too rarely in the field of government.

Irishmen in House of Lords

Vancouver Sun

The House of Lords has a slight headache now. It is seeing green. It appears that a bunch of peers from republican Ireland are demanding admittance, and rather reasonably, as experts regilgedly believe the Irish have the law on their side.

Up to 1922 Ireland had its own House of Lords. The Act of Union abolished the House and provided that the Irish peers should elect 28 of their number, for life, to represent them at Westminster.

When the Free State was set up in 1922, the "relevant functions" of the Lord Chancellor with regard to elections of Irish peers passed to the governor of Northern Ireland. They have never been used.

Since then the last 28 elected peers have been called, one by one, the last of them, Lord Kilmorey, in 1961. The new generation of Irish peers notified the Lord Chancellor of his passing and according to them a writ for a new election should have followed. There is some doubt, however, about whom the writ should be sent to. This may be clarified by the Lords' committee for privileges.

If the Irish win the battle they'll promptly choose a successor to Lord Kilmorey and go on from there to elect the other 28.

Of course not all Irish peers are connected with Ireland traditionally. The case of Lord Castle Stewart, for example, a Shropshire lad by birth, he was granted an Irish peerage when he left the Free India. But there are enough genuine Irishmen in the ranks to make the Lords a little greener, can they but make the grade.

Strictly Personal

Roman Year Began in March

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

January 1 is a foolish and artificial time to celebrate a "new year." It makes no seasonal sense, and it has no psychological sense — which may be why it has become more of a drunken than an intellectual event.

The ancient Romans began their new year in March — hence, such words as September, October, November and December, meaning the 7th, 8th 9th and 10th months, had a rational meaning.

The Moslem world begins its new year also in the spring — namely in late April, with the precise date fluctuating as our Easter does. The Jews, both ancient and modern, celebrate it in the fall — which, like spring, also makes more seasonal sense than our arbitrary date of January 1.

Anyone in the Western world today who suggested that we change it would be met with horrified objections by the "traditionalists." But the fact is that January 1 has marked the new year in the Christian world for only 200 years or so —and it has absolutely no cultural or genuinely religious significance.

Since the beginning of the Christian Era, the date of New Year's Day has changed five times. It did not become January 1 until 1752, when the reformed, or Gregorian, calendar was adopted in England.

At first, it was celebrated on christmas Day (which in itself, by the way, was originally celebrated on Jan. 6, not on Dec. 25.) Then it was moved to Easter Day. For a time, May 1 was considered as New Year's Day. Then it was changed again to Lady Day, March 25, which date remained the beginning of the civil and legal year for many centuries.

A new year, to have psychological and religious meaning, should be attuned to the rhythm and course of Nature. It should arrive either in the spring — when a new season of growth is beginning — or in the fall, which is a decay and promise of rebirth. It should have a keenly aware of our mortality, as part of the endless circle of Nature.

Instead, our New Year's Day is a "civil" holiday in which incivility hundreds of drunken drivers and their innocent victims; a "legal" holiday in which banks and mail and many profits and losses are juggled and concealed; a holiday of spurious festivity and frantic activity and trivial resolutions and hasty and forgotten answers.

The deeper meaning of a New Year is as lost in this insensate turmoil as the m-a-s-s-a-g-e of Christ's Mass is lost in the frenetic spirit of Christmas. And maybe that is the unconscious purpose of all the hoop-la — to forget the very event that is supposed to be remembered.

Here's wishing a Thoughtful New Year to one and all!

What a Let-Down!

Detroit Free Press

Our embassy staff at Madrid saw a throng of 50,000 angry Spaniards marching toward it—and then saw it march right on by. It was the Italian embassy, farther along, which had its windows smashed. The staff's experience was probably unique in the annals of United States diplomacy, and the inevitable let - down, feeling afterwards must have made it difficult to get through to quitting time.

Neighborliness Is Never Out of Date

DEAR DORIS: This note from a member of the Country Women of Australia appeared in our magazine and will touch the hearts of Women's Institute members (who are their counterparts and colleagues in Canada.)

Mrs. Audrey Tite of the Northern Territory (Australia) had to have a spell in hospital in Victoria (Australia) and she writes:

"The dear Victorian CWA's adopted me, keeping me supplied with lovely flowers, visits, fruit, magazines and wonderful. CWA chatty visits. They are darlings and wonderful women, so although I was in an almost strange state and many miles from home I felt well looked after."

DORIS CLARK

Who is my neighbor? In ACWW it can be the woman next door, from the other end of your own country, or a woman thousands of miles away one may never see.

Friendship can overcome barriers of time and space and small neighborly acts of kindness can mean so much. In many countries the days of the pioneers are almost over but their splendid qualities, not least the helping hand in times of stress, were never more needed than in the world of 1965. — STELLA BELL, General Secretary, Associated Country Women of the World, (London, England.)

·DEAR STELLA: And ACWW is doing its share; with branches in countries all over the world and a membership of seven million. The women of Canada salute you!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am a 14-year-old girl. I've been brought up in a decent family. Whenever I needed something I almost always got it. But the one thing I really didn't get was love.

I don't say Mom and Dad were mean to me but if ever I had a problem I felt I couldn't take it to either of them. At the age of 12 I decided 16 and boyfriends were for me. Instead of telling Mom I was going out with some boy I'd give her an excuse. She'd find out later and then she would give me heck about being young, but I kept right on doing it.

Now when I ask to go out she checks up on everything and I hardly get out. I realize it is all my own fault, but I want to ask all readers to please try to understand their daughters before it is too late. — A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: I'm sorry. And I agree that girls need understanding even more than material things.

But you are wrong about the love. If Mom didn't care at all, why would she bother about your Religious eyes now?

Perhaps if you show her you can be trusted, you'll get some trust.

FRIDAY

Oven Poached Halibut Steaks with Pimiento Cream Sauce; Brussels Sprouts; Creamed Parsnips; Cheese Buns (see Thurs.); Baked Apples with Pouring Cream; Tea.

LEMON ICE CREAM (serves 6-8)

½ cup fresh lemon juice, 1½ tablespoons grated lemon rind, 2 cups granulated sugar, 4 cups 18% cream, few drops yellow food coloring (optional).

Add lemon juice and rind to sugar and stir until sugar dissolves. Slowly stir in the cream and coloring. Pour into 2 refrigerator trays, freeze quickly for 3 hours. Do not stir.

A cheerful voice over the telephone said, "Mary you will believe it or not they never said.

EGGNOG (without spirits this will serve 16 4-oz. glasses):

6 eggs, yolk sand whites separated, ¾ cup sugar, 2 cups 18% or 25% cream, 2 cups whole milk, nutmeg.

Note:—If spirits (or sherry) are to be added, 10 to 16 oz. will not be excessive for this amount of eggnog base. It will then serve twenty 4-oz. glasses.

Separate the yolks and whites and beat the yolks until thick and lemon-colored with ½ cup of the sugar. Beat the whites until stiff with the remaining ½ cup sugar. Stir cream and milk into yolk mixture to blend them. Fold in stiffly beaten meringue until incorporated. Sprinkle with nutmeg. If spirits are to be added, stir in just before serving eggnog ice cold.

Group Hears Highlights of Trip to Egypt

The special 1965 Rosicrucian trip to Egypt was the main topic at the regular meeting of the Quinte Chapter of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, last Tuesday night. Mrs. James Bentley from Campbellford, gave the highlights of her three-week trip to historical Rosicrucian sites in Europe and Egypt.

Accompanied by six Rosicrucians from different parts of Canada, Mrs. Bentley flew to New York on October 6th. Here they were joined by 100 members of the Order from South America, Mexico and the United States. Flying to London, England, the members participated in an historical conclave meeting in the highest Rosicrucian dignitaries of Europe. After visiting St. Paul's Cathedral, Canterbury Tower, Gray's Inn, Gorhambury and other historic Rosicrucian sites, they flew to Zurich, Switzerland. Travelling to Basle they viewed the alchemical laboratory of Paracelsus.

The catacombs in Rome and the Sistine Chapel by Michelangelo received special attention from Mrs. Bentley. Arriving in Athens the group sailed the Aegean Sea and journeyed by donkeys to the site of the Delphic Oracle.

VISIT EGYPT

In Egypt at last, the members travelled by bus and train from Cairo to ancient Memphis and Luxor; walked through the Avenue of Sphinxes at Karnak; sailed across the Nile in an ancient boat; and rode camels across the desert to the Great Pyramid at Giteh. Here, in the King's Chamber, a solemn rosarokie ceremony was conducted for the members by Rodman R. Clayson, Grand Master of the American jurisdiction of the Order.

Mrs. Bentley noted that although many people in Egypt are poor and uneducated, everywhere, in the bazaars, nightclubs and family life, they are naturally content and happy, displaying kindness and consideration for others.

The members enjoyed a delicious Christmas lunch before going to a close this pleasant evening.

Going Places

Much of Europe's History Has Passed Through Alsace

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

COLMAR, France — In the eleventh century, the redoubtable Frederick Barbarossa, first and most famous of the Hapsburgs, erected a string of fortress castles along Alsace's Vosges Mountains in order to control of the Rhine River and the rich lands of the valley.

From his seat in Hagenau, north of Strasbourg, he enscounced his knights and counts in this Medieval Maginot Line, where they lived off the "dime," or tithe, of the peasant. The peasants, in turn, were happy to come across, because there was nothing like a mountaintop castle when you saw those invading armies come rampaging out of the Black Forest across the river.

Forging of the chain was not completed until the fourteenth century, but even in Barbarossa's lifetime it was said he had a castle tied to every hair in his horse's tail. Ultimately there were more than 300 of these fortresses in a line from Wissembourg to Belfort, hardly 100 miles. All stand in ruins today, some almost as much as when starkly against the Vosges backiron as they blindly stare out across the now peaceful vineyards and villages of the valley that was to remain a battleground for 900 years after Barbarossa.

WAS ROYAL SEAT

A dense complex of small farms and trading centres grew up and flowered in the shadows of the castles. Much of Europe's history was to pass through Alsace in one way or another, in iron and gold, in art and industry, gastronomy and viniculture. Colmar once was its focal point and royal seat.

Berthold, minister of the State of Liberty, came from this picturesque hodgepodge old city of half-timbered houses, sculptured bow windows, and overhanging balconies tumbling with vines, cribbs and loggias. But its greatest work of art, about which whole books have been written, is the near - legendary altar piece of the nearby convent of Isenheim, now enshrined in the Unterlinden Museum here.

It is the work of an unheralded artist whose true name and identity were lost for centuries — Mathis Neithardt, better known as Gruenewald. The work is a huge reirable, an 11 - faced folding piece (two panels have disappeared), best seen in the light of the static, stereotyped primitive paintings that surround it in the museum.

It deals with the life of Christ and the temptation of St. Anthony, and for pre-Renaissance painting, its fluidity, expression, and realism are electrifying.

St. Anthony is seen being tortured by demons even today's horror movies haven't dreamed up, then meeting with St Paul the Hermit in a surrealistic forest compounded of tropical foliage and Vosges pines.

UNEQUALLED AGONY

But few, if any, painters have equalled the agony of his Crucifixion, Christ's death-gray body thorn-pricked and dripping blood, tits lolling head revealing a face of haunting anguish that none a viewer finds unbearable. At the opposite end of the pole is Gruenewald's incarnation, with a tender, smiling Mary caressing, and gazing with motherly love on her Child.

In Colmar's Church of St. Martin is another strange altar piece by Grunewald's master, Martin Schongauer, depicting a tenderly protective Virgin and Child in a Medieval garden of thornless roses.

The nearby Alsatian village of Ribeauvile is like a sixteenth century distillation of Colmar, and if all its 2,500 inhabitants make their livings directly or indirectly off tourists, they may be forgiven. Here you park your car outside the town of the city gate, and stroll through a world basically untouched since the Middle Ages.

On the vineyard-covered slope above the village stand crenellated towers of the castle of the Counts of Ribeauville, whose agents came to what is now the Cellar Reindeer in 1720 to collect the tithe. Throughout the village, stone steps lead down to wine cellars, and cobbled streets wander off into courtyards with wooden balconies and elaborately carved doors and windows.

The half-timbered facades on the streets have beams sculptured into statuary and stone supports signed with the craftsmen's mark. Painted wrought iron tavern signs hang from inscribed balconies, and inside the taverns carved casks still dispense local wines.

EIGHT DAY FESTIVAL

The basterly of the count's minstrel pipers still stands, and before the harvest each year Hetqewihr breaks out in an eight-day pipers festival. Sundays — the best day to see Alsace — other towns have bands playing folk music in the sidewalk cafes.

With fine wines goes great food and only in France would you find a restaurant like L'Auberge de L'Ill in a tiny village, Illhaeusern, just north of Colmar. Awarded a rare two stars by France's gastronomic bible, the Guide Michelin, the proprietor disdains advancing to three stars; people would simply expect too much), it features such delicacies as soufled fresh trout, boned pigeon stuffed with pate de foie gras, and a number of other creations identifiable only with the aid of a gastronomic dictionary. Complete dinners run from $5 to $9, but you won't find most of the

PERFECT FOR THE PURPOSE

Dear Susanna: Lacking a white pencil for whiting my underneath the tips of my nails, I borrowed one from my daughter's colored pencil set.

As well as lasting twice as long (because it is twice as long) it accomplished the same purpose as the one I formerly paid 35 cents for. Not only that, but my daughter was glad to get rid of it. Said she never used the white...one anyway. — Jim Smedley.

SCENTED LINGERIE

Dear Susanna: My friends and pupils know that I'm very fond of cologne and often receive a bottle of it as a gift.

One of my favorite uses is to put a few drops in the water for sprinkling the clothes that are to be ironed. It leaves them with a nice scent. — Mrs. W. R.

Throw discretion to the winds and go all the way, fair lady — add a little to the rinse water for nylons and lingerie. It's lovely! — SUSANNA

NEWLYWED

Dear Susanna: Thank you for your column. Ever since I was married and we moved into our new apartment five months ago, it's the first item I turn to each day when the paper arrives. You touch on so many interesting subjects, the newspaper is fortunate to have you writing for them.

As my contribution, may I say that interesting hard-boiled eggs in ice cold water as soon as they are removed from the heat will shrink them slightly away from their shells, so that they can be peeled easily without sticking. — Mrs. D. D. Johnston

Believe you will also find that starting to peel the egg immediately from the blunt end where there is usually a small hollow under the shell, will also facilitate this task considerably.

Can't let that first paragraph slip by without a comment, young 'un. In reply may I say now fortunate our paper is to have such a discerning reader as you! How Was that?

...and, on such a happy note may I wish each and every one of you a year of fulfillment ahead. —Sincerely, SUSANNA

Anglican Committee Claims Abortions Are Justifiable In Certain Circumstances

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—A committee set up by the Church of England to investigate the abortion problem in Britain concludes abortion is justifiable "in certain circumstances" and urges a change in the present ambiguous law to put the back-street abortionist out of business.

The number of illegal abortions performed annually in Britain is sometimes estimated as high as 100,000.

In a report published today by the church information office, the 10-member committee recommends legislation to enable a registered medical practitioner to terminate pregnancy "in the reasonable belief that if the pregnancy were allowed to continue there would be grave risk of the patient's death or of serious injury to her health or physical & mental well-being".

Such termination at the mother's request would only be performed after consultation and agreement with another registered practitioner that consultation might involve a fatal delay.

No clearer definition of the term "well-being" is given in the report's recommendations, which take the form of an amendment to a bill recently submitted by Labor peer Lord Silkin and now undergoing redrafting after a second reading in the House of Lords.

CASES DIFFERENT

Canon R. T. Ramsey, chairman of the committee, told a press conference Thursday they did not want the phrasing more specific, because each case was bound to have different circumstances and would have to be judged on its merits.

Noting Lord Silkin's bill suggested specific categories for legal abortion—including pregnancy resulting from rape, the possibility of a deformed birth and unfavorable social conditions for child-rearing—Canon Ramsey said the term "well-being" would take all such aspects into account.

He stressed the doctors' decision would be based on the effects of such facts on the mother, rather than on the facts themselves.

The report does not represent any official doctrinal position by the Church of England, which has at present deflated stand on the problem.

The 10 - member committee, which included four clergymen and three doctors, was set up by the church assembly's board of social responsibility, a body that has previously issued reports on social problems ranging from suicide to industrial redundancy.

HAS NO AUTHORITY

"This report has no authority beyond that of the people on the committee who produced it," said Canon Ramsey, adding it was hoped it would be studied by all who were socially and professionally concerned with the problem, including Parliament.

Three main considerations had been behind the committee's work, Ramsey said. They were:

—A need to regularize the present confusion and inaction in the case of the law where a doctor never knows whether, if he acts on one of the legal precedents for abortion, it may be overturned by a different judge's judgment.

—A need to sweep away widespread allegations of "one law for the rich and another for the poor." Women should be able to talk over the problem in the calm atmosphere of a hospital rather than resort to a hole-in-the-corner operation, whether in an expensive nursing home or in some sleazy back - street basement.

—A need to match the law with "new insights into human needs and sufferings".

Rev. Gordon Dunstan, committee secretary, said a change in the law could only be a first step and must be backed up by an educational campaign to instill more responsibility in sexual relationships.

Ideal Is Also Real

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Nowadays when we want to make a cynic look good we call him a "realist." And when we want to be done with the romantic, with one word we destroy him facilely — we dub him an "idealist."

Artists in our day turn their backs on the things their eyes behold: realness is made out to be sordid and degenerate, and a ruthless, unprincipled, hurtful and hateful man can be regarded as a "realist" and not be faulted for what he is. "He is, after all, only a reflection of reality in it."

Things, however, were not always thus.

Once, in the time of the ancient Greeks, realism and idealism were linked. Nothing could be imagined to be more beautiful or significant than the real. Their art, unlike ours, did not escape from what the eyes could see, in search of unreality. To them, the real world of real things was not hopeless or hateful.

A well-known and highly regarded Greek painter once showed a picture of a boy holding a cluster of grapes. The grapes were so life-like that birds flew down to peck at them. Seeing this, the populace acclaimed him as a master-artist — he had achieved true mastery because he had captured reality!

The artist, however, demurred. He still had very far to go to become a master: "If I were a master," he lamented, "the boy would have kept the birds away!"

This little tale, which delightfully assumes that even birds have intelligence, reveals also the distance which separates our world from his. We laugh at the idealist who claims that he be alone is the realist, because we only we would see.

do not believe is the beauty and harmony of reality. We paint the flowers in our bouquets, gild the lilies in our vases, forever embellishing the real to make it more beautiful. Or we substitute vague and unintelligible "symbols" to "represent" reality, dark and sullen intimations of brighter things, because little light shines in us to illumine what we see.

Now do we believe any longer in the truth of what we see: all is deception, or at best, illusion. Every thing has a meaning that is beyond meaning, based upon a language nobody can speak. Or we take refuge in abstract: reality until no reality is visible — for whatever it, we say, is not!

Little wonder that idealism and realism have parted, never to meet. We have put up an unbridgeable barrier between the two — and in the process have made the real untrue, the true unreal.

Truth to tell: the real world is both true and untrue, both clearly simple and deceivingly intricate. As a result, we miss the obvious and the real, the good and the true world which is ours to see and to enjoy — if

Sunday School Lesson
Betting One's Life on God

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A man of slight stature announced his intention of becoming a Christian minister. "But you're so small," a surprised friend protested. "Yes," replied the man, "but I believe in a big God."

What a person believes in can make all the difference in how he lives. It can spell the difference between an ordinary life and a life full of purpose and hope, between a life built on a solid foundation and one built on shifting sand.

Sometimes the words faith and belief are used to express the same idea. This is the case in the account of Jesus healing the centurion's son. (Matt. 8:13 RSV) When the centurion said to Jesus, "Only say the word, and my servant will be healed," Jesus commended to the disciples, "Not even in Israel have I found such faith." Later He said to the centurion, "Go, be it done for you as you have believed."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for January 2 is "Belief." (Matthew 8:5-13; Acts 16:25-34; Hebrews 11:1-3; James 2:18-26; I Peter 3:15.

Here the words faith and belief obviously mean the same thing. Jesus used the word "believed" in the sense of believing in Him, not believing something about Him. A person can believe many things about the Bible, and yet not believe in the Bible as the word of life. A person can believe some things about God — that He exists, that He is good — and yet never believe in Him in the sense of trusting in Him and trying to obey His will. A person can believe "Even the demons believe — and tremble!" (James 2:19 RSV) That is, they believe enough about God's power and judgments to fear Him, but they are not willing to trust and obey Him.

This is why Dr. D. Elton Trueblood says that "faith is believing without proof, but trust without reservations." Not everything can be scientifically proved. Some things have to be taken on faith, but faith must square with what one believes to be true.

ALL PEOPLE HAVE FAITH

All people have faith in something. It may be only in themselves. Or it may be in science, in the social order, or in fate. The communists believe in economic determinism. Americans believe in a "way of life." Some of these accessible faiths may be good, but only faith in God is big enough to give true meaning to life, and hope for life to come.

People are saved from fear, despair, or sin by what they believe. It is not enough to say, but it, people are saved by the object of their faith. People can have faith in the wrong thing. Some communists have fanatical faith in the teachings of Karl Marx but these can never satisfy them or the world's longing for truth and sin. Millions believe in God but have been in His service has put it, people are saved by the satisfying answer to the deepest questions of life. Men believe in God the God they believe in. To believe in the God of the Bible is to have a faith that can ennoble life, and make one more loving toward his fellow men.

Paul stressed the fact that people are saved by their sins and despair, not by their faith, but through their faith. It is God's power and love that do the saving. (Eph. 2:8) Faith, however, is necessary to complete the circuit. Without faith,

Silence Is Golden in This Messy Situation

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am almost 18 — old enough to know better, but I didn't. Yesterday the doctor confirmed what I have suspected for several weeks. I am pregnant.

Last night I told my dad and mother and they went to pieces. My dad demands that I name the person who is responsible. I told him that I am the person who is responsible. The man rejected me for a year but I chased him shamelessly and finally caught him in a weak moment when he had had too much to drink.

The man is my brother-in-law. If my sister knew she would surely divorce him. I don't want to break up their marriage and hurt innocent people. Furthermore they have small children whom I love dearly.

I plan to go to a home for unwed mothers and put my baby up for adoption. Then I will move to another city and start life over.

My parents are putting such terrific pressure on me to tell them who the man is that I am a wreck. Please rush your advice, Ann. I need the strength you can give me. — DONE ENOUGH ALREADY.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR DONE ENOUGH: Your brother-in-law is getting a better break than he deserves. But I completely agree with you. Dragging his name into the mess would accomplish nothing constructive. It would only do tremendous damage.

So keep quiet, my dear. You'll be glad you did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I celebrated our 50th wedding anniversary recently. I'm not pinning any medals on myself but it hasn't been easy.

Everyone raves about my pies. They always bring the highest prices at the annual Church Dutch apple is my specialty.

Last night my sister and her husband were here to play a little cards. When I brought in the coffee and pie, my husband said, "Why don't you have one of a decent pie in your whole life — why don't you give up?" I laughed, thinking it was some sort of joke. And then he said, "I could do better myself and I'll prove it."

Well, Ann, he stomped into the kitchen and started to pull out everything in sight. The guests left and I went to bed. At 3:00 a.m. he was still banging around the kitchen.

This morning the kitchen looked like a tornado had hit it. There was no pie in sight.

My sister phoned me and said I should never bake another pie for my husband as long as he lives. I'm inclined to forgive and forget. What do you say? — HURT.

DEAR HURT: I say if you've lived with this nut for 50 years you don't need any advice from your sister — or from me. Just keep on doing what you're doing. Forgive and forget.

DEAR ANN: The letter from the woman who gets "mysteriously stoned" on two drinks sounds like me.

Finally I went to a doctor and discovered that my system cannot handle stimulants (and some medicines) at a normal level.

If I can politely refuse a drink, I do so. If I can't, then I take a Tom Collins or something that has a lot of ice cubes in it. I drink very slowly. If the hostess wants to refill my glass, I tip it a little and say, "Oh no, this is my third." When her back is turned, I get a ginger ale. So you see, Ann, a few little tricks can go a long way toward keeping people sober. — SNEAKY ALICE.

DEAR ALICE: If this is the way you want to handle it, fine, but I don't see any reason to go to so much trouble.

Why not take a ginger ale to begin with and eliminate the hocus-pocus?

A Lift for Living

Time Merits Man's Respect But Doesn't Deserve Worship

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

The ending of one year and the beginning of another seem so important and natural to time - conscious human being that we accept the change as an elemental part of the universe, like sunset and dawn, like the shift in seasons or a change in the weather.

But our divisions of time are not as fundamental as they seem. Some are man-made. The change from Old Year to New Year is one of these. On this New Year's Eve we will blow horns and ring bells to usher out the Old and welcome the New. But man is the only creature that will notice the Old Year's going and the New Year's coming. Chickadees at our bird feeder will not observe New Year's Day, nor will deer browsing in cedar thickets, nor will the gulls flight-skating on the icy breezes over our harbors. They have no interest in man's preoccupation with time.

When this Old Year wearily shuffles off into timelessness and the New Year bounds forth on the human scene, there will be no celestial announcement of the change, no capsule hailing of a star to mark the transition, no distinctive roll of thunder. Even our watches will tick monotonously on, making no special sound to mark the last moment of 1965 or the first of 1966.

FALL BEFORE TIME

In civilized society time has become an object of veneration. In almost all aspects of our living fall down before the great god Time and do reverence. Since the invention of the mechanical clock in the fourteenth century, there has been a rising tide of "time mentality," symbolised by the improvements of clocks, the embellishment in watches, and the increasing variety of uses for all devices that measure time.

The modern timepiece virtually dictates our entire existence. Cranking are especially for time-conscious, winding watches before retiring at night, arising when the alarm clock rings in the morning, installing clocks in stoves and in cars, wearing watches on wrists, in pockets, as lapel ornaments and in cuff links, rushing madly about in a frenzied effort to keep right on time schedules, punching time clocks on the way to and from work, eating "on the hour," and even neatly timing worship to see that God doesn't get too much of our Sundays.

One of the chief reasons we envy little children is because they have not yet wholly submitted to the tyranny of time. Their vision is still uninterrupted and unwarped by frequent furtive glances at the clock. When a child looks with wide-eyed wonder at the antics of a housefly, he gives the mystery his complete attention, unhampered by a sense of guilt from feeling he should be making a telephone call, attending a sales conference, mixing a salad, or adding the day's profits.

That is why a very small child really sees a fly in a way that few adults ever do. He looks at it leisurely, wholehearted ly, tirelessly.

MERITS RESPECT

A decent consciousness of the swift movements of the moments, hours and years is desirable. Time merits our respect and our careful use. But it does not deserve our worship. Time is a good servant but an evil master.

Those who, at all costs, save time, save nothing else. They lose quality from their living, because they do not seek to do a thing the best way, but the least time way. They are likely to lose health, since a chief cause of many of the mental and physical ailments of our time is frenzied haste and the pressure of meeting time schedules.

Time worshippers lose friends because friendships are fragile things that require unhurried care in handling. Sound and enduring friendships are usually slow growing. Those that rush them, soon rush out.

Life's high moments are lost by the time worshippers, because the good must be slowly savored to be enjoyed. A friend's gracious word of encouragement, the meanings of a great book, a look at the sky's face until clouds assume recognizable forms, the bubbling music of a baby's laughter — all the brief good moments, the inspiring moments, are lost to haste.

Now comes the New Year, a gift-wrapped in 365 tidy packages, the meanings of God, respect time. Appreciate it. Use it in making the world a bit better because you have been here a while longer.

A happy, unhurried new year!

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

INCOME TAXED IN THE YEAR RECEIVED

Income must be reported in the year it was received or available. There are a number of exceptions in this respect. One is where the employers pay periods ends on a certain day and a few days pay for 1965 may be included on the T4 slip for 1964. This has a tendency to correct itself from year to year and the employee should report the amount the employer shows on the T4 slip even if it does include a day or so income for the next year.

Another exception is in respect to bond coupons. The taxpayer can either report the income each year as it accrues or report the full amount when he cashes the coupons. If the taxpayer has been suspended from his job in one year and is reinstated with full pay the following year, then the income received in the year of reinstatement must be reported in that year regardless of the fact part of it was for the preceding year.

As employer may be in arrears of payment of wages and should the employee have to resort to court action to obtain payment, he may deduct from his income any costs involved in the collection. If the payment was not received until the following year, it should be reported in the year received, regardless of the fact it was earned in the previous year. If such arrears of wages were received early in the new year and the employer has shown it on the T4 slip for the year it was earned, then it is advisable for the taxpayer to accept the T4. When the taxpayer is claiming as a deduction lawyer's fees and court costs for the collection of back pay, he must verify his claim by attaching receipts covering the deductions claimed.

For a personal reply, enclose a self - addressed five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: My 1964 T4 slip includes 3 days pay for 1965. Should I deduct these 3 days pay from my income and report it in 1965?

Answer: No. This will correct itself next year.

Question 2: I had to sue a former employer to collect wages due. Do I report it for the year it was earned or in the year received it?

Answer: It is taxable in the year it was received.

Astronomer Spots Canals, Oases On Mariner's Pictures of Mars

By RALPH DIGHTON

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A noted astronomer said Wednesday he has found evidence of canals and oases in seven of the 22 pictures taken of Mars by Mariner IV spacecraft during its flyby earlier this year.

Dr. Clyde W. Tombaugh of the New Mexico State University observatory told the annual meeting of the Americas Association for the Advancement of Science that hereto-fore unexplained dark streaks in the Mariner IV pictures coincide with markings he has seen in telescopic studies of the planet, one, he said, to escape of hot

"I know there are others who say they can't see canals on Mars," he said at a briefing prior to his talk, "but I'd like to see them have their eyes

Tombaugh said he believes the so-called canals are faults or fractures in the planet's crust, several miles wide. Their darkening and fading may be gases or dark smudges where the lines intersect, be speculated, may be asteroid-impact craters in which moisture gathers and promotes growth of some hardy plant, such as moss.

Tombaugh displayed a hand-drawn map showing lines and smudges he has found in the area covered by Mariner IV, and gave a rundown on the markings in various frames. Many of them coincided with previously recorded markings through earth-based telescopes.

Dr. John A. Ryan, Douglas Aircraft Co. research physicist, advanced a theory that the yellow clouds in Mars' thin atmosphere may be dust stirred up by whirlwinds such as the dust devils seen on earth's deserts.

He said the dust devils may be formed by winds up to 500 miles an hour and, if so, could severely scour men and equipment landing in those areas.

Royal Mint Starts Jan. 6 To Take Orders for Coins

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Mint will start Jan. 6 to take orders for collectors' sets of 1966 coins, a spokesman for the finance department said.

The mint is hoping it won't be swamped with orders as it was last year, leading to boom-and-bust speculation among would-be coin collectors.

The mint sets of coins are specially-packaged sets of the standard coins issued—1, 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents and $1. They are prepared in a special section of the mint by workers swearing gloves to ensure against the slightest scratch.

The sets sell for $4 though they are worth only $1.81 at face value. The mint will take orders only for one, three or five sets.

Orders started to come in before Jan. 1 for the 1965 sets and the mint turned them back. Then it was inundated with orders for about 4,000,000 sets and had facilities to handle only about 2,000,000. It tufoed the balance back.

Immediately the speculative price shot up to $7 a set or more and many individuals complained that their orders had not been accepted. There was a jam in the mails at the mint and finally the government ordered the mint to accept and fill all orders even if production had to run into 1966 for the 1965 coin sets.

This flooded the market and the market value of the sets fell back to $4.

The mint now is expecting substantial orders for 1966 sets but nothing like the panic which developed last January. Orders fell off to a trickle at mid-summer and a few still are being received.

The Golden Years

Tips on Meeting New Year If You Are Near Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

This is the Season of Concern. The coming of a New Year always is — for men and women who have passed the age of 35.

Are they planning well enough for retirement? Are they saving enough money? What are they going to do after 65? It is only twice a year, on New Year's and on birthdays, that they fret about these things very much.

So it seems fitting, with 1966 coming on, that they get some consolation and some guidance on their concerns. A retired office manager, Robert W. Gardner, has a little of both.

Mr. Gardner retired a year-and-a-half-ago. He made no preparations for retirement, because he made a gamble on collecting a compulsory retirement policy and lost; his accumulated virtually no savings for it, because he was having too much fun spending what he made.

He has retirement now, been successful. He and Mrs. Gardner are happy.

What, if he had to do it over again, would he do — starting at about age 58?

WOULD NOT WORRY

"For one thing, I wouldn't worry too much about it," he says. "God will provide, and He has Medicare, pension plans and a benevolent Great Society to help out. But still, having gone through the retirement mill, I would do certain things.

"I would start with a doctor. I would get one young enough to accept the Medicare concept and young enough to outlive me. I'd see him every six months so he could build such a file on me that he could tell at once when I started breaking up.

"I'd do the same with a lawyer — one young enough to arrive at the idea of Socialized Law, which is likely to follow socialized Medicine; and young enough to build a file on all my affairs . . ."

Then, Mr. Gardner says, he'd sell his house and move into an apartment. "That's the only civilized way to live in retirement. The upkeep on a house, the bother of it, and all those days and hobbies aren't that much fun." He would set up a file at once and start filling it with the valuable papers needed for retirement, including birth certificate, marriage certificate, military service records, income tax records, insurance policies, copy of will, and company retirement data. "To come up to retirement without these papers handy is a mess," he says.

Mr. Gardner says that shortly after age 58 he would be cutting the umbilical cord between my job and me. This is an economical and mental cord, not a physical one — the compulsory retirement policy takes care of you physically. I would train myself to understand that when I retired I would lose a paycheque, also might love me still but would want no more dates with me. I would start cultivating a new love . . .

FINANCES ALRIGHT

"I doubt that I would save any more money than I did. There's a lot of pleasure to be had between 59 and 65 if you'll only let it. Things don't cost so much fun. After 65, too, there are pension, life insurance, retirement plans and capital expenses which allow just about all working people these days to look forward to retirement."

Mr. Gardner explains that the major retirement project he would undertake at age 58 or so would be the cultivation of new friends who had interests completely apart from his job. "Most of us," he says, "have only friends connected with our jobs. So when you retire from the job, these old friends fade away. Quite frankly we weren't friends of Bob Gardner because of the job. As these ties break we feel lonely and unwanted. I understand and realize that it was our job, not us, that had the friendships.

"I would set out to carve a place for myself in affairs apart from the job. I would get rid of sorts, if not an ulcer, in something such as a bridge club or a coin club, or be a fellow scout or golf couple in some crusade, or be a political worker. In brief I would make sure that I was an identity of some sort and not just a person. To be just a person, with identity, is a misery in retirement. And I doubt that it is in any other age after 25."

Your Car

Major Car Care Is Job for Pro

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Many simple, yet important maintenance chores and adjustments can be performed by the Saturday mechanic. But, when it comes to trouble shooting and tune-ups, you can't beat a true professional who has electronic testing and analyzing equipment to aid him.

Take a case of hard starting accompanied by sluggish response and alarming gas mileage. This is often due to worn dirty, or out-of-gap distributor points. But it can also be caused by such things as poor carburetor or choke operation, fouled or incorrectly gapped spark plugs, erratic coil, loose or corroded ignition cable connections. With the various test machines available, however, the precise trouble can be accurately diagnosed as a matter of minutes. In addition, well-equipped service stations also rely on instruments to check out compression, valve action, fuel pump pressure, exhaust back pressure, and gasket leakage, etc.

These machines do not substitute for a skilled mechanics knowhow and talented hands — but they can save the customer the toughest part of the job, which is diagnosis.

From J. C.: "Suppose the starter cranks all right when the ignition is switched on, but then refuses to disengage. Does this mean solenoid trouble?"

Usually, — and usually because it's shorted. Solenoid replacement is the answer.

T. Y. writes: "Why should my left rear leaf spring have broken when it wasn't subjected to hard riding or bad roads."

Looseness in the mounting at the spring is the usual reason.

R. L. asks: "When the clutch on a stick shift model squeals, could this be just a matter of lubrication?"

Yes — the release bearing or sleeve, or the pilot bearing could be running dry. But keep in mind that squealing could also mean misalignment.

From A. G.: "If tires on all four wheels have exactly the same mileage, why shouldn't they wear at the exact same rate?"

Alignment of wheels, variance in air pressures, crown of the road, distribution of cargo weight, power on rear wheels, braking force on front wheels when coasting on jack rabbit starts . . . should give you sufficient reasons.

Burglar Leaves Photo

LONDON (AP)—A burglar who broke into a fashion store and stole clothing worth $150 ($450) left his photograph behind. Police found it in a wallet he dropped.

The man, Victor Clarke, 47, admitted breaking into the store when he appeared in court at Gravesend Wednesday. He was ordered held in custody until Jan. 18 for sentencing.

PLAN AHEAD for the NEW YEAR

We greet you with the wish that your plans for the New Year may bring much happiness and success.

ROLLINS LUMBER

According to Hoy

By

Claire Hoy

Happy New Year!

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind.
Should the Maple Leafs keep winning games
And leave the league behind."

Here it is the end of 1965 and the beginning of 1966. Time to make those New Year's resolutions that are always made in good faith and broken five minutes later.

Time to say farewell to the old and hello to the new. Time to have a real rip-snorting party.

Time to list my own glorious New Year's resolutions.

1. I pledge to be a Toronto Maple Leaf fan once again through this New Year and ignore all the jibes I will undoubtedly receive from my "biased" colleagues in this editorial room. Already I can hear them hissing, but my dedication to the principles of honest journalism gives me no alternative but to forge on despite them.

2. I promise not to panic if there is another Federal election during 1966. I have my big, fat black pencil all sharpened and ready to mark my "X." Have I ever told you about my "X"? I can really write a good one with my special election pencil. After all, I sign everything else the same way. I really do believe I will have to get a new election pencil in 1966 however. There have been so many elections lately that Xs are all worn out of it. Nothing left but the Ys. (Whys? Why oh why? etc.)

3. I promise not to stop predicting the outcome of athletic events in 1966. My predictions have been so accurate of late that the "chief predictor" in this editorial department is in danger of losing his license to me. Suffice to say that Toronto will win the Grey Cup, the Yankees will win the world series, the Hamilton Tiger Cats will win the Grey Cup, the Cleveland Browns will win the NFL championship, Sam Rezzuto will win the Lady Byng Trophy and the Great Boatsini will win something or other. (Most likely other.)

You may be saying that I am already breaking one of my resolutions by predicting outcomes of various athletic events. However, I contend that the aforementioned items are so sure of winning their respective titles that predicting them to do so certainly cannot be classed as a prediction. It is simply a listing of fact.

4. I pledge to continue my campaign of helping elderly persons cross the streets.

5. I promise to keep hoping that someone will send me a complimentary letter. I have received some but I had to really do a selling job before talking my wife into writing them. However, I will still gladly receive the other kind of letters. One word of caution: Please when writing a letter of a dubious nature to me remember to put your home address on the letter so I do not go around and by chance blow up the wrong house. I only did this once last year; but you can see how embarrassing it could be.

6. I pledge to renew my membership in Sweet Foods Anonymous once again and do my best to stay away from sweet foods and hold a strict diet regardless at all times. (However, it is very difficult to refrain from laughing at times because of some of the things that go on in this editorial room.)

7. I promise my coach that I will always endeavor to cover my check and trip him in case he does get by.

8. I promise the editor and the city editor I will not make fun of them when their favorite teams lose again. (Anyway, it is often difficult to determine exactly which teams these two editors in crime cheerfully root for. Often it depends upon who happens to be leading the league at the time.)

9. I promise the streets of Belleville I will not curse them when I fall into their pot holes. I will stoically lift my car from these giant crevices and continue on my merry way until the next pot hole.

10. I promise to drive carefully and avoid the boundary fences at the Bay of Quinte County Club that I will continue to keep them supplied with errant golf balls.

11. I promise to renew my subscription to Playboy Magazine to make all these fellows here happy.

Lastly, I promise the world that I will remain bilden as I am for the entire year. (Please forgive me if I succumb the urge to break out once in a while however.)

13. Happy New Year.

Liberal Leader Against Forcing Of Integration

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson says he will fight in the Ontario legislature any bill introduced by the government to make integration of pension plans mandatory for municipal employees.

In a telegram Thursday to Premier Robarts, Mr. Thompson said such legislation, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966, would be dangerous, extraordinary, and a denial of democratic government. The legislature is to begin its 1966 session Jan. 25.

Premier Robarts already has committed his government to force the integration of existing pension plans for municipal employees, with the Canada Pension Plan, which comes into effect Jan. 1. He said legislation will be introduced if necessary.

Integration means that the Canada Pension Plan, which is compulsory, will not be added on top of the existing plans. Instead the existing plans will be reduced so that the present pension level guaranteed employees will be continued with no loss in retirement benefits.

The forced integration of pension plans deprives municipal employees of their bargaining rights, Mr. Thompson said at a press conference. However, he personally favored integration as in the best interests.

However, Mr. Thompson said some sort of council should be established to permit regular negotiation procedures in the complex pension situation.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Exciting renter - occupied houses, in rundown neighborhoods families spend on the average about 25 percent of their income on housing costs. In middle-class neighborhoods such as yours it averages about 25 percent of income. In high income neighborhoods it drops to as low as 10 percent.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am interested in two properties in the same neighborhood. The asking price for both is $34,000. One is assessed for $12,000 and the taxes are $600 per year; while the second is assessed for $9,000 and the taxes are only $400 per year. Although I prefer the first house, I am seriously considering buying the second property because the saving of $200 a year in taxes means a lot to me. I'll buy provided you agree. — Faithful Reader

ANSWER: I recommend that you buy the house you prefer. The $200 a year difference in taxes probably will last only for a few weeks following the settlement. In many communities assessments are kept current. However, once a sale of a property becomes a matter of record, the assessor duly notes the sale price and adjusts his records accordingly. I know of some communities with inadequate or incompetent staffs where the only time a change in assessment is made is following a sale.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am interested in purchasing a house which I am beginning to have some doubts. I would like to check it out myself.

I claimed that the reason we have rundown houses in certain sections of our cities is because the families living in them spend their money on frivolous items like liquor and cars and do not spend enough money on their homes. Everybody I've agreed with me. I know that this does not make it right. Is it? — Comfortable Suburbanite

ANSWER: Everybody agreed with you because you had what is statistically known as a biased sample. I am sure that if some of the families living in rundown neighborhoods were present at your party they would have disagreed.

Backroom Boys Control House Says Premier

KINGSTON (CP) — The individual has no influence in Canadian government unless he has money or some other form of control, the premier of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament said Thursday.

Tom Owen of Brampton told the Easter during debate in the 45th Parliament that "the backroom boys control parliament."

"I'm suggesting a hierarchy controls two parties in Canada," he said. "How many individual members have spoken against their parties?"

Mr. Owen, a second - year economics student at the University of Western Ontario, was speaking in support of a government motion that withdrew recognition of the "coercive authority that the Canadian government exerts over the individual citizen."

The motion, which was defeated, stated that the individual's conscience is the sole authority over his actions."

Premier John Robert Edley of Aylmer accused the electorate of failing the government.

"I think it is the complacency of citizens like you and me that falls into the hands of corruption," he said. "I've thought a little about the fellow next door we would have better government." Mr. Edley said.

The five-day session ends today.

Disability Clause Added

OTTAWA (CP)—A disability clause has been added at no extra cost to the group life insurance policy of veterans established under the Veterans Land Act since July 1, 1963, Veterans Minister Teillet announced Wednesday.

Under the plan, the unpaid contract debt is retired upon the veteran's death. Nearly 7,000 veterans have taken advantage of the plan. Twenty-three have died and $126,000 has been paid to retire their debt.

The new disability clause is effective Jan. 1, 1966. It provides that veterans who become totally disabled for six months or more will not pay premiums after six months for as long as they remain disabled but their debt insurance will remain in force.

Manpower Mobility Program Became Operative This Week

Employment opportunities for Canadian workers are expected to be greatly increased with the coming into effect December 28 of the new Manpower Mobility Program.

This program provides financial assistance for unemployed workers who wish to move to other areas where employment is available.

Under the Manpower Mobility Program, loans or grants may be made to workers and their families for the cost of moving and re settling when it is clear that such a move is in both their own and the public interest.

CONDITIONS OF AID

A worker will be eligible for a loan or grant under the program when: (1) there is little or no chance of his securing a suitable job in his home area or in an area closer to his home than the area to which he is moving; (2) there is suitable employment in the new area for which he will be hired and a shortage of workers qualified for such employment; and (3) there is a good chance of the new job resulting in his permanent re-establishment in the new location.

The program will move workers no further than is necessary to secure suitable employment.

A worker who is either unemployed or under notice that he will be laid off permanently within 30 days of his application is eligible for a loan.

Workers in each of the following categories will be eligible for grants: (1) those who have been unemployed for at least four of the six months preceding their date of application; (2) those who have completed a provincially approved training course or a program of vocational rehabilitation and re-establishment within three months of their date of application; (3) former automobile or parts workers eligible for Transitional Assistance Benefit in respect of their layoff, whether or not they are in receipt of such benefits; (4) key skilled workers who are needed by employers who have received development grants under the Area Development Incentive Act. (A "key skilled worker" is defined as one whose employment will result in creating job openings for additional workers or will prevent layoff of workers).

PAY ACTUAL COST

For a worker with dependants, who is moving to employment, a loan or grant will pay for the actual cost of transportation for himself and his dependants, including meals and overnight accommodation. The actual cost of moving household and personal effects will be paid, as well as the cost of moving a mobile home if the worker owns one. Not covered is the cost of moving automobiles by other forms of transport trailers, boats, livestock or pets.

Workers with dependants will also receive resettlement allowances on the basis of $200 each for the workers and his wife and $100 for each other dependant, up to a maximum of $1,000.

For workers without dependants, loans and grants will not cover the cost of moving household and personal effects. There is a resettlement allowance of not more than $100 for workers in this category who qualify for loans. Those receiving grants will not receive a resettlement allowance, but may apply for a loan to cover resettlement costs.

REPAY IN 2 YEARS

Under normal circumstances a loan will be repaid in not more than 20 monthly instalments, commencing four months after the loan is made. These provisions are necessarily flexible to avoid creating hardship. Interest on loans will be at the rate of five and three-quarters per cent per annum.

There is a retroactive provision for workers who moved, on their own initiative, to assume employment before this program came into effect. They will be eligible for a loan or grant if it is found that, at the time they were unemployed, they met the provisions of the program, and if they make application within three months of the date of their arrival at the place to which they moved. This also applies to those who move on their own initiative after the program takes effect.

The Manpower Mobility Program will be administered by the National Employment Service, and applications for loans and grants should be made to the local NES offices.

Auto Industry In U.S. Breaks Records in '65

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. auto industry wound up its calendar year in high gear a. the final cars and trucks of a record breaking 1965 rolled off assembly lines yesterday.

Some 630,000 auto workers will relax and enjoy the long New Year's holiday weekend.

Virtually every page in the production—and sales — record book were rewritten during the year with all signs pointing to more of the same in 1966.

Included in the building of about 8,300,000 passenger cars slightest is another new corporate records for General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

GM's output of an estimated 4,868,000 cars was nearly 1,000,- 000 units ahead of last year (3,865,590).

Ford's 2,568,000 - car output was nearly 20 per cent ahead of last year's figure and smashed the old corporate record of 2,240,661 in 1955.

Chrysler's 1,471,000-car output was 18 per-cent ahead of 1964 and far ahead of the company record of 1,361,835 set in 1955.

American Motors, fourth largest of U.S. automakers, ran behind its 1964 production pace as it turned out 346,000 units compared with 393,863 a year ago.

On the sales front, U.S. dealers had an inventory of about 1,200,000 cars on hand or in transit.

Rival Applications May Create Canada-U.S. Snarl in Natural Gas

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's National Energy Board and its American regulatory counterpart, the Federal Power Commission, may find themselves in a natural gas snarl.

The situation concerns rival applications to carry more gas from Western Canada to expanding Ontario markets via the United States, which would be a new route.

The original line of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., via Northern Ontario, expensive and removed from lucrative markets, isn't being expanded. Trans-Canada intends to build in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Northern Natural Gas Co., of the U.S. filed with the FPC Dec. 20 an application rivalling Trans-Canada's interests.

Northern Natural proposes to pump Canadian gas in at one end of its pipeline and deliver American gas to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and southwestern Ontario.

This would be the first big implementation of a theory discussed 10 years ago by which Louisiana gas would have entered the Ontario-Quebec market. It would be another step in the tightening integration of North American energy resources.

SANCTION RIVALS?

The possibility also now exists that the Canadian regulatory board will sanction Trans-Canada as the exporter of more gas for Eastern Canada and the FPC will sanction its U.S. rival to handle that gas.

This is the background:

More than a year ago, Trans-Canada applied to the FPC for permission to build a pipeline nearly 1,000 miles long through Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. Trans-Canada through the affiliated Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co., shared 50-50 with American Natural Gas, also sought to supply American markets en route.

That application was assured as inadequate, Trans-Canada and rival U.S. firms refiled and then withdrew, pending negotiations among themselves.

These culminated in a compromise by which Trans-Canada proposed construction of a $211,- 700,000 line 889 miles from Emerson, Man., to the Sault and the Detroit areas.

Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line and Midwestern Gas Transmission Co. filed connecting applications in which they would take some of Trans-Canada's gas and provide American gas to Ontario until the entire new Trans-Canada line was finished in 1967.

They and Trans-Canada now have been asked for more information, and Northern Natural Gas has filed a rival application for construction of 1,- 100 miles of pipe over five years at a cost of about $185,000,000.

PROMISES A SAVING

This would have an ultimate capacity of more than 1,000,000,- 000 cubic feet of gas daily for Ontario, starting at a modest 113,000,000. Northern also says it has been in contact with Consumer's Gas of Toronto and Union Gas. Trans-Canada customers, and that it can deliver gas to Ontario at a saving of $2,500,000 in the fifth year and a five-year-saving of about $11,- 500,000.

The FPC is expected to spend a long time determining just how accurate the rival statistics are. There is a possibility, as Trans-Canada officials seem confident, that Northern's application will be tossed out swiftly.

Trans-Canada says Northern could and should have filed much earlier, instead of waiting until the last moment. Northern says it was confirming additional outlets for its gas in northern Michigan.

It says it would take Trans-Canada's gas at Emerson and channel it deeper into the U.S. Midwest. In turn, it would give Ontario American gas.

Canadians Must Defeat Apathy With Hard Work

-- Vanier

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Georges Vanier said today in a New Year's message Canadians must overcome apathy with hard work and discipline to be worthy of their rich inheritance.

The 77-year-old soldier, diplomat, statesman and Queen's personal representative as head of state urged the Canadians to "lift up our hearts; let us shape our lives in such a way as to fulfil the prodigious destiny to which providence beckons us."

His message was recorded for broadcast by radio and television New Year's Day and released to the press in advance.

"On a per capita basis we are the richest nation in the world," he said. "What have we done to earn such blessings? What are we doing to be worthy of such an inheritance?"

To become worthy, he added, Canadians need "a healthy respect for good hard work," such as the pioneers had who opened up the land with "old-fashioned honorable sweat of their brows and the determination of their hearts."

POINTS TO NAMES

The names of scholarship winners at universities in Canada include "an amazing proportion . . . out of all relation to their numbers" who are not members of the founding races in Canada.

"By their hard work they are setting an example which should be followed by those who have yess in our country much longer," Gen Vanier said.

Canada's affluence, he added, could be its servant or its master. Affluence carries with it a responsibility "to all humanity, to those who are handicapped, to those who are miserable, to those who are hungry."

"We must resolve that the principles our forefathers expemplified will guide our work and rekindle within us the force of determination to give worth and meaning to our lives."

He said the affluence of the country "gives us a sort of smug self-satisfaction" and apathy that can lead to deterioration in society and community leadership. And if the drift towards apathy is to be combatted, "we must begin with our youth."

YOUTH DISSATISFIED

"The youth of our country appear to be dissatisfied with us, their parents.

"I don't blame them. I am not very proud of what we have done—or perhaps left undone.

"Are we giving them the guidance they require, the inspiration they should have if they are to attain fulfilment? Are we giving them a cause to which they can dedicate their efforts, a cause which will bring out all that is noble within them?

"Or could it be that we are obsessed with goals that are far from noble, with material causes which offer nothing but emptiness to the spirit?

"Let us give some thought to discipline as a remedy. Discipline is a quality which must be taught. It is not something which we can expect our young people to come upon by accident or intuspection. . . .

"I appeal to all young people to develop a sense of personal discipline. To fail to do so, and to fail to learn the wisdom of self-discipline means failure to become a mature and civilized person."

Teachers Urge Cutback in Extra Tasks

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation here have attacked the "nice-guy approach" to problems of overwork and retraining.

Some suggested Wednesday the possibility of a cutback in teachers extra - curricular activies to enforce their demands for better leadership from the OSSTF.

Ward McAdam, chairman of the conditions of work committee on the federation, told teachers it was up to local teacher groups to change their school conditions rather than wait for provincial action.

"I disagree completely," said Lars Thompson, a Thornhill teacher. "Provincial leadership by OSSTF is exactly what we need—and strong leadership as well."

Don't Matter If Junior's Grammar Poor

TORONTO (CP) — It don't matter that little Percy's grammar may be a bit sloppy if he attends Grade 1 at Huron Street public school here so long as his poetry book stimulates his imagination and kindles a desire to keep on with book-learning.

Donald Rutledge, director of the Toronto board of education's Language Studies Centre, Wednesday described a pilot project in "the new English."

"In our work, we're trying to avoid a moral tone about a child's use of language and maintain his freedom from inhibition," he said.

From their poetry books, the children are learning to appreciate the rhythm and natural imagery of language instead of being bored to tears with "the traditional, 'Look, Dick, look. See Spot Jump."

Mr. Rutledge said the children first read the poetry to themselves, then aloud in class.

"We hope the child's own natural vitality will come out in his reading and writing as a result," he said.

What's more, Mr. Rutledge hopes the kids also will learn not to mistically that there's some grammar that just ain't acceptable in the English language.

Common Market Members Agree to Make Further Ten Per Cent Tariff Cut

By ROBERT MAUTHNER

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The European Common Market is eight years old New Year's Day, 1966, when the Six, including France, have agreed to make a further 10-per-cent cut in tariffs among member countries.

This brings the total reduction to 40 per cent since the market, made up of West Germany, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, began.

But the market has been virtually paralyzed since July by France's boycott of its activities.

For the first time for many years there has been no end-of-year marathon session—a device used in the past by the members to adopt compromise package deals on important measures in which the interests of the member countries were carefully balanced.

But hopes for the immediate future were dashed during the night of June 30, when France slammed the door on its partners following disagreement on new farm financial measures linked to supranational powers for the European parliament and the Common Market's executive commission.

After the French presidential elections in December, France finally accepted a long-standing offer by its five partners to attend a foreign ministers' meeting in Luxembourg in January as a first step toward healing the breach. But Common Market officials in Brussels have no illusions about the long and rocky road that lies ahead.

The basic clash of philosophies is over whether the Common Market should be a Europe of nation-states, as desired by French President de Gaulle, or whether it should evolve into a supranational organization, as the Benelux states — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—have always wished.

Going Steady— Who Needs it?

Ann Landers reveals that teen-agers themselves are largely opposed to going steady. So why do they do it? And what are the hidden dangers in this "easy" approach to dating? Here are the answers — plus a description of the one type of teenager who should go steady. Get your January Reader's Digest today.

Tonight when it's "One for the Road"—make it coffee.

This is especially true when the New Year's party is breaking up . . . when you're about to drive home and someone suggests, "How about one for the road?"

This New Year's Eve, if you are doing the driving, say: "Yes, I'll have one for the road. But, please make it coffee!"

Cartoon's Many Voices

Voices that match the screen characters are extremely important in movie cartoons, since they add realism to what are obviously drawings. The producers of "Pinocchio In Outer Space" now at the Park Theatre, today and Saturday, both got their basic training in radio and went back to the field to make the science-fiction adventure come alive.

For the lead character of Pinocchio, they engaged Peter Lazer, a 16-year-old television actor whose voice changed shortly after he did the dialogue. Arnold Stang with a distinctive voice trained in radio was selected for Nurtle the Turtle.

Also the same program the hilarious comedy "40 Pounds of Trouble," starring Tony Curtis, Suzanne Pleshette, Claire Wilcox and Phil Silvers.

Show times 7.00 and 8.30 p.m. Saturday continuous s o w from 1.00 p.m. Doors open at 12.30.

Letter To The Sports Editor

SKI FEES

Dear Sir

I am a concerned high-school student who has learned from certain parties that the rates for an afternoon of skiing at a popular ski resort north of Belleville are $3.50 per person. I would like to mention that this is a dollar more than last year. I think this is going a bit too far because many students who have newly acquired skis find that it is impossible to pay this plus bus rates to go out every time they wish to go skiing and use the ski tow. I feel that a student rate of $1.50 would be more appropriate. It would be appreciated if this letter was published. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
A Skier.

MacDonald Back In Red Wings' Fold

Deal With Boston

By GARY McCARTHY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As 1965 fades out, at least one National Hockey League player may look forward to a happy New Year.

The big news for Calvin Parker MacDonald came Thursday when the league president announced they had traded the veteran left winger to Detroit Red Wings for centre Pit Martin.

The Red Wings are no strangers to the 32-year-old MacDonald, a native of Sydney, N.S.

He was a member of the Wings for five years before being traded to Boston last May 31 along with left winger Bob Dillabough and defencemen Al Langlois and Ron Harris in exchange for defencemen Bob McCord and Ken Stephanson and forward Ab McDonald.

It is expected MacDonald will play for the Wings against Chicago Black Hawks in Detroit tonight in the only scheduled game.

Detroit drafted the five-foot 10, 175 pound winger from the New York Rangers in June, 1960 and in the 1961-62 season he scored 14 goals and finished the season with 36 points.

The following season he came up with his best NHL effort as he scored 23 goals and added 20 assists.

However, his goal production tailed off in the next two seasons and then he was traded to Boston.

Martin, 22, a native of Nordands, Que., had played in 10 games with the Red Wings this season before being sent to the minors. He scored one goal and picked up an assist in those 10 games.

Martin is expected to join the Bruins in Toronto for Saturday night's game against the Maple Leafs. New York is at Montreal for a game with the Canadiens in the other Saturday night contest.

The Black Hawks will be out to increase their lead in the standings tonight. Having won three of their last five games they hold a slim one-point lead over the second-place Canadiens.

However, a victory for Detroit would move them into a tie for second-place with the Canadiens.

Battle Of The Behemoths

Packers Ruled Slight Favorites

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)— The long-range weather forecast for Packerland calls for a little rain and possibly a little snow for the rest of the week, leading up to a cloudy Sunday with the thermometer in the mid-30s and perhaps a light dusting of snow for the National Football League final.

In other words, get ready for anything.

A capacity crowd of 50,852 is assured for the championship contest between the Packers and Cleveland Browns at 2:10 p.m. EST at Lambeau Stadium.

The game will be televised on the CBC national network. Lambeau Stadium rests under a layer of hay plus a tarpaulin and should be playable and surprisingly good, depending on the weather, when they roll the tarp back Sunday morning.

With about $7,000 at stake for every winning share and $4,600 for each loser, everybody expects another hard - hitting game like last Sunday's Baltimore Colts-Green Bay battle. Cleveland is here tonight and will bed down in a motel in Appleton, 25 miles away. Coach Blanton Collier plans to herd the Brown into town for a brief workout Saturday morning following Green Bay's final timbering-up session.

PACKERS FAVORED

If it is true that the odds-makers always make the Packers slim 1½-point favorites they must be counting on the Green Bay defence. The Packers gave up only 22 touchdowns in regular - season play, 11 on the ground and 11 in the air. The Browns yielded 42, 12 on runs and 31 on passes.

With these statistics in mind it is easy to see why Bart Starr's physical condition is of paramount importance to the Packers. Green Bay's No. 1 quarterback and passing threat suffered bruises on the right side and back when blocked by Jim Welch of the Sunday's game with the Colts. He resumed passing Wednesday and has been improving a little each day.

Jim Brown gives the defending champions a big edge in running, with the assist of halfback Ernie Green. Both are dangerous pass - receivers as well. The ground game of Cleveland's basic attack and when it is clicking it gives quarterback Frank Ryan time to throw. Paul Warfield and Gary Collins, his favorite targets.

The Packers running pair of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung floundered during most of the season, but begin to come on after coach Vince Lombardi reshuffled his offensive line. Hornung scored five touchdowns against Baltimore Dec. 12, and has to be the big threat in this one.

Starr's success in passing to Boyd Dowler, Bill Anderson and Carroll Dale depends on his ability to pick apart the weak links in the Browns secondary. If the weather should make it difficult to run or throw this game could turn into a placekicking battle between Lou Groza of the Browns and Don Chandler of the Packers They are almost even in 1965 statistics. Chandler made 17 of 26 field goal attempts, not counting two out of three in the play - off, and Groza made 16 of 25. Chandler had one convert blocked in 38, but Groza made 41 without a miss.

COACH SLUGS REFEREE

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Paul Hurley scored at 3:44 in overtime to give Boston College a 3-2 hockey victory over the University of Montreal Thursday night. The visitors' coach, Dr. Yvan Dion, drew a five-minute major and a 10-minute misconduct penalty and was escorted to the locker room by police after striking referee Bill Cleary on the jaw during an argument over a penalty in the third period.

Beavers Whip Swedes

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Sherbrooke Beavers defeated Djurgaarden of Sweden 8-5 Thursday in Abearne Cup hockey tournament play before 5,000 fans.

The fans as well as the Swedish officials obviously enjoyed the game which was played under Canadian rules at the request of Swedish tournament officials.

It was the first game ever televised in Abearne tournament play.

In another game Thursday, Soedertalje of Sweden defeated Leksand 10-4.

The victory by the Beavers, 1965 Allan Cup champions, was their second of the tournament. Canada lost 6-5 to Soedertalje of Sweden Dec. 28. Canada defeated Djurgaarden 8-5 Dec. 26.

The Canadian team now meets Sweden's Leksand team, which has a 2-1 won-lost record, in a couple of games Saturday and Sunday.

Russians Win Tournament

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP-AP) — The Soviet Union won its second consecutive Walter Brown Memorial Trophy Thursday night by defeating Czechoslovakia 3-0 for its third straight victory in the round-robin tournament.

The Russians, world amateur and Olympic champions, swept through the tournament by defeating Sweden 4-3 and Canada 8-2 in its other games. The Soviet Union also won the inaugural tournament last year.

Canada tied 5-5 with Sweden in its other game Wednesday night and has a chance to take over second place by upsetting Czechoslovakia tonight in the tournament's final game.

The Czechs suffered the Swedes 8-3 in the tournament opener last Sunday. The Swedes are in fourth place with two losses and a tie.

Goalie Victor Konevalenko turned back 25 shots to score the first shutout of the tournament. He made brilliant saves in every period and was helped by a strong Russian defence that kept the Czechs from working in for close shots.

Czechoslovak goalie Vladimar Zorila stopped 22 of 25 shots the Russians sent his way in the game before a capacity crowd of 3,100.

Scoring for the Russians were Vladimir Brezhnev, Vyacheslav Starshinov and Anatoly Firsov.

After a scoreless first period, Russia moved ahead early in the second when Brezhnev scored with a 45-foot slap shot on a power play.

The Soviets added to their narrow lead when Starshinov scoring unassisted on a 30-foot slap shot with 3:38 gone in the third period and Firsov wrapped it up with less than five minutes to play when he scored on a rebound.

Wings Beat Generals

Petes Down Flyers 7-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Danny Grant broke out of a three-game scoring slump to spark Peterborough Petes to a 7-2 victory over Niagara Falls Flyers Thursday night and move his team within two points of first - place Oshawa Generals in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Petes got an assist from Hamilton Red Wings, who downed Oshawa 4-2 to extend their undefeated streak to four.

In the only other contest, Michel Lapalme scored his second goal of the night with 22 seconds remaining to give Montreal Junior Canadiens a 6-5 victory over St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Grant scored twice for the Petes, who also got a pair of goals from John Vanderburg before a home crowd of 4,061. Gary Monahan, Joe Johnston and Guy Dufour added one each for the winners. Jean Pronovost and Tom Webster scored for Niagara Falls. Grant's two goals brought his total to 31 for the season.

The Red Wings, who haven't lost at home in seven games, scored three times in the third period to wipe out a 2-1 Oshawa lead. Brian Watts, Freddie Speck, Gary Marsh and Don Giesebrecht scored for Hamilton. Oshawa goals went to Paul Cadieux and Billy Hrudel.

Many Canadians Were Best In World

By JIM CRERAR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadians broke through to become the best in the world in several sports events in 1965.

Bill Crothers won recognition as the top half-miler, Petra Burka became No. 1 woman figure skater, Dan Sherry set a world record in swimming and Canada's four-man bobsled team won the world title.

Close behind in the hunt for international honors was Nancy Greene who established herself as the best woman skier in North America.

And a Canadian-bred trotter was named the top three-year-old in harness racing in the United States.

Crothers, the bespectacled pharmacist from Markham, Ont., won just about every race he entered, including a big one over Olympic champion Peter Snell of New Zealand in Toronto in June. It was Snell's first loss at 880 yards in four years.

Crothers, who streaked to seven wins on the U.S. indoor circuit, also won the 800 metres at the World Student Games in Budapest.

Miss Burka, 19-year-old Torontonian, won the world figure skating title at Colorado Springs, Colo., in March, the first Canadian to capture the Women's since Barbara Ann Scott 16 years earlier. Petra was also named Canada's female athlete of the year.

SET SWIM MARK

Sherry, the swimmer from Hamilton, set a world record in the 110-yard butterfly at the British national championships in Blackpool.

The four-man bobsled team with two members of the 1964 Olympic gold medal winners, Vic Emery of Montreal and Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., won the world title at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

The team were Mike Young of Port Credit, Ont., and Terry Presley of Arnprior, Ont.

Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., won the U.S. national combined Alpine championship in Aspen, Colo., in February and scored other important victories over top international competition in slalom events at Nordon and Alpine Meadows, Calif., and Crystal Mountain, Wash.

Also at Crystal Mountain, Peter Duncan of Montreal won the American combined title. Scott Henderson of Banff, Alta., was second.

Armbro Flight, owned and bred by Armstrong brothers Elgin and Ted and Elgin's son Charles, of Brampton, Ont., won 22 of 26 trotting starts and earned $252,200. Trained and driven by C. O'Brien, 48-year-old native of Alberton, P.E.I., Armbro Flight won such notable races in the Kentucky Futurity, the Dexter Cup at Roosevelt Raceway and the Canadian Trotting Classic in California.

WINS HANDICAP

Another Canadian horse that did well in the United States was George Royal, owned by Ernie Hammond of Vancouver and Bob Hall of Aldergrove, B.C., which won the $125,000-added San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita, Calif., March 27 and the Canadian Championship in Toronto in October.

George Royal, who won Canadian Horse of the Year, honors, was ridden by Johnny Longden, English - born jockey who grew up in Tabor, Alta., and who passed the 6,000-victory mark late in the season, an all-time record.

A couple of Canadian athletes who distinguished themselves in the U.S. were jockey Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., and goaler George Knudson of Toronto.

Turcotte capped a fine year with a win in the Preakness Stakes aboard Tom Rolfe. Knudson earned $85,000 on the U.S. pro tour.

Ron Feagan, 23, of Goderich, Ont., outdueled Gilles Lachance of Montreal to become Canada's top harness racing driver. Both won more than 200 races but Feagan reached the figure two months before Lachance. They were the fifth and sixth to surpass 200 for a season.

Wayne Wood, owned by Paul Olivier of Calgary, became the first horse from outside Ontario to win the Queen's Plate in its 106-year history.

Americans continued to run away with the Canadian open golf title, Gene Littler of Las Vegas, Nev., winning at Toronto. But Canada won its first America's Cup title over Mexico and the U.S.

WESTERNER WINS GOLF

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg won the Canadian Professional Golfers Association Championship, George Henry of Valdosta, Ga., took the Canadian amateur, and Ian Thomas of London, Ont., won the Canadian Junior.

Alberta won the Willingdon Cup in interprovincial men's play and Ontario took the women's interprovincial team title.

Gail Harvey of Toronto won her second successive Canadian women's close title and Jocelyne Bourassa of Trois-Rivieres, Que., an 18-year-old high school student, was the women's open.

Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., was the junior champion.

In hockey, Montreal Canadiens ended Toronto Maple Leafs' three-year string of Stanley Cup victories. Chicago Black Hawks four games to three, in the final.

Canada's national team lost three games at the world tournament and finished fourth behind the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Sweden.

Niagara Falls Flyers won the Memorial Cup and junior hockey championship by defeating Edmonton Oil Kings, and Sherbrooke Beavers took the Allan Cup senior crown in the final against Nelson Maple Leafs. University of Manitoba Bisons defeated St. Dunstan's Saints of Charlottetown in the national college hockey tournament.

BLUES WIN WEST

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last in 1961, won the Western Conference title in the Canadian Football League but lost 22-16 to Hamilton Tiger - Cats in a wind-swept Grey Cup final at Toronto.

Toronto East York Argonauts won their second successive senior football title, defeating Winnipeg St. James Rams, then Montreal Notre Dame de Grace won the junior crown over Edmonton Huskies and University of Toronto Blues defeated University of Alberta Golden Bears in the first Canadian Save the Children College Bowl.

Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team won the International League's Governor's Cup playoffs after finishing third in the regular schedule.

Georges Chavalo, Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, earned a shot at Floyd Patterson's World Boxing Association title but dropped a 15-round decision before home fans.

Oshawa Green Gaels won their third straight Minto Cup junior lacrosse championship, defeating New Westminster Salmonbellies. The senior Salmonbellies won the Mann Cup, beating Brooklin Merchants.

Alberni Athletics won the senior men's basketball crown and Vancouver Hoopsters the senior women's title. Victoria Chinooks won the junior men's and University of Victoria the junior women's while Acadia University Axemen of Wolfville, N.S., took the college crown.

TITLE GOES WEST

Jim Hall of Texas won the Canadian Grand Prix auto rally at Mosport, Ont., and Bob McLean of Vancouver became the first westerner to win the Canadian driving championship. England's John Surtees, the 1964 world champion, was seriously hurt when his car flipped over at Mosport.

Western rinks dominated curling as usual. Terry Braunstein's Winnipeg rink won the Canadian title but lost in the International Championship to a U.S. team. Canada's first defeat in seven years.

Peggy Casselman of Winnipeg skipped her club to the women's title and an Alberta rink skipped by Les Green won the mixed. In the Saskatchewan rink won the schoolboy crown and Leo Johnson's Winnipeg foursome took the seniors title.

The Canadian open men's singles tennis championship was won by Ron Holmberg of Dallas, Tex., and the women's title went to Julie Heldman of New York.

Wayne MacDonnell of Vancouver won his fourth straight Canadian badminton championship and Sharon Whittaker of Toronto won the women's title.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Individual achievements rather than organization triumphs marked a more or less mill run season of sport in the city and district during 1965.

The top star of individual achievement went to Ted Fordham of Moira Secondary School who brought two all-Ontario secondary schools wrestling titles to his school and city. He was the only athlete to win provincial honors during the year. He won the 123 and 125½ pounds classes titles.

Mac White took his curling rink to the Ontario finals. John Lewis won the Elsie Award for weightlifting at Tokyo. Ron Saylor was "Mr. Bowling" for the fourth time. John Hayman won the Ken Colling Memorial Cross Country. Price Morris won the national heavyweight "lifting" title. Ken Carr-Brait was named Canadian coach for the national lifting team and took it to Teheran, Iran. Mike Whalen was named "Umpire of the Year."

Latta's Stan "Lefty" Reid tossed two no-hitters in South Hastings Baseball. Shannonville's Larry Lewis hurled two Minor hitters Dave Wood and Ted Sheer also had no-hitters.

The longest softball game in Belleville and District League history (18 innings) saw Ellis Juniors' Bob Ebbier waltz in and Tweed Lombards' Eldon Grey 18. The next night Ebbier struck out 23 Tweedsox, his total 45 in two nights in 19 innings. Ellis Juniors won the B. & D. pennant. Bloomfield defeated Ellis Juniors for the B. & D. playoff championship.

City and district softball representatives didn't get very far along the playdown trail. Kingston Indians put out Trenton Motors in OSA Senior "C" Century named Tweed Lombards in OASA Intermediate "C". Brockville nipped Ellis Juniors in OASA Junior "A", which brought about an managers' panic. Lindsay put out Bloomfield in OASA intermediate "B". Elginburg eliminated Point Anne in OASA junior "D".

The Commercial Softball League had its best season in history with the seasonal champion, the City Hotel "Suds-and-Peanuts" club being edged out of the championship after a close series with the Point Anne Cementmen. Parsons Cleaners finished in third place, qualifying for the Kingston and District League "B" title but bowing out in Batawa in a sudden-death playoff.

Harness racing had a good year with the Quinte Driving and Riding Club having a successful seasonal meets. Reg Bolley piloted home five winners in the opening meet. The Black Diamond Stakes Trophy highlighted the final day meet of the Belleville Fair. Early Lake's John winning the coveted trophy. Don Chatterson was the season's top driver nosing out Don Heath of Belleville by a single point.

Highlighted by the second tremendous success of the annual Festival of Golf, the Bay of Quinte Country Club had the best year in its long history. Membership reached an all-time high and the course was in the best condition in years.

The club reached a new OGA status with the first Best-Ball Tournament held here. There is a possibility the "Champion Champions Tournament" will be settled to the club in 1966.

The Festival, as was noted, was a huge success, nearly 600 pro and amateur golfers taking part. Bob Dean, Cornwall, won the professional tournament with a record-shattering three under par 68. Bruce Brewer of Toronto captured the amateur honors with a 74.

Art Bridge won the men's club championship and Betty Ingram enjoyed her best season since she swung her first club 14 years ago. Mrs. Ingram won several tournaments in the district and one in Watertown.

Campbellford High School won the COSSA wrestling title over Wolfe . . . Lightfoot's basketball team took the Golden Triangle tournament . . . Nicholson College won its first COSSA junior hoop crown . . . BCI lost the senior cage title to Oshawa . . . Ivanhoe were the Gas House puck champs . . . Ter Haar won the Quinte loop puck crown . . . Ian Morch's "North Star" won the Bowell Cup in the Rochester International Yacht Race . . . City tykes, peewees, bantams ousted Kingston in EOBA playdowns . . . Glen Easton, Sharon Postef took the QSS harrier race titles from field of 823 . . . Stephen Lee, 15, won the "B" bowling title at the Bowl-O-Drome . . . Moira SS lost COSSA junior football title to Port Hope . . . Centennial won COSSA senior football crown over Quinte SS in double-overtime game.

Tom Woodall and Tom McAllister won the OGA Best-Ball Tournament at the Country Club here . . . Bay of Quinte Yacht Club and Power Squadron reported highly successful seasons . . . Gerald Hyde named president Provincial Lawn Bowling Association . . . Dick Edney's rink of Kingston won the Corbin Gold Trophy at Lawn Bowling Club with highest score in history of tournament . . . Softball Queen Cup honored Pat Maracle at special "Night" . . . Doug Patterson named president OMHA . . . Curling Club had banner year, highlighted by Tri-Club bonspiel.

Only One Week Till Winter Wonderland

By LENNY DEAN (BCI)

Saturday, January 8, the Student's Council of BCI is holding its Annual Winter Wonderland—a day of merry-making.

In the morning, a volleyball game between a Senior Boys' and Girls' team, a broomball game between male teachers and students and a nail driving contest between women teachers and the girls, make for lots of fun.

Later on, in the afternoon, the winners of the Snow Sculpturing will be announced. Then there will be skating at the Harbor. As well as this, the boys of BCI will provide thrills and chills and all that sort of stuff, but it is always filled with laughs and fun.

This year sees the addition of two new and worthy attractions to the Wonderland. There will be a Musical Variety Show and Hootenanny held in the auditorium featuring Eddie Doe and the Capitols plus some of BCI's very own talent. A Soap Box Derby will be run-off with entries from the boys and possibly some of the new teachers.

Taking all into consideration, this event could develop into one of the great years at ye ole' BCI in '65-'66.

Oh Yes! Students of Belleville, don't forget. You have not been forgotten. From 8:30 to 11:30 a Winter Wonderland Dance will be held for all, with music being provided by Little Dee and the Capitols. The price is but 50 cents single or 75 cents couple. So right now, make a New Year's resolution to come to BCI's Winter Wonderland Dance for 1966. I know you'll have fun, fun, fun.

Avast There Landlubbers! The Sea Spells Adventure

By NICKY GARDNER (QSS)

Junior sailing is a program under the supervision of the Club Directors of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, designed to provide worthwhile instruction and reasonably orderly conduct while having fun.

A fleet of identical Nord-burg dinghies is provided for instruction and competitive sailing. Safety First is the rule of the day, when the boats are loopeable, books on sailing, and instruction are available to those who are interested. The course is divided into 5 stages and on the completion of the first stage, a crisis is given showing the Canadian Yachting Association initials, and a senior member's crest has 5 stars and a crown on it. Senior Skippers qualify as Instructors and are in great demand in the summer employment at the summer camps and Yacht Clubs.

The first day of Junior Sailing is spent learning such essentials as capsize procedure and how to put on a life jacket properly. No one is allowed out in a boat without his jacket.

After a Junior Sailor has passed a certain part of the course, and has had experience in every position in the crew and at the direction of the instructors, he may qualify as a Junior Skipper and be allowed to take out a boating a boat. Skipper is a great responsibility as one must steer the boat and give the orders to the crew. The skipper is in sole command and the crew must obey his commands to the letter, or suffer the penalty of never again being asked to join the crew of that skipper. Each member of the crew has his duty to perform. Aboard a Nord there is actually a crew of three which includes the skipper. One member is forward and handles the jib, feeding off and taking up. One handles the main sail and the hailing can, if necessary, and the skipper is the steersman of the boat and must handle the tiller and keep a sharp watch on everyone and everything. The boat and the crew are under his command and woe betide the skipper who allows anything to go wrong.

I remember my first day as skipper vividly. I was nervous to start with and ended up being terrified. My crew was inexperienced, too and everything seemed to go wrong from the start.

The jib was set and I told Crew member No. 1 to raise the main. It stuck somehow and I left the tiller to come forward and give him a hand — that was my first mistake. By the time I had the main free we were drifting gayly into the coa docks. I screamed at the top of my lungs to fend off and barked my shins on the centre board case — struggling back to the tiller but too late — we crunch ed against the dock and were stuck fast. After half an hour of frantic veiling at my poor crew we got free and under way. By then the wind had picked up and I looked down and saw foam/ water rushing by the gunnels. I shook like a leaf and I had a vision of what would happen to me if I let the boat tip. My crew looked scared to death and were hanging on to the side of the boat, and water was shipping in. Suddenly I became very calm. When I think back I often wonder why, but I remembered all the things I should and shouldn't do in such a situation. I took me quite a while to feel comfortable after that first trip.

At 14 years of age one has an authorized water flight. The instructors stand by with the crash boat in the event of any soak each other pitching hailing cans of water at their opponents. It takes some pretty fancy manouvering of the boats to avoid collision and at the first sign of over enthusiasm the game is stopped. Racing instruction is the most serious part of the course for the racing crews compete against the Trenton and the Belleville Regattas in July and August Skipper and crew must work together as a smoothly functioning team. Orders must be obeyed instantly. Crew members must be able to anticipate the motions of the boat must be in top tune. Markers set out the course and the racing commences. Around the course and start the race watching carefully for infraction of rules. Time in the starting area. You must time your course so that you go over the starting line on the gun, if you go over ahead of it, you must go back and start again. If you go over late you are giving your opponent an advantage that is hard to make up. Manoeuvering the boat into a good position — so that no one is going to be upwind of you and take your wind out of your sails — and time, watch the other boats, don't hold the sails too tight — you go too fast, stay on course, watch for shifts in the wind — it is very exciting.

My father was so excited when he skippered his first race he forgot how many times he had rounded the course.

At least once a month, End of Year, if we can talk the instructors into going, we sail down to Massassaga for the day. As there are only five boats which is not enough to allow each Junior Sailors at once, we borrow boats from Club members for the day. Everyone packs a lunch and takes along swimming gear and we are off for a day of sailing, swimming and great fun. It is a pretty tired bunch that pulls into the harbour that night, but I have never seen a happier one.

Junior Sailing teaches one many things. How to sail, of course, but also how to get along with others. It teaches responsibility and clear thinking. Water safety and caution are stressed. One feature of the course is that the instructors take crews out and deliberately tip the boats. The crew must then take down the sails in the water and right the boat. Once having done this most of the fear of tipping is gone, as the crew knows just what to do should the boat tip accidentally.

Sailing is a sport that can be enjoyed by the whole family. I have found that sailors are good companions and good sports and I look forward eagerly to being with them again next summer!

Dave's Hideaway

By

Dave Charles

Well, mod music makers, the time has come to say good-bye to 1965 and welcome another new year. Many worldly events of great importance have occurred. Man is getting closer to the moon and the teens are already there. Mod music and mod fashions established new trends to keep today's teens from being mediocre.

The coming of every new year brings with it many resolutions and new objectives which somehow seem to lose their steam by the end of January. I hope for your sake that some of your resolutions are both practical and realistic.

Caution ! ! ! Hester and Fester. Swing easy with the New Year's Eve bash. May I recommend soft drinks, not hard ones for the pause that refreshes. Please, if you drive don't drink . . . accidents kill people.

David Clayton Thomas and the Rogues put on quite a show at Quinte Secondary December 23rd. I think Dave will have a big year in 66. The reaction to his previous records indicates that bigger and better things are just around the corner.

Clayton Thomas will be making an appearance on Hullabaloo in the new year.

Sounds Incorp. (consisting of Dave Charles, Wally West and Jim Wright) thank you for a most successful year. We have enjoyed bringing our crummy show to your school, teen organization and club. To those we didn't see in 1965 look out in '66.

When I get back from my vacation, "At The Top" will be having a "Bell Ringer Bonanza" which in other words is a review of the top 20 tunes of '65. So if you have the ding dong, it's time for another golden goody of '65.

The Secret Society of Karbinkle is coming in 1966. "What is the Karbinkle going to be?" Wait and find out.

In Dave's cave we take a sneak preview of the top 20 tunes of 1965 both in Canada and the U.S.A. These records are chosen by disc jockeys in both countries and areb aesd on chart reaction and record sales in all areas.

TOP 20 OF 1965

Like it or not that is the complete round-up of the music scene in 1965 . . . Mod music is still king.

Dave Charles is taking a brief vacation for fun and rest. Will see you again next week on the Youth Page and we'll compare resolutions. Until then Shangri-La.

Examines Youth Page Function

By DOUGLAS McEWEN (MSS)

The page on which this appears is doomed to failure unless some drastic changes occur. So far this paper's Youth Page has contained a fair number of exemplary articles on any number of dull, uninteresting topics. This page is YOURS! It is for you, the action set, the teenagers of Belleville. After a few weeks of operation, it is hoped that your copy will be more plentiful, your articles more interesting and more to the point.

The articles that appear here should represent the feelings and ideas of Belleville's teenagers. You shouldn't have to use a dictionary to understand them, or a thesaurus to write them. They should have a certain characteristic. They should be of interest to US, the teenagers. Profanity, obscenity, praise — but do something!

For my part, I would like to suggest that all six of Belleville's Secondary Schools unite and hold a city-wide winter carnival on the week-end of January 22 and 23. This would, of course, be complete with a queen and two or three princesses showered with gifts. Parades, dances, snow culpturers, skating, showshoeing, toboggan races, and torchlight skiing are musts. Perhaps if this got underway the High School Board would grant us a holiday on Friday, the 21st, to make this carnival even more spectacular.

Comments anyone!

Criticizes Persistent Salesmen

By ELAINE MITCHELL (BCI)

"Wait—this vacuum-cleaner, modern, should clean your whole house in half the time it takes you now to vacuum your living-room carpet." So concludes the salesman his lengthy sales pitch and with an air of self-satisfaction calmly awaits your decision.

Why doesn't the salesman realize that you could have scrubbed your whole house on hands and knees during the time he's occupied your attention "And, there could be one hundred and one reasons for your reluctance to accept "the bargain of the century." You have a dental appointment, your cake is burning, your head aches (or suffers from his oration) or you feel you simply cannot afford his product. Maybe a woman has a valid reason for not wanting to buy and clearly indicates she is not interested in his wares, why does he persist in taking "just a moment of your time" to show you the extraordinary advantages of his latest time-saver. He's wasting your time and his.

Now the common argument is this, dear salesmen of America: I understand you all have to make a living, and live up to the standards set by your course in "Successful Salesmanship," but — please be considerate of the underlying causes, unknown to you when your next prospective customer kindly but firmly says, "Not today, thank-you."

Complains Of English Bias in Texts

By ANNE BEIRNE (NCC)

As a student I have noticed that our textbooks are basically English in viewpoint. It seems that they do nothing but praise England while other countries are described as comparatively this or comparatively that.

Perhaps the most outstanding example is the Grade Nine Geography text. The first unit is supposedly about the British Isles but I could be retitled "England." Several pages sing out her qualities as manufacturing, agriculture, or mining techniques and then there is a short, barely noticeable paragraph on the Republic of Ireland. Nothing is said about Scotland or Wales, except an odd sentence here or there.

Briefly the idea conveyed is: England is an advanced country which is still advancing while Scotland, Wales and Ireland are small, backward, insignificant blobs of land. Others should be content to sit in a little rut and live from day to day.

Geography is only one subject. History also has only one side of the story. The English side of the conflict between Mary, Queen of Scots, and Elizabeth I is related. Likewise is the story of "Bonnie Prince Charlie" of Scotland and of the Irish famine in 1845. None of the heroes or acts of England's monarchs are listed without a lily explanation pinning the blame on someone else.

I feel that Canadian students should be presented with both sides of the story and let them draw their own conclusions. I think that if this fairytale goodness is taken away, our students would be much more believable and we as Canadians could have Canadian and not English opinions.

TO AN AUNT FOR AN UNCLE, JUST DIED

By N. D. MORRISON (BCI)

Cease soft bushings —
We will weep no more.
You three! blow bugles
Wake, blast all keats.
Jordan once was split.
Now wailing's done.
And uncle's gone, lightly.
Where? I'm no pretender.
That route most worn.
Yet I lead unscarred;
And no pretender I.
This misconception, life,
Must be lightly held,
And high.
Let past pristes be their tail
Which hang, awhile shkily off;
It's too late now,
The porridge to make,
So let's cheer him on.
All soldiers die once-
Lightly now.
I have him yet,
Yorked firmly in;
And his heart beats still
In the sad synagogue of your soul.
Let commonplace dull your thoughts,
This small battle is daily fought;
And daily lost.
We are no match —
And time's memory is short.
But through these small simplicities
I'll forget my chain,
His name at least,
To preserve.

CONTINENTS MAY MOVE

Teen-age Canada Lists Tongue-in-Cheek New Year's Resolutions

By JACK HUTTON

Remember a couple of years back when we made New Year's resolutions to shovel-ing the snow or cleaning up the basement?

Of those old chestnuts I like washing the dishes twice a week?

It seems to me that the progressive student of 1965 vintage (soon to be 1966) would wrap up with a list something like the following:

(This means, of course that he has to clear his corner desk of half-finished manuscripts for Protest Magazine, add a few rules and ingore the tempting copy of War and Peace in the original Russian)

1. I must stop helping Dad with his New Maths homework. There's something dishonest about him telling his night school teacher it's his work.

2. I resolve to stop wearing good clothes to demonstrations. In 1965 I ruined the seat of one pair of trousers and the elbow of one jacket when they took us away.

3. I must stop helping Dad with his New Maths homework. There's something dishonest about him telling his night school teacher it's his work.

4. I resolve to stop wearing good clothes to demonstrations. In 1965 I ruined the seat of one pair of trousers and the elbow of one jacket when they took us away.

5. I must stop helping Dad with his New Maths homework. There's something dishonest about him telling his night school teacher it's his work.

(Ho hum! I think I'll go on to the next one.)

6. I must not be educated my parents to a modern world. They wondered why my hair wasn't wet when I said we'd done the swim at the school dance — as well as the monkey, the sailor and the hula.

7. I must stop helping Dad with his New Maths homework. There's something dishonest about him telling his night school teacher it's his work.

(Now I'm getting desperate.)

8. I resolve to help improve the limited vocabulary of my parents. Perceived folks, I would only take two new words a day in order for them to understand my next year's Christmas list.

(How was I to know they'd splurge on "Sputnik" and "Telstar" this year's list meant "radio transistor"? Doesn't everyone?)

PROUDER OF DAD

8. I resolve to be prouder of my Dad and stick up for him more, even though his hair looks so short and old fashioned by comparison to the hippies I gather here for an evening.

8. I must help cure my parents of their naive surprise every time another astronaut goes into orbit. Why, it's as if they'd never heard of an elliptic circle.

9. I resolve to be more tolerant of my elders in 1966. Why, if Uncle Bob wants to think that algebra, geometry and trigonometry are three separate subjects I won't even crack a smile.

9. I resolve to keep a diary of my bedroom every time Dad starts telling his friends about the "normal kid" he remembers from his childhood.

9. I resolve to stop telling new jokes like "Why is a raven like a writing desk?" even though I and my diary know that I am.

10. I resolve to keep every one of the above resolutions, unlike the last four lists that disappeared with the Christmas wrapping paper.

And there you have our annual New Year's resolutions list — almost tongue-in-cheek, but not quite, if you follow me.

THE LAUGHS

What were the best and worst jokes of 1965?

We carried over the elephant joke from 1964, but what's the last time you heard one? Or a new one? The elephant jokes were the same route as the dodo by early summer.

Still I like the last one that I heard, one that you can file away in your moth-eaten collection. Question: What has an IQ of 75? Answer: A whole herd of elephants.

Drums— The Pulse Of Life

By BLC (MSS)

Listen to the beat
Of the bongo drum;
It tells the story
Of a heart on the run

A soul alive
In a world that's blind,
It soars and leaves
Its cares behind.

A fugitive from life,
Courcur do bois,
Fleeing from society
And sacred law.

The drum beat continues,
Life surges on
Looking for peace
And a love that's gone.

The love was beautiful,
But heartbreak followed;
Left the heart empty,
Empty and hollowed.

Let it die loveless
Full or death,
Broken and left
Like a drum worn out.

We hope that this New Year
unlocks the door to complete fulfillment of all your wishes. We want to say thanks to our faithful customers,

Quinte Hockey League Results

SACO continued to steamroll over Quinte Hockey League opposition last night by whipping the Stinson - Horlock Combines 7-2.

In the second game, Grant's Realty and Ter - Haar Dusters battled on even terms. It wound up in a 4-4 stalemate.

High - scoring Don Forsythe was at it again for SACO, tripping all four goals as his club took a first period 4-1 lead. Doug Hollingsworth got goals in the second and Larry Potter made it 7-4 in the third.

Hatam Hall of the 4 - point night, adding three assists to his two goals. Gary Genereaux also had two helpers, Potter and Doug Lucas one each.

Keith Dickey scored for the Combines, assisted by Ron Brooks.

The clubs split six penalties down the middle.

Grant's and Ter - Haar Dusters were tied 3-2 after one heat, 3-3 after a pair and each added a final goal apiece.

Jack Boulter, Claire Hoy, Ron Archer and Keith Osterhout were the goal - getters for Realty crew. Norm Boulter, Don "Widge" Adams, Mike Foxon and Terry Casselman got an assist apiece.

Don Moore, Jim Mutr, Lucien Rouillis and Dave Duggan scored the Ter - Haar counters. Ron Urch, Hubert Poitner, Reg Wheeler and Frank Cris collected one assist each.

Grant's took four of six penalties. One of them was a major to Howard Skelly for intent to injure.

Bud Petican Wins Holiday Tournament

Bud Petican won the Second Annual Holiday Classic Match Play Five-Pins Tournament at the Bowl-O-Drome last night.

Petican who went through the tourney undefeated turned in a 1,000 - 5 - pin total to win in the finals. Fletcher had defeated Jim McKenzie in a playoff to decide the second place finalist.

Jim Begley won the inaugural tournament last year.

Thirty-nine bowlers including five women, split part in the tournament with 16 men qualifying for the match play rounds.

The top seven prins winners included Petican, Fletcher, McKenzie, Ron Saylor, Ron St. Louis, Jack Calnan and Jim Elliott.

Fletcher and McKenzie finished tied with one defeat causing the finals playoff. The other top four entered two heats each.

The high game winners were Earle Crossman of Stirling with 296; Bud Petican 307; Leo Lafelle 299; Jack Fletcher, Trenton 387. Mrs. Crossman was the high lady bowler with 973.

World Tourney Planned

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Plans for a Canadian centennial hockey tournament, bringing together the top world amateur hockey powers, were announced Thursday by the International Amateur Hockey Association.

Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the association, said tentative plans call for a 12-game schedule across Canada during the centenary of Confederation in 1967.

So far only Canada and the United States are committed to the tournament, Juckes said in an interview, but invitations have been extended to Russia and Czechoslovakia, and Sweden will also be invited.

Juckes, here for the Walter Brown Memorial Trophy tournament said the centennial tournament is a "sensible alternative to Canadian hockey fans, in that we were not able to bring them the 1967 world championships."

The 1967 world championships were awarded to Austria and will be held in Vienna.

Tentative dates for the tournament are Dec. 8-23, to be played in six different centres throughout Canada. The cities have not been selected.

Juckes also announced the CAHA has invited the Japanese national hockey team to play in Canada in 1967, in a tour not connected with the centennial tournament.

Rangers Seek Czech Star

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — A spokesman for the Czechoslovakian national hockey team said Thursday that star centre Vitezy Nedomansky will be allowed to attend New York Rangers training camp following the Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, in 1968.

But, the spokesman said, he doubts Nedomansky will be allowed to attend the National Hockey League Rangers' camp next year.

Karel Bures, Czech newspaper man acting as a spokesman for the Czech team, said the Rangers want the 22-year-old Nedomansky to attend training camp next year.

But there was an important tournament in Czechoslovakia last September and he doubted the Czech star would be allowed to come to North America then.

21 World Swimming Records

TOKYO (AP) — American women and East Germen men accounted for a major share of the 21 world records officially recognized Thursday by the International Swimming Federation.

American girls received credit for seven of the 12 women's marks. The East German, headed by Olympic star Roland Matthes, accounted for six of the nine men's marks.

Dan Sherry of Hamilton was presented the record holder at 110 yards butterfly with 58.1 seconds.

Patty Caretto, the 14-year-old prodigy from Commerce, Calif. was credited with three backstroke records and a share in the 800 metres freestyle relay record.

Miss Caretto's records: 880 yards, 9:56.2; 1,500 metres, 18:23.7; 1,650 yards, 118:31.1.

Wings Get Rights To Two Swedes

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings have signed Swedish amateur professional rights to two members of the Swedish national hockey club. Red Wings spokesman said Thursday.

They are Tord Lundstrom and Hakan Nygren, both 20 and both stand 5-foot-11. Lundstrom weighs 175 pounds, Nygren 170.

This marks the first time the Red Wings went outside the United States or Canada to look for junior talent, the spokesman said.

He quoted Lundstrom as saying he would like to come to the Red Wings pro training camp next fall. But he said Nygren is studying engineering and is undecided whether he wants to follow a professional hockey career.

EMIGRATION UP

LONDON (Reuters) —More than 123,900 Britons emigrated to Canada, Australia and New Zealand last year, an increase of about one-fifth over 1963. Australia attracted 77,616 compared with 62,252 for the previous year, Canada attracted 29,279 compared with 24,603 and New Zealand 17,306 compared with 15,134.

Betting Soars To Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Wagering on horse racing in the United States soared to nearly $4,000,000,000 in 1965 as 30,272,480 fans bet the turnstiles clicking.

With $3,129,722,482 bet on thoroughbreds and $1,234,750,-973 on the harness races, a survey by The Associated Press Thursday showed the sport paid $355,206,280 into state treasuries.

Attendance at the running tracks was up from 27,838,216 at 28,985,699. There was a slight decline in attendance at harness tracks with the unofficial figures showing a drop from 2,034,604 to 20,406,800.

Senior Scoring

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The scoring battle in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series remained close this week with only three points separating the first five players.

Bob Robinson of Woodstock Athletics leads a four-way traffic jam with a goal and an assist Tuesday to take over the lead. The Woodstock centre has 11 goals and 22 assists for 33 points.

Tied for third are Moe Gal-and and Jack Price of Oakville Blades. Galand has 13 goals and 18 assists while Price has 12 goals and 19 assists.

Wilf Martel of the Athletics is the top goalie in the circuit with a 2.52 average.

Second Area Jail Planned

TORONTO (CP)—The province's second regional detention centre, replacing outdated county jails, is to be built in the Peterborough area, Allan Grossman, minister of reform institutions, announced yesterday.

No final decision has been made on the actual site for the institution. It will serve the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough County and Victoria County.

Three existing county jails, located at Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough, will be replaced by the new 100-prisoner detention centre, to cost about $1,000,000.

It was learned that regional detention centres also are planned for the Halton-Peel area and the Hamilton-Wentworth area. Orders are in preliminary stages of negotiation.

Construction Program Will Be Up in '66

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's construction program in 1966 will rise 10 per cent to a total value of $11,000,000,000, the Canadian Construction Association predicts in a year-end statement.

That would compare with a 13½-per-cent gain recorded this year over 1964.

"The industry's capacity is expanding still further and the current winter promises to be the busiest on record, thereby providing further scope for executing larger programs," Association President Neville R. Williams of Winnipeg says.

"It is noted with gratification that the government is no longer requesting private owners to defer construction projects."

This was a reference to the federal government's decision last summer to defer some of its capital works to try to ease pressure on key supplies and workers.

Mr. Williams says that "as it would come primarily by sensing that funds will be available, it appears at this time that the 1966 program will see an increase in engineering and non - residential building construction—that is, commercial, industrial, institutional and centennial projects—and perhaps a small decline in the housing program."

Of the possibility of a decline in housing, the association said:

"As it would come primarily by sensing that funds will be available, it appears at this time that the 1966 program will see an increase in engineering and non - residential building construction—that is, commercial, industrial, institutional and centennial projects—and perhaps a small decline in the housing program."

FIND BOGUS MONEY

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A $20 bill blew by a construction project. Then another. Then a $20 bill. What started workers on a lively hunt Wednesday that turned up a shoebox stuffed with $40,000. The money turned out to be bogus.
